BUS SERVICE

Can Government state whether the joint venture company between the existing bus operators and the Government have now been set up, and if so, what is the equity shareholding of each party?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

Answered together with Question Nos 2 and 3 of 2004.

ORAL

NO. 2 OF 2004

THE HON L A RANDALL

BUS SERVICE

Can Government state whether they have now entered into an agreement with the two existing bus operators for the provision of a new bus service?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

Answered together with Question Nos 1 and 3 of 2004.

THE HON L A RANDALL

BUS SERVICE

Can Government state what is the total cost of the purchase of the 18 new transbuses?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

These negotiations are commercially sensitive and it is not appropriate to comment until they have concluded. Government expect to make an announcement shortly about when the new bus service will be operated.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 1 TO 3 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

In press release No 241 the Government said that the service would be introduced in the early new year, can Government confirm that that would be 2004?

HON F VINET:

The 1st of April is the target date.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I notice that the answer has been framed around the commercially sensitive nature of the negotiations surrounding the joint venture and I think that is a perfectly correct answer but I think that there is an oversight in so far as concerns to Question no 3 of 2004 which does not relate to the negotiations but rather to the cost of the buses which is a bit of information that the Government can give and it is not involved in the negotiations so it is not sensitive. The cost of the 18 buses has been £1.875 million.

HON L A RANDALL:

Can the Chief Minister then state what is the variance with the budget for the purchase, how much was budgeted and what was the variance?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The cost of these buses depends so much on what equipment, whether they have air conditioning, whether they are tilting or not tilting or whether they have a ticket machine in it or not. Basically it was in that order of £2 million the original budget. I think that they have come in at a smidgen over £100,000 each which is what we were originally advised before we embarked on the procurement, that it would be something of that order per vehicle.

HON J J BOSSANO:

At the moment the buses are owned by the Government and then they have to be transferred to the joint venture or are they currently jointly owned?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The position is that these negotiations and the hon Member will remember from the last House of Assembly that the negotiations had two facets, one was the negotiation with one of the existing operators which was the negotiation in the form of a buy-out because they were not going to carry on in the new system and the other negotiation was with one of the other existing operators who was in a sense to become a partner of the Government in going forward. Those are the two negotiations that have taken place. They have been going on as the hon Members know for quite some time. They are about to be struck but we did not wish to mortgage progress on the ground to the successful outcome of those negotiations as the buses had to be purchased. Anyway the Government made it clear that we would continue with the purchasing of those buses because if an agreement had not been reached by a certain date we would have proceeded differently so the position as we speak today given that there has not yet been a formal signed agreement although I am confident that we are well on the road to one, is that the buses have been purchased using public monies, I cannot tell the hon Member whether it is Consolidated Fund monies or company monies but as far as I am concerned public money is both of them and that will then be dealt with in the context of the new arrangement when it materialises. Neither the company or the joint venture vehicle if it turns out to be a joint venture vehicle nor any other party has yet put forward any money towards the cost of those buses.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

The Government have issued a statement last week in relation to the size of the buses and the time it will take to make them operational. There is some difficulty with the traffic regulations are Government in a position to say when they expect the buses to be fully operational?

HON F VINET:

The new venture will come into operation on the 1st April.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We have to amend the regulations not the Ordinance itself, the regulations made under the Ordinance which still curtail the size of buses to what they were a long time ago in relation to some areas of town and therefore it is just a question of changing those regulations.

SCADA CONTROLLER LINK PROJECT

Can Government state the date the Scada controller was brought into operation?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The SCADA controller was brought into operation on the 19th December 2003.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 4 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

Can the Minister confirm that that was six months after the deadline given at the last meeting?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member can do his own mathematical calculations.

HON L A RANDALL:

Thank you I am just trying to point out that this is yet another slippage in the deadline set by Government.

NO. 5 OF 2004

THE HON DR J J GARCIA

ORANGE BASTION

Can Government say when the Orange Bastion project will be put out to tender?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

No. Government will make an announcement when they have decided to proceed with this project.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 5 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is it the case that the projects might actually not be put out to tender?

HON F VINET:

No.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is the Minister in a position to say when they expect to have taken that decision?

HON F VINET:

No.

REFUSE DISPOSAL

Can Government now provide the details of the new business venture for recycling some elements in refuse disposal referred to in answers to supplementary questions to Question No 132 of 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

Answered together with Question No 9 of 2004.

NO. 9 OF 2004

THE HON F R PICARDO

REFUSE DISPOSAL

Can Government state whether the new business venture to recycle elements in Gibraltar's refuse disposal referred to in answers to supplementary questions to Question No 132 of 2003 I think is now operational and if not when it is due to start?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

A licence was issued to Steelmac Limited on 16th September 2003, for the recycling of some elements of Gibraltar's refuse, namely cans, bottles and plastics. The company is still to submit further details as part of their submission for planning permission. On the issue of a Planning Permit, operations can commence.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 9 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister tell us whether any conditions have been attached to that licence, what type of licence is it?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I think we would need notice of that question. There is an agreement but we do not carry it around in our minds it is not a particularly complex agreement I think it just entitles them at their own cost, these are bits I remember from memory, to extract this and also they are allowed to put up bins and things separation of collection bins upon which I think they are allowed to have advertisements and the Government have to consent to the location of these bins but otherwise that is how they will collect the stuff as they do in other EU countries. Green for glass, blue for plastics or whatever. I do not think that there is any cost to the Government I think this is just a concession on the basis that they can do it at their cost and then keep the economic value and benefit of the stuff that they collect which apparently has some economic value in disposal and that is the nature of the arrangement but this is what I can remember. I think that everything that I have said to him is true but it may not be the whole story I think he might have to give me notice of the question if he wants it.

HON F R PICARDO:

Is the Chief Minister saying that the licence is a licence to place bins in certain places in relation to the land where the bins will be placed rather than any other type of administrative consent or permission?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I think it is both. There are real estate elements to it, for example, I think that the company in question got EU funds or Gibraltar Enterprise Scheme funds for the purchase of the bins. I cannot remember how but there was some element of public funding in the element of the bins and I think that that places some constraints on him as to how he can dispose of them or not as there are things to do with that and then there are what one would call the landlord and planning type issues, the location where these things can be deposited and then there is the licence which is also the a concession to actually collect public refuse which does not just raise issues of planning but as one knows public refuse is Government owned, I do not want to stray too much into this aspect of it but one of the things that was delaying this thing was that until we made different arrangements for the incineration of waste we had a contract with another company for them to access Gibraltar's waste. Plastics in particular is one of the highest calorific items in our refuse so there was a contractual difficulty in allowing somebody else to collect it under another arrangement because this was all part of the in-town contract to allow them exclusive access to Gibraltar's domestic waste.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will we therefore be seeing a recycling plant in place in Gibraltar to recycle all of this refuse or not?

HON F R PICARDO:

I understand the refuse collecting will be exported?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

To such a plant.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am not very clear reference to "in-town calorific value" is since we have not to my knowledge burnt refuse since 1996 and is it that the refuse that is collected prior to transportation to Spain will be separated to remove these things if the individual person does not put them in different containers?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes since the settlement of the in-town contractual situation there is no longer a contractual impediment to that so they can either separate at the rubbish tip or, which is what they will be hoping, is separate at the separation bins.

AIR QUALITY MONITORING

Can the Minister for the Environment state by when an air quality monitoring station will be operational?

ANSWER

No.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 10 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Government confirm that before the election the previous Minister for the Environment had confirmed publicly that an air quality monitoring station would become operational at some stage in the near future in order to ensure that Gibraltar complied with its EU obligations and that we had not yet provided such a monitoring station because of the costs involved?

HON F VINET:

The setting up of such an air quality monitoring station is indeed a manifesto commitment which we fully intend to adhere to. I hope is to have this up and running prior to the end of this year. We cannot give an absolute guarantee as to when.

HON F R PICARDO:

Does the Minister have any indication to provide to this House of where such an air quality monitoring station will be provided?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There is a report which Government are presently considering which raises many issues amongst them issues precisely of that sort, different options, is it just one monitoring station or a series of little monitoring points all over. Those are precisely the issues which are presently under consideration.

OESCO – NOISE POLLUTION

Can the Government state what action they intend to take to reduce noise pollution, in particular to reduce noise pollution emanating from the OESCO power station to levels below the recommended levels?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

Answered together with Question No 12 of 2004.

THE HON F R PICARDO

OESCO – NOISE POLLUTION

Can Government state what are the measures that have been agreed with OESCO to reduce noise levels emanating from the plant, when are they expected to be introduced and is Government satisfied that these measures will bring down noise levels to those required for compliance with the relevant EU directives and local legislation?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The Government do not accept that relevant EU directives and local legislation relating to noise are not being complied with. With regards to noise reduction measures, these are a Government manifesto commitment and the Government will make an announcement as to when they propose to proceed and how, when they are ready to do so.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 11 AND 12 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Minister for the Environment as a result of that answer further confirm that there is in fact an Ombudsman's report that indicates that the noise levels being suffered by those who live near the OESCO plant are above recommended levels and also confirm to this House that the manifesto commitment on noise reduction has been contained in his party's 1996, 2000 and 2003 manifestos?

HON F VINET:

The position of Government remains that we are in keeping with EU Directives and local legislation relating to noise levels. With regards to the second comment all I can say is that this Government have been elected with regards to the manifesto of 2003.

HON F R PICARDO:

So, the Minister for the Environment entirely disregards the conclusions of the Ombudsman in relation to this issue.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The Minister of the Environment does not do that but nor does the Minister of the Environment consider that the Ombudsman has the status of Privy Council. The fact that the Ombudsman has come to a conclusion certainly does not compel the Government to accept the judgements made except on matters of administration not on matters of law and certainly if the hon Member asks supplementaries to suggest that there would be something outrageous in the Government not accepting the judgement of the Ombudsman the hon Member should know that there are many instances in which the Government do not accept the judgement and findings of the Ombudsman.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would not the Minister for everything or the Chief Minister who is here to answer most questions it appears not agree with me that the fact that his Government disregards a hell of a lot, sorry, a very large number of Ombudsman's Reports is absolutely outrageous?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The Chief Minister does not agree with you for two reasons. First of all the Government do not agree with "a hell of a lot" of the Ombudsman's ruling and secondly if the Government did disagree with a "hell of a lot" of the Ombudsman's rulings it would be because it was applying the same criteria to each of them and that is, the Ombudsman is not a court of law he does not adjudicate legal rights as between the Government or anybody else. The Ombudsman is there to adjudicate on matters of maladministration they are the vast majority, contrary to what the hon Member says, entirely contrary to what the hon Member says. The vast majority of the Ombudsman's commentaries in relation to administrative matters are taken on board at an administrative level by the relevant Government department and are acted upon. Many are not but many is not necessarily the majority indeed it is a very long way short of being the majority.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Chief Minister agree with me that the decision of the Ombudsman in this case in particular dealing with noise levels does relate to administrative failure, an administrative failure by the Environmental Agency to act in relation to those noise levels?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No.

NO. 13 OF 2004

THE HON F R PICARDO

ELECTRICITY GENERATORS

Can Government state whether it will be seeking to ensure that all new electricity generators imported either for OESCO or Government are the best available technology?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

No. There are issues of cost and value for money that have to be factored into the decision. As far as OESCO is concerned, the technology will be at least as good as the generators imported by that Company when the GSLP were in Government.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 13 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister for the Environment not kindly note that the integrated pollution and prevention control directive will require that as from now on not in relation to the previous GSLP Government or even previous GSD administrations new technology imported into any Member State of the European Union for the generation of the electricity or any other equipment which creates environmental impact has to be best available technology because (a) that would reduce pollution and (b) that will create better levels of efficiency?

HON F VINET:

We do not accept that as the correct analysis.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would the Minister for the Environment then provide what his alternative analysis is?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member has asked a question about a directive which the Government have not yet made any attempt to comply. If the Gibraltar Government are going to reinvest in future generating capacity which we need to get on doing, we will not necessarily be going for the most expensive latest technology. I suppose for that we would have to go to NASA or something but we will be going for the sort of technology that communities of our size are using in Western Europe for the generation of their electricity. It is just that the phrase "best available technology" means the technology that is available anywhere in the world regardless of its cost, regardless of its price, regardless of economies of scale, in other words the latest best technology available for the generation of electricity. That is what the Government are not committing itself to but if the hon Member is asking whether in terms of what is reasonably accessible to us in resources terms we will be using technology that on the whole is environmental friendly as opposed to environmental unfriendly just because it is cheaper then obviously the answer to the latter question is yes.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will Chief Minister and or the Minister of the Environment agree with me that the definition of "best available technology" does not mean the costliest most advanced technology but doing a balance between cost and efficiency which is the best available technology to be used making that balance and that in the regeneration in particular electricity generators we should be looking to ensure that we have technology which is up to date et cetera and that this should not even be a politically controversial issue in this House.

HON F VINET:

The hon Member seems to be in complete agreement with my previous answer. My answer has been there are issues of costs and value for money that have to be factored into the decision and not just the facts that the item in question might be the best technology or otherwise.

HON F R PICARDO:

I am not obviously in agreement with the Minister's earlier answer because as I am sure that he will agree when he listens to Hansard he prefixed his answer to me by saying, "No. We will balance .....," when what I was asking was that we go for this best available technology in every case where possible.

LICENSING DEPARTMENT

Can Government state whether the Licensing Department is providing at present all of the services it should to the public, and if not can they give the reasons why?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The Department of Transport is presently not providing all the services it should to the public. The Driving and Vehicle Examiners are currently in dispute with the Government and are currently not undertaking part of their duties.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 14 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

Can the Minister say or give a date by which time this dispute will be resolved?

HON F VINET:

No.

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister state what is the reason for the dispute?

HON F VINET:

Essentially the Driver and Vehicle Examiners are seeking a regrading of their job.

HON L A RANDALL:

Will this have an unfavourable impact on the introduction of the bus service? I say this because we may not have sufficient people with licences to drive those buses.

HON F VINET:

We do not envisage that to be the case.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Minister for the Environment quickly state since when the dispute that he has referred to started?

HON F VINET:

The 28th February 2003. That was the date when the T&G representing the Driver and Vehicle Examiners informed the department of this.

HON S E LINARES:

Do Government consider this to be selective industrial action?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

In our view of facts yes, on their view of facts no, but because this is not a clear case of somebody saying I accept what my duties are but I will simply not do some of them it is not a clear cut case of selective industrial action. Part of the dispute which the Government do not and will not accept is that the things that they have stopped doing and which they have always done are not required by their job description so it is a disputed case of selective industrial action in the sense that the dispute relates to what the job description is.

TRANSPORT – MOT TEST

Can Government state when they intend to change the regularity of MOT tests to once every two years, as the Minister announced last June during the budget session?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

Government expect to make an announcement shortly.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 15 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Minister state how shortly is “shortly”?

HON F VINET:

No.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister agree with me that he and I apart of being namesakes are also new in this House and that we should both hope that we are not going to conduct ourselves for the rest of the time that we are here with such level of obfuscation rather than accountability, transparency et cetera?

HON F VINET:

I certainly have no intention to do so.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Given that the announcement of the MOT changes was made last June what announcement is it that he is going to make?

HON F VINET:

The announcement will be the manner in which the new system will be operational.

NO. 16 OF 2004

THE HON L A RANDALL

ELECTRICITY AUTHORITY

Can Government state whether they still expect all the employees of the Electricity Department to join the Electricity Authority?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The problem is that there has been a sort of breaking news since which I heard when I went back to the office after this morning's session. The position had been that although a majority of the workers in the generating station had voted last week in favour of joining the authorities that minority that did not included a majority of the mechanical shift workers so within the various sections a majority of mechanical shift workers had voted against but they were in a minority overall. I am told that that has now changed and that the mechanical shift workers have themselves now revisited their position. Until I get formal confirmation of that I would not wish to be categorical but certainly the answer that we have here in any event would no longer be accurate.

THE HON L A RANDALL

CEMETERY

Can Government state whether they have awarded the contract for a programme of on-going embellishment, upkeep and maintenance of the cemetery, and if so, to whom and on what terms?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

No.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 17 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

Can you at least say when you expect to award this contract?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Shortly before the election various tests had been carried out by the possible future tenderers and contractors were being evaluated. One of the plots had been subject to some vandalism and the contractor carrying out the tests was not satisfied with the results and the whole thing had been put on hold following the election when the whole situation would then be reassessed. Until Government are in a position to assess the plots and the tests that had been carried out and make a decision on what is the way ahead such contract cannot be effectively put into place.

HON L A RANDALL:

Can the Minister at least give an indication of when this will be done?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I would have thought from the nature of the reply it would have been obvious that the answer to that is no.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Can I just add to that that it will be apparent to hon Members from some of the answers and some of the answerers that a lot of these issues have changed ministerial responsibilities, a lot of these issues go back quite a long time to the last House. There has been a change of ministers, Christmas period and therefore that is why questions are being answered sometimes by ministers that are not currently responsible for the matter however nor have all these issues that were going to be left until after the elections themselves been revisited to decide about how they were going to be pushed forward. We expect these decisions generally to be made within the next couple of months, whether this one will be in the first batch or not in the first batch but certainly all of these things that had been left pending the election and where there has been a change of minister I think the hon Member I would not wish him to have him hold me to the date commitment but I would be surprised if on issues such as this there had not been progress and in another one that falls into the same category is the one about the change of motor vehicle two year testing. I would be very surprised that both of those were not progressed and resolved in the next month or two. Two months at the outside.

PARKING TICKETS AND CLAMPING VEHICLES

Can Government state how many parking tickets were issued and how many vehicles were clamped in the year 2003, giving a breakdown of locally registered vehicles and foreign registered vehicles for each category?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The information requested by the hon Member is set out in the Schedule that I now hand to him.

HON L A RANDALL:

Can Government state how many of the 1,031 foreign registered vehicles that received parking tickets the drivers actually paid their fine?

I do not have that information with me at present.

HON L A RANDALL:

Does the Minister undertake to provide this information in writing or whatever?

HON F VINET:

Yes.

NO 19 OF 2004

THE HON L A RANDALL

EUROPORT – PARKING FACILITIES

Can Government state whether they propose to provide parking facilities in the area of Europort, other than for the hospital?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The Government have no plans to do so.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 19 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

Do Government not accept that parking is becoming very scarce in that area and would they reconsider their decision?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government believe that parking in that area is not as scarce as it is in most other areas in Gibraltar given that all the housing there, because of its recent construction, have underground parking facilities which is not to say that there is a shortage of parking but that the shortage of parking problem is not necessarily acute as it is for example, in areas where we have a manifesto commitment to provide more parking facilities, for example, the old town area and the south district where properties are older, there are no purpose built parking facilities so such resources as the Government are going to deploy in the next two or three years for the creation of parking facilities is going to be concentrated in the areas of Gibraltar such as the Upper Town and the south district where there is a very, very acute, as the hon Member knows as he lives or used to in that area of town, there can always be more parking the Government do have a policy of opening up as many areas as possible for free parking. We have just done so with the Landport Ditch nor is there in that particular area of town it depends on how he defines the Europort area but there is not much publicly held land left in that area in which any such additional parking facilities could be built. If we proceed as we are very hopeful of doing with the reclamation in front of the Yacht Club, Rooke, No 4 Dock, then that will throw up areas of land some of which might be available for that but until more land is created in that area I do not see that there is any scope, for example, the Europort area extends to Waterport Road in his mind but there is the coach park area when we build part of the new housing is going on the extreme western end of the coach park so bits that are presently used but not very much for private parking that is going to be reprovided underneath the block so that there is no loss of parking area.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would the Chief Minister note that the shortage that he has referred to is not one that arose when the housing was provided in the area but since a large commercial entity that has its out-of-town superstore if I can call it that made a decision that it would not allow residents in the area to use its extensive parking facilities overnight and that is what is causing problems for those in the area. Can the Government undertake to see whether they can assist those in the area for the reprovion of those facilities?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The cause for any recent increase in the problem does not alter the answer that I have given. I cannot wave a magic wand and create new parking land because Safeways decides to change its policy on access to its car park. If there were areas of public land lying fallow there at least in the meantime it could be flattened and made available for parking but the fact is that there is no land around there. I do not really see how the Government can do what the hon Member is urging it to do, perhaps rightly urging it to do but there is a matter of physical impossibility.

THE HON L A RANDALL

ROAD WORKS

Can Government state the parts of Gibraltar's roads that they plan to resurface during the quarter ending 31st March 2004?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The Government do not consider it appropriate to provide such details of their on-going road works plans. Individual schemes will be announced as and when they are to be executed.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 20 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister of Environment agree with me that certainly his answer makes it sound as if there is no plan for immediate resurfacing of roads, an issue which is of concern to all of us in Gibraltar who are motorists including the Ministers I am sure who are motorists themselves and feel the bumps on occasion as they drive along?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

or half-yearly planned in advance is that it gives contractors the ability to see ahead the workload that is around the corner and this has pricing implications for the work that they bid because of how busy they think the place is going to be. Those are the factors and nothing else. For the rest of it I hope that by the end of this year and indeed of this term the hon Member will feel obliged to congratulate my honourable friend for the amount of road resurfacing and refurbishment that he will have done.

HON F R PICARDO:

Certainly I think that the Chief Minister will agree with me that if the Minister for the Environment had given the answer which the Chief Minister has given at least we would know that the reason for not making the announcement is what appears at first brush to be a valid one rather than simply saying we will not make an announcement?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member did not ask for the reasons the hon Member asked whether we would publish the plans.

OESCO – ADDITIONAL GENERATOR

Can Government state whether the recent announcement of an additional generator at the OESCO plant is the result of a renewal of the contract with OESCO?

ANSWER

Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 21 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

Can the Government state the length of the renewed contract and also whether there is provision in the contract for additional generators?

HON F VINET:

INCINERATOR

Can Government state whether it is still their intention to proceed with the purchase, installation and operation of a new incinerator plant, and if so, when is this expected to happen and where will it be located?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

Government will continue with the existing arrangements for the disposal of its refuse until it is able to implement its long-term strategy for future disposal. It continues to be the Government's intention to replace the existing incinerator with a new plant, to be constructed on the site of the existing plant. The tender for the appointment of a Transaction Manager has not yet been awarded although an appointment should be made shortly. As at 1st January 2004, 16 employees remain in employment with Europa Incinerator Company Limited.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 24 OF 2004

So that means that it was 16 it is still 16 so the options which were open to the Government to reduce that number by retirement, transfer to GOG employment retention and redundancies have not been taken up?

THE HON MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

Answer to Question No 7 of 2004

The Government have made no decision such as the one described in the question.

Several sites are under consideration. None has yet been finally selected.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 25 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is an area next to the Caleta Hotel one of the sites which is under consideration?

HON F VINET:

Government have been considering a number of sites for depositing builder's gravel. The site next to the Caleta Hotel is currently Government's preferred option.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In taking the decision in making that particular site the preferred option can the Minister say whether there has been any consultation with interested parties with regard to that?

HON F VINET:

There has been consultation with the major stakeholders who will be affected by this namely the GONHS and the Caleta Hotel.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is the Minister in a position to tell the House what the results of the consultation have been and were those consulted favourable to having a rubble tip there or were they against it?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

As one can imagine the owners of the Caleta Palace are not overjoyed at the prospect I think that would be an understatement, as far as GONHS is concerned I seem to recall, it is just that my honourable and new friend in the House has not yet really had an opportunity to familiarise himself with the consultation process which took place before the election. I think GONHS position was that they were content provided part of the newly created site was used as a wetland or some sort of natural habitat. This is rapidly becoming a dilemma for the Government. We do need a site for rubble the east side project really has no further capacity if the hon Members drive past the east side reclamation site they will see that it has almost risen above road level around the plateau of the mound. A site can only be somewhere along the coast much of Gibraltar's remaining coastline is natural rock habitat which would be environmentally impossible to use for these purposes so it is not that the Government specifically wants to create a reclamation in the area of the Caleta Palace it is just that that is one of the remaining coastal sites which has been identified which would not cause a nuclear war with one or other environmental lobby group in Gibraltar. We might be cruising for such a battle with the owners of the Caleta Palace but we are not making the decision until we are absolutely 100 per cent certain that there really is absolutely no other alternative and if we can find another alternative we will do it.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Government say how they expect the creation of such a site would impact on the tourism industry in that particular sector particularly on the hotel itself given that I understand just by picturing the building that there are rooms which will face onto the rubble site?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The extent to which the site would come directly in front of the hotel is a matter of design it is a question of how far north the site encroaches. It would be possible actually not to encroach very much but then one will have a smaller site with relatively higher construction cost because what really costs is the bunding and all of that. I think that the owners of hotel are more concerned by the sort of aesthetic considerations of a sort of what they will regard as a typical site but I see that the owners of the Caleta Palace themselves wish to do some real estate development next to the hotel so it is not that they object to building works I think it is more to the unsightly nature of the sight as it progresses and one option maybe to see a way of operating this sight in a way which minimises the aesthetic problems. It may or it may not be possible but those are the sort of things that are being looked at the moment.

HON L A RANDALL:

Will Government not accept the fact that the state of the roads is deteriorating very, very rapidly and unless something is done quickly traffic may have to be closed to access to St Michael's Cave et cetera?

Can Government state whether they have concluded their assessment of the full viability of their preferred option for the remedial works that will enable the reopening of Dudley Ward Tunnel for vehicular traffic?

ANSWER

THE HON MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

No.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 27 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

At what stage is the consideration or when do they foresee a decision being taken?

HON F VINET:

If I can just give a short background to this. Government have considered in some detail the various recommendations and options that were submitted in the report prepared by the appointed engineering consultant on the work that is considered necessary as having to be undertaken in this area before a through flow of traffic can be re-established. A preferred solution was identified from the various alternatives that were submitted however before a final decision can be taken on this ground investigation works need to be undertaken to confirm the viability and constructability of the preferred option. Such exploratory works additionally provide necessary data for use in a design. Several elements of this investigation have already been undertaken but there is still a need to complete this exercise and until such time as all the required data is obtained we will not be in a position to confirm the full viability of a preferred option.

HON L A RANDALL:

The answer provided by the Minister is not much different to the one provided on the 28th March 2003. That was nine months ago so how much longer is this consideration going to take?

HON F VINET:

Hopefully as little time as possible we have no specific date to go.

HON S E LINARES:

Will the Minister state whether the consultants are private consultants or just Government consultants?

HON F VINET:

Private consultants.

HON S E LINARES:

Has the Minister got an indication of how much these consultants are costing?

HON F VINET:

No.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would the Minister agree with me that in answers to questions so far what we are hearing, namely that there is going to be a plan or there is not going to be a plan for the resurfacing of the roads in the Upper Rock, that there is going to be a rubble tip next to the Caleta Palace Hotel and that it is not yet clear when we will be able to drive all the way round Gibraltar but that is of very little use to our tourist product that we should find ourselves in that particular predicament?

GNC/GIBTEL

Can Government state whether there have been any new developments on the part of the European Commission in respect of the complaints filed in 1996 by GNC and Gibtel?

THE HON MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The EU Commission has decided to take no action on the roaming complaint filed by Gibtel in 1996. The Board of Gibtelecom has consequently decided to initiate legal proceedings against the Commission. Gibtelecom lodged the applications with the Court of First Instance of the European Communities on 24th December 2003. The EU Commission has not yet taken any formal decision on the numbering complaint filed by GNC in 1996.

HON L A RANDALL:

Can Government confirm that they have received the final decision from the Commission with respect to the roaming agreement and whether it was any different to the provisional decision?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Knowing the hon Member personally as I do I know that he would not be taking advantage of any inside knowledge of the affairs of Gibtelecom given his previous senior management position in that company for use in the House today and on that basis the answer to the question is that as indeed I have said in the House before there is a provisional negative decision on both. It has been made final on one not yet on the other. I suppose and hope that if the decision on roaming is made final if it is on the same lines as the provisional that the Board of Gibtelecom will make the same decision as it has made in relation to the roaming agreement.

HON L A RANDALL:

Firstly, let me just say to the Chief Minister that I took early retirement from Gibtelecom six months ago or more and a lot has happened since. I was referring to the roaming agreement, my understanding and that was in answer to a question which was posed in March by my predecessor that there would first be a preliminary decision which the company could then challenge and then there would be a final decision and court proceedings would not take place until after the final decision was received.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There is a confusion I think it is provisional rather than preliminary. The procedure as it has been explained in this House before the hon Member was in this House is that the Commission writes a letter saying, "We have provisionally decided to make the following decisions," and gives you a period of time and says what do you think of what we have provisionally decided and then there is a whole procedure that gives the complainant the opportunity to come back saying we think you are completely and utterly wrong for the following reasons and that was done. The fact is that it then took the Commission a long time after Gibtelecom, I think it would have been the company separately Nynex and Gibtel one for each complaint, they quite quickly responded to those provisional decisions but the Commission took quite some time to come back. When it came back on the telephone one it was negative and therefore they made the decision that they have now made and we have not quite yet reached that same position in respect to the numbering one but we have no doubt that they will come it is just a question of dressing it up. It really is very disappointing.

HON L A RANDALL:

The answer given by the Chief Minister is that only one of the complaints is going ahead with litigation, the roaming one?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Only because that is the one that has reached the stage where it is the end of the road. We are half a step from the end of the road on the other one as well and I hope that the Board of Gibtelecom will make the same decision when that one eventually comes through as well. Both were the subject of adverse provisional decision.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can we have confirmation just to make sure that we know where we are the other one is what Spain's refusal to recognise the country code, the 350 code?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is the so-called numbering issue.

JOHN MACKINTOSH SQUARE

On what date did the tender for the John Mackintosh Square beautification stipulate that the works had to be finished?

ANSWER

THE HON MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

Answered together with Question No 34 of 2004.

THE HON DR J J GARCIA

JOHN MACKINTOSH SQUARE

What is the projected additional cost and the additional delay of constructing underground toilets in the Piazza project?

THE HON MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The original contract completion date is the 26th March 2004. At the time of going out to tender a final decision as to the design and location of the WC block had not been taken. The preferred option was to construct an underground facility within the Square and thus a provisional sum of £75,000 was included in the tender documents based on a preliminary design. Subsequently, the detailed design was produced incorporating a larger facility than originally envisaged and including a more robust and reliable drainage system ( mini pumping station) and the new access to the air-raid shelter. The final cost is still subject to negotiation with the contractor. The original scope of works encompassed the construction of underground toilets thus this element of the works has not contributed to any additional delays.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 33 AND 34 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Where there any other locations considered apart from the underground facility?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I think it is clear that the hon Member is referring to facts which were notorious before the hon Member had responsibility for these things perhaps you will let me answer. The answer is that it was mooted that there was no decision made or ministerial consideration of any alternative but it is also true that a ministerial slip of the tongue in an interview led to much misunderstanding on the part of other people. The answer is yes it was said but no it had never actually got to a state of discussion that sustained the certainty of the statement that was made. It was one of the options under consideration, the guardroom. It was never bought back for discussion by those who made the decisions in relation to the whole project in the first place. It was being dealt with in a technical committee chaired by one minister and the ideas were being bandied about as a possibility but it was never in the project as being there.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Where there any other options considered at whatever level which would have been perhaps quicker and more cost effective than the present alternative?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not think so. The alternatives were somewhere on the Square which would not have been desirable. Under the Square or off the Square somewhere, the people doing the brainstorming around this project thought that the guardroom was a possibility at the technical level but that there were no others unless one went in away from the Square and tried to find, one might have wanted to put them in the Police Station or somewhere like that going off the Square but there was no other obvious possibility and I think there is some on several occasions people expressed the view that there are not enough public convenience utilities facilities around Gibraltar and I think this is one that will become a central facility. The costs are not excessive given the nature and size of the facility, their permanence, their unobtrusiveness which has an aesthetic value.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Given that the Government have confirmed that the toilets will have their own pumping station are they also in a position to confirm that they will have their own generator in the event of a power cut?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I cannot remember the technicalities of it. There are certainly two in case one breaks down but I think that there is a sort of some arrangement so that actually there is a lot of capacity for accumulation before a power failure will result in any terrible inconvenience.

HON S E LINARES:

Can Government confirm that there are two toilet facilities within the John Mackintosh Square?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Only to the extent that I can confirm to him that we are not planning to have boys and girls share toilets. There is one for the boys and one for the girls. I suppose that is two there is also a toilet above ground limited for the disabled but if he means male and female here and then male and female there the answer is no.

HON S E LINARES:

I meant two different sites for men and women or boys and girls on one side as in one set of toilets for men and women probably the disabled at the top and another completely different facility for either public or private entity.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is a second option, no.

UPPER ROCK

Has the cleaning of the slopes in the Upper Rock been allocated to any company or will this be put out to tender?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The cleaning of the slopes in the Upper Rock was allocated to Master Service (Gib) Ltd as an extension of the Upper Rock cleaning contract which they already held.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 35 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

When we have discussed this issue in the House in the past the Minister originally expressed the view that they were looking at one new contractor for the slopes but subsequently came to the conclusion that it was better to have the same one doing both the slopes and the roads otherwise there might be a potential difficulty. Can the Minister say what the terms of that contract are and how much is being paid to the contractor?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The rates that were agreed with the contractor are based on the original contract for the cleaning of the Upper Rock bearing in mind that there are some specialised work to be done because of the needs of the cleaning to be done on slopes which need an element of specialisation I am told. Initially we were going to go down the route as the hon Member clearly pointed out of having separate contracts those within the Department of the Environment who really handled this particular contract advised that it was better to have one contractor doing both sets of work than actually having two companies operating within a very limited amount of time. The cost of the contract was £4,887.50 per month and the contract was contracted for a period of five months and subsequently extended and we believe that during the next two or three months we will be monitoring to see the need that there is in actually undertaking this work. The cost of £4,800 is quite a significant expense and considering that this sort of work was done on an ad hoc basis in the past having a contractor actually carrying this out on a monthly basis all through the year is not justified so we are now monitoring to see when but they know that within the next two or three months we will have to call them back and restart the cleaning process.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

I do not know whether the Minister answered this or not but just to clear the point does this mean they have to clean the rock every month or every week, what is the frequency of operations?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Whilst they are actually on contract there is a daily cleaning being undertaken but obviously it covers quite a long list of slopes so I assume that it is done on a rotational basis but monitored by the Cleansing Superintendent to ensure that the slopes are kept clean.

UPPER GALLERIES

Can Government say what was bid by each of the four tenderers who submitted a tender for the repair of the retaining wall at the Upper Galleries?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The following four quotations were received from tenderers for the undertaking of these works:

- i. £44,161.52
- ii. £64,615.26
- iii. £85,541.65
- iv. £91,074.46

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 36 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Minister then say which of those four was awarded the tender because what was actually published in the Gazette was the sum £45,701.50.

HON F VINET:

The contract was awarded to AMCO in the sum as the hon Member has rightly said of £45,701.50. The difference between AMCO's tendered sum and the contract sum was due to additional requirements from the client, the Gibraltar Tourist Board, which resulted in additional traffic management measures they needed.

This matter is under consideration.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 37 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

Is the Minister aware that the closing date for publishing of intentions was December 2003?

HON C BELTRAN:

The hon Member must be aware that the action plan eEurope 2005 is simply a proposal from the Commission to Member States to consider should this later become a directive I can say that it is the policy of this Government to meet all its international obligations. I would add that the hon Member has been until recently a Member of the Gibraltar Co-ordinating Group looking into this matter and he must be aware of the latest situation which is precisely that this matter is to be considered.

HON L A RANDALL:

I have to admit to not being able to recall eEurope 2005 being considered by the Committee which the Minister mentions and I can tell him it is over a year and it is driven by the person who is the CEO of the Gibraltar Regulatory Authority. I can assure the Minister that the European Commission recommended to Member States that their intentions should be published in December 2003, just their intentions nothing more.

It is a recommendation as the hon Member rightly says.

HON S E LINARES:

Does that mean that the camels were actually paid by the Cavalcade Committee?

HON C BELTRAN:

The camels were sponsored by Gibtelecom.

HON S E LINARES:

What about the cost of the person organising all the cavalcade, is that not part of the costs of the cavalcade parade?

HON C BELTRAN:

The cavalcade is organised by the Cavalcade Committee not a Government organisation.

HON S E LINARES:

Did Government not deploy a Youth Officer into the Ministry of Culture in order to organise this because he was not allowed to use the phone in the other place?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The question is “How much has been spent on the preparation of the cavalcade?” The salary of the civil servant in question was not spent on the preparation of the cavalcade parade he was already on the Government’s pay role costs and the question is whether he did that or something else. The hon Member knows that the particular officer in question has now been transferred to the new Ministry for Heritage, Culture, Youth and Sport as an events organiser. He will organise the cavalcade, he will be involved in the organisation of the fair, of other Government hospitality events and indeed of any event of a sporting, cultural, heritage nature and indeed for any other Government department and the Government do not allocate a proportion of his salary cost to the cost of each of those events anymore than the Government do not allocate to the cost of any other Government activity a proportion of the salary of part of one civil servant.

NEW YEAR CONCERT

Can Government state what was the cost of this year's New Year Concerts?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

The total cost of this year's New Year Concert was £26,043.53.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 40 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister give a breakdown of this amount?

HON C BELTRAN:

I can write to the hon Member and give him the details I do not have the breakdown with me here, that was not in the original question.

THE HON S E LINARES

YOUTH SERVICE

Can the Government state how many Youth Officers are currently in employment with the Youth Service?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

Currently the Gibraltar Youth Service employs the following:

- 1 - Senior Youth Worker
- 2 - Youth and Community Workers
- 1 - Trainee Youth and Community Worker (currently studying in UK)
- 1 - Part-time Youth Worker
- 9 - Session Youth Leaders

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 41 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Is this figure since the new officer was moved to the Ministry of Culture?

HON C BELTRAN:

No.

HON S E LINARES:

What the Minister is saying is that this figure counts him as well, he is included in this list?

HON C BELTRAN:

The staff complement that I have just given out includes the post but not the body of the person that we are talking about.

HON S E LINARES:

The question is currently, what is the staffing currently, now, not the posts?

HON C BELTRAN:

The approved staff complement for the Youth Service is one Senior Youth Worker and four Youth and Community Workers which is five the same amount as I explained before in terms of numbers.

HON S E LINARES:

Does that mean that the Minister has one less now than he had before?

HON C BELTRAN:

No.

HON S E LINARES:

How can he then deploy a body from one department to another which the Chief Minister has stated in the previous question, he has deployed to have an organiser person in the Ministry of Heritage and Culture and now he has deployed him from the Youth Office to the Ministry of Culture where is that body because he is including it now?

HON C BELTRAN:

The post is being covered by a part-time worker. The body will be full-time as soon as the advert comes out and it is filled.

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister then state who is currently manning the post or place where the current Youth Officer was that is Laguna Estate Youth Club?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I honestly do not think it is appropriate to mention individual officers .....

HON S E LINARES:

As a point or order.....I have not mentioned any person or any name of anybody so I would not like the Chief Minister to start twisting the fact that I have named anybody specifically. I have not done so, if he wants to mention it that is up to him but I would rather clear it now before he starts saying that I have been mentioning people. I am mentioning a post.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It seems clear that my command of the English Language not being as complete as his I obviously do not understand what is meant in the English Language by the words "who". "Who" is a request to identify a person by name. We have already gone through the question of the post. He then stands up and asks "Who is covering?" and the only answer to that is the name of an individual and when this is pointed out to him he accuses everybody of twisting his words. Perhaps he would like to rephrase the question if "who" is not the invocation of the name then what information is he seeking exactly?

HON S E LINARES:

By "who" it means that there has to be a body there one does not have to mention his name. Is he or she a Youth Officer or is he or she an EO in Government or is he or she a PTO from the Industrial side this is what I meant?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member has already been told that it is being covered by a part-time Youth Worker and I know of no way of identifying a body than by the name that it was given at birth.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would the Chief Minister agree with me that the best way to do that if he finds himself in that predicament again is by saying when asked who he can say instead of the name the person who is doing that other job et cetera is the person filling post whatever there is no need to deploy I am sure the Chief Minister will agree, the suggestion that only he has the command of the English Language which enables us to determine who he is being asked about?

YOUTH SERVICE

Can Government state how many Youth Leaders who completed the course this year and those who completed the first course on Youth Leaders are currently working with the Youth Service?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

This year's Youth leader training course is not expected to be completed until July 2004, having started in October 2003. Two training courses have already been completed and a total of 10 Youth Leaders (nine paid session workers and one volunteer) who have completed training courses currently work for the Youth Service.

Can Government state whether the Youth Clubs were opened during the Christmas and New Year period?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

Yes. The Youth Clubs were opened, several days and for varied purposes during the Christmas and New Year period.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 43 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Firstly, I would like to congratulate the Minister that he is opening it for Christmas since the last time and the last Minister did not believe that the Christmas period was the right period to have the Youth Clubs opened. I am glad that the policy of Government have changed to open these Youth Clubs during the Christmas period. I would like to state that because last time I posed this question there was a bit of controversy as to why it should open and I am glad it does now.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

If the hon Member would refer to Hansard and the discussion he and I had on this subject last year he will read that I explained that the policy of the Government was to open the Youth Clubs over the Christmas period as and when necessary and that it had been open as and when necessary during last Christmas not that there was a policy decision to close them and that that has changed.

HON S E LINARES:

I beg to differ that he did actually believe that the Youth Clubs, in fact he stated that the youths did not use it during the Christmas period and that that was why they were closed. Does that meant that the youth are now using it?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I have already said it once, once more and not again. Last year I said that the Youth Clubs should be opened as and when necessary because the youth did not use them normally so they were opened as and when necessary which included for the making of the floats and there has been no policy decision to close them and therefore no change in policy to reopen and I will not say it again because the hon Member has the habit of repeating the question.

GOVERNMENT LOTTERY

Now that the contract for the running of the Gibraltar Government Lottery has been awarded, can Government state whether they propose to implement any changes to the structure of the Lottery?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

This issue remains under consideration.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 44 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Without wanting to question the Minister's command of the English Language what issue is under consideration?

HON C BELTRAN:

The issue of whether there is any proposal to implement any changes.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I can understand changes being under consideration but what I cannot understand is whether there ought to be changes being under consideration, is that the state of play they do not even know if changes are needed?

HON C BELTRAN:

Should changes become necessary and some may be necessary, they would certainly be implemented.

HON J J BOSSANO:

So, at the moment the Government have not yet decided whether there is a need for any change is that the correct state of play?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The Government increasingly accepts the fact that some sort of change is necessary. The participation in the lottery continues to decline, the number of unsold tickets continues to rise it is increasingly becoming a lottery not so much for the players as for the Government as to whether we win or lose money in any one year so I think some change is going to be. Too many things have changed around the lottery and although the previous Member whose seat the hon questioner has taken was a passionate believer in that the two-weekly lottery draws was a good and not a bad thing that is itself one of the issues under consideration. I think that the Government accepts that some change in the lottery is desirable to revitalise it, to recommercialise it, to make it more habit forming not in the bad sense but a lot of people fell out of the habit when it stopped being weekly. Indeed I recall that a study has been done, a consultation process was done and gathered by the Hon Colonel Britto when he was the Minister responsible and some suggestions were made none of them it has to be said very, very enlightened so we are really in the stage of accepting that a change seems to be indicated and still at the embryonic stage of considering what those changes might be but the more time passes the more urgent it becomes to address the question of change and take the bull by the horns.

LEISURE CENTRE – KINGS BASTION

Can the Minister for Sport confirm whether there are any new developments as to their long-standing promised conversion of Kings Bastion to a leisure centre, since a leisure centre was promised in their Manifesto of 1996?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

Answered together with Question No 46 of 2004.

THE HON F R PICARDO

LEISURE CENTRE – KINGS BASTION

Can the Government now state whether negotiations with the MOD referred to in answer 359/2003 have now been completed and consequently, by what date they expect the King's Bastion Leisure Centre will be completed and open to the public?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

Government's negotiations with MOD, referred to in the answer to Question No 359 of 2003 have not yet been completed. The Government have been elected on 27th November on their manifesto published for that General Election. The Government expect to honour the commitments in that manifesto during the next four years.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 45 AND 46 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister agree with me factually that the commitment in relation to the King's Bastion Leisure Centre was actually a commitment contained also in the 1996 manifesto and 2000 manifestos of the GSD administration?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government are not accountable to the Opposition for manifestos that have been superceded by subsequent manifestos and subsequent elections. We have a four year term ahead of us, we have been elected with a manifesto, it contains a commitment to build a leisure centre and the electorate are entitled to expect us to honour our commitments. When as happens to all governments, governments finish their term not having completed all their commitments some members of the electorate generously forgive the Government for those failures others do not and desist from voting for it and that is the extent of the Government's accountability for what might or might not have been in its 1996 manifesto.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would the Chief Minister or the Minister the Hon Mr Beltran agree with me that in fact the original answer to this question now amounts to a commitment in this House to complete the project within the life of this parliament?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member can deduce from my friend's answer the words that he has uttered in the answer namely that the Government expects to honour the commitments in its 2003 manifesto during the next four years. The words are clear they are not ambiguous and then he is not entitled to deduce from them anything other than their natural meaning.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Government confirm whether this project is still or is going to form part of a wider project that was mentioned by the Chief Minister in the last meeting of the House?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I consider that to be an entirely fair question. The answer is that if the negotiations with the MOD which are referred to in the answer can be brought about to an end quickly the answer to the question is yes. If on the other hand the negotiations have not come to a favourable conclusion quickly then the answer is that we will peel that aspect of the project away from it and proceed around those negotiations. It will alter the nature the project that might otherwise have taken place but it means that we will proceed otherwise we cannot wait indefinitely for those negotiations to complete.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does that answer also mean whether the Government will decide whether the Leisure Centre will be privately run or publicly run?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I think that question is still open in either case whether it is done with or without those negotiations having been successfully completed.

EUROPA SPORTS GROUND

Can the Minister for Sport confirm whether the Government have now successfully completed negotiations with the MOD in relation to the hand-over of the Europa Sports ground to the Government which in turn would be handed over to the Gibraltar Cricket Association, something which his predecessor announced would happen over 3 years ago?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

The situation remains the same as explained in the reply given to previous similar questions namely Question Nos 100, of 2002 and 100 of 2003.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 47 OF 2003

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Yes, but in all the past questions that I have asked I get different answers and I would like the Minister for Sport to confirm whether it is still the position of the MOD that they require the sportsgrounds for emergency military situations and that is the reason why after his predecessor announced in this House three years ago that the Cricket Association would be happy at the news that he had received that the MOD would be handing over the sportsground at Europa, does that mean that they are still negotiating because in the last meeting of the House I got another conflicting reply from the Minister because he said he thought that the MOD would not change its mind?

HON C BELTRAN:

My reply is quite clear I believe that the situation remains that there are no indications that MOD will change its mind.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

In effect it means that the Government will no longer try to negotiate with the MOD does it mean that the Government have given up then is that the situation?

HON C BELTRAN:

The Government have not given up and as the Chief Minister has just mentioned we are not actively engaged in the matter.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Have the Government looked at a possibility that the MOD might be able to release another area whereby they could actually provide the facilities that the Cricket Association presently have at Europa?

HON C BELTRAN:

I understand that the Cricket Association at the very present moment is quite happy with the allocations they have in the place that they have them.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 48 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

The schedule shows that of the £25,000 about £16,000 has been spent, does the Minister forecast that this particular item of expenditure will fall within the budget for the year?

HON C BELTRAN:

Yes I expect it to be within budget.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In respect of the £5,000 spent for the publication of a book can the Minister elaborate on that particular item of expenditure?

HON C BELTRAN:

The book referred to is entitled 'The Royal Gibraltar Regiment in Ceremonial Dress' published as the Gibraltar Government heritage monograph.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is it the policy of the Government, as somebody with an interest to declare, to give grants to people who publish historical works of this nature?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Not all of them. I rise because it precedes the Minister's responsibility for these matters. This was a grant that was requested it was acceded with a very marginal case a lot of people write books a lot of people ask for Government support. The Government obviously cannot afford to fund them all there is a bit of a concern that it might have created a precedent and I hope that the hon Member's last comment will not encourage it.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the £3,750 of expenditure to Prints Research Consultant Ltd in respect of the Moorish Castle can the Minister elaborate on that item?

HON C BELTRAN:

Essentially Prints Research is really involved in the moving of the prison but obviously this is linked to the castle, really the jewel in the heritage crown as I believe has been the name given to the Moorish Castle.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

This was for what exactly for reports into the move or....?

HON C BELTRAN:

Yes reports on the whole move and developments in the castle area.

GIBRALTAR SPORTS AUTHORITY

Can the Minister for Sport confirm whether any agreement has now been reached with the Union as to the transfer of staff to the Gibraltar Sports Authority?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

No.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 49 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm when the last meeting was held with the Union as regards this matter?

HON C BELTRAN:

I cannot confirm a date. I know that work is continuing on the contracts, conditions of service, of future Gibraltar Sports Authority Employees but to-date no agreement has been reached with the Unions regarding the transfer of staff.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister give an indication as to when the Government expect to meet with the Unions over this matter?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The ball is in the Government's court to the extent that the draft proposals to put to the men by way of contract terms is in No 6 for consideration and really the next stage of the negotiation will be for the Government to produce these to the staff and their representative for them to consider. The hon Lady is asking for indication of when that might happen, I think that is one of those issues that falls into the category that we discussed before tea of pre-election issues that were left pending the election which we would hope to have cleared the decks of within the next month or two like the other two that we discussed earlier. I would say that in a month or two we would certainly have pushed out to the staff and their representative the proposed terms of contract.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does it therefore mean if my memory is correct that in order for the Sports City to function Government will need to employ extra staff and therefore does that mean that unless they come to an agreement with the Union and they start employing more staff the Sports City will not be functional?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It does not mean that at all it means the opposite of that. The Sports Authority exists, the Government will proceed with the new facilities as soon as they are all ready in the Sports Authority with new staff and that is not something that will be negotiated with the existing staff or anybody else. It is a new operation, new entity, new staff, in new premises. What is going to be negotiated or rather the subject matter of the negotiations to which our exchanges have so far been referring is whether terms can be agreed for the existing staff and the existing facilities, the Victoria Stadium and the Government department also to be moved into the Sports Authority or whether they both stay separate and the Authority goes forward on its merry way and the Government continues with the Victoria Stadium and its sports facilities with its separate staff as at the moment which is what would happen if the staff opt not to go into the Authority which as the Government said we would respect that.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Chief Minister give an indication whether the Government will shortly in quotes "advertise the posts that are required for the running of the new Sports City"?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

At the moment and without prejudice to what I explained to the hon Lady before about the Government going forward its own way with the new facilities the sensible policy of the previous Minister for Sport was that whilst negotiations with the staff of the Victoria Stadium looked as if they might be successful to hold back to see if it could all be evened out at the same time I think that remains the position coupled with the fact that until the facilities are ready, only the hockey pitch is ready so far, until the facilities under construction are ready the situation has not become urgent. I stick to what I said in answer to the last supplementary but one which is that in the next month or two there is bound to see movement whether positive or negative movement remains to be seen this matter will be brought to a head in a couple of months. Whether during those couple of months any attempt will be made to recruit staff for the Authority that I could not tell her. I do not think it is sensitive because as the next question in the Order Paper alludes to the only thing that is currently sensitive in terms of the new facilities is looking after the hockey pitch none of the other new facilities are operational yet.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Would the Government accept the situation where within the existing sporting facilities meaning the Victoria Stadium, the Government would have employees working side by side that have decided not to go to the new Sports Authority or together with those that have decided to join the Authority would they have two sets of employees within the same environment?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is a very, very long way from the Government's preferred option. The Government have a commitment to respect any decision made by a majority of the workers in the department and I think we have said that in the House before. The circumstances that the hon Member describes in the question would only arise if the majority of the staff in the Victoria Stadium let us call it the department, were to opt in favour and a minority were to opt against then the question would arise for consideration whether the facilities would go to the Authority the majority of the staff that wanted to go to the Authority would go to the Authority and whether the minority would remain civil servants seconded to the Authority. It is an untidy messy situation. The Lyonnaise experience has not been a particularly happy one when one mixes people so it is to be avoided at all costs but before .....it would require discussion with the staff because even secondment is something that requires as element of goodwill on the part of the staff. It may even require some degree of acquiescence on the part of the secondees to agree to be seconded outside of service.

GIBRALTAR SPORTS AUTHORITY

Can the Minister for Sport confirm when the Government expect to employ persons who will be responsible for the up-keep of the water-based hockey pitch?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

HON C BELTRAN:

The relevant staff will be employed when the Gibraltar Sports Authority becomes operational.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Here we have the opposite situation where the facility is running without having employees .....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Interim arrangements.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Interim arrangements and the Government I assume I am going to get the same answer as I did the last time, are they at all willing to listen to the proposals by the staff members of the ground-staff of the Victoria Stadium that they are willing to do this without any prejudice to whatever meetings that the Government may have with the Union.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The answer remains the same as she anticipated not just for the reasons that I explained last time but indeed because the staff at the Victoria Stadium are already working exceedingly long hours, exceedingly long hours and frankly to take on additional responsibilities I think is probably not a realistic physical proposition but I do not want to hide behind that reason the principal reason is the one that I gave her last time that these things are very difficult to extricate oneself from.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Say, for example, and this is hypothetical if the groundsmen decide at any stage to join the Authority would they be responsible for the upkeep or would the Government employ extra personnel.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is open, once one has an Authority with staff and with additional sporting facilities it then becomes a question for the best deployment of resources. There may be a need, there is bound to be a need to recruit extra staff there is no possibility of the existing body of men being able to run the existing facilities and all the new facilities when they come on stream, How the existing workforce would be distributed within the Authority is a matter for management and for discussion. Some may end up working on the hockey pitch it is just a matter of work organisation but only once they join the Authority and if that is the deployment decision that management take.

GIBRALTAR SPORTS AUTHORITY

Has any expenditure taken place by the Gibraltar Sports Authority in the current financial year?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

No.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 51 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it likely therefore then that we shall have a repeat of what was still in Appendix 'G' of last year's Estimates that is that the out-turn for the year will be that nothing has been financed so far of the amount that was voted by the House is that correct?

HON C BELTRAN:

Funds provided in the Estimates as contribution to the Gibraltar Sports Authority will probably need to be vired to other subheads to cover expenses required to be met in respect of works, facilities and so on which were at the time of preparation of the Estimates expected to have become the responsibility of the Authority during the current financial year that is the situation.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In terms of the biggest element in the expenditure which was the personnel emoluments, the salary of the person that was supposed to be in charge of that Authority is that something that has not been triggered off yet because the Authority is not functioning?

HON C BELTRAN:

No it has not been triggered off yet.

GOVERNMENT LOTTERY

Did the Government achieve the forecast out-turn of £247,000 from the Gibraltar Government Lottery for the financial year 2002/2003 and does it still expect to achieve the £556,000 for the current financial year?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

The actual surplus for the year ended 31st March 2003 was £752,000 compared with the forecast out-turn of £247,000. The latest forecast out-turn for the current financial year has been revised by the Treasury Department to £300,000.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 52 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can the Minister explain how it is that the forecast out-turn was so far out of the final result given that the forecast out-turn is made only a couple of months before the end of the financial year?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am told that the explanation for that is that the Government won the lottery several times in the last two months between the date of the calculation forecast out-turn which is projected forward it is not calculated, remember that this goes out to print long before the end of the financial year, so the forecast out-turn is itself based on guessing the last couple of months of the last financial year. If in that period the Government wins the lottery which is a prime illustration of the point that we were discussing before that the latest forecast out-turn for the current financial year is £300,000 so there is £450,000 difference turning whether a couple of things happen or do not happen and I believe from the purely financial point of view that the lottery has become far too volatile for the Government.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In relation to what was said before about the decision not yet being taken, I note that in the Audited Accounts that have been tabled today on page 18 the Auditor does say that the week ticket sales for some time now have been under review but he has not been able to obtain an indication as to when the exercise will be completed.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

He is in the same position as you.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Yes and I could not have more luck now than he had in 2002 are we likely to see something being done this year?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The only thing that has happened in the meantime that in effect removes one of the psychological obstacles to change is that the Lottery Administration Contract has now been awarded, extended. So, this uncertainty of about is it worth changing given that there might be a change of operator? Is it appropriate to negotiate a change with the incumbent operator that might not be around in a few months time? All that was operating on people's minds as a sort of damper on any enthusiastic. He was not particularly enthusiastic, they were not particularly enthusiastic either because they did not know whether they were going to be around so the only thing that has happened I do not think it may have had the effect yet but will have the effect that now that there has been an extension of that contract the company now knows there has not been a change it is the same one that really they are now in a position to make proposals to the Government in the knowledge that it is not going to be for somebody else's benefit.

Has the Minister for Social Services now been able to determine whether everybody who is on the social wage is also registered with the ETB as an unemployed in order to obtain the social insurance contribution credit, as she undertook to do in answer to supplementary questions arising from Question No 15 of March 2003?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR SOCIAL AND CIVIC AFFAIRS

What I undertook to do in answer to supplementary questions arising from Question No 15 of March 2003, I did by way of a lengthy letter to the Leader of the Opposition dated 9th June 2003. I again confirm however that those persons receiving credits in the year 2000, 2001 and 2002 were not, from an Employment Service perspective registered as unemployed. I should point out that the relevant regulations were amended on 25th September 2003 and credits are now awarded automatically to entitled persons on application, without any further requirement to register as unemployed at the Employment Service.

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

MOUNT ALVERNIA

How many elderly citizens are awaiting a place at Mount Alvernia, and how many of these are occupying a bed at St Bernard's Hospital as at the end of December 2003?

A total of 98 elderly persons have applied for and are awaiting a place at Mount Alvernia as at the end of December 2003.

A total of 37 are occupying a bed at St Bernard's Hospital. The breakdown of months, age and sex requested by the hon Member will be forwarded to her as soon as the information has been compiled.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 55 AND 56 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

If the Minister will recall the early part of last year I think it was, during a meeting of the House she answered a question based on the same question that we are asking today and she said that she was hopeful that more patients from St Bernard's would be allocated shortly at Mount Alvernia because the Government were keen in refurbishing the second floor at Mount Alvernia, can she say whether there are any plans to refurbish or whether the Government have started the refurbishment of the second floor at Mount Alvernia?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

It is not just the refurbishment of the second floor that I was talking about it is the refurbishment of the whole of Mount Alvernia, of all the floors including the opening of the annex which was never used before. It is envisaged that these works would be finalised by April 2004.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Is it not the case that the second floor is still closed?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

I believe, if my memory serves me right, that the second floor has just been refurbished and patients are being transferred from one floor to the other.

HON C A BRUZON:

The second floor of Mount Alvernia is now empty and is being refurbished at this point in time is that correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

In the second floor refurbishment has just been finished and patients who are residents are about to be decanted to it so that refurbishment of the next floor can start.

HON C A BRUZON:

Is the first floor the floor above the ground floor, obviously it is, now the second floor is the one above the first floor, that second floor looks like a demolished area and is being I suppose refurbished and the people from the second floor have now been moved to the fourth floor which I must confess looks very beautiful and nicely refurbished?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Yes the hon Member might be correct it is just a question of refurbishing a floor and decanting as the process goes along.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister at this stage confirm how many beds there will be available eventually once the refurbishments are completed in April?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Yes, a total of 140.

DR GIRALDI HOME

In relation to the Doctor Giraldi Home, can Government state why two of the senior management at the Social Services Agency responsible for the home, have resigned?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR SOCIAL AND CIVIC AFFAIRS

The two resignations in question have come about due to the post-holders' disagreement over a matter of disciplinary procedure.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 57 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

My concern is the welfare of the disabled as I am sure the same will apply to the hon Lady. I just want to make sure in asking that question that if there is anything wrong that has to be put right regarding the disabled in Dr Giraldi Home that it will be done as soon as possible.

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

I can assure the hon Member that the welfare of the disabled is being considered by me obviously as Minister responsible for the disabled and they are perfectly well looked after. The resignation of these two employees does not affect them in any way.

HON F R PICARDO:

Is the Minister saying that these two individuals resigned before disciplinary action could be taken against them, is that what she meant?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The Government are not just responsible for the welfare of the users of the home it is also responsible as an employer to ensure that its staff is subject to fair disciplinary process. Disciplinary action was taken against two or three quite junior members of staff not the two that have resigned, in circumstances about which they approached No 6 Convent Place complaining that they had been unfairly treated. The Chief Secretary conducted a thorough review and concluded that indeed they had been unfairly treated in that without going into the merits the Disciplinary Procedures followed were not correct and did not amount to a fair opportunity to address the issues against them. The Chief Secretary therefore directed that they be reinstated and subjected, if necessary, to a proper Disciplinary Procedure in response to which these two more senior members of staff resigned. That is both the chronology and the relationship of the two resignees so to speak.

Answer to Question No 61 of 2004

The Social Services Agency Board has met 3 times during 2003. On the 27th January 2003, 6th May 2003 and 14th October 2003.

I hand the hon Member a list giving the information requested.

I am not clear whether the hon Member is referring to expenditure relating to Dr Giraldi and services for the disabled, like residential or respite service, St Bernadette's Stay and Play and services of that nature. If this is what he is referring to, it is impossible to give a figure as this is globalised within all the services provided by Social Services. If however, he is referring to the contingency fund under the control of the Principal Secretary Social Affairs, which provides mobility aids for disabled people, £34,000 are budgeted for this purpose.

HON C A BRUZON:

I was referring to disabled people in general, the overall picture.

HON MISS Y DEL AGUA:

As I said it is impossible to gauge or to extrapolate from the globalised figure given for social services just relating to disabled people. It is impossible to do that.

GASA – SWIMMING POOL

Can Government state when they expect works to begin on the swimming pool for the disabled to be provisioned at the GASA site?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR SOCIAL AND CIVIC AFFAIRS

The swimming pool is intended for the elderly and for the disabled. This is a manifesto commitment and so the Government will proceed with it and make public announcements when it is ready to do so.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 64 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will the swimming pool be run by Government or will it form part of the facilities run by GASA?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Making due allowance to the fact that the person who actually knows the answer is not here and that I am speaking to you from a distant knowledge I believe that the answer is that whilst the swimming pool is for the use of the elderly and the disabled which I think is in the summer months, it is the responsibility of the Government but whilst it is in the use of GASA for their general training purposes which I think is in the winter months I think it is their responsibility. I think there is some sort of carve-up in time but I cannot be 100 per cent I would urge her not to rely entirely on that and perhaps put it to the honourable and gallant gentleman who is not here at the moment.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Seeing that the hon and gallant Gentleman is not here can I ask the Chief Minister the next supplementary and I accept that the Government might not know it but can the Government confirm when and if the information is correct as the Chief Minister has said that some months it would be GASA run and other months it would be Government run, when it is GASA run will the Government be providing GASA with extra funds in order to be able to run that swimming pool?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not know probably they are quite keen just to get hold of it I do not think that they have asked for money on top but I cannot be sure I do not think so but again I will have somebody speak to the hon Lady about it.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It will also be interesting for the Opposition to know whether this site is going to be handed over on a lease basis as the previous site was to GASA that would also be interesting if the Government can look into that?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have another distant recollection that this is GASA's site it is not a question of leasing it to them it is already their site. It is a case of us building a pool .....

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Lease-in pool.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Well as the hon Member sitting next to her will tell her "if you build something on land that is already leased to somebody else you are hard put to argue that the pool is not included in the lease."

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So then I am correct in assuming that the pool will become the property of GASA?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Leased.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 75 TO 79 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

In relation to Question No 78 of 2004 which I think is the one being particularly answered by the Minister not in writing the question also asks at the terms of each proposed tender is the Minister in a position to provide that?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Government do not consider it appropriate to disclose the terms of any tender or expression of interest in this case which has not been accepted.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister confirm that that is in relation to this case or is that the policy of the Government generally?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

It is a policy in general.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister note that in relation to an earlier question by my learned friend in relation to repairs to a wall in the Upper Galleries a breakdown of even unsuccessful tenderers was given and will she therefore reconsider at least whether that is the general policy of the Government?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

She will not. There is nothing that the hon Member can call in aid of the previous issue to that. When Government puts out a tender the Government are happy to give the name and amount of the successful tenderer and the amounts but not the names of the unsuccessful tenderers and that because I think that the hon Members are entitled to know whether the Government have accepted the lowest bid so that if we have not accepted the lowest bids they can exercise their right to scrutinise why we have not accepted the lowest bids which sometimes it happens. There is a difference between giving that sort of information and giving details of unsuccessful expressions of interest which do not relate to monetary matters about bids for services at particular levels. So, the Minister has correctly stated the Government's policy and there is no inconsistency between her answer to the hon Member on this occasion and the breakdown given to the Hon Dr Garcia both in which questions relate to wholly different types of issue.

HON F R PICARDO:

Nonetheless would the Minister address her mind to Question No 77 of 2004 which asks also what the terms of the contract contracted are given that that part of my question has not been replied to?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

I believe that part of his question has been answered by stating that it is a 15 month contract. The other terms of the contract I believe are too numerous to mention across the floor in this House.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would the Minister consider providing a copy of the other terms?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. It is not the policy or the practice of this or of any other Government, other Governments indeed have had wholly different practices, it is not the policy of the Government to make available copies of all the commercial contracts that it signs. The hon Member is entitled to ask the Government specific questions about the principal areas of the contracts if he wants to know for how long, what the rate is, he should ask specific questions but he cannot expect to have access to Government's commercial documentation in the sense of providing copies. If that were to be extended to all contracts that the Government signs then this would be terribly onerous and burdensome and it has never been the practice it has to be said to give even as much information as we give but we do try to give as much as is possible.

HON F R PICARDO:

Nonetheless I am referring now to the schedule kindly provided by the Minister, is she satisfied by the fact that none of the employees of ADA Company Ltd which her schedule refers to are Gibraltarians?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

The company is a Spanish company registered in Gibraltar and all its employees are generic to the company. They came with the company and unfortunately no other expression of interest received met the requirements or the needs of the ECA to provide this kind of service in the community.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can I ask the Minister on what she bases the suggestion that this is a Spanish company given that the information provided to me by her is that this company is called ADA Company Ltd thereby suggesting that it is a Gibraltarian company and that the shareholding does not reflect ownership by a Spanish SL or SA and in fact it is in the personal names of three individuals?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Minister has not said that, the hon Lady has said that this is a Spanish company registered in Gibraltar by which the hon Member must at least deduce that it is a Gibraltar company owned by Spaniards. ADA Company Ltd established in Gibraltar can only be a Gibraltar company or a company at least incorporated in some Anglo-Saxon jurisdiction, I suppose it could have been a company incorporated somewhere else where they use the limited in that sense and established in Gibraltar.

HON F R PICARDO:

In which case I am sure the Chief Minister will agree with me that it cannot adequately be described as a Spanish company.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not think she has.....

HON F R PICARDO:

Then, would the Minister or the Chief Minister, given his interventions, state whether they are satisfied that this company employs no Gibraltarians?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

The reason why they do not employ Gibraltarians at this moment in time I understand is because the qualifications that they require of their employees no Gibraltarian that has applied, because Gibraltarians obviously have a right to apply for any post or vacancies that they open, have the required qualifications.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Minister indicate what qualifications if any the Elderly Care Agency require this company that provides employees to it to ensure that its employees have?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

I can say that one of the terms of the contract that the hon Member was referring to before states that all careworkers will be expected to have qualifications or recognised experience in care of the elderly.

HON F R PICARDO:

Is the Minister therefore saying that she is satisfied with the explanation provided to her by ADA Ltd that there are only at this stage Spaniards with those relevant qualifications who make up the total of 15 employees employed by this company and no Gibraltarians with those qualifications?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

I am satisfied that the Elderly Care Agency who is responsible ultimately for delivering the service is satisfied in itself and I must say that the delivery of the service is appreciated by all the members in the community who are receiving it.

HON F R PICARDO:

There is absolutely no question of the Opposition questioning that.

Can Government state whether there has been any increase in the number of employers participating in the wage subsidy pilot scheme that was approved under ESF for persons who have completed a Drug Rehabilitation Programme and others who meet the categories stated in answer to Question No 730 of 2002 now in operation?

NO. 81 OF 2004*THE HON F R PICARDO*DRUG REHABILITATION PROGRAMME

Can Government state whether there has been any increase in the number of persons that have been placed in employment, giving a breakdown by age and sex, in the wage subsidy pilot scheme that was approved under ESF for persons who have completed a Drug Rehabilitation Programme and others who meet the categories stated in answer to Question No 730 of 2002 now in operation?

ANSWER*THE HON THE MINISTER FOR SOCIAL AND CIVIC AFFAIRS

There has been an increase if one might call it an increase because in my previous answer there were no people participating in the scheme as it has just been approved but since then there has been an increase of five employers in the Wage Subsidy Pilot Scheme and an increase of five employees placed in employment with the assistance of the Wage Subsidy Pilot Scheme broken down as follows:-

Age 18	-	0 Males
Age 18 – 24	-	1 Male
25+	-	4 Males
Total		5 Males

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 80 AND 81 OF 2004*HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Minister clarify an increase in the number of employers and employees or only employees?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Employers and employees.

HON F R PICARDO:

So we have a situation as we had last time I think it was her colleague at the time the Minister for Employment the Hon Mr Corby, who had clarified that there were four employers and four employees, now we have gone up to nine and nine just for clarification?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

That is correct.

SOCIAL SERVICES AGENCY

Can Government state what is the latest forecast out-turn for expenditure in the current financial year for the Social Services Agency?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR SOCIAL AND CIVIC AFFAIRS

The latest forecast out-turn for expenditure in the current financial year for the Social Services Agency is £3,200,000.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 88 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

This is compared to the estimate of £2,300,000?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Yes.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Has there been additional work or activities taken on by the agency since the beginning of this financial year?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There are several departments of Government where expenditure is demand led which are serious over spenders as the hon Member will see when he gets the figures for the current financial year compared with the estimates. The problem is that in an attempt to impose discipline in control of expenditure and in curtailing increases in recurrent annual expenditure the Financial and Development Secretary when departments submit the original bid at the beginning of the year for the next financial year's budget as is happening now, for example, in respect for the forthcoming year, eliminates provision, reduces the bid and makes a provision in the estimates and then the department appears to proceed to spend the money anyway. There is much to be done in persuading the departments that they must exercise the budgetary discipline that the approved budget is intended to impose on them.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am aware of the syndrome the Chief Minister is explaining but it is just that it is difficult in the context of this particular department because demand led in the area of the Social Services Agency, that is why I asked if it meant that they had taken on additional activities subsequent at the beginning of the financial year which had not been foreseen and the other point is that if one looks at the original estimates two thirds are personal emoluments so it is difficult to see that being cut back or subsequently increased.

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Apart from the reason that the Chief Minister has just given there is a combination of other factors in the area that the hon Member has described, for example, there has been 66 per cent increase of children taken into care which obviously increases provision considerably. A greater demand in the respite services offered at Dr Giraldi Home and apart from that also there is the fact that what were previously Millbury employees and are now Agency employees were offered a package of measures which they obviously accepted which included better pay conditions, better allowances and obviously all that increases the budget as well.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Obviously this is Question Time and I do not want to slip into the budget debate but I thought that had already been worked into those estimates at the time. I would have thought that at the time of last year's budget the Millbury thing was out of the way already?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

At the time that the last estimates were prepared the Agency had only been in operation for six weeks so it is very difficult to gauge. We could give an approximate state of expenditure but it would be very difficult to gauge exactly what the expenditure would be.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The answer is to the end of December, the budget figure is to the end of March.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In terms of the numbers are the ones provided by the hon Member for the position until the end of December still based on the original criteria that there had to be people living with a pensioner couple or another pensioner or has there been any change in that criteria as at December?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

The formula is shown on the attachment which I shall now hand over to the hon Member. The amount payable is the balance remaining after deducting the rent relief awarded from the full weekly rent.

Procedure for Calculating Rent Relief for Tenants Residing in Government Flats

1. Add all Gross Income declared within the same household. Multiply by 12 and then divide by 52.2 to calculate the Gross Weekly Income per Household.
2. Subtract all applicable allowances from total.
  - (a) Married over 65 years = £64.00
  - (b) Single over 65 years = £46.00
  - (c) Married under 65 years = £57.90
  - (d) Single under 65 years = £36.80
3. When amount has been obtained multiply by 25 per cent. This amount represents the new weekly rent payable by the tenant.
4. Ultimately should the applicant declare their children on the application a further £0.60 is then deducted from the total obtained in paragraph 3.

I confirm that the Rent Relief Scheme also applies to rent controlled private sector tenants.

A total of nine tenants on rent controlled accommodation are currently in receipt of rent relief.

I confirm that a total of 112 households have had their rent relief reduced for 2002/2003, whilst a total of 145 have had their rent relief reduced in the year 2003/2004 to date.

I can confirm that a total of 109 households were on rent relief in 2002/2003, whilst 71 were on rent relief in 2003/2004 to date.

I confirm that up to 113 applications have been received for the year 2002/2003 of which 96 were approved, 13 rejected and four pending. Similarly, for 2003/2004 to date up to 81 applications have been received of which 63 were approved and 18 rejected.

The final figure of households in receipt of rent relief for 2002/2003 is 889 whilst for 2003/2004 to date there are 775.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 96 TO 103 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

In connection with the answer given by the Minister to Question No 102 of 2004 what is the criteria for rejecting or accepting the matter of rent relief?

HON J J NETTO:

The answer to that question is in relation to the answer given in Question No 96 of 2004, it depends on the household income then the formula which I have supplied is taken into account in terms of the income within that particular household, that formula is applied and that formula determines whether someone gets a full rent relief or a partial rent relief.

HON S E LINARES:

Apart from the formula is there any other criteria or is it just purely on a financial and statistical way in which the Minister has set it out.

HON J J NETTO:

Yes the hon Member is correct.

HON F R PICARDO:

It is a fully objective and mathematical criteria and formula nothing else?

HON J J NETTO:

Yes that is correct. I should also add that this is a discretionary benefit but other than that it is basically on the mathematics of it.

HON F R PICARDO:

It is discretionary but if one comes within the mathematics of it there is little chance of getting confused.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to Question No 102 can I just clarify the figures because they do not seem to add up unless there are some that are still pending. We were given 113 applicants of which 96 were approved and 13 were rejected, there are some missing there and then we were given 81 applicants of which 63 were approved and eight were rejected there is also a number missing there, are those pending consideration or...?

HON J J NETTO:

In relation as to whether they add up this is the information that has been given by my administration staff but in relation to the hon Member's second supplementary as to why they were rejected obviously it is because the mathematics did not add up but in relation to the first one these are the figures that have been given.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister clarify it for us?

HON J J NETTO:

Yes.

HON J J NETTO:

With your indulgence Mr Speaker could I very quickly go back to Question No 102 of 2003. I can confirm that it is 113 applications that have been received for the year 2002 and 2003 of which 96 were approved as stated and 13 rejected but what I have missed to point out the fact that there were four remaining pending simply because they had asked for further information which had not bring brought back to the office.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the clarification just made by the hon Member the second figure that he gave which was 81, 63 applications and eight rejected also did not add up. The total of 63 and eight rejected did not add up to 81.

HON J J NETTO:

It was 18 rejected not eight.

HOUSING – PRIVATE SECTOR

Can Government state as at the end of December 2003 how many private sector properties were rent controlled and occupied?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

Answered together with Question No 105 of 2004.

THE HON C A BRUZON

HOUSING – PRIVATE SECTOR

Can Government state as at the end of December 2003 how many private sector properties were rent controlled and un-occupied?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

The Ministry for Housing has sought to find the number of rent controlled private sector properties, both occupied and unoccupied but regrettably, this information is not available.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 104 AND 105 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

In view of that response can the Minister then tell us how they can say in their electoral manifesto that empty private properties will be available to solve the housing problem?

HON J J NETTO:

I think that is not quite correct what the GSD said in these elections what they did say was that the information that we have derived from the Associations of Landlords is that there are a number of empty flats lying empty but whether the resolution of the housing problem is one which is far more generic as to the number of empty flats in the private sector it is a combination of many factors one of which is this one but not the only one.

HON F R PICARDO:

That with respect is not what is stated in the manifesto and I have heard what the Chief Minister said before about the manifesto but just on a point of information what the manifesto says is this reform relating to the Landlords and Tenants Ordinance will release hundreds of empty private sector flats onto the affordable rental market. Will the Minister confirm in his view these reforms will release hundreds of empty private sector flats and on what basis he reaches that judgement if he does not know how many are empty?

HON J J NETTO:

I can confirm that what the Association of Private Landlords have told us is that there are hundreds of empty flats but at the same time I can tell him that the information that we are trying to seek from them is so fragmented in terms of individual landlords that they themselves do not have an asset register to be able to count scientifically the number of empty flats. So, given that I am not the landlord of the private sector I am not in their shoes to be able to determine how many private sector properties there are standing empty.

Can Government state what they consider to be the level of rent in the 'affordable rental market' in the private sector for residential use?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

The Government will announce their reforms of the Landlord and Tenant Ordinance when they are ready to do so. Affordability varies from person to person depending on wealth and income.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 106 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

I understand that the Government will make their reforms known when it is ready but will the hon Gentleman at least give us an indication in relation to properties, rental properties, what the Government consider to be affordable for the Government to provide and in the private residential market what do Government consider is an affordable level of rent.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government are implicit in the answer that Government are not willing to give that indication ahead of announcing their reforms of the Landlords and Tenants Ordinance.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Chief Minister at least give an indication of what the Government's thinking is even if he is not prepared to give a figure what it is that the Government are going to be careful to ensure that people can afford?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member can vary the formulation of the question marginally as many times as he likes, the substantive answer is the same. I do not think governments are obliged to share with Opposition parties their thought processes leading up to a policy which has not yet been announced. I think Government are entitled to do their thinking in private and when it is ready to announce its policy to announce its policy. The idea that we should debate hypothetically and in advance one strand of a policy which is under review is not something which is helpful because it simply starts all manner of speculation before it can be viewed in the context of the remainder of the regime that the reform will introduce. I do not say that that is the reason why the hon Member asks it but that might be the unintended effect of putting information in the public domain in isolation of the context in which it would actually be implemented and deployed, for example, will there be rent relief differences, what will the terms be of any tenancy at particular rents? All this is vital in assessing whether it is a reasonable or unreasonable proposition. The rent by itself can only serve as a headline.

EDINBURGH HOUSE

Can Government state how many tenants at Edinburgh House are on rent relief as at 31st December 2003?

Can Government state how many private sector flats are presently empty?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

This information is not available.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 108 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

As I understand it the answer that the Minister has given is the same answer in relation to Question No 107 and Question No 108 of 2004?

HON J J NETTO:

Correct.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is the same question.

HON F R PICARDO:

With respects it is not the same question, Question No 107 relates to rent relief and how many of the people are on rent relief at Edinburgh House and Question No 108 relates to private sector flats. Taking the Minister's earlier answer in relation to rent control private sector properties et cetera we have to accept that that information is not available that is what he told us before that no such register exists but in relation to No 107 of 2004 will the Minister not agree with me that if he has given us the figure of people on rent relief can he not just look at the addresses of all of those in receipt of it and determine the number of them who live at Edinburgh House? I would have thought it is a very easy calculation.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

He has given the answer.

HOUSING – VACANT FLATS

Can Government state how many Government housing units are vacant which have been declared void, giving a breakdown of address and room composition and the date that each of these properties became vacant and whether each of the properties is pre or post-war?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

This is a question which is difficult to answer with a full degree of accuracy due to the lack of attention given to this subject in the past. Since the GSD Government introduced additional personnel within the Ministry for Housing to conduct a Register of Government properties, we can say that there are:-

- (a) a total of 56 in the system awaiting refurbishment by either Buildings and Works or the Electricity Authority;
- (b) 80 properties requiring major extensive refurbishment;
- (c) a total of 166 properties identified for possible demolition.

I am afraid that I am not able to give the hon Member the precise details of the addresses since this could be used and targeted by squatters. With regards to room composition, internal condition surveys have not been undertaken. The information requested as to the dates when these became vacant is not available from our records. With regards to the breakdown between pre or post-war. I will make this available to him in due course, once the information has been done administratively.

Finally, there is an impression that there are supposedly many vacant Government flats. The figures above give an approximate indication as to their status. However, these figures will fluctuate continuously, as and when dwellings are processed internally through Buildings and Works and/or the Electricity Authority. In addition, that is not to say that maybe there are cases whereby some Government tenants have decided to purchase alternative accommodation elsewhere, or the fact that some tenants are housed elsewhere on social or medical grounds. The fact is that this is a complex variable to measure.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 109 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

Would the Minister consider giving the Opposition the information in confidence concerning the addresses?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

If their only concern was not to encourage squatters are they concerned that one of the seven Members or relatives might squat in one of these flats?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not know what need might any of the hon Members have to squat in due course but certainly as valued Members of this House certainly the Government will always relieve them of the need to have to resort to squatting we would not like the dignity of the Members of this parliament to be tarnished in that sort of way. The whole question of these voids which was the original question is fraught with difficulty, what the Minister for Housing meant when he said in the original answer given the little attention that has been given to this in the past it was not actually a side swipe at the immediately previous GSLP administration going back post-war administrations properties were abandoned, demolished, the concept of void properties is a financial control mechanism. When the Government's Accountants stopped rent being collected from properties where they were once collected they are declared void its income is no longer coming in but that does not mean that they are no longer available for rental they could have over the years simply ceased to exist and the appropriate entry has not been made or the appropriate information has not been communicated to the book keepers so, the real debate is how many rentable properties or how many properties subject to refurbishment or preparation for rental are still regarded as rentable by the Government and are lying there unrented due to delays in Government being able to do that. In the context of a debate on Housing that really is the statistic that we should be interested in, "How many houses which might be rented out if the Government only proceeded with their normal repair are there available lying empty?" To talk of void and things like this throws up a number which is completely meaningless in the concept of housing availability as such. Prefer not to give even confidentially the addresses. I might try to persuade the hon Member to identify those houses which are vacant which form part of the active housing stock. The houses which are in the normal system of Buildings and Works, the 56, I do not think that there can be any, he might have a different view but I will try to persuade him that there is no reason why he should not give you confidentially the addresses of the 56 because those are in the system so to speak but as far as properties requiring major extensive refurbishment where the Government might decide not to do the major refurbishment or perhaps sell them rather than repair them, or to the properties identified for possible demolition we would prefer not to hand out that information. So, if they would settle for the ones which are unquestionably still in the housing stock that we could possibly strike a bargain on that concept.

HON F R PICARDO:

Referring to the answer of Question 71 of 2003 which dealt not with voids but that is where the issue of voids first came up in the supplementary from Mr Baldachino, there the Chief Minister did refer us in relation to vacant properties not to the addresses but at least to the areas, can we have the areas at least to continue the statistic going forward as it was provided previously?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

As I said I will try and persuade the Minister to give you the addresses of the 56 at least.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

If the Chief Minister is successful can he also try and convince him to give the room composition of the 56?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes I will try my luck.

HON J J NETTO:

In relation to the 80 properties requiring major extensive refurbishment and the 160 properties identified for possible demolition generally speaking but not exclusively most of them will be in the Upper Town but not all of it.

HON S E LINARES:

Do those figures apply to the 100 that were announced before the elections to be sold on or is this separate? The Chief Minister mentioned that some might be sold but what I am saying here is do the 100 that were announced at the time, are these numbers part of that?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes.

HOUSING – SOUTH DISTRICT

Can Government state if they have any plans to provide affordable local housing in the South District and if so whether this will be for homeownership or rental?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

When and if Government had any such plans they would announce the fact at an appropriate time.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 110 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm whether they are envisaging to have any plans within the four years of this term of office?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I know that the hon Lady and Gentlemen in Opposition are determined to pretend that there has not just been a general election and therefore I suppose as a consequence of that they ignore things that are said. Government have just published a manifesto in which they have identified their housing schemes. Government have made public statements identifying the locations of its various planned housing schemes, three weeks later to ask the Government whether it has plans to build housing in sites which have not been identified in the manifesto or in any of those public statements is a somewhat curious thing which I think is a product of their failures to take account of the fact that an election has just taken place. The Government do not presently have any plans to build houses in the South District which is not to say that at some stage during the next four years the Government may develop such plans but they do not exist now even as a possible project although the Government are aware that there are several sites in the South District which lend themselves to development in several different types of way but they are not amongst those of our housing scheme plans which are sufficiently in existence to be able to say that they Government plans anything. There are no plans in that respect.

Can Government state what height restrictions apply to their proposed housing project at North Mole Road as a result of its proximity to the airfield and how many floors will the buildings have?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

Answer to Question No 111 of 2004

A total of 1,422 people have registered their interest on a ‘no commitment’ basis?

Government are not yet in a position to announce information about the sale prices of their homeownership flats to be constructed.

As previously announced publicly on several occasions the proposed housing scheme site at North Mole Road is the “Sands Site” currently used for storage of vehicles in bond.

The usual MOD airfield height restrictions apply. This has been incorporated into the design of the project, so that the number of floors varies depending on distance from the runway.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 111 TO 114 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to Question No 113 of 2004 given that the local company is a large organisation and a substantial employer in Gibraltar have the Government offered an alternative site where the storage of vehicles can now take place?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, of course, unless the hon Member thought that we would just boot them out so that the economic activity would have to come to an end I think he can safely assume that there are both short term and long term arrangements in place. The company in question is talking to the Government about a permanent development on a new site to accommodate not just their existing business but indeed some expansion plans that they have. In the immediate short term because it is inevitable that the Government will wish access to the existing site which incidentally they only hold on licence before that long term arrangement is likely to be in place the Government will lend them the space to park their vehicles in the forecourt and inside the components factory site as an immediate substitute for the Sands areas but that is only intended as interim because there are other proposals under consideration.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Chief Minister clarify when he uses the word lend he means licence in real estate terms?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister for Housing confirm when he talks about the usual restrictions on the actual floors of the buildings, can he confirm what actual floors there will be and if there are more than five if the Government intend to put lifts in all of the floors?

HON J J NETTO:

I can confirm that the MOD restrictions will apply so that will be taken into account and I can also confirm that the building will have lifts.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

But he cannot confirm at this stage how many floors the buildings will have?

HON J J NETTO:

It varies from five to eleven, five being the one nearest and eleven the one further away.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I suppose the eleven will be facing the west I am correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Facing north.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

That is the west.

HON F R PICARDO:

North is the airport, that is where the highest ones are going to be?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The lowest ones the highest ones will be the furthest from the airfield at the back by the road.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to Question No 113 of 2004 and the answer given by the Minister is it the case that this arrangement with the company has now been concluded or is this under discussion?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

A short term arrangement has been concluded, they have agreed to vacate the Sands on seven days notice and the Government have agreed to provide them with immediate alternative parking space. The long term proposal is still under discussion. They have put up a very good scheme which the Government are quite keen on and all else being possible Government would like to facilitate it, it is a good scheme.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm or perhaps he has actually made reference but I did not hear him, whether the flats will be made available on a rental basis or on a 50/50 scheme or both?

HON J J NETTO:

They will be sold they will not be on a rental basis on the Sands site. The ones on the Sands site will be for homeownership.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There is one development which occupies the whole of the sands site and as I indicated earlier in answer to a question about parking, the extreme western end of the car park just at the end of the coach park beyond the little wall, those are going to be built up too. On that site that is to say on the side across the slip road so to speak attached to the coach park, on that side there will be homes for rental to elderly people and also some homes for sale but all the houses on the sands site are for sale.

HON F R PICARDO:

But those which are for sale will be available on a 50/50 basis yes or no that is the issue?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes.

HOUSING WAITING LIST

Can Government state on how many occasions has the Housing Waiting List been published in 2003, providing the dates of each publication?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

The Housing Waiting List was published four times during the year 2003. The dates of each publication are 4th February, 6th May, 7th August and 19th December 2003.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 115 OF 2003

HON F R PICARDO:

Is there any reason why the publication does not occur with any degree of regularity, for example, at the end of each quarter?

HON J J NETTO:

No reason at all. What we try to aim is to have it published four times in the year but .....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

With some regularity, the second month of each quarter.

HON F R PICARDO:

In that case perhaps the Chief Minister is telling me that they would have been published with a total degree of regularity in the second month of each quarter except for the election in the fourth quarter of last year.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We did not want to obtain an unfair advantage by publishing the much improved housing list.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It was the opposite.

Can Government now confirm that all remedial and beautification work schemes listed by the Minister for Housing in answer to Question No 84 of 2003, had been completed at Laguna Estate by April 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

All works to Laguna Estate were officially completed on 16th May 2003.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 116 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Minister confirm that that is a slippage of almost three weeks in respect of the date which he had indicated to the House the works would be finished on, which was the end of April 2003.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

If in fact that there is a public procurement contract of this sort which has been subject to a slippage of only three weeks I wish to be the first to congratulate my hon friend.

HON F R PICARDO:

I am sure the Chief Minister will recall that that was already a slippage of some months and that the revised predicted date was April.

HON J J NETTO:

The hon Member seems to be forgetting one important factor and that is that there were additions to the contract which obviously had to be taken into account.

HON F R PICARDO:

In respect of those additions a new predicted date was given which was not met only by three weeks.

HON J J NETTO:

Should he not be quite grateful that we have done it in six weeks then?

HON F R PICARDO:

It is not for me to be grateful for anything but I just pointed out the issue?

Can Government state whether, as at 31st December 2003, there are any vacant flats at Bishop Canilla House?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

As at 31st December 2003, there were no vacant flats at Bishop Canilla House.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

May I just add to that answer so that the hon Member may not be misled, that there are no vacant flats for rental. The hon Member may be aware that one flat is being used as a social club by the tenants association and therefore is not rented out it is unoccupied by a tenant but it has been deployed for some time now for over a year now as a community area for the communal area for all the tenants.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION 117 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

The reason for my question is that when I went round Bishop Canilla before the elections to speak to the senior citizens there, I think Hon Dr Joseph Garcia accompanied me, we were told, “there is nobody living there ,” in one floor, “..there is nobody living there anymore...” the impression we got from the tenants themselves maybe they were mistaken .....

HON J J NETTO:

I can assure him that there are no vacant flats.

HON F R PICARDO:

What the hon Gentleman might like to notice is that they did not give us a party when we went to see them.

HEAD 101 - HOUSING

Can Government state how much of the amount provided in Head 101 in respect of housing has been spent in each month of the year 2003 and providing a breakdown of what projects any money has been expended?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

I can provide a breakdown of costs per project for the year ending 2003, as similarly provided in the past. The analysis of the amount spent during this period is set out in the attached schedule that I now hand to the hon Member. However, I regret not being able to provide a more detailed monthly breakdown since it is felt that this information would be considered commercially sensitive by the private sector.

The statistical information requested by the hon Member is contained in the schedule that I now hand to him.

There are currently 19 students attending courses in the School of Health Studies. The breakdown is as follows:

|                       | Start Date | End Date | Commenced | No Completed |
|-----------------------|-------------------|-----------------|------------------|---------------------|

| Enrolled Nurse | June 2003         | May 2005        | 8                | -                   |

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 132 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

As a matter of interest is it now the responsibility of the Minister of Health, the School of Health which used to be under Bleak House and under the auspices of Training and exclusively although it is conducted most of the time at Bleak House is it completely under Health and not under Training auspices?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I detect a level of confusion in the question asked by the hon Member. There are two separate things. Training is carried out at Bleak House under the auspices of the Training Department and also concurrently and but separately the School of Health provides its own training within Bleak House as well.

GHA – POST OF CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Can Government now confirm whether they have now reached a decision on the new salary for the post of Chief Executive of the Gibraltar Health Authority?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

No.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 133 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Seeing that this is as the Chief Minister accepted in Question No 261 of 2003, a matter that was long overdue, when is it that the Government intend to bring the matter to a satisfactory conclusion?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The matter is now subsumed into the review of the management structure of the Health Authority which is underway as part of the Healthcare reform programme.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can Government confirm that if and when the matter comes to a satisfactory conclusion, because in this House we are now used to the idea of Government for years saying that they are going to look into matters and then it takes them years and years to solve the problem, when it does finally come to a satisfactory conclusion whether they intend to re-advertise the post again or whether it is just a question of increasing the remuneration of the post itself?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

If I could answer that question there would have been nothing to subsume into the review. The results of the review would be known and it would just be a question of implementing action. That supplementary ignores the answer I gave the hon Lady to the previous supplementary and that is that the whole matter is subsumed into the review and the Government are still completely undecided about the future of these posts, who will occupy them and at what rate of remuneration.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Am I correct in assuming that the Government cannot give a confirmation that the present incumbent of the post will remain in the post once the decision is taken?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Correct. On the basis that the post may be redesigned, redeployed, reshaped and therefore it would not look like the past that is today for the other reason which is the one that she interpreted in the answer. All possibilities are open.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

What the Chief Minister is saying is as I have said that there is no guarantee that the present incumbent will remain in that post?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Repeating the question and repeating the answer does not enlighten the debate any further it simply wastes the time of the House. The hon Lady has had the answer to that question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Chief Minister confirm whether I am correct in that assumption?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have answered the hon Lady's question and I do not propose to answer it again.

GHA – PRESCRIPTION CHARGES

Can Government state how much extra revenue the Gibraltar Health Authority has raised for periods 12, 13, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 & 8 as a result of their policy to increase prescription charges, also updating the previous information given in answer to Question No 256 of 2003, which was incomplete?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Government do not have a policy of increasing prescription charges.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 134 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I have always, in this House, put in this exact question and what I am asking is what revenue the Government have raised as a result of their having increased prescription charges and I have always got an answer from the previous Minister for Health.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

This Minister tends to answer the questions in the Order Paper and if she has asked it in that manner before, I have seen Hansard and she has had an answer before. If she asks a question she gets an answer. If she specifies what she wants to know again I will try to answer the Question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I cannot understand the answer from the Minister I think it could not be clearer. Can Government state how much extra revenue the Gibraltar Health Authority has raised for periods and I specify the periods, as a result of their policy to increase prescription charges and I have also asked him also updating the previous information given in answer to Question No 256 of 2003 which was incomplete. So, the Minister has just said that he has looked at the previous Question No 256 of 2003, I cannot understand why he is not willing to provide that information when it has been provided before?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Lady cannot be that obtuse. It is true that on one occasion during the last Parliament, Government increased some prescription charges and reduced it for others by exempting from prescription charges some people that have previously been liable to pay them. That does not entitle the hon Lady for the next 50 years continuing to ask questions implying that Government have in the present a policy of increasing prescription charges. So, if years after the event the hon Lady is still asking how much extra revenue the Gibraltar Health Authority has raised for certain periods as a result of their policy to increase prescription charges the answer is that Government do not currently have a policy of increasing prescription charges. If the hon Lady wants to ask on the other hand how much extra revenue is Government now raising as a result of its decision 'X' years ago to raise prescription charges as against what it would now be raising for those heads had it not increased prescription charges back in that year. That would be a different question that would be entirely valid.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I think that the Chief Minister is trying to confuse the issue because as I have said I put exactly the same question which I refer to , Question No 256 of 2003, and I got the reply. If the Chief Minister is going by the fact that he wants me to rephrase the question to be 100 per cent as he says this is the usual norm of the Chief Minister. He wants me to say differently because as a result of their policy to increase the prescription charges I could have put the year in that is the only difference and the question that I have put in today is precisely the same one I have put in on more than five occasions and I again refer to updating the previous information given in answer to Question No 256 of 2003 which was incomplete. The very least that the Government could have done is to have given me the information which was incomplete to Question No 256 of 2003?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

As I have said to the hon Lady in answer to supplementaries on the last question, repeating the question does not alter the answer that she got when she asked the question three minutes earlier. If she persists in formulating the question in this way the answer that she will get is the one that she has had namely, the Government do not have a policy of increasing prescription charges, if she wants the information that it appears she wants then she has got to ask a question, formulate her question in a way which entitles and calls for that information and that is not the question that is on the Order Paper.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I see. So, now Government have changed their policy of answering this specific question is that correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Correct. The hon Lady got it at last.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will Government then provide the information as soon as possible because they must have it in hand and in any case the information that I am asking?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Lady has still not formulated the question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I am saying that if they are not willing to answer the question in this House any longer can they provide it at a later stage as soon as possible and secondly could the Chief Minister not agree with me that they could at least have provided the latter part of the information to that question?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No to the last part, but she appears having given us the glimmer of hope that she had finally grasped the point that the Government are taking a different attitude to her politically mischievous question.....

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Mischievous?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

.....yes. To continue to refer four or five or six years after the event to the Government's policy to increase prescription charges is the equivalent of my referring to the hon Lady's policy, for example, of something that they were doing nine years ago and implying that it is still their policy and a number of very graphic examples rush to the front of my mind which I am sorely resisting [INTERRUPTION] No need for the hon Members to get so nervous. So, therefore it is not a question of whether the Government are willing to provide the information not inside the House but later outside the House. Government are entirely willing to provide the information to her inside and outside the House provided she asks a question that calls for that information and the question that the hon Lady has on the Order Paper is not a question that calls for that information and the Government are no longer willing whether inside or outside the House, whether today or tomorrow to provide her as it has done in the past with information which is not called for strictly on a strict interpretation of the question. That is the Government's position the hon Lady can stand up immediately after me and repeat her question again. No one on this side of the House will rise again to answer it for her. If she really wants the information which she knows, and I am confirming to her, the Government are perfectly willing to give her, she must delete from her question the words that spoil it for her which is asking for information for fee increases raised by an alleged policy which the Government do not have as a policy and therefore the answer must necessarily be zero because if the hon Lady asks me for information about revenue raised by a policy which is not my policy how can the answer be anything other than zero. The answer must necessarily be zero.

MR SPEAKER:

One more question, one more answer.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It was never zero before and can the Chief Minister confirm to this House whether in fact Government did increase prescription charges and because this is the only supplementary that Mr Speaker is allowing me, can the Chief Minister also confirm whether the very least that he could have done was to have updated the information that was incomplete to Question No 256 of 2003?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Both of those questions have been answered at least twice each in the last ten minutes. I started my answer to her last supplementary by saying "No" to the last bit. The last bit having been whether at least he could not provide the answer that was not incomplete and secondly of course it is implicit in all of the answers that I have given to the hon Lady that the Government on one occasion increased prescription charges several years ago. So, why must she now stand up to ask me, "Is the Government at least willing to admit that it increased prescription charges?" she has had the answer to that question. Of course the Government increased prescription charges in 1990 or whenever it was.

GHA – ELDERLY CARE PATIENTS

Can Government state during the months of March, April, May, June, July, August, September, October, November and December of 2003, of the beds occupied by elderly persons who have been formally discharged, but refused to leave, how many fell into each of the three categories identified by Government:

- (1) Elderly persons living alone;
- (2) Elderly persons needing support;
- (3) Others able to be looked after?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The Government remain willing to provide to the Opposition detailed information of this sort which is unprecedented in Gibraltar before 1996. However, given the intense administrative burden of preparing this information within five days, I will forward this information in writing to the hon Member within 10 days.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 136 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I am really flabbergasted. Was it not the Chief Minister's decision to call a meeting of the House and have we not had more time on this occasion for Government or exactly the same time which is five days and on previous occasions again I have been given the information that I have sought. Why on this occasion are Government not willing to provide information which they have provided before given the same number of days that they have been given previously to answer? Can the Minister at least confirm that he has a knowledge that there are the same number of elderly long stay patients at St Bernard's as there were the last time that I asked this same question?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I will forward the information in writing to the hon Lady within 10 days.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Why does the Minister then make public statements to the effect that there are so many patients in the hospital that should not be there, that there are so many numbers of elderly patients blocking beds if he has not got the figures?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

For the third time, the answer to the question is that the information will be made available within 10 days.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

But the Minister has not answered my question and he will not. Is he embarrassed to give the information?

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA- SHORTAGES OF BEDS

Can Government confirm whether there still continues to be shortages of beds at St Bernard's Hospital?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The situation varies from time to time, but shortages are always the result of blockage of acute beds by elderly people whose medical condition does not require their hospitalisation. Without this problem there would never be a bed shortage at St Bernard's Hospital.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 137 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Again I find that to be an extraordinary explanation of the sequence of events that have occurred in this House of Assembly regarding the shortages of beds at St Bernard's with this Government, not with the GSLP, with this Government, can the Minister not confirm that the problems of the shortages of beds were created by the Government for the simple reason that we warned them as far back as 1999 that they were making a huge error in doing away with the original Lewis Stagnetto Ward, can the Minister confirm that or is it the Chief Minister that is going to reply for him?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Neither the Minister nor the Chief Minister can confirm that because it is not true. However, we do recognise the hon Lady's scratched record on this issue, we do recognise that she appears to have nothing to say politically except that and that since we cannot stop her repeating the same line day in day out, then the hon Lady will repeat the same thing day in day out. Her repetition does not render it any more true now than it was when the hon Lady first uttered it and the answer to the question is that Government do not agree with her.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

If the Chief Minister cares to look into the records of Hansard which I do not think he does, will he not accept that I asked a question, Question No 6 of 1999 to the then Hon Keith Azopardi and I said, “Can the Minister confirm whether the kitchen will in fact be staying in what used to be the old Lewis Stagnetto Ward?” and his answer was, “The current plan revolves around that scenario.” Can the Chief Minister not understand that he is not giving this House the correct information when the Chief Minister says, “No,” because the old Lewis Stagnetto Ward was in fact a ward until this Government came into power and then they decided to house the kitchen there. May I say that when the GSLP were just about to enter into an election campaign in 1996 the GSLP had already expended £150,000 in refurbishing the original kitchen and the kitchen was housed in the old Lewis Stagnetto Ward as a decanting measure. How can he now tell this House of Assembly that what I am saying is not correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

What the hon Lady is saying is not correct. The hon Lady is saying that the current bed shortage in St Bernard's Hospital is due to the fact that the Lewis Stagnetto Ward was not returned to ward status whilst their refurbishment of the kitchen would have taken place. Those facts that the kitchen has moved are incontrovertible facts. The kitchen has been moved it was in one place and now it is in another which is in Lewis Stagnetto Ward what I do not agree with, which is what I said I did not agree with is the hon Lady's argument that that is the reason why there is a bed shortage at St Bernard's Hospital as opposed to the explanation that the Government offers which is that beds are being blocked by a record number of elderly people blocking beds many more than used to be the case in her time and there are sociological reasons that Government understand and accept and that is why it is doing something about providing residential facilities for the elderly. Government do not accept that the reason for the bed blockage is the kitchen business. No it does not because the hon Lady who says that the bed blocking has been created by the GSD Government and it did not happen when she was the Minister then the hon Lady has got to explain why there were no bed shortages whilst she was refurbishing wards, reducing the number of beds if the reason for the bed shortage now is the fact that the kitchen has not been returned to its original place. Put another way the number of beds that there are in St Bernard's Hospital that are operational is a figure around 164 is actually more or less in fact I think it is one or two more than the number of beds that were available to the hon Lady through most of her term of office because of her ward refurbishment programme. Never mind whether the beds were in one ward or in another ward. Whilst the hon Lady was in office, for most of the time that she was in office the number of beds available to the hon Lady are the number of beds that there are available today and if there was not a problem of bed shortage then but there is a number of bed shortage now it cannot be as a matter of mathematical obvious logic it cannot be by reason of the kitchen. It can only be by reference to some other reason which has expanded in size and it is as everybody in Gibraltar accepts and understands hospital administration, medical staff, everybody except her understands and accepts that the reason is a massively increased number of beds being occupied for want of alternative facilities by people who are not ill in the acute sense requiring to occupy a hospital bed but simply old and who either cannot look after themselves at home and stay in a hospital as a residential home, which is not what hospitals are for or in some cases whose family just do not want to take them back and refuse to take them back from hospital after they are medically discharged. Everybody knows that that is the reason except the hon Lady and therefore for all the reasons that I have just explained the Government have no matter how many times she may want to repeat the yarn the Government have never accepted or agreed with her distorted and analysis and explanation of the problem, does not agree with her distorted analysis of the problem and will never agree with her distorted analysis of the problem or the reasons for it however many times she may repeat it because it is simply not true. It is obviously calculated to serve the hon Lady's political purposes which I accept she has done to great effect and with great skill but nevertheless to serve the hon Lady's political purpose of seeking to find a reason for this problem which is not the real reason but which smacks more of Government fault than the real reason which is the bed blockage problem by elderly people which is the real problem whether the hon Lady wishes to accept it or not.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I think that the Chief Minister's contribution is 100 per cent politically motivated. He has said so many things. Let me take, for example, the statement that he has made about the number of beds that were available when we were in Government. When the GSLP was using the old Lewis Stagnetto Ward we were using it as a decanting ward and we would have actually put the kitchen back to where it was and we would have had an extra ward in the hospital and we would then have gone back to the 182 beds so what the Chief Minister is saying is nonsense. Secondly, when the Chief Minister tries to blame the elderly I have asked time and time again in this House for the Government to actually give me the numbers of the people in the hospital who are the elderly people that they claim are blocking beds. What answers do I get? I get in March 1999 – 56, in November, December January 2002 – 55, in April, May, June, July, August, September, October 2002 I get 54, 42, 44, 38, and 40 and then in February 2003 I get the figure 42, 44, 40, 46 and 46 so the figure is actually decreasing. Now, only minutes ago I have asked Government for the same information and they have denied me that information.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The real reason why we find ourselves in a problem which incidentally is about to be resolved through the Government's enlightened policy of building a much larger and new hospital and in parallel with that significantly increasing the capacity of Mount Alvernia but the real reason and I referred earlier to sociological reasons which the Government understands and has to grapple with is that instead of whilst they were in office having the foresight to understand that as more people in Gibraltar were buying homes, as more people in Gibraltar therefore both husband and wife had to work and therefore would be less able to look after their elderly people and that elderly people were living longer and longer because they failed to foresee that, they invested not a single penny in the eight years that they were in office in increasing the capacity the number of beds available in Gibraltar in residential homes and it is a matter of straightforward mathematical calculation.....

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will the Chief Minister give way?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No I will not give way until I finish making the point. It is a matter of straightforward mathematical calculation.....

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It is a shameful reply.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Elderly people are living longer therefore the proportion of elderly people in our community is bigger than it used to be therefore if in the eight years that they were in Office they failed to increase the number of beds even if there was no increase in the percentage demand for residential home beds it only requires a 10 year olds mathematical skills to work out that the number of beds in elderly people's residential homes would be outstripped by the demand for residential homes. That is the point because the GSLP failed to invest in this area of social need in which the Government are now investing to increase not only substantially the capacity of Mount Alvernia but with a manifesto commitment at these last elections which they did not have to build or to establish a second elderly people's home over and above Mount Alvernia. Those are the problems or why if the hon Member thinks that the problem of bed shortage is not related or caused by the bed blocking problem by elderly people who are not ill and who simply need residential care why does the hon Lady think that we are spending millions of pounds in increasing the capacity of Mount Alvernia what does she think we will use them for if there is no demand that needs to be transferred, does the hon Lady think that we are doing it for fun? Why does she think that we have taken on board a commitment to build a second elderly care residential home if there is no need for it because beds are not being blocked by elderly people in need of these homes? Both of these things would have to be aberrations on the part of the Government before her denial as to the real reasons of the bed blockage being elderly people blocking beds in hospital before her denial of that could begin to be true and that is the reality of the matter. The idea, even by her own [INTERRUPTION] there is no time limit, I know that the hon Lady is anxious for me to finish because she does not like her distortion of the reasons for this problem to be addressed and shot out of the water which is what they deserve to do and this is not Government saying that this is not a problem. This is the Government saying there is a problem but the cause of the problem is not the one that the hon Lady repeatedly asserts or her stubborn refusal to recognise that the real cause of this problem is bed blocking in St Bernard's Hospital is wholly unrealistic compared to the realities on the ground. Even if the hon Lady, she says that the number of beds being blocked is falling and she says that it is falling now to 30, if those 30 people were not there it does not matter whether the figure is 50, 60, 40, 30 or 25 there are only four people waiting in the Accident and Emergency Ward to be hospitalised on the day in question. So, suffice for there to be only four beds being blocked by elderly people for that to be the cause of the problem because even if there were only 20 beds being blocked and she accepts that there are 30 if those 30 [INTERRUPTION] if she accepts that the figure 30 that we have given the hon Lady demonstrates that the figures are falling she is accepting the figure albeit alleging that they are falling but she is accepting the figure.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Point of order. The Hon Minister for Health has not provided me the figures.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

On this occasion. The Minister for Social Services did give these statistics on bed blockage the hon Lady may not have been in the House to hear it yesterday or the day before. The only point that I am trying to make is that even if there are only 15 people in the hospital and it is much more than that, but even if there were only 15 beds occupied by elderly people who are simply old but not ill then there would never be a bed problem in Gibraltar because there have never been more than 15 people queuing up waiting for a bed. Does she not see that that must be so?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I cannot see that that must be so because we are talking about a situation where, when we were in Government we had more elderly patients in St Bernard's than what there are now and if I were to remind this House that the Chief Minister started off in his budget speech of 2001 when we had already identified that there were bed shortages in St Bernard's by saying, "...there is no acute shortages of beds..." like they always do. They start by denying that there is a problem, then they blame other people of the problem and then can the Government not recognise that they have been eight years in Government in which to solve the problem and what are they saying now after the eight years? Like the Hon Mr Britto said in his interview that he expected the problem to be solved at the end of the year

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The problem has been solved now.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The Minister said in his interview two nights ago, I recorded it and I have it here with me, that he would stick his neck out and that the problem would be solved by the end of the year. What does he expect another nine years of inactivity from this Government?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. Government do not expect anything the sort but the problem with the hon Lady is that she cannot understand the Government's position in this or indeed anybody's position in this because she does not acknowledge the factual realities. The problem which has evolved over the years and each year has become more and more acute is that there are these elderly people living in the hospital. This is using the hospital like a hostel. That situation can only be solved in one of two ways either one boots them out and whenever anybody is discharged from the hospital who is not happy to be discharged from the hospital even if the doctors have medically discharged the person the hon Lady has a fit in public, press release after press release, the dreadful Government, the ogre Government forcing this poor elderly person out of hospital even if the doctors have discharged.....what a heartless Government. So, the real reason is beds being blocked. The hon Lady accuses the Government of taking too long to solve the problem. The only quick way of solving the problem is to vacate the beds by making people who are not ill enough to be in them go home but if the Government do that we are being terribly heartless and cruel to the elderly. The other way that the problem can be solved which takes a little bit longer is to build a bigger hospital and one expands. A much bigger hospital with many more beds. ....[INTERRUPTION] another distortion made by the hon Lady and one expands Mount Alvernia by opening the top floor. Not the convent behind where the nurses used to live, the top floor of Mount Alvernia itself that the GSLP were too stingy and too unconcerned with the interests of the elderly to be willing to fund with nurses so they were used as storerooms when with a little bit of money and a little bit of commitment they could have been used for rooms for the elderly. One can go beyond opening up the fourth floor of Mount Alvernia to converting the ex-nun's quarters behind Mount Alvernia into even more rooms for the elderly. But from the year 2001 when we started debating this where the problem was much, much smaller than it is today and not acute so my answer to that question was entirely accurate it is not bad between 2001 and 2004 it is three years and in three years to be about to open a new hospital and to be about to open a refurbished and enlarged Mount Alvernia with an extra four beds in three years I think it is very good going the hon Lady should be congratulating us not criticising us.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Let us put the record straight, we never had the problems of the shortages of beds that this Government have. Secondly, it is a shameful situation where today we have had five families ringing up our offices telling us that Government are coercing and harassing their elderly to leave the hospital. It is a shameful situation and the relatives have given us permission to actually name them. The families have said, "Name us we are happy that the people of Gibraltar know what this Government are doing to the elderly people." They have transferred them from John Ward to Lady Begg Ward where they have actually squeezed in beds, cramped them from Lathbury Barracks or perhaps from Mount Alvernia, but they have been told that they have to take the relatives home and one of them especially is a sponsored patient himself he is not even a next of kin. His name is Mr Cotrill and the relative concerned is Mr Louis Pizarrello 83 years old who is ill and is suffering from incontinence and he has been told that he has to take him home and there are other patients and I can give their names to the Chief Minister. This morning this Government have already started what they started saying in the election campaigns. In fact, they threatened the nursing staff, they have threatened the doctors and now it is a scandalous situation they are threatening the families and the relatives of those people that are in hospital that they have to leave is that not a shameful situation?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

What is a shameful situation is that the hon Lady should criticise the Government because there are not enough beds in our hospitals for people that are ill and then describe as shameful the fact the Government invite people that are medically discharged from leaving a hospital. Hospitals are for people who are ill. They are not for people who are old. For people who are old there are old people's homes. For people that are ill there are hospitals. If the people that are old but not ill occupy the hospital beds when people that are ill but not old go to the hospital there are not enough beds for them hence bed shortages because they are being occupied by people who are old but not ill and the hon Lady by her last intervention has simply confirmed the sheer political dishonesty of on the one hand accusing the Government of bed blocking and refusing to recognise that the problem is elderly people who are old but not ill blocking acute beds whilst at the same time in the same breath acknowledging that there are old people in the hospital who are not ill by reciting the name of one patient at least or five patients who if they had been asked to leave the hospital it is because the doctor has discharged them and therefore by saying that she is admitting what five minutes ago she denied namely that there are people in hospital who have been discharged by their doctors but do not leave and all that she has done far from describing the situation which is of shame to the Government simply exposed herself between one question and the next that in the previous question she was consciously denying something which she knew at the time that she was denying it to be true.

HON C A BRUZON:

I do accept the fact that the refurbishment of Mount Alvernia will help enormously. At the moment I believe there are only two floors being used by what date does the Chief Minister reckon we shall have the problem solved by the completion of the work in Mount Alvernia?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The current target date is April/May but the hon Member should know that such as the sociological developments in this area in terms genuinely of more and more elderly people happily for us all living longer and needing increasing amount of state support. There is much that the Government have been doing. There is, for example, the domiciliary care pilot scheme supporting as many people as possible to continue to stay in their own homes for as long as possible, installing lifts in Government housing estates so that elderly people can stay at home longer for more years without being imprisoned in their homes for inability to climb up and down the stairs, all of that and the expansion of Mount Alvernia in the Government's judgement will not permanently solve the problem. Mount Alvernia will eliminate the problem of the number of beds being blocked in St Bernard's Hospital today but that is not the end of the problem because there are more numbers coming up into the demand zone. That is why the Government believe that to really make a lasting impact on the problem not only do we have to do all of that but there is also now a need for a second home which will almost double beyond the extended Mount Alvernia the number of beds available, double the capacity in the whole of Gibraltar. Then I think we will have made the sort of impact that the hon Member was hoping for in his question.

NO. 138 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA NUMBER OF HOUSE CALLS

Can Government state how many house-calls were attended to by Health Centre Doctors from 1st March 2003 to end of December 2003 specifying each month?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The information requested by the hon Member is contained in the schedule which I now hand to her.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 138 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm whether these figures proves that the figures are static, decreasing or increasing?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The hon Lady has asked me for the figures from March to December which I have provided. If she wants comparative figures the hon Lady can ask for those and then work out for herself what the comparisons are. I do not have the comparative figures with me.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I do not want the comparative figures I thought the Minister would express an interest in knowing what the totals are for all these months.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The figures are shown on a month by month basis. The hon Lady asked whether they were increasing, static, or decreasing and I have said that those are the figures on a monthly basis and if she wants to know whether they are decreasing, increasing or otherwise then the hon lady should ask for figures for other means?

NO. 139 OF 2004*THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO*GHA - ELECTIVE OPERATIONS

Can Government confirm how many routine operations were cancelled at St Bernard's hospital due to the non-availability of beds for March, April, May, June, July, August, September, October, November and December of 2003, giving a breakdown for each month?

ANSWER*THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Elective operations cancelled due to non-availability of beds from March to December 2003 are as follows:

|              |          |           |

| June         | -        | 0         |
| July         | -        | 0         |

| December     | -        | 0         |
| Total | - | 18 |

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 139 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will Government not agree that the statistics show in the report that one of the reasons, 20 per cent, of operations have been cancelled because beds are not available?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not have percentages at hand it still has to be calculated what the figures show is that in this hospital which the hon Lady says that is so chaotic and dreadful and so much inflicted by acute bed shortage, in 10 months 18 operations have had to be cancelled as a result of the non-availability of beds. If we were to take part in the contest that happens in England on this front, I think we would have come top of the league every year with a record as good as this one.

HON F R PICARDO:

I am very concerned that this question raises the same issue that was raised in relation to Question No 137 of 2004 which is a very serious issue and think that on both sides of the House there is unanimity in the view that if there is one bed that is not available for somebody who needs it we should all be very concerned about it and we might disagree about the way that we resolve the problem but I do not think that we go anywhere near the problem by accusing each other of being obtuse or of not having the ability of a 10 year old child to count. I do not think that that advances the debate one jot. I will unfortunately have to adopt exactly the same attitude with the Minister for Health because it appears to me that even on their own figures their arguments do not work. As I understand it the number of beds available in St Bernard's is 177. the number that would have been available if the Lewis Stagnetto Ward had not remained permanently as kitchen would have been 192. The Chief Minister has told us that on the worst day the biggest call for beds is 15 doing the simple mathematics of a 10 year old boy....the Chief Minister said that the greatest pressure for beds was 15. Mr Speaker, 167 plus 15 is 183 therefore without being obtuse it is very clear that if the programme of refurbishment had been seen to a conclusion by the GSD administration 192 beds would have been available instead of 167 and therefore the four people who needed beds today would have had them and there would have been beds to spare and that gives the lie to all the arguments put by the Chief Minister and I use the word lie because the Chief Minister has not hesitated to call the Opposition dishonest and accuse us of lying.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The hon Member, new as he is, should learn to get all his facts and get these right before starting to pontificate.

HON F R PICARDO:

As should the Minister.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I have not given the hon Member any facts yet and any that I have given have been correct. The figures that have been given by the hon Member are wrong. When the GSLP came into government in 1988 there were 192 beds in the hospital. Whenever she exposes this argument the hon Lady very conveniently forgets that they lost 12 beds due to the refurbishment that the GSLP carried out. A total of 12 beds were lost in the redesign of the wards and this is not me saying it it is the hospital records. [INTERRUPTION] the hon Lady lost beds when she redesigned the wards and put in partitions with an end result of a loss of 12 beds. The hon Lady may not be aware but that is what the records show and added to that, maybe she should make notes, instead of shaking her head so as not to make erroneous mistakes as she made on television recently when she said, "When I was in power I had 192 beds," she did not have 192 beds she inherited 192 beds when she started, she lost 12 through the refurbishment which was a perfectly good thing because it improved the wards but she lost a further 17 when Private Ward was closed down as part of the refurbishment and was not used. The net result was that when the hon Lady left the figure had been reduced to about 163 to 165 I have been unable to get the exact figure but let us leave it at around 165, when the GSD started, and if one takes into account and this is where it starts to get difficult to show on my feet, in Lewis Stagnetto Ward there were 13 beds and in the Private Corridor there were 17, the GSD Government put people who were in Lewis Stagnetto Ward into Private Corridor so we increased by four because there were 13 when in Lewis Stagnetto and we put them in Private Corridor which was 17 so we increased by four. If we had as the hon Lady is so fond of saying not put the kitchen into Lewis Stagnetto we would have recouped another 13 beds. Today we have put in another eight beds into the hospital so between the eight that have been put in today and the four we gained in between Lewis Stagnetto and Private Corridor it is an increase of 12 so today as I speak on my feet there are the same number of beds in the hospital minus one as if there would have been if we had not put the kitchen into Lewis Stagnetto Ward. So, all her arguments that there are fewer beds are wrong that today there are as many beds as if we had not put the kitchen in and when the hon Members make claims that the new hospital only has an extra 10 beds again they are wrong.

HON S E LINARES:

Rubbish.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I beg your pardon?

HON S E LINARES:

The refurbished office block.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The hon Members can make all the stupid comments they like. They have not seen the new hospital. When they see it they will eat their words. A new hospital has been built at a considerable cost. The outer shell of the building may be the same when they go in and see what there is in there they will come into this House and if they have any degree of sense or any degree of shame they will apologise for the stupidity of the comments that they make and have made during their election campaign[INTERRUPTION] This is Question Time Mr Speaker and the hon Member should sit down and keep quiet and learn to obey the Standing Orders.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

For the record, when GSLP came into Government we started to refurbish wards and we used Private Corridor for decanting purposes even with the number of beds that we had for the eight years which is about the same that the hon Member says they have now we never ever had shortages of beds. Never, ever, ever had them but what I am saying is that what I did was tell the Minister at the time that if he would have taken heed of our warnings and he did in fact accept that Lewis Stagnetto Ward patients should remain in Private Corridor if he would not have actually put the kitchen in the old Lewis Stagnetto Ward he would have had more beds. That is all that I am saying but Government must understand that with the same number of beds, with the same number of elderly patients, never, ever, in the eight years of a GSLP Government did we have the problems that they have now today.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We understand that and we have acknowledged that the problem is getting worse not because this Government are any less competent than the hon Lady's but because the sociological problem has got worse over the years and perhaps some light is finally being shed on the debate because the hon Lady appears now to be accepting the mathematics and saying, "Well, whatever the mathematics what I am saying to the Chief Minister is that in our time we did not have the bed shortages that they have got now." Correct. The question is not whether the bed shortage now is not bigger than it was before, of course the bed shortage problem is bigger than it was before what is in dispute between us the reason why that is so and if I could just say something to the hon Member sitting next to her and ignoring all his slanderous breaches of parliamentary tradition and rules and discipline and his apparent inability to remember that this is not a barrack room and that he is not supposed to be a barrack room lawyer, ignoring all of that when he says that if there were now 196 beds which is what he said there would now be enough available space he is failing to understand one fact, because the problem genuinely is the one that we are saying it is. If there were 196 beds they would have been filled up by elderly people because the demand exists for accommodation for elderly people and whether one had 167 beds or 196 beds we would still have the same problem today because those extra 30 odd beds would simply have been filled by an extra 30 people needing accommodation. That is what the hon Member does not understand. The problem is as we have been describing and until the source of the problem is tackled which is the fact that this community desperately needs more accommodation for elderly people who either can no longer look after themselves at home or whose families cannot look after them both of which categories are increasing in amounts and in numbers, until that core problem cause is addressed it does not matter how many beds one puts in the hospital there will still be full occupancy and therefore there will still be shortages. In one, two three or five days of the year such as happened the other day when there were four people in Casualty, by the way undesirable as that is and deeply regrettable as that is. In England it happens every day of the year in almost every hospital one cares to mention. All I am trying to say is that these problems have to be kept into perspective. The fact that things happen occasionally in my opinion much more regrettable though the hon Members have not mentioned it today, as far as I am concerned that four people had to wait overnight in the Accident and Emergency Ward waiting for a bed is the need to have to mix the wards with sexes. The Opposition have not mentioned that today and it is symptomatic of the same problem.

MR SPEAKER:

No more questions.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

One more please.

MR SPEAKER:

No that was the end.

MR SPEAKER:

In the last House I gave a ruling that was that there would only be two supplementaries to each question plus one from the Leader of the party and I suspended it later. I am now breaking the suspension, the rule now applies and I do not want to make another rule about cutting short the replies. Two supplementaries plus one from the leader.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

With respect, can I ask why Mr Speaker has chosen to introduce the ruling?

MR SPEAKER:

Has the hon Member not been here all the time?

HON DR J J GARCIA:

I have and the problem has not been the number of supplementaries but the length of the answers.

MR SPEAKER:

Question and Answers are not debates. Question and Answers is information not debates.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

With respect Mr Speaker the problem has been the length of the answers not the number of supplementaries that we have been asking.

MR SPEAKER:

If there is a problem with that I will also cut the length of the answer if necessary.
Carry on.

NO. 140 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – LAMBETH PRIMARY CARE TRUST

Can the Minister for Health now confirm what in answer to Question No 225 of 2003, his predecessor said that Lambeth Primary Care Trust, together with the GHA, are looking at simplifying the payments for our sponsored patient treatments in the UK, which will result in a sum of money rather than the number of people?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

This matter is currently the subject of discussion with the UK Department of Health.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 140 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

In the meeting of the House of Assembly of March 2003, his predecessor said that they were quite excited at the prospect of moving from quota patients 120 to 150 even though originally his predecessor the Hon Keith Azopardi had said that they were hoping to get to the figure of 200. The hon Member said, “..the next year we will probably go above 150 which again is good news for exchequer the idea too is also that they would have to get the relevant information and put it together in some sort of calculation but then the end result will be a sum of money rather than the number of people per quota.” Does that mean that the sum of money will do away with the quota system?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes, implicit in the question is that there will be a sum of money and there will not be a figure or quota in digital terms.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So, now there is no question of actually being happy or having exultations about the number of patients that are going over as regards the quota patients which means that if, for example, there were 500 quota patients last year and 1,000 the following year the figure will be the same is that correct?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Instead of getting excited about the figure of patients jumping from 10 to 12 we are going to get excited about the figure of pounds jumping from 10 to 12.

MR SPEAKER:

Now from the Leader. The Leader is entitled to ask a question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

But the Leader is not here.

MR SPEAKER:

Whoever is the Leader.

HON F R PICARDO:

The Leader of the Opposition is Joe Bossano, he remains in Gibraltar, he is not present in the Chamber.

MR SPEAKER:

No. The hon Members do not want to ask another supplementary?

HON F R PICARDO:

The Leader is not here.

MR SPEAKER:

Well....

HON DR J J GARCIA:

With respect, the problem is that we feel that this ruling is curtailing our role as an Opposition to conduct our job and hold the Government to account on behalf of the people.

MR SPEAKER:

Yes, you have an opportunity to ask another question.

HON F R PICARDO:

I would have thought that the person to continue making the question is the Member in Opposition responsible for this area of public policy which happens to be the Hon Miss Marie Montegriffo.

MR SPEAKER:

The hon Lady has had two questions.

HON F R PICARDO:

Yes but she should be entitled to continue asking questions.

MR SPEAKER:

I will not argue if the hon Members do not want to ask another supplementary we go to the next question.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can we request a recess?

MR SPEAKER:

The hon Members can but I am not giving it.

NO. 141 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – SPONSORED PATIENTS

Can Government state how many patients have been given a choice of being treated in Spain as opposed to the UK, as sponsored patients, and have elected to go to Spain since 1st March 2003 to end of December 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

All patients are given the choice to be treated either in Spain or in the UK at the time of referral whenever this is considered appropriate by the referring consultant. A total of 217 patients have elected to go to Spain during the period of 1st March to the end of December 2003.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 141 OF 2003

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

When we are talking about treatment in Spain are we also talking about consultants in Gibraltar referring patients to Spain for surgical interventions?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

We are talking about all referrals.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm that the allowance afforded to these patients is calculated on the same basis that it is for those patients that are sent to the UK?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes the subsistence is calculated on the same basis and principles, the travel allowance obviously is different.

HON S E LINARES

Is the travelling allowance the same as if they went to Cadiz or to Seville?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes. The travel allowance is based on petrol and mileage so the destination does not matter it is based on the cost of petrol and the distance travelled. The subsistence like when travelling to UK is based on stay and number of nights. In order to be helpful I suggest that the hon Lady writes to me and I will send her a copy of the sponsored patients conditions and she will see all the information for herself.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I will, except that I have already written to him about four or five weeks ago and I still have not received replies to any of the letters that I have written to him. I hope I get an answer quickly to all of them and to the one that I will intend to write to the Minister.

GHA – MALAGA CLINIC

Can the Minister for Health state how much money was spent by the Gibraltar Health Authority with regard to patients being sent to the Malaga Clinic for scans in March, April, May, June, July, August, September, October, November and December of 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The cost to the Gibraltar Health Authority in respect of patients sent to the Malaga Clinic for scans for the period in question was £1,613.50

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 142 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm that once the CT Scans are operational in the Europort Building whether the patients to Malaga and to Algeciras will no longer be required to be sponsored there?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No, the Minister cannot confirm that because most of the patients that go to Malaga go for MRI Scans and these will continue to be necessary.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I was referring to the Algeciras Clinic as well.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

As the hon Lady knows there are different types of scans. Those that go to Malaga are normally CT Scans which is what is going to be done in Gibraltar. It is not possible to give a generic categoric answer to the hon Lady's question, what is true is that by far the majority of patients who need scans will be treated in Gibraltar.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Coming to the conclusion that this is the first time that I have been here in this House for 20 years that there is a Minister answering questions having the Chief Executive or the Head of the Department behind him.

Can Government state what was the number of sponsored patients treated in the UK from 1st March 2003 to the end of December 2003, with the fees being met by the Gibraltar Health Authority and the cost of such fees?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

In reference to this question which is purely statistical I would like to put on record that I have offered the hon Lady before this House took place, about two weeks ago and before the meeting of the House was announced, the possibility of requesting this information in writing to be provided on a regular basis and I have offered not this one in particular but all statistical information to be asked of the Minister in writing and I have undertaken if it is asked to provide it at appropriate intervals monthly, quarterly, or six monthly. I say this because the hon Lady has the habit of inserting political points in her question.

MR SPEAKER:

Yes quite right. What is wrong with that?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

If Mr Speaker feels that the rule that says that one is not allowed to make political points is right then fine.

MR SPEAKER:

What rule?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Is there not a rule that says that one cannot make political points and cannot make statements in the preamble to a question?

MR SPEAKER:

No, you are inventing it.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I must read the Standing Orders again. Okay. I make the point that that offer has been made and that it is there to be taken or not taken. I in turn was available about four weeks ago and I am also waiting for the hon Lady to give me a reply. The statistical information requested is contained in the schedule which I hand over to the hon Member.

143. The total number of patient referrals to the UK for the period 1st March 2003 to the end of December, 2003 was 946.
144. The UK Department of Health has submitted provisional global figures for the year but we do not as yet have individualised details of costs.
145. The UK Department of Health has provided figures for the full year and this is set out in answer to Question No 146 of 2004.
146. The total number of quota patients and latest available related costs made available by the UK Department of Health for the years in question are as follows:

|           |     |          |
|-----------|-----|----------|
| 2002/2003 | 150 | £330,000 |

Please note that the amounts quoted are provisional and have been rounded by the DoH to the nearest thousand.

147. The number of sponsored patients treated in the UK from 1st March 2003 to the end of December 2003, with fees being met by the Gibraltar Health Authority was 456. the provisional figure of fees recorded to date is £975,000.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 147 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The figure in answer to Question No 143 of 2004, the total number of patient referrals to the UK for the months of March to December, is it 946 because if so the number has increased dramatically?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes, Question No 143 of 2004 asks for patient referrals not to patients and as the hon Lady should know patient referrals are the total number of visits made by patients and therefore not the number of patients.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I understand that the number of patients is different to the number referrals and every time that I put a question in the House I do it because I am going by the notorious formula that we are all in agreement of because this formula takes years for us and I suppose the Government to be able to identify what are the costs involved and I would take this opportunity to tell the Minister whether Government are in fact looking at the possibility of changing this formula. The previous Minister for Health has called it the notorious formula and a formula that takes so long for everybody involved to be able to identify what the actual figures are?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The formula is very easy as long as one knows the values of A, B, C, D, E and F. All one does is multiply A by B add C subtract D and E and divide by F, simple.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It is not a question for the Minister to say that A and F and D and everything else is simple. What I have said is that his predecessor has called it the notorious formula because it takes years for everyone concerned in order to be able to identify the actual figures involved.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does the Minister not realise that when we had this meeting that he has actually made reference to now, would he not accept that there is an attempt from the Chief Minister with the Leader of the Opposition to talk about the procedures of the House and that is the answer that I gave him and if I prefer to ask him questions in this House about a formula am I not entitled to?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am not sure I understand what the question is. If it is whether she is entitled to ask questions about the formula then the answer is yes.

Do Government agree with the comments made in the first phase of the report of September 2003, by the Gibraltar Health Care Development Team that there will be an increase in demand for Health Services for the Elderly?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

During last year, the Gibraltar Government commissioned the UK Clinical Governance Support Team to undertake an extensive assessment of healthcare services. The work has been divided into two phases. Phase I the diagnostic stage, was a process of investigation, assessment and identification of deficiencies. This phase was completed and the Diagnostic Phase Report was received by the Government last September and its contents published extensively.

This very much needed external assessment of our Health Service is not based on, or concerned with “blame”. It is an objective assessment of Gibraltar’s Health Service, how we should and could improve and develop it on a very broad range of fronts. Indeed, the vast majority of Management, Staff and the general public have welcomed it and have enthusiastically co-operated with it.

Indeed, the Review Team themselves say this in their report. “This has been a comprehensive review and are thought to cover all aspects of healthcare in Gibraltar. The work acknowledges that improvements have and are still being made and also does not seek to “blame” - but to focus on finding ways to improve.”

In September last year, the Government agreed to embark on the second phase of the work programme, the detailed recommendations and implementation stage, and asked the Healthcare Development Team to undertake a wide range of work to develop recommendations for improving the Health Service. Since then, work has been on-going in many areas and large numbers of staff are involved in developing the work streams that will produce the final recommendations.

The Clinical Governance Board Team will submit to Government such recommendations individually or in batches as and when they are ready.

Government will consider each of these recommendations reports when submitted and, if accepted, will ensure that the Gibraltar Health Authority implements them. In this way, recommendations will be made, accepted and implemented progressively and continuously over a period of months. The process of consultation with Management and Staff will continue throughout and will form an integral part of the decision-making process in respect of the design and implementation of any changes made necessary by these recommendations.

Government's intense programme for the radical improvement and modernisation of the Health Service will become apparent as and when remedial actions are taken by Government. However, I am entirely confident that, for all that needs to be done, the Consultants have found our Health Service in much better shape than they would have done between 1988 to 1996 when the Hon Miss Montegriffo was responsible for it but she did not have the courage to have it medically and professionally audited.

In the context of the process that I have outlined above, the Government considers that it would be inappropriate at this stage to enter into a detailed public discussion and analysis of the contents of the First Phase Report.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 148 TO 175

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

How can the Minister say that he is not prepared to enter into a debate when I have asked him all these questions on a report that has been made public and paid for by the Government? How can he have the cheek, the audacity to say that the problems that are now here today are far less than when I was in Government? That is absolute nonsense that is not correct but if Mr Speaker has given a ruling that I am only allowed to ask two questions.....

MR SPEAKER:

You have 78.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister say what are the recommendations if any that have been implemented since the report was made public?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

As we embark on our 78 supplementary questions which we much look forward to hearing and answering I think that it is important to bear two things in mind. First of all to understand the nature of the answer that the hon Lady has had which is that the report is divided into two stages diagnostic, which does not include any action recommendations and then implementation recommendations which the Government do not yet have and which as the government receives them will consider them, if accept implement and if it does not accept not implement and therefore those of the diagnostic alleged defects that the Government accepts from the phase I report will become apparent by whether or not the Government takes remedial action to implement them. That is what the answer says as opposed to now debating the relative merits or demerits of each individual recommendation when the Government's position as to whether they are a recommendation that will be acted upon depends on implementation remedies which the Government have not yet received and therefore cannot decide whether given what it takes to fix it the Government accepts or does not accept the recommendation. It is not a question of unwillingness to debate it is a question of a fact that a debate is entirely premature because there is not yet before the Government any recommendation as to what to do and therefore the Government cannot decide. I just wanted to make sure that the hon Lady had understood the nature of the answer. Secondly, although it in no way affects the hon Lady's rights to ask questions in this House I am glad that the hon Lady has managed to find 28 things of interest to her in a report the very existence of which she disapproves of because she has publicly chastised the Government for wasting money in bringing the Consultants to Gibraltar in the first place to conduct this report at all because she believes that the solution to Gibraltar's problem in health does not require experts, does not require reports, it just requires a competent GSP Health Minister. Nevertheless, notwithstanding all of those things she has found 28 things of sufficient interest to her in the report is something which I warmly welcome and in 15 seconds finally although it is not for me to rule on Standing Orders it is for us all in this House to be aware of Standing Orders and there is a Standing Order 6 (17) (VII) which says, "..a question shall not ask for an expression of opinion and in asking the Government whether it agrees with this or agrees with that...," which is how all 28 questions start, the hon Lady is asking the Government to express an opinion on each of those items. The Question is on the Order Paper because it is the Speaker that must make a ruling as to the admissibility of the Questions and as they are on the Order Paper the Hon Mr Speaker at least by implication rendered it admissible and that is fine as far as the Government are concerned but this is not a refusal to debate. This to the extent that it asks for the expression of 28 opinions on 28 different issues is not what Question Time is for. What the hon Lady should do and now I sit is to move a motion on the Question of the Healthcare Report and then we shall see if we can debate it.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I do not know whether the Standing Orders apply just to the Opposition because it seems that they are all about the constraints of the Opposition without any comparative constraints on the answering party. We have had a lengthy speech which had nothing to do with the supplementary totally irrelevant giving us unsolicited opinions on everything under the sun but it seems we cannot seek opinions but we can receive them. All I have to say to the Chief Minister is, is he telling us that if somebody says in a report, we have looked at the Health Service and we think the building is about to collapse and we say do Government agree with the finding that the building is about to collapse? We cannot ask that because that is an opinion. If I say to the Chief Minister if he thinks that the Input/Output Study is going to be useful that is an opinion so we cannot ask that. By the time the Chief Minister has told us what we can ask and Mr Speaker has told us what we can put in supplementaries we might as well close this place down and go home.

Can the Chief Minister explain to us why it is that they are not able to decide whether they agree with the judgement expressed in the diagnostic phase over a particular issue until the possible correction of that defect has been identified and then decided whether they will apply the cure or they will not apply the cure given that we are talking about medical services I would have thought that if somebody says that someone is suffering from a certain illness it is perfectly legitimate to ask the Government if they agree that this is the illness affecting the Health Service and the answer we have had is, first of all, we are not entitled to ask whether they agree that that is an illness affecting the Health Service because that is requiring to us to express an opinion and we are not entitled to express an opinion and secondly even if they could express a view on whether they agree with that assessment their position is that until they know what the cure for the illness is and they have decided as a matter of Government policy whether they are going to apply they cannot tell us whether they agree that the illness exists. If the Minister for Medical Services has that approach to diagnosis and cures then I do not think it augurs well for his input into the improvement that the Health Service requires. If they do not want to express a view on whether they agree with the 27 things that have been identified by the Health Care team that they have put, fine, the fact that we have come here to ask them whether they agree does not mean that we support the appointment of the team, the spending of the money, or the alleged things that have been identified but since it is the Government that has taken the policy to go down this route, the Government that have asked the House to vote the money, this is the first fruits of that policy, we are entitled I think to ask the Government what their view is of the results to-date and I would have thought that it was perfectly legitimate for Government to say, “.....we think that there are merits in some of those things that have been identified but we do not agree with others,” because from my reading of the report it seems to me that many if not most of the things there are simply the team saying of what other people have told the team. There is very little there that is a reflection of expertise. They have said people have complained of waiting times and therefore there is a problem of waiting times because people are complaining about it. Do Government agree that there is a problem of waiting times? We know that they agree because they were agreeing with that particular identified problem even before the experts said it. Why is it that it is legitimate for them to tell us that they agree that there is a problem of waiting time, which is expressing an opinion apparently, but not anymore? Not now that an expert has said it. The Chief Minister frankly has said in this House agreeing in opinions about things that need tackling without having any inhibitions about it. He agreed just before I left that priority had to be given to doing something about taxpayers that he had mentioned it in his New Year Message. If that is not an opinion I would like to know what it is.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The first thing that I should say to that is that if the Leader of Opposition first point intended to suggest that the Government are trying to somehow muzzle the Opposition as to the Questions that they can have by suggesting that they should be free to ask whatever they like, what I would say is that in reality that is the de facto rule in the House. I have been in this House since November 1990 and I cannot recall on a single occasion when any Speaker has disallowed any question for any reason whatsoever. So, for all intents and purposes we might as well not have any Standing Orders but the fact of the matter is that it is not I who have decided that the right to ask questions of the Government are curtailed not in the one way that I have said but that in the 15 ways set out in the 15 “The right to ask questions shall be governed by the following rules.” And then there are 15 “do not”, one may not do this and one may not do that. I am not the author of Standing Orders. I am not particularly familiar with them because we never actually really had to live by them but all I was doing was pointing out to the hon Lady is that in fact there is a Standing Order and in any event since the Speaker is the sole judge as to their interpretation.....

MR SPEAKER:

Do not take my name in vain.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am not taking your name in vain but it is allowed to refer to the Speaker in this Parliament. I am reading Standing Orders when I say that it says that, “..the sole interpretation of Standing Orders is the Speaker.” The mere fact that the Question has got onto the Order Paper for all intents and purposes means that the Speaker has found that they are acceptable, that is indisputable.

MR SPEAKER:

The Speaker reads every individual Question before they are sent to Government.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It still does not detract from the fact that all I have done is read two lines of Standing Orders which are there. The fact that a decision goes one way or the other does not make what I have read not there. The fact that the hon Member is not under Standing Orders entitled to ask me questions which call for an expression of opinion does not mean that I am not allowed to express an opinion. The Member is the one that is not allowed to ask the questions. I am free to express opinions if I want the fact that he is not free to ask them does not mean that Government are not at liberty to answer them. The more serious point is that in the Leader of the Opposition’s last point lies the reason why Government are taking this position at this moment in time. In the context of the overall purpose for which Government called for the report the part that has so far been concluded namely the diagnostic phase, as the hon Lady has just said, it is not so much that we needed experts to tell us what was obviously wrong, there are some things which were wrong with our Health Service most of us sitting here let alone local experts could have identified. Many that we could probably agree on immediately the problem comes in firstly, the ones that are not obvious or upon which there is no agreement in Gibraltar as to whether they are wrongly done at the moment, there are some quite a lot that come under that category, and in respect of both categories the ones which are obvious and the ones which are not so much accepted the real issue is in the remedial solution. For example, to identify the problem that there is a problem in Gibraltar of waiting lists leading to abuse of private practice resulting in public patients being encouraged, being led, or resulting in public patients opting to pay fees for receiving the service that they have already paid through their taxes and should be getting for nothing one does not need to be an expert to identify that problem – diagnostic phase – but to design the solution one does need to be an expert and one does have to bring fresh thinking which clearly is not available in Gibraltar because if it were available in Gibraltar it would have happened many years ago even before the Opposition Members were in the House and that is why Government do not want to get drawn in to a debate about what it agrees with and what it does not agree with because that is focusing on the diagnostic phase when what the Government want to do is to concentrate on the implementation phase. The hon Member asked the question, “Why do the hon Members need to know whether the remedy is available before deciding whether they agree with the original diagnostic assessment?” A lot of these things are identifying that something should be changed or done differently. If somebody comes and says that something should be done differently, for example, if I propose to the hon Member that we should change the rules about Question Time. They clearly do not work, too many questions, too many supplementaries, answers are too long, it takes too long, if I were to say, "We should do Question Time differently," the hon Member would say, "..wait a minute before deciding whether I agree with you that it should be done differently tell me what it is that you think it should be replaced by because the proposed solution maybe such that it alters the decision as to whether what one has got should be changed or not changed." Government are not willing to commit themselves to changing any particular practice of today until they know what it will require to change and that is the reason. Government do not want to be drawn into a line by line, recommendation by recommendation debate on individual expressions of view by the experts at this stage of the process. When the experts bring the implementation recommendations Government will accept or reject them. If Government accept them it is at that point that the Government that is accountable inside and outside of this House for the remedial action that it takes or if they do not take remedial action in an area in which the experts have made a recommendation in the diagnostic phase the hon Members may wish to hold Government to account for our failure to take remedial action but we think that it is premature because Government are not yet in a position to have fallen foul of either of those criteria and it is clear from the views that the Opposition has expressed that they do not agree that the position that Government are taking is the correct one but it is the position that Government have taken and we think for good and justifiable reason.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I do not dispute that there is some logic in what the Chief Minister has said. All I am saying is that would the Chief Minister not agree that that does not apply necessarily to every single one and Government have made a statement of all 27. I might be able to agree with him that in some instances one cannot really say that that needs to be changed without knowing whether that change is going to be for the better or for the worse. I think it is possible to look at those things and say, "..for a start we do not agree." If I say to the Chief Minister, "..if the experts say people have lost all confidence in the Health Service," is the Chief Minister telling me that he cannot say whether he agrees that people have lost all confidence in the Health Service until he has been told what he needs to do to restore confidence in the Health Service. Then, if he does not think that what he is told and not in the diagnostic phase but if the experts say to him, "...you need to do 'A', 'B', and C to restore confidence," and the Chief Minister says, "I do not agree." Then since the Chief Minister does not agree that this is what will restore confidence the Chief Minister concludes that confidence does not need restoring and therefore that confidence has not been lost.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Not that it does not need restoring but that we live with a level of confidence that exists at the moment that was the alternative.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I can understand the argument that has been put and I think it is possible to take that argument on its merits and treat it seriously and perhaps agree that there may be some things there without knowing but I do not think that it justifies a blanket statement for all 27 or suggesting that we are asking for 27 opinions. No, there is a report, the report has been commissioned by Government, it has been paid for by this, that report in our judgement seems to primarily consist of a compilation of things that have been gathered by the team that came out by asking people and we are interested in knowing whether the conclusions that have been reached by the team by listening to what other people say are conclusions with which Government agreed with all of them, with none, or with some yes and with some no. I would have thought that the Government was in a position to say, "Item so and so we think the Governance Team have voted wrong the assessment based on the information that they have gathered have led them up a garden path and we do not think that there is nothing seriously wrong and that it needs tackling." I would have thought it was possible to do that.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That last point serves to explain why we have such different views about what should be happening now at this stage of the process because Government have not focused on the diagnostic phase in that sense. To Government the diagnostic phase was just a milestone in a process the real purpose of which came in the next milestone so we have not sat down to make a policy decision upon the diagnostic issues one by one, separately and ahead of the implementation recommendations. I would ask the Opposition not to forget the public commitment that Government have both inside and outside of this House which is that we would either act on all of the recommendations or explain why we are not acting. So, it is not that Government are shying away from expressing whether they agree or whether they do not with those that Government do not agree demonstrated by the fact that Government do not act accordingly, the Government are committed to explaining publicly which can be in this House why Government are not acting and why Government do not agree. So, it is not that Government are not going to give this account it is just that the Government do not think it is still too early at this stage to deliver this sort of detailed view on these points and if the Leader of the Opposition recalls we made that commitment in the last House to deal with this report on that basis and the hon Members were asking us whether we would accept what the experts said and implement it and Government said that they could not be sure that they would accept but that if they did not something they would explain why they were not accepting it. So, we are talking timing here and the significance that each side is applying to the diagnostic phase of the report. The Opposition obviously view it as something upon which a view should have been formed by now of each point and a comprehensive report to us. We will consider when we get the workstream implementation report in relation to each of those points the first batch of which are due to reach us in the last week of January. I cannot tell the hon Members exactly which ones they are although there is a list of them but there are a series of recommendations and implementations which are as good as ready and they are coming out to present them to the Government and then Government have to consider them, either accept the recommendations/implementations or some version of them or explain why they are not proposing to deal with that issue.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Did Government not analyse this report before it was made public at the diagnostic phase and then came out with some kind of statement saying that based on the presentation they had had and presumably on the fact that they felt that these people were being successful in identifying what needed to be done they had then taken a policy decision to commission the second part. The commissioning of the second part was the result of some exercise of judgement having been carried on the results of the first phase?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The reason why Government did not commission both phases at the front end is that Government wanted to be sure on the diagnostic phase that it was being done in the a thorough and comprehensive fashion. That Government were not committing themselves to quite an expensive process which was not being done with the thought of thorough, scientific approach that the Government would have wanted. It became clear to us from looking at the diagnostic report although I have to say that I agree with the remark that the Leader of the Opposition made some time ago which I made as well that a lot of the report is simply a recital of what witnesses said to the expert which seems to be a characteristic of most consultants as far as I can tell but within all that which is unquestionably true I made the same comment internally in Government but within that there is clear evidence that by speaking to people, by observing things themselves, by analysing the situation from their external perspective, by a combination of all three things they satisfied the Government that they had understood the length, depth, and breadth of the sort of exercise that in Government's judgement, perhaps not in theirs, the Health Service needs. That gave Government the confidence to commit to them in a really quite large sum of money to then go on to say , fine now that you have satisfied us that you have shown that .....now do the much more expensive implementation recommendation and that is where we are as from today and as I said to the Leader of the Opposition a meeting has been sought with us yesterday or today to present us with the first batch of these things so we are now at the start of the executory phase of the implementation stage of this two stage process.

HON J J BOSSANO:

That seems to me to suggest that if they came to that conclusion knowing that the origin of the bulk of this list which my hon Colleague has been asking the Minister to comment on were the results of information fed to the team. It is almost saying that they concluded that there was substance in all of them.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not want to be drawn because the problem with this is that once one starts the debate it is very difficult to limit it to this point or that point. I read the report. I could not think of anything that was left out and I could not see anything in it that struck me as odd that it should be in it. I did not read anything saying goodness why do they think that this is in need of a fix? That is an overview it is not the result of a detailed consideration with management and policy discussion between Ministers about whether yes or no to this or that recommendation. It is just my layman's reading of the report as a user, as an observer of the health service I said to me all of this seems to comprehensively encapsulate what if we put everyone's views together are the areas that need looking at in more details more remedial action and I did not see anything in the report that I if I had been the author of the report would not have at least identified as needing looking into. The Leader of the Opposition can take that if he wants as the government agreeing with everything on the report. I am not saying that I agree with every detail but I agree that the issues identified are the issues that deserve touching.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Was the engagement and the fees then negotiated on the basis that there was a sum of money for phase I and a different sum of money for phase II and that the phase II might not materialise and therefore might not need to be paid, because as I recall it there was one sum of money from the beginning put in the estimates?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not think so. With almost complete certainty I can say no. The sum of money agreed for the implementation workstreams was neither known or agreed or even ball parked at the front end of the process so it was not as if the fees for both phases had been agreed at the front end but they could only access the second amount if it went to the second implementation phase.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The amount that shows in appendix 'C' in the estimates where it says, "Clinical Governance fees and expenses" which is £400,000 is this the amount for both phases, phase I or phase II?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is a provision. How much of that was actually expended in phase I, I do not know offhand the information will become obvious to the Leader of the Opposition when he gets the figures of expenditure to date in the Health Authority budget where he will see how much has been spent up to November. That would all have presumably been under phase I. I do not know how much phase I cost. That would have been a provision not the agreed price of phase I, it would have just been a provision at that stage of the beginning of the financial year.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I have just asked because that was the impression that one got from this. It was not even known at the beginning that we were talking about two phases we were just told that this was for .....

MR SPEAKER:

I knew.

HON J J BOSSANO:

....but I think that in the House when the estimates were presented and the Opposition voted the money in the budget it was not explained, this money is the *provisional figure and it covers two phases and it is not all for phase I or phase II. I have just asked specifically whether there was a sum of money put which included phase I and phase II in respect of which if Government had not been happy with phase I phase II would not have been triggered off and I have been told 'No'. All that I have to say to the Chief Minister is if there is a figure of £400,000 for the Clinical Governance fees and expenses period then that implies a 'yes' not a 'no' answer unless the Chief Minister is telling me, that was for phase I and phase I turned out to be less but now we have to vote fresh funds for phase II, is that the position?*

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is really a combination of both with a third dimension. It is a provision for phase I which was a committed engagement and for phase II if any part of phase II if it took place fell in this financial year. I do not know whether the £400,000 have been used for phase I or whether only £100,000 or £150,000, £200,000 have been used for phase I. How much of that provision has been consumed by phase I, I cannot tell him I have a figure in my mind of how much phase II cost I believe it was published but I can find out as I do not have that information right here and now. If the hon Member wants to know how much did phase I cost and how much has Government agreed for the cost of phase II so that the hon Member can add them both together and know the cost of the entire exercise I am perfectly happy to provide him with that information but I do not have the breakdown available to me right now.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I would be grateful of that because what I am telling him is that until today I was under the impression that this was the total cost of the operation.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I can assure the Leader of the Opposition that it was much more than that.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The hon and Gallant Mr Britto said in a debate on radio during the elections that certain recommendations from the first phase of the report had already been implemented can he say which are those recommendations, he said it in a radio debate with me during the elections?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Minister cannot recall saying that and if he did say it he cannot recall what he had in mind as he was saying it. The only two aspects of the subject matters touched upon by the phase I report upon which there had been some movement at that time were the Health Centre Appointment system upon which an interim thing was put in place and the very first item of the waiting lists issue, the hon Lady knows the whole cataract thing. I am not saying that that is what he had in mind I am telling the hon Lady that the only two things that might have happened which might conceivably fall into that category are those two things. I am not aware of anything else that has been implemented of the things that I have seen in the report.

HON F R PICARDO:

The statements made by one of the Ministers for Health the Hon Mr Britto during the month of November, I was on the television debate in relation to Health and during that debate the video which my mother cherishes and I am happy to make available to him if he wishes he also said the same thing that Government had already commenced the process of implementation of all the recommendations in the report. Just on that point that is something which the Government need to look into. Were they misleading the people then or are they misleading the people now, what is the position ?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

As luck would have it I have with me the notes that I had for the debate we had on television with the hon Member. I have already said that I have no recollection of this but I have come across my notes and what they say is, “...phase II the development and implementation stage has already started.” That is what my notes say I am not inventing them. I have no recollection of saying that the recommendations had been implemented because recommendations had not yet been made so there might be a genuine misunderstanding. The other note says, “..the target completion is towards the end of 2004.” What I was saying was that phase II the recommendation stage and I quote, “phase II – development and implementation of reforms – already started.” It is the work of the team that falls under the heading Governance Support Team and that has already started that is the only answer that I can think of to that question.

HON F R PICARDO:

Does the hon and Gallant Gentleman not agree that that is what his notes said but not actually what he himself said during the course of the debate, perhaps by inadvertence?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

We shall check your mother's video.

HON C A BRUZON:

Regardless whether this is or is not a question of implementation of recommendations what we have all got to understand is that the people's needs are priority. Therefore whether the Government have to take any particular action tomorrow, whether it coincides with the implementation of the report or not surely Government have to do something about it.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Management of the Health Authority carries on on a daily basis. Government having decided to tackle this matter in a holistic comprehensive thorough once and for all way, it is not a question of identifying 20 things and fixing one and leaving the other 19. the Government's preferred way of doing what the hon Member is recommending is to be advised what needs to be done to bring in Gibraltar's health service well and truly into the 21st century and then implementing those plans. The hon Member is concerned that this is sort of a long stock gain then that is not what has been announced and it is not what will happen. Government are not waiting for a lengthy report now and implementation that is going to take a year or two and in the meantime nothing is going to happen. No, Government are getting a recommendation on each of the areas that have been identified separately so at the end of this or next week Government may get the recommendations on the appointments system, waiting lists and the complaints procedure from all the many issues that are being investigated. Government will then consider that and implement that at that time Government will not wait for all the recommendations to be in place before implementing so that there will be a progressive, continuous implementation. Starting February the hon Member will get precisely what he is describing and that is that there has to be a continuous process of action and progress and visible signs of improvement it is just that Government have not started because they have not received the first one of these reports but the first one of these reports is about to arrive and once the liquid enters the pipe it continues to flow continuously it is just that the tap has not yet been turned on.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Do Government accept that preferential treatment is being given to private patients over and above public patients?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, but that regardless of the report. That I knew before the report.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Therefore what the Chief Minister is saying today is in complete contrast to what the previous Ministers for Health have said in this House when, for example, the Hon Dr Linares in answer to Question No 301 of 2003 said, "I can confirm that having received the report the management has firmly and resolutely tackled the areas that were seen to be of none compliance with the private practice agreement and has received the full co-operation of the consultants in respect. Complying with all the aspects of private practice agreement," does the Chief Minister not accept that the Government have erred in their judgement?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government do not accept that they have erred in their judgement. Government made a first attempt at dealing with the problem of abuse of private practice by agreeing with the Consultants a new regime that would limit the conduct of private practice to the point where the effect on the availability of public access was for the first time severely curtailed. Do Government think that that agreement in its implementation had the effect that Government hoped, expected and was seeking at the time that it entered the agreement? I readily accept as I have said publicly on several occasions before today that it did not which is why Government are now approaching the matter from a much more intolerant way. No more self-regulation, no more voluntary agreements and no more "we will be good boys in future approach to life." There now has to be a more resilient system in place that is less open to interpretation at the edges and when I said before whether I accepted that there was preferential treatment or not I hope that the hon Lady understood that I meant preferential access to treatment. The actual quality of the medical treatment dispensed is the same to the private as to the public but that the private patient gets access to that treatment sooner because they have paid, because there are public waiting lists which are unnecessary, of that there can be absolutely no doubt whatsoever.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Do Government as well not accept that when we are talking about private practice in relation to waiting lists his previous Ministers have said in this House "Does the Minister not accept that because of private practice being regulated waiting lists for public patients could rise as a consequence of that?" and the reply that I got from that was, "No, I do not accept that they could rise precisely because of that factor." Are Government still in agreement with what the previous Minister for Health said or do Government now accept in relation to the comments made and our warnings that public waiting lists have shot up precisely because of private practice?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, I do not know which of my previous ministerial colleagues made that remark but he is to be congratulated for the precision and accuracy of his words. Yes, waiting lists have not increased precisely because Government attempted to regulate private practice. It would be absurd for the hon Lady to say that the fact that because an attempt was made to regulate private practice lead to a higher waiting list. What leads to a higher waiting list is not the attempt to regulate it but that the attempt to regulate it was not successful, that is what leads to the higher waiting lists but not the attempt. If the attempt to regulate had been more successful the waiting lists would not be as big as they are today so I think that those words that she has quoted in which the hon Lady was saying that she does not accept that the attempt to regulate private practice precisely is the cause of the increased waiting list is 100 per cent correct and a perfect semantic analysis of the issue.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I have just found some information in relation to a statement that the Chief Minister made about private practice and waiting lists. The Chief Minister because of his mannerisms gets upset when we hold him accountable and then we have to put up with everything that he says being repeated all over again. It is the Chief Minister that said that more importantly he was quite satisfied with the new system of the waiting lists as regards private practice and therefore has the Opposition not been correct in our analysis and so Government not accept that even in the report whereby the actual report that they commissioned confirms everything that we have been saying that the public waiting lists have risen because of the private practice agreement which they have said as we said is a complete failure, does the Chief Minister not accept that, or has the Chief Minister not read the report himself?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

As the hon Lady has declined to identify the report I do not know what report she is talking about but if there is a report [INTERRUPTION] that was long before the private practice agreement came into existence so the report cannot possibly be referring to that. If there is a report in existence it does not matter which, the one the hon Lady has got in her hand, one that she has not yet seen, the one the other gentleman has got, it does not matter which, which says that waiting lists have increased because of the attempt to regulate private practice and to minimise the number of public hours during which consultants could carry out private practice that that is the cause of an increase in waiting lists then I do not accept the report regardless of its author, its date, and whether the hon Lady has got it in front of her or has not got it in front of her. What I accept is what I have already accepted namely that the first attempt that Government made to curtail the effects of private practice on public waiting lists did not enjoy the measure of success that we had hoped at the time that we made the arrangements, that I readily acknowledge and accept.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The report that I am referring to is the recent report because all these questions refer to the recent report of the development healthcare team of September 2003 and what I am quoting is in page eight for the benefit of the Chief Minister page 15 of the summary which says precisely what I am saying that private practice has been a failure.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I agree.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

You agree. Therefore the logical question for any politician is to ask the Chief Minister is whether all his previous Ministers have been wrong in their analysis and their statements in this House?

MR SPEAKER:

That is asking for an opinion I will disallow it.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can I ask the Chief Minister in view of the explanations that we have been given for the original statement not addressed in the questions put by my hon Colleague, and this is not asking for an opinion, do Government accept as a fact, for example, the figures that are quoted in Question No 168 of 2004 whereby my hon Colleague quotes that the initial report, the diagnostic phase of the report as the Chief Minister chooses to call it, in respect of the cost of sponsored patients claim that there has been an increase from £3,125 per patient to £5,795 either that is a fact or it is not a fact I do not see why Government do not agree that those figures are correct without knowing whether a solution can be found and a way can be found of reducing the costs so it seems to me that the analysis that we were given by way of explanation would not apply to a question of that nature. There are figures quoted in a report. We are asking the Government if they accept that those figures are correct the answer can only be yes or no?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Or, I do not know.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I accept it is another answer but I would have thought given the length of time that Government have had this if the Clinical Governance Team have got it wrong on the increased costs of sponsored patients does the Minister accept as correct or incorrect or does not know whether the increase in the cost of pharmaceuticals which is quoted by my hon Colleague in Question No 158 of 2004 have increased by 18 per cent per year in the last three years have they or have they not?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Without confirming the precise accuracy of the figure the cost of pharmaceuticals has increased by a figure of that sort of order. That regardless of the report. There has been a very significant interest in the cost even of the generic medicines that the Opposition disapprove so much of.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Do Government accept that in page 219 where the report says, “..little regard is paid to private practice agreement,” and with regard to the comments that I have just made in relation to the inconsistent statements that the previous Ministers for Health have made and the Chief Minister has today made, it appears that the agreement has also been a failure because Government have paid little attention to the agreement otherwise had they been on top and asked for statistics when they should have perhaps the waiting lists and the agreement would not have been a failure?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government accept neither the accuracy of the premise of the hon Lady's question nor the conclusion to which that inaccuracy leads her.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

In that case why is it that Government have been defending private practice for three years in this House and now suddenly they agree that it has not been working can Government not then accept that they have erred in their judgement?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government do not accept the premise of her question. Government have not been defending private practice for three years or any number of years.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does the Chief Minister then say that he does not accept the factual information that I have quoted from Hansard especially as his previous Minister for Health put his hand up saying yes I am responsible for that statement.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Chief Minister accepts the content of Hansard but not the abuse to which she subjects it.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I am not abusing anything I am quoting from Hansard.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The forensic purpose to which the hon Lady puts the comments that she so obviously takes out of context are not accepted by the Government.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Is it not documented in Hansard by previous Ministers for Health defending the position that consultants were actually co-operating that the agreement that they had put in place was actually working and that they were happy with the arrangements and now we have a completely different scenario, is that not the case?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It may well have been the case I doubt it very much that the Government's unhappiness with the agreement that it entered into set in on day one. It is not as if Government signed the agreement on a Monday and by Tuesday lunchtime was already convinced that the consultants were already abusing it. There may well have been a period after the signing of the agreement during which it may have been working properly. The fact that that situation stopped being so and then clearly was not working is contradicted by the fact that a Minister may have said during the first period that he was then satisfied with the way the agreement was working. The hon Lady takes remarks out of context and then thinks that they prove things that they do not prove at all.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In respect to Question No 154 of 2004 and one which I would have thought was quite important, do Government accept as factually correct the statement that since the year 2000 admissions have declined by almost 10 per cent because I find that quite an extraordinary conclusion, why do we have declining admissions and increasing shortages? One would have thought one was working in the opposite direction to the other. I would have thought that the Government received a report even if they were taking a global view specific things like this I imagine that they would have checked for accuracy or is it that they are unsure that this is right or that they know that this is right or that they think that it is wrong which of the three is it?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We have not done an assessment to see if this is in arrears an empirical exercise they have compared the annual statistics but I can speculate of a logical explanation for it. If beds are being blocked either for the reasons that we allege or for any other reason if the same bed is being occupied permanently by one patient which only counts as one admission there are fewer beds into which to admit patients and therefore there are less numbers of admissions in the year period because if one has a 160 bed hospital and increasingly every year there are more and more beds which are not open for more admissions then there may well be a case of there being few admissions, people that had at some stage in the past might have been admitted to hospital and out-treated on some other basis. I am not offering it as an explanation it is a reason that I am speculating could explain why in a situation in which there is a shortage of beds apparently fewer people less demand. There has got to be an explanation it may not be the one that I have given him but there has to be an explanation especially given the fact that whatever may be our disagreement about how many beds there were when they were in office or how many beds there are now this is three years in which GSD has been in office and the GSD has certainly not reduced the number of beds in those three years. So, the number of beds is static and it said that there is 10 per cent less demand on the beds so it cannot be demand, admissions is different to demand. If one arrives in a hospital and there are beds available the doctor might say , "...well stay overnight for observation." Or "...you look tired have a few days rest in hospital." If there are no beds then the doctor is going to say to go and rest at home and that is a reduction in admissions.

HON J J BOSSANO:

My supplementary really was whether the Government could confirm the accuracy of the 10 per cent reduction. The answer is that Government have not homed in on this.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The answer is that whilst we have no known reason to doubt them nor have they been validated, audited by management so we neither endorse them nor disown them. The process of validation simply has not taken place.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I know that all the questions are not like that but this is one question were there is a simple straightforward figure being quoted and Government is asked to say whether they agree with the figure being quoted and notice had been given of the question. It would not take a week this is not an exercise that requires major mobilisation of resources it just requires knowing where to look in the system to get the figure that there was in the year 2000 of admission, the figure that there was in the year 2003 and find out if the admission into 2003 were 10 per cent below 2000 or were not.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is one approach to life another is that these statistics are all in the public domain. In each of these three years there has been a Gibraltar Health Authority Report published assuming that it has been published already for the last of the years mentioned which contain the admissions figures. We could all do our calculations. I withdraw I do not think that it has been published in respect of September 2003.

HON J J BOSSANO:

We would like to know whether the figure is accurate or not and perhaps they could validate it or otherwise let us know and I know that Government have not proffered us the explanation for that apparent on the surface inconsistency the fact that there is bed blocking and therefore less people are being allowed in but all I can say is that in all the time that we have had the concept of bed blocking paraded in the House in answer to questions there have never been any suggestion from the Government of increasing bed blocking. The figure that has been quoted all the time has always been around 30 odd beds. In the year 2000 there were 30 odd beds blocked according to the terminology of the Government and in the year 2003 there are still 30 odd bed blocked. Indeed today in answer to questions I was going to say that the figure was 37. If it has gone from 30 to 37 between 2000 and today that is hardly evidence of producing 10 per cent drop in admissions and the seven that has been used today has not been there all the time. The figures that we have had from Government there has been a very stable figure of around 30 maybe sometimes it has gone a little bit down to 27 or 28 and sometimes it has gone up to 34 or 35 but it has always been around that figure but I accept that in any case that was not being proffered as the definitive explanation but I would think that it would be a worthwhile exercise first of all to see if this figure is accurate and then to try and make sense of it.

HON S E LINARES

Without going into figures I would like to know, is it a fact that specialists are unable to refer directly to specialists outside Gibraltar that is another part of the question where the GP's are unable to refer directly to specialists outside Gibraltar, that would be a question that can be answered because it is either yes they can or no they can not, that is a simple answer to a question which has been posed again?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We accept that question because it is a question about the existing health service the position is what it has always been. Since 1966 and since 1988 it has never been the case that referrals abroad could be made by GP's. Referrals abroad have only ever whether it is in our term of office or in the GSLP's term in office referrals abroad have only been made by Consultants and GP's have never been free to make referrals in fact Government have recently introduced an exception to that in respect of cardiography but certainly it would be a complete and utterly financially uncontrollable and unaffordable expense if every GP in Gibraltar at Government expense could refer patients abroad for medical treatment. We might as well close down our own health service and use the £34 million that we have got to send people to whatever corner of the globe this or that GP is sending his patients. I hope that the Leader of the Opposition accepts not only that it has always been so but that it has always been so for very good and necessary reason.

HON S E LINARES

I accept the Chief Minister's argument and I am glad that he has taken the trouble to answer it which is the point that I am trying to make because of course GP's should not be sending patients to Timbuktu or wherever, I agree with his argument but at least he has had the decency to stand up and answer the question which is the point that I am making.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Chief Minister has stood up to answer the question because Government have never suggested that if an hon Member stands up and asks the Government a matter of fact about the existing health service as he has done that Government do not consider that to be a legitimate question. The hon Member has asked whether it is true that GP's are not entitled to refer abroad that is not a question about the report that is a question about existing practice in the existing health service and whether they agree with the stance Government have taken on the question of the report or not I do not think that the hon Members can suggest, insinuate, or imply still less declare as the hon Member has just done that Government have somehow refused to answer questions about the health service.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will Government not accept as a matter of fact that in the last meeting of the House of Assembly which is recorded in Hansard that it was I who actually posed that question to the previous Minister for Health who said that at the moment GP's were able to refer patients to have an echocardiogram and then when I asked the Minister further "...do government agree that they should look into the possibility of GP's referring patients to other consultants" the Minister said that he thought there was mileage on that, that he was willing to look at it.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not know whether he said that Government was willing to look at it. If the Minister said that Government were willing to look at it I can tell the hon Lady now what the result of that looking into would be.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In relation to one of the questions that there is here which deals with the staff which to me, independent of what we might think in terms of improving the quality of the service to the users which obviously if people are unhappy they are likely to deliver a less good service than if they are happy at work not just in the health service but in any enterprise that deliver services to users which I think is what the Clinical Governance is all about the question of whether the staff are satisfied with their jobs and working conditions I would have thought is a matter for the Human Resources Department and a matter of industrial relations anyway. If the Opposition asks the Government whether they accept that there is this discontent with working conditions which seems a very broad statement to make. Surely the Government are able to express a view as to whether in their judgement there is this discontent which the report reflects.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am not prepared to comment on the specific instances of discontent that the report may or may not identify. I do not remember them and I am not willing to comment on the report. What I am willing to do is to express my view on the issue that he has identified. The Leader of the Opposition well knows that it very much depends how one defines discontent. If by discontent one means that people would always like better terms and conditions of employment, more money, less hours, that there is a view amongst some of the nursing staff that the fact that certain members of staff tend to take quite a lot of sick leave, absenteeism increases, the hours that others have got to cover, if the Leader of the Opposition means all of that then yes. There are always claims to the extent that a pay claim or a re-grading claim is manifestation that one is not happy with what one has then there is always that sort of discontent. There will continue to be even after one has fixed that sort of discontent and anything that needs fixing. That is just in the nature of the cut and thrust of industrial relations but without wishing to spoil the relatively civilised atmosphere in which this general debate of the health services is taking place I also have to say to the Leader of the Opposition that one of the things that I think contributes to the state of low morale of staff in the Health Authority is the incessant attacks to which the nature and quality of the service that they deliver are subjected by the hon Lady. Let me explain why I believe that and then let the hon Lady disagree as I am sure she will but let her articulate her disagreement. The hon Lady thinks in her mind that she can say, "..the health service is in crisis, the health service is a shambles, the health service is chaotic, such and such a patient has died, such and such a patient has had to spend the night in the corridor, such and such an inquest has shown that such and such a night shift failed to pay such and such attention to such and such a patient..." And then at the end say, "..and it is all the fault of the Minister for Health." She might use that device in order not to be seen by the staff to blame them but as most normal intelligent thinking people understand that quality is about the criticism about the delivery of day-to-day healthcare are not really criticisms of the Minister since he is not there by the bedside, are in reality drip, drip, drip, drip, drip, criticisms of the staff delivering that healthcare however much the hon Lady might say it is not intended to be such this has an enormously demoralising effect on people who have to work there none of which is to suggest that there are not things wrong with the health service that the hon Lady is entirely right and justified in criticising but the style with which she does it, the intensity with which she does it, the terms in which she does it does not enable this sort of clinical separation of criticism of the Minister and criticism of the staff. The hon Lady may think that that division and separation is possible but the result of the style with which she rightly makes the health service an important political issue, the style with which she does it creates the impression in the community that the health service is terrible that it is unsafe, that it does not deliver any kind of good service, that it is completely unreliable and this is inescapably a criticism of the staff and this is how they perceive it. I know that that is not the hon Lady's intention but it is the inescapable consequence of the way she chooses to go around using the health services for political purposes.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Never, ever, have I ever said that it is the fault or implied that anything wrong with the health services is because of the professionals working within it on the contrary I have always commended their professionalism what I have criticised is that Government [INTERRUPTION] have not provided the necessary resources for them to carry out the job properly and not only have I not said this, let me remind the Chief Minister who always tries to confuse the issue that I have not been the only one saying that morale is low. I have said it precisely because of the reasons that I have just given but let me remind the Chief Minister that professionals within the health service have said it in public. The represented of the Users Forum have said it in public, Mr Michael Netto has said it in public and I could go on and on about the different people that have said it in public it has not only been me it has been them it has not been anything that I have said which has made the staff feel that their morale is low on the contrary it has been other members in public that have voiced the same concerns as I have. So, what the Chief Minister is saying is absolute nonsense.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Lady has made much more articulately than me because I took 15 minutes to say what she has managed to say in a minute and a half but it is exactly the same point. The hon Lady believes, she has just said so now, that in the intense criticism to which she has subjected the health service during the last three years she has neither made not intended to make any single criticism of the healthcare staff that delivers the service the hon Lady has just said so. The problem is not the healthcare staff, the doctors, the nurses, all of whom are magnificent, it is the Minister for Health because she says now that he has failed to provide sufficient resources. Let us just analyse what this failure to provide sufficient resources boils down to. An increase in the health budget from £20 million in 1996 to £36 or £37 million nearly a 100 per cent increase in seven years that is the hon Member's definition of failure by the political Government to provide resources. Many more consultants, senior doctors, GP's, clinics in many more areas, a new ambulance service, spectacular increases in the amount of patients sent under the sponsored patients scheme, increased resources for nurse training, these are the things that the hon Lady believes and asserts with a straight face represent a failure to provide sufficient resources which in her own mind explains the fact that the shambolic state in which she says the health service is , I do not agree, is the fault entirely of the Government that fails to provide sufficient resources and that nobody but nobody in her view of the employees employed to actually deliver the service have any degree of causal responsibility for whatever she may think are the shortcomings of the health service. Does the hon Lady not realise that not even her staunchest political supporters all of whom have got a brain in their head could possibly accept that ridiculous analysis of the situation.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I am not here to answer the Chief Minister's questions but secondly it appears that the Chief Minister whenever a statement is made by other members of the community he ignores them. It was actually the representative of the nursing staff who said that there was a lack of resources and I even remember what he said, that they were waiting for four weeks for a blood pressure machine in John Ward, four weeks. Another thing that I will tell the Chief Minister which is the actual reason why the morale of the Health Service professionals working within it is low is because of the scandalous threat that the Chief Minister has made to the staff. Implicit in their manifesto and in the Chief Minister's New Year message that is explicit, that is why the morale is low because the Chief Minister is saying either one takes it or one leaves it another threat. Another threat like the Chief Minister does to everybody else the elderly, the patients and the people who work there. The style of this Government, threats after threats that is the reason why there is low morale within the Gibraltar Health Authority.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Then the hon Lady thinks that the low morale has only been around since the 20th November 2003 which is the date that the GSD published its manifesto. So, what the hon Lady is now saying by her latest ridiculous argument is that the morale was low, yes, because if the hon Lady says that the morale was low because of the threats that the hon Lady says that I had made to the health service staff and the hon Lady thinks that the threat was first made in the manifesto then all that the hon Lady has said before about the morale having been so low for so long is by the hon Lady's mouth untrue. The hon Lady does not have to quote me what other people have said to prove that morale is low as if I were resisting the proposition. I do not resist the proposition that morale is low, I know morale is low. What we are debating again is the reason why the morale is low and as in all other things we have a different view. I am very grateful to the hon Lady's last intervention because she has given me a very small example but an example nevertheless of why my view of life is much more likely to be accurate than hers. Having just said that it is all the Minister's fault and that all the people that work in the health service are great the hon Lady then uses as an example of the low morale the fact that they waited four weeks for a blood pressure machine for John Ward. Who buys the blood pressure machine? Does the Minister? Who decides what the enormously increased budget which leaves the budget that the hon Lady used to provide for new equipment in the hospital looking like a petty cash box, who does the hon Lady think if not the people that the hon Lady thinks are perfect decide which equipment to buy? So, the criticism that in John Ward they waited four weeks for a blood pressure machine is a criticism not of the Minister who the hon Lady says is solely responsible but of the very people that she says are blameless [INTERRUPTION] There is no hospital in the world which has on tap every piece of machine that one might need in case that it is needed. There are such things such as procurement periods but it does not matter we are not discussing the reality we are discussing the abuse to which the hon lady submits perfectly normal occurrences. That somebody should want a new piece of medical equipment which is not available in Gibraltar and has to be purchased abroad and has to wait four weeks for it to arrive does not at first sight appear unreasonable. The suggestion that I have made threats to the staff of St Bernard's Hospital is frankly not sustainable. What I actually said in my New Year address which I repeat here today which is the Government's policy and which will remain the Government's policy is that (1) we recognise contrary to what the hon Lady is constantly trying to insinuate, that Government recognises that there are a massive number "the vast majority" I think that was the language I used in my New Year message, of healthcare workers in Gibraltar who are delivering first class healthcare, who are enormously committed and who for that reason enthusiastically support the Government in its attempt to make sure that everybody in the health service works to the same high standards of commitment and dedication that they do. What I have also said is that Government are determined to deliver the remedy to the problems which the hon Lady is constantly telling me exists in the health service and when I have said that anyone who resists those improvements, who resists those changes cannot carry on working in the health service the hon Lady says that it is a threat. Well, what the hon Lady is thereby insinuating is that having said that there are great problems which render the health service a chaotic shambles that anyone who obstructs the elimination of those terrible things should continue to work in the health service that would be the hon Lady's position. Here one sees another example like the business about the bed blockage but please do not throw any elderly person out of hospital. The hon Lady's case is based on an untenable duplicity and double standards. The hon Lady cannot at one and the same time criticise Government for not fixing what she thinks is broke and at the same time criticise Government for not leaving in place those that prevent the brokenness from being fixed. That is the hon Lady's position. Because, if Government say, "there are going to be remedies implemented in consultation with the staff and the union leadership," they are stake-holders with the Government in the design and implementation of the remedial works. If after that even when reforms are implemented with the support of the union, with the support of the BMA, there are still doctors and other employees who for reasons of their own wish to frustrate that improvement that the hon Lady thinks the people of Gibraltar are entitled to and so do I, the proposition that the Government should just leave them in place to continue to deliver the shambolic health service that the hon Lady thinks that they are presently delivering frankly to use the hon Member's phrase "...gives the lie to the sincerity" of her political stance in this matter.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I will not go into questions of the sincerity of the political stance of Ministers. I do not know whether that is expressing an opinion which is not permissible under Standing Orders but can I remind the Chief Minister that the last half hour or three-quarters of an hour is supposed to have been the answer to a supplementary question, which I asked about dissatisfaction with working conditions. Can the Government summarise then and have I understood the Chief Minister correctly in saying that the reason for the dissatisfaction with working conditions in the hospital is that Marie Montegriffo issues too many press releases?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

What the Leader of the Opposition can interpret as I have said quite clearly is that there are several reasons for the low level of moral. One of them is the incessant manner in which the hon Lady makes people believe in Gibraltar that everything and everyone about the health service is not working in a reliable and safe fashion and I would have thought that it would be possible to target criticism where criticism is undoubtedly due on the occasion where it might undoubtedly be due without creating the impression that the health service in Gibraltar is not to be touched with a barge pole. As to the point that other people have said so, I remember a time that other people, very authoritative people said that under the hon Lady's care the health service was in danger of falling to third world standards does the hon Lady say that she accepts the truth of that just because other people were saying it? [INTERRUPTION].

MR SPEAKER:

Order!

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The Chief Minister has said that people and I suspect that the Chief Minister is referring to the BMA, the Chief Minister jumped on the band wagon and I must answer what he has just said because it is wrong. The BMA were saying that it could go down to third world standards, it could, not that it did, it could and it did not, that is what happened. But now they are right now it has definitely gone down to third world standards. Will the Chief Minister not accept and recall as a matter of fact that after the results of the General Election were announced he himself stood up and accepted the reprimand of the people of Gibraltar, not of Marie Montegriffo but the people of Gibraltar, for the state in which the health services were?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, the hon Lady does not have to remind me of what we did. That they have reprimanded us in my judgement amongst other things for failing to be tough and quick enough in resolving some of the outstanding issues with the health service is unquestionably true but they will not be impressed by the hon Lady's obstruction of that process by suggesting that however much somebody is unreasonably an obstacle in removing those difficulties the hon Lady thinks that they should carry on working and delivering healthcare in Gibraltar.

MR SPEAKER:

If there are going to be two or three more questions I will stay here otherwise I will adjourn.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Do Government not accept that the Complaints Procedure has been a total fiasco and that here again we have a similar scenario where Government have been defending for years in this House the effectiveness of it where we have had reports from the Ombudsman coinciding with our analysis and now in the last meeting of the House the previous Minister for Health said that he was going to employ somebody completely divorced from the Gibraltar Health Authority and is that not in effect another contradiction of this Government as regards their many failures in their handling of the health services?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government will answer no more supplementary questions in answer to Question No 175 of 2004.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Chief Minister not give a reason why they are not willing to answer is it that he has been very uncomfortable because of the questions that I am asking him? Will the Minister for Health at least answer the questions since the question is being posed to him?

HON C A BRUZON:

If this is the attitude of the hon Gentlemen we might as well go home.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

In deference to the hon Member I rise to say that he has not been in this House long enough to compare our attitude with the attitudes that have been seen in this House not so long ago perpetrated by the Opposition. I recall particularly not just the fact that we give informative factual answers to every question in sharp contrast to what the Opposition used to do all of them when they were Ministers but if the hon Member thinks that having answered 34 questions on this supplementary shows an attitude problem on my part the hon Member ought to be aware that the Leader of the Party of which he is now a Member used to refuse for years, months and months on end to answers the questions of an elected Member of the Opposition on the simple ground that he disapproved of his political views.

HON C A BRUZON:

My attitude in this House I hope, will always be honourable and I will respect the elected Members opinions and point of view but I think that it is very important in my humble view that we stop referring to the faults of previous Governments and concentrate on solving present problems to the best of our ability because two wrongs do not make a right.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The problem to agreeing to forget the faults of the previous Government are that Government are constantly being reminded by them of their previous virtues because what the hon Members cannot do is to constantly be telling the people of Gibraltar how much better they used to run the economy than us but then, they want to go back to history for what they think are the good things but Government are not entitled to remind them of the bad things about their history. We either both play by the same rules or neither of us play at all but going back in time cannot be legitimate for them and illegitimate for us simply because they choose the subjects.

HON J J BOSSANO:

If the Chief Minister feels that in order to refuse to answer any more supplementaries on a particular question which of course he is permitted to do by Standing Orders because the Government do not have to answer, it is not the first time that Government have refused to answer, the Chief Minister needs to legitimise that because the Government of the GSLP adopted a policy decision when he excluded Mr Cummings from his party because Mr Cummings came out and said publicly that Government wanted to do a deal with Spain but that the Opposition at the time were willing to say so inside the party but did not the electorate to know which was what caused Mr Cummings to leave the party and the GSLP took the view that if Mr Cummings was leaving the party on the grounds that the private sympathies that the hon Member had for a deal with Spain, which I am not in a position to judge whether Mr Cummings was telling the truth or not but that was the explanation that he gave, meant that he was now in this House on that ticket the GSLP took the view that he had no right to continue to exercise a role in the Opposition having been elected on one ticket and then having here adopted a different attitude which made the Chief Minister expel him. To say that he refuses to answer supplementary questions on health because I told Mr Cummings that if he wanted the questions answered he should do the thing that was right which was to fight an election on the ticket of a deal with Spain and if he got elected we would answer his questions shows how far he has got to go in scraping the bottom of the barrel to justify, why does the Chief Minister not have the guts to say that he is not going to answer any more questions because he is fed up of answering and he just does not want to do it. Why does the Chief Minister have to go back to 1995 to say because I said no to Mr Cummings in 1995 he has to do the same thing in 2004 does he have no initiative of his own, he has to justify everything that he does in reference to me? I feel sorry for the man.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Firstly, I do not think it is a matter of guts. I know that the Leader of the Opposition sees everything in the language of the street fighter, I do not. I do not think it is a matter of guts but if it is a question of guts I said five minutes ago that I was not willing to answer any more questions on supplementary so if it is a matter of guts I am glad that he agrees that I have got guts. Secondly, I did not say that I was not willing to answer any more questions on health because he had not answered Mr Cumming's questions. That was my answer to his party colleague of the same GSLP that did that to Mr Cumming rising to impugn our attitude and suggesting that saying that 35 supplementaries is enough as far as the Government are concerned somehow suggests an attitude of lack of accountability. So, I think in answer to that not in answer to questions on health, it is perfectly legitimate to put in the balance our respective party doctrines in relation to transparency and accountability. As to the rather weak, feeble and unpersuasive explanation that the Leader of the Opposition has tried to give to his undemocratic treatment of my previous party colleague Mr Cumming, his summary of what is alleged to have been said or done inside the GSD is actually not correct but even if it were correct it is not for the Leader of a party in the House in a democratically elected parliament to decide the circumstances in which a Member of the Opposition should or should not be disqualified from the parliamentary privileges and rights which the electorate have bestowed on him. So, regardless of whether it happened the way he claims to have happened it goes not an iota of the way towards justifying what he did at that time. Now, if the Leader of the Opposition thinks that our approach to questions generally and today is comparable to that incident and many others but that one in particular then as is so many other things we shall just have to agree to differ and it is not important to me to change his mind just as it appears non-important to him to allow me to do so. He has his views, I have my views, we debate them as is our democratic right and duty and then we both go our merry way but frankly I would have thought that the facts speak for themselves. The Government which has chosen to answer all these questions together not to deprive the hon Member of supplementaries or to submit itself to some mathematical calculation of the number of supplementaries that the hon Member is entitled to, our position in answer to all of these questions is that we were not going to answer any of them for reasons that we have debated at length and hopefully we are not going to re-open. So, Government could have said none of those questions that the Opposition is now asking are raised by our answer they are not just supplementaries to our original answer. We have allowed an hour and a half of supplementaries and we think that an hour and a half of supplementaries is enough even on 28 questions even if they had been asked and answered.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Would Government not agree that it is not that we have an hour and a half on supplementaries it is that we have 20 minutes of questions and then one hour and ten minutes predominantly of speeches by the Chief Minister very little of which has got to do with the question the bulk of which is that he likes the sound of his voice and he likes the warm support from the rest of the Government who seem to be here predominantly in order to give him that support because he deals with all the supplementaries on all the subjects. It is very commendable because he spans everything from electricity generating sets to training needs in the hospital department. Fine, but if he chooses to answer for all the eight ministries and he does it at great length then an hour and a half is very little time to deal with the questions in which we are seeking factual answers and I would point him to Question No 163 of 2004 given that the Chief Minister says that none of the supplementaries have got to do with the original explanation. Is it the case that there is, forget whether the thing is contained in the first phase of the report or not contained, no training of staff when new equipment is introduced? That is either factually the case or not factually the case. I would have thought that to say to Government in the light of the explanations that they gave originally why they did not want to make statements on the Governance report, the point that I have made and the point which I thought the Chief Minister had accepted was that whilst I accepted the logic of his argument initially I put it to him that that argument was not equally applicable with the same strength to each and every one of the questions. The Government should know. They cannot blame the staff, the professionals et cetera if there is a question on this on the Order Paper which refers to the training of staff when new equipment is introduced the Government can say, "..as far as we are concerned there is training of staff," or "as far as we are concerned we agree factually there is no training of staff." If there is no training of staff then I would have thought, there might not have been training of staff before 1996 for all I know, there might not have been training of staff before 1988 for all I know, but if Government agrees that there is no training of staff now then the Opposition wants to know and if Government thinks that there should be training of staff having established that there is none we would like to know and those are perfectly legitimate supplementaries on questions related with health. But, if the answer is that what did I say when Mr Cummings was here in 1995 to a question of training of staff then it is hardly surprising that we take so long to go through the supplementaries so do Government have anything to say about whether there is training for staff with new equipment or not or is it that they do not want to tell us?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Leader of the Opposition might be interested in knowing that that was a nine minute speech and it has not persuaded Government to change the answer that we are not answering any more supplementaries on this question.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am glad I have just made the Chief Minister answer it shows how vulnerable he is.

HON F R PICARDO:

We have had in the region of 36 supplementaries in relation to the number of questions but only .....

MR SPEAKER:

You have had 42.

HON F R PICARDO:

...42 that helps my argument because of those 42 I have only seen the Minister for Health rise to answer three times and I have seen the Minister for Financial Services, Industrial Relations, the Economy and External Relations, Electricity Authority, Matters of the Environment, some matters of culture, certain aspects of Trade and Industry, most aspects of Social Services et cetera and many aspects of Housing answer to answer most of the others. Would government not agree as a matter of fact that that says a lot about the Chief Minister's style of government?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

What I think it says is as the hon Member is not aware this is not a supplementary I am willing to defend my style of Government, what it shows is that as the hon Member presumably does not know is that the Chief Minister is ministerially responsible for the overall supervision of all departments and that is stated in the distribution of my ministerial responsibilities. The overall supervision of all Government departments is one of my ministerial responsibilities. The fact that I choose to take my responsibilities more seriously than my immediate predecessor is a comment on him not on me.

HON F R PICARDO:

Going back to the original answer given to the 27 original questions, one of the Ministers for Health read a statement saying that the report does not intent to apportion blame but to diagnose problems and went on to suggest that if the report had been carried out between 1988 and 1996 it would have found a much worse state of affairs. What Government failed to recognise implicit in that statement is that having been in charge of the health services for eight years the criticisms made now are criticisms for which Government must take full political responsibility although they accept that as a matter of fact they have been in charge of this health service now for eight years.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does the Chief Minister not consider or accept that he loses credibility when in his New Year Message he says the following, "There will be a speedy and effective Complaints Procedure with an independent appeals level," when there has been a Complaints Procedure in place for the last six years which has been totally a failure and that therefore he loses credibility because nobody believes him anymore? Do Government not accept that for nearly three years the Opposition has been warning them about the problems at the A and E Department where patients have been subjected to waiting for hours before seeing a senior house officer and that therefore the analysis that we have actually made over these problems actually coincide not only with the report which they commission but also with all the complaints that we have received in our offices over the delays they are subjected to in the A and E Department?

MR SPEAKER:

Now I have got to intervene. If the position is that there is not going to be any answer I cannot allow any more supplementaries because they are not going to be answered.

HON J J BOSSANO:

If we have got the right to ask the question the fact that we do not get an answer does not remove the right to ask the question.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

But it is not a supplementary question.

HON F R PICARDO:

It is to the original answer.

HON J J BOSSANO:

If it is a particular supplementary then certainly we will make a point of making sure that they are supplementary.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will Government not accept that it is a fact that because the Complaints Procedure has been a failure this is one of the reasons why so many hundreds of people have come to see us with complaints and will the previous Minister for Health not accept that every time that I have contacted him or sent him a letter with the many complaints that I have received of the patients that have come to see me they have all been legitimate complaints?

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can Government confirm whether it is factually true that demand is increasing for most laboratory services?

HON F R PICARDO:

Given that there is a finding in the Healthcare Development's Team Report that individuals have been known to wait at Accident and Emergency for over an hour and that on some occasions in the past, I am sure Government are aware that even individuals arriving with chest pain at Accident and Emergency have had to wait for more than an hour is Government not concerned as a matter of fact that fellow Gibraltarians of ours should have to wait for Accident and Emergency treatment for that long and even that they should continue to wait even if the new hospital is going to resolve all those matters miraculously as the Minister for Health has suggested that even today we should not be doing something urgently to ensure that that is not the case because that raises a serious issue of fact that our fellow Gibraltarians are having to wait as the Government's experts have found for over an hour at Accident and Emergency?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

To which of the original questions is that supplementary to?

HON F R PICARDO:

I am quite happy to answer that question of the Chief Minister it is in supplementary to Question No 160 of 2004 which reads as follows, "Does Government now agree with the comments made in the first phase of the report of September 2003 by the Gibraltar Healthcare Development Team that there is nearly an hour's wait for patients to be seen at the Accident and Emergency Department?"

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Do Government not accept that in most specialities additions to the waiting lists exceed admission rates, that these waiting lists are increasing and that therefore what we have been saying in this House for the past four years is a correct analysis, that waiting lists have increased and continue to increase and that this is totally unacceptable?

HON F R PICARDO:

Given the Government's failure to reply to my supplementary question a few moments ago about the wait of at times almost or over an hour by our fellow Gibraltarians at Accident and Emergency for treatment can I ask Government what are they doing to make sure that those waits do not occur because if somebody were to die as a result of that and the Government had not answered our question I would have to assume that they are doing nothing and that therefore political responsibility for any such demise would be on their hands?

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it correct that the waiting time for routine tests in the x-ray department is running at between three to six weeks depending on the type of tests?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Are Government in a position to accept that waiting times are excessive for almost all services within the GHA?

HON J J BOSSANO:

Have Government established that it is factually correct that the dental service is understaffed for the demand and that therefore waiting times are excessive for this particular service and are they in the process of doing anything to correct the understanding?

HON F R PICARDO:

What are Government doing to address the problem of there being no training for staff when new equipment is introduced that as a user of the health service myself is something that seriously concerns me and I would ask the Chief Minister to address that question please?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Other comments about the dental service are not a complete contradiction of what the Hon Dr Linares said in relation to the dental department when he denied there were waiting lists in that area?

HON J J BOSSANO:

How do Government reconcile the lengthy speech boasting about the level of resources of the health service and the argument that has been used in the House today that it is not a question of lack of resources with the conclusion that Community Services are under resourced, is it that they deny that Community Services are under resourced, are they going to do anything about it if they accept that they are under resourced?

HON L A RANDALL:

Have there been any patient referrals to places other than the UK and Spain?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Do Government recognise that waits for routine tests at the x-ray department from 2002 onwards is excessive running from three to six weeks depending on the type of test?

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it true that the staff have not been consulted and involved in the design and development of the new hospital and if so how do they propose to put this right are they going to delay the new hospital so that Government can see whether the staff have got ideas on redesigning it before Government can finalise the work on it?

HON F R PICARDO:

Given that an answer was not given to my supplementary a few minutes ago will the Chief Minister accept from me that when I resigned my partnership at Hassans to enter politics it was not in order to ask questions of a brick wall and that certainly it does not behold him now to conduct grudge politics and to rely on what may or may not have happened in this House almost a decade ago to avoid serious questions on an issue as serious as the health service that serves us all?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Do Government not accept that there is no training needs analysis for staff and that therefore this can be one of the contributory factors why their moral is also low?

HON L A RANDALL:

Who is responsible for promoting communication within the health service?

HON F R PICARDO:

Who is responsible for promoting communication within this House?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Do Government not accept that Gibraltarians are unhappy about the Primary Care Centre appointment system and that the professionals within it are recommending to the Government that they revert back to the same system, a console one which was similar to the old one in the Health Centre which worked very reliably?

HON L A RANDALL:

Who is politically responsible for the health service?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Is it not the case that in common parliamentary procedures especially in the United Kingdom which we tend to follow it is the actual Prime Minister and his Minister for Health that answers questions in the House of Commons because they are totally responsible for that department?

HON F R PICARDO:

This is my first session of the House. It is only my third day and it feels as if we have been here for a month but can the Chief Minister take it from me that certainly as a citizen and as a tax payer I am not at all impressed by the Government's discharging of it's functions in this House in answering questions in relation to health and that I hope that in the four years of parliament that we have left to work together before the electorate make another decision we will have another opportunity of having much more fruitful debates than the ones that we are unfortunately having at the moment.

HON C A BRUZON:

I am standing up hopefully not for the last time in these four years. I believe in God and with the exception of my Colleague I think the rest of us do. So, I refer to the House the prayer we said on Monday where we asked for wisdom to direct and guide us in all our consultations.

NO. 176 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – NUMBER OF NURSES

Can Government state what was the number of nurses in post as at the end of December 2003 with a breakdown by grade giving the full-time equivalent of each grade?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answered together with Question No 177 and No 178 of 2004.

NO. 177 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – CONTRACT NURSES

Can the Government confirm how many contract nurses are employed by the Gibraltar Health Authority, at the end of December 2003, listing the speciality in which they are employed?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answered together with Question No 176 and No 178 of 2004.

NO. 178 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – NUMBER OF NURSES

Can the Minister for Health confirm how many of our local nurses are presently in the UK for specialist training to enable contract nurses to be replaced?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

There are two local nurses training in the UK developing their careers in mental health nursing and orthopaedic nursing. The GHA through the School of Health Studies is training nursing staff to specialist level in three ways:

1. Delivery of bespoke modules locally;
2. accessing the distance learning courses;
3. sending local nurses to the UK for further training.

This strategy will ensure that the GHA uses all the methods at its disposal in order to train the maximum number of nurses to specialist level. The information requested by the hon Member in answer to Question Nos 176 and 177 of 2004 is contained in the schedule which I now hand to her.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 176 TO 178 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does the Minister for Health not agree that two local nurses specialising in the UK is not enough when we consider that in the last meeting of the House I was given a figure of 39 contract nurses, will the Minister also confirm when it was the last time that the Gibraltar Health Authority sent local nurse to specialise as RMNs?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No I do not agree.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister at least accept to pass over the information as regards when it was the last time that the Gibraltar Health Authority sent local nurses to the UK to train in specialist areas?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

If the hon Lady would like to write to me and specify what exactly it is she would like to know I will answer her question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The Minister says that he does not agree but does he not accept that the number of contract nurses is increasing every time I ask this question, 36 in October, 39 in March, and now I see that there are 49 contract nurses?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I have explained in my original answer that the GHA carries out the training in three ways, it is not necessary to send people to UK. I have given out the three ways in which it is done and I am satisfied of what I have seen so far in the GHA that this method is adequate.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister for Health confirm in relation to the actual complement of nurses that it is nowhere near what the nursing review recommended which they commissioned and which they said they would be accepting and that it was in fact the Hon Mr Keith Azopardi who said when we actually got him to publish the report of the nursing review because they were not in agreement at the beginning that this should be published, did he not say that they expected in the next five years which was in 1997 when he said it, will Government not accept that he did say that Government would adhere to the recommendations of the nursing review that there would be 392 people in post and that he hoped that they would reach that figure within the next five years the five years have now elapsed and they have not reached that figure at all, are Government still committed to the nursing review as Mr Keith Azopardi said?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government are committed to providing the Health Service with the number of nurses that it is professionally advised it requires. The hon Lady may be interested to know although I do not agree with it that informally the view has been expressed to the Government that the staff compliment is already enough for the size and number of beds in the Hospital. So, no, Government are not slavishly committed to a report of six years ago now and as Mr Azopardi has on numerous occasions since explained to the hon Lady in the House that the Government have implemented all those recommendations of that report as it has been accepted for implementation. That there are no accepted recommendations which are not yet implemented.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it still the policy of the Government to use contract nurses temporarily until they can be replaced by locally recruited trained nurses?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is the policy of the Government that the demand for qualified nurses should be satisfied to the greatest possible extent by local resident nursing staff it is cheaper but that requires that there should be sufficiently trained local staff. We have had a debate or discussion recently I cannot remember if it was inside or outside this House about the Government's policy allowing enrolled nurses to qualify and that is in hand and it is a potential source of more qualified nurses.

HON J J BOSSANO:

That is not my question. My question is whether the policy still is as we were told it was once that the use of contract nurses was because the qualified nurses could not be produced from local resources overnight and it was to bridge the gap and that the purpose of that exercise was that as new locally entered nurses qualified they would start replacing contract nurses as their contracts came up for renewal is that still the policy or not?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes. In principle it is if the point that he is making is ".....is the Government using contract nurses as an alternative to permanent and pensionable nurses?" the answer is no to that extent it is if there were enough nurses available in Gibraltar to recruit on a permanent and pensionable basis of the sort that we would like to recruit permanent and pensionable we would. When we have to import them they are on contract and not permanent and pensionable precisely so that there is more flexibility as to their replacement as and when there are more of the local nurses. The answer is therefore yes that remains the Government's policy on the whole.

HON J J BOSSANO:

It is not the case that contract nurses are being converted into permanent and pensionable or that contract nurses are actually being sent on courses to the United Kingdom when they were originally recruited so that somebody else could go on course that is not the case.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not know if there were already instances of it, I suppose that if there are vacancies for permanent and pensionable nurses contract nurses who may have been here for some time might apply, I do not know if there have been any such incidents, they are not precluded from applying for permanent and pensionable posts but the answer to his original is as it is. Contract nurses are not supposed to serve the same long term need as the permanent and pensionable nurses.

The following is a breakdown of Whole Time Equivalent in post as at 31st December 2003:

| Nursing Assistant.....                            | 95.5   |

There were 49 contract nurses employed by the Gibraltar Health Authority. The breakdown by specialities is as follows:

|                                     |    |
|-------------------------------------|----|
| Clinical Nurse Managers (Maternity) | 1  |
| Education Development Officer       | 1  |
| Nurse Tutor                         | 1  |
| Nurse Practitioner                  | 2  |
| Registered General Nurse            | 21 |
| Registered Mental Nurse             | 5  |
| Registered Sick Children's Nurse    | 4  |
| Staff Midwife                       | 11 |
| Enrolled Nurse                      | 3  |

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – ENROLLED NURSE

Can Government state whether any Enrolled Nurses have now applied to be able to train up to the level of Staff Nurse?

ANSWER

No.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 179 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister give the reasons why they have not applied, I know that the previous Minister said that as an entrance requirement they require not GCSE's but registration with the UKCC, is that correct?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The requirement is that they either have to obtain five GCSE's and commence training as a student in order to attain the level of staff nurse or alternatively to be eligible for registration in the UK to undertake the conversion course. The problem was that locally enrolled nurses are not eligible to register in the UK and this meant that they could not take the conversion course unless they had the 5 GCSE's and as we speak Government are working on a solution. The School of Health Studies has made submissions to the Nurses, Midwives and Health Visitors Registration Board and the Board is currently assessing the submission that has been made and I am advised that it is probable that a solution will be found very shortly.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So all the previous information that we have been given in this House is incorrect?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No this is a development since the previous information was given.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

In March, in answer to Question No 987 of 2003 we were told by the previous Minister for Health, "..at the moment we are depending on a course which is issued by IMAP College which is a licensee who delivers such courses but they require as an interest requirement not GCSE's but registration with the UKCC."

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes that is what has been said that IMAP are prepared to offer conditional acceptance to enrolled nurses if Gibraltar finds a way to enrol them locally and this is the process that is being worked out at the moment.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I thought you said that members had to have GCSE's.....

MR SPEAKER:

You have already exhausted your .....

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

But I have heard the hon Member say.....

MR SPEAKER:

You have exhausted your supplementaries, do not answer.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Are you reinstating your previous ruling?

MR SPEAKER:

Yes.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I have not finished.

MR SPEAKER:

You have asked the question.

HON J J BOSSANO:

No, I wanted to know whether you are reinstating it for this particular session or as a permanent fixture?

MR SPEAKER:

That I cannot tell you it depends how things go.

HON J J BOSSANO:

On what does it depend on how late we are?

MR SPEAKER:

No, no. The hon Member was not here I am not going to give any further information it is on now and it will be on tomorrow.

HON J J BOSSANO:

And it will be on tomorrow.....

MR SPEAKER:

Maybe for the whole of the term.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I will have to put Mr Speaker on notice that in the case of that event we will have to give notice tomorrow that we would like to reintroduce the motion that Mr Speaker advised me to introduce before questioning Mr Speaker's ruling.

MR SPEAKER:

Yes, perfectly. Once the Leader of the Opposition has introduced the motion I will vacate the Chair.

HON J J BOSSANO:

That is your prerogative Mr Speaker we have been elected here to do a job and I am afraid that the Speaker has been approved by us to do a job and we do not think that the job is to stop us asking questions which is what Mr Speaker is doing.

MR SPEAKER:

It is on, it is entirely up to you what you wish to do. I now have to ask the Chief Minister whether it is his intention to stay here until.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes Mr Speaker I was rather meaning to finish these questions today.

MR SPEAKER:

The Chief Minister might have to appoint a Speaker before 10 o'clock because I am not going to stay after 11 o'clock I think it is a very unchristian hour. None of the Members have had their dinner neither have I.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Mr Speaker has the power and authority to adjourn the House whenever he wants he is not surely suggesting that I should move the motion on the basis of what he has just said. If Mr Speaker wants to get up and adjourn the House regardless of the views of all the Members then I certainly will differ to Mr Speaker's decision but it is unprecedented according to the history of this House but Mr Speaker you are the Speaker.

MR SPEAKER:

All right. All I Have got to know is at what time does the Chief Minister want to start tomorrow 10 o'clock?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I will check what is convenient assuming that I want to come tomorrow that that is what I had in mind. I was going to adjourn the House until Friday it is now not possible it now has to be until tomorrow.

MR SPEAKER:

Will it be 10 or 3 o'clock?

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is there a problem of taking the remaining questions in private with the Government?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not think that the adjournments in the House should be negotiated. Mr Speaker this is not subject for negotiation surely not everything about the tradition and practices of this House is going to be thrown out of the window in one day's session of the Parliament. I am not prepared to play that ball game. If Mr Speaker decides to adjourn the House today notwithstanding that the Leader of the House has not moved a motion Mr Speaker can do it and then I will say when I would like the House to reconvene to.

MR SPEAKER:

All right we adjourn until tomorrow.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No Mr Speaker can adjourn and I will say when the date is.

MR SPEAKER:

I adjourn the House.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Given that Mr Speaker has indicated that he is not willing to sit beyond 11 o'clock tonight and the Attorney General is not here to take over from him which he most certainly would if he were, then I adjourn the House until 9.15 am tomorrow morning.

MR SPEAKER:

Alright adjourned to tomorrow at 9.15 am.

NO. 180 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – DIALYSIS EQUIPMENT

Can Government state how long the emergency dialysis equipment has been installed at St Bernard's Hospital, what was the cost, and on how many occasions has it been used?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The emergency dialysis equipment was provided by the dialysis unit in La Linea and is on loan. We have not been invoiced for this equipment. Equipment for water purification at a cost of £5,000 was ordered in November 2000 and arrived in 2001. All the equipment was tested and commissioned later that year. The equipment has not as yet been used.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 180 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister say why they have actually gone to the extent of getting this equipment from La Linea and it still has not been used?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I would have thought that the hon Lady's own question would have given her her own answer. It is emergency equipment for use in an emergency not for routine treatment.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister not confirm that there have been emergency situations when patients have had to be taken straight to La Linea and that this machine could have actually been used to save their lives?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No, I cannot confirm that but if that indeed is what has happened then I have full confidence in the professionals who took the decision and more confidence in them than in the implied criticism of the hon Lady.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Why did the Minister actually say in a debate in television to the Hon Member Mr Picardo that there was when he said that there was a lack still of dialysis facilities in Gibraltar and he said, "oh, but there is in St Bernard's," was he not implying that that equipment was there for some purpose?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

We shall have to rely once more on the Hon Mr Picardo's mother's video. What I do remember saying is that in the new hospital there will be full CT Scans facilities and that all patients needing CT Scans would be catered for in the local hospital. In terms of dialysis if I did not use the word "emergency" as the adjective in front of the word dialysis then that was my error but that is what the equipment is. It is an emergency equipment and is there for emergency and not routine use.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can I just clarify, if nobody else is asking the third question can the hon Lady continue and ask it herself?

MR SPEAKER:

She has already asked the third question.

NO. 181 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – PSYCHO-GERIATRIC PATIENTS

Can Government state how many psycho-geriatric patients have been admitted in KGV from 1st March to end of December 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

There were a total of 12 psycho-geriatric admissions into KGV from 1st March to the end of December 2003.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 181 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So this is in fact an increase on the figures that I have been given previously is that correct?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I do not have in front of me the figures that the hon Lady has been previously given.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

If the average has been four to five everytime that I have asked this question can the Minister not confirm that this in fact is an increase and I am quoting from information that I have here with me of previous questions that I have asked in this House?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

My two year-old grand-daughter who I have just said goodbye to on her way back home could have answered the question obviously 12 is bigger than two.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So why does the Minister not answer it why does he not have the relevant information available at hand when it is related to the original question?

NO. 182 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – STAFF/ENROLLED NURSES

Can Government now confirm what is their position in relation to a letter Staff Nurses and Enrolled Nurses received early this year, from the registration board, requiring them to produce a portfolio of learning when they apply for re-registration, something which they are now required to do every three years?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answered together with Question Nos 208 and 209 of 2004.

NO. 183 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – NURSING PRACTICES

Is it the position of the Government that the nursing practices and procedures in our Health Services, are currently 50 years out of date?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

As in other areas of healthcare, nursing practices and procedures are constantly changing. The Government are pleased that the GHA provides facilities to continue to update its staff as per current best practice in the UK and elsewhere. It also notes the stand adopted by the Nurses Midwives and Health Visitors Registration Board in requiring presentation of portfolios containing professional development as a pre-requisite to re-registration.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 183 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I do not think that I have got an answer to my question. I am asking Government whether they believe, in fact they have said so on a couple of occasions, when they say, “...Gibraltar has to look objectively and critically at the habits, practices and cultures that have become embedded in our health service over forty years or more,” is that not what the Government are saying that the practices are outdated?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, and I was curious where the hon Lady gets this 50 years out of date and suggesting that we have said that they are 50 years out-of-date. I am grateful in effect for confirming that Government have never said that. Government have never said that nursing practices are either 50 or any shorter or longer number of years out-of-date. What Government have said specifically myself is that whatever are our medical care services delivery practices whether they be nursing, management, medical, whatever, have developed over 40 years the figure 50 is hers and that it is time to stop to review them to see whether any need to be done differently than what they have been done during the last 40 or 50 years. The process which seems to me to be eminently sensible that something that one has been doing without change for 40 years given that the world changes and moves on around oneself is worth stopping to examine them to see if one is doing them well, in which case one carries on doing them, if one is doing them very badly in which case one changes them all together, or if there are aspects that one is doing well and aspects that one is doing badly in which case one modifies the ones that one is doing badly and carry on doing the aspects that one is doing well that is not either to suggest, still less to state that they are out-of-date by 50 or any other number of years. It simply means that it is sensible and prudent to assess ones practice to see if it is up-to-standard, up-to-date and to see if it requires modifications in the interests of the improvement of the service. That is what Government have said and contrary to the hon Lady's constant public assertions and insinuations falsely to the contrary Government have never suggested that they are out-of-date by 50 or any other specific number of years.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister for Health then explain what Government mean when they say that the habits, practices and cultures that have been embedded in our health service over 40 years or more are out-of-date can he explain which practices?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is precisely what the Health Reform Development Review is about. Sometimes I wonder whether the hon Lady specifies nurses because she thinks there are 250 of them and there is an army of potential people to get on her side and against the Government. Why is she not concerned that what she thinks we have insinuated that doctor's practices might be 50 years out of date or that management practices may be 50 years out-of-date or the system of funding the Health Authority by the Government may be 50 years out-of-date? We have never mentioned nurses specifically, we say there is a thorough review of every aspect of the Health Authority to see whether the practices of the past can be continued, need to be changed, or can continue subject to improvement and modification. That is what Government have said, that is what the review is about and to ask Government in what areas they think past practices need to be changed is simply to ask Government to state here and now what the results of the review is going to be and the Government will not do that.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will Government not accept that these reviews over practices in our health services have been an on-going process and may I remind him that we have had visits from the UKCC and we have had visits from people of Sheffield University when they have visited Gibraltar when GSLP was in Government that have said and I quote, "...although our visit was brief your officials have planned a comprehensive programme which enables to see the delivery of healthcare in Gibraltar in a wide variety of settings we saw many examples of excellent nursing and midwifery care and we were impressed by the increasing commitment to continue education." Another letter from the University of Sheffield saying, "At the same time we provided an overall evaluation of nursing and midwifery education and visited all wards and departments. Our findings indicated that the standard of nursing and midwifery care in Gibraltar was equal to that provided within the UK and that the Commitment of the Government to education and training of nurses was such that we were mostly impressed.” Will the Chief Minister not confirm that in last year’s budget speech the previous Minister for Health said that, “.....in recognition of the achievement by all those engaged in the School of Health Studies please allow me to quote from the report by the validation panel of Sheffield University who visited Gibraltar in January to monitor progress in the school. They were extremely impressed by the progress achieved since the initial validation. The panel was particularly impressed to hear the culture shift that has taken place in nurse education.” Are Government then not accepting the fact that our nursing practices are as good as if not better than those in the UK already?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am not familiar with the standards of nursing practice in the UK so I could not possibly make a comparison for the benefit of the hon Lady.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

But the UKCC has and they are the highest authority in this area will the Chief Minister not agree with the highest authority in this area?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Lady can ask the UK authority to express the comparison that the hon Lady has stated, ask them, I am not qualified to make comparisons between nursing standards between one territory and another.

GHA - GYNAECOLOGIST CONSULTANT

Can the Government confirm whether they have now been successful in recruiting the second resident post of Gynaecologist?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The successful candidate will commence duties on 1st February 2004.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 184 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can Government explain why it has taken them nearly three years in which to recruit the second post of gynaecologist?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

First of all Government should be congratulated for having created a new post and added to the strength of the GHA by providing a second Gynaecologist rather than criticise Government for taking what in the hon Lady's view seems to be too long. Secondly, I am advised that the process has gone through the normal process of interviews and selection. There have been applications and people have not been found suitable and that it has now culminated in someone being chosen. The hon Lady rather than implying criticism should be pleased that the Government if necessary takes longer than necessary in order to make sure that the best candidate is chosen and not just the first applicant.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

How can the Opposition congratulate them when it was a commitment in their manifesto to employ a second gynaecologist and because of the fact that it has taken Government this long there have been patients waiting for more than a year just to have an appointment to see the Gynaecologist, how can one congratulate them?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

If the hon Lady was not so ungenerous in nature she might at least congratulate us for having lived up to our manifesto commitment if for nothing else. Given that the birth rate in Gibraltar is now lower than it was when the hon Lady was in office and therefore there were more pregnancy related demands on the Gynaecologist, I acknowledge that the Gynaecologists do not deal only with pregnancy, if the hon Lady thought for eight years that one Gynaecologist was enough how does the hon Lady now feel justified in criticising Government for taking what the hon Lady thinks is a month or two too long to recruit a second Gynaecologist when the hon Lady was quite content that for eight years the community had to make do with just one and then because she wrongly thinks that a few weeks too many have been taken to employ the second Gynaecologist the hon Lady suddenly becomes the crusader in favour of all those women whom the hon Lady thinks had to wait for the second Gynaecologist to be recruited. Well, it is necessarily the case that all those people that waited three or four extra weeks for our second Gynaecologist waited in vain eight years for the second Gynaecologist whilst the hon Lady was Minister for Health.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I have made the comments that I have because we are not talking like the Chief Minister is saying about a matter of weeks and we are not saying that women have had to wait extra few weeks to see the Gynaecologist. I am telling the Chief Minister that we have had to wait for years for the second Gynaecologist and I made the comments that I did because that situation never existed when Opposition was in Government. Nobody was subjected to have to see a Gynaecologist for more than six months.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is disgraceful that people should have to wait six months to see a Gynaecologist. Is that the standards that the hon Lady found acceptable when she was Minister for Health?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I said a maximum and in any case does the Chief Minister not feel that it is disgraceful to have to wait for years with this Government?

NO. 185 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – DR MENA

Can the Government state what are the terms and conditions of employment of Dr Mena, a general practitioner in the Primary Care Centre?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Dr Mena is filling a vacancy at the Primary Care Centre and is currently engaged as a locum General Practitioner.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 185 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Is it not the case that when Dr Mena applied the first time he was told that he could not apply?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Lady should not waste any of her three supplementaries in just a point of clarification but when Dr Mena first applied for an established post that had become vacant he was told by the Medical Selection Board that there was a certificate of some sort that he did not possess then. I think it was a certificate of vocational training in general practice. It may not be the right name for it but it was something to show that he had been trained up basically in GP work as opposed to just medical qualifications generally. Nevertheless because of Dr Mena's obvious popularity amongst a large number of Health Centre patients Government decided to keep him on in an extended locum capacity this is why I have drawn the distinction between a vacancy for an established post that had become vacant. Dr Mena is in effect on extended locum terms. He is now the applicant for a vacancy that was advertised some time ago. There is another applicant short-listed too and I understand that he now possess the certificate that he was missing at the first time of asking. A decision as to how the current vacancy that exists is going to be filled and whether it will be given to Dr Mena or to the other applicant who is a Gibraltarian doctor that has applied from the UK that still remains under consideration.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Irrespective of whether Dr Mena is a locum or has a contract with Government are Government saying that they treat locums differently and that they therefore do not require the paper that the Chief Minister says were waiting to see that he had, if he exercises his duties as General Practitioner surely the Government should be as concerned whether he has it or not irrespective of whether he is a locum or a permanent and pensionable or a contract GP.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government have none of the concerns that the hon Lady describes. I happen to agree entirely with everything that the hon Lady has just said. These are not the Government, these are internal medical board decisions. I personally agree entirely that there is no logic whatsoever in requiring higher standards of permanent post fillers than of locums because the question is that people are either safe in ones hands or they are not and the idea that they are safe in ones hands for three months but not safe in ones hands for three years is no consolation to the people that one has treated during the three months as opposed to the people that are treated during the subsequent two years and nine months. The explanation proffered to the Government by the Management of the Health Authority which I find personally entirely unpersuasive is that whilst one is a locum one is under the supervision of another doctor in the Health Authority that does have, the hon Lady smirks I did more than smirk or smile when I was told I am not adopting these I am reciting them to the hon Lady with a degree of cynicism because I have never frankly been persuaded by that view and I am not of that view. I do not believe that there is anybody actually supervising Dr Mena on a day-to-day basis as he goes about his business in the Health Centre and that therefore the requirement that had been imposed on Dr Mena before which was a requirement established in the Rule Book it was not something that somebody pulled out .....it was a requirement but it always struck me as illogical for the very reason that the hon Lady had said. Namely if this is a requirement for safe GP practice it should have been imposed both on locums and on contract officers and I expressed no view as to whether it is sensible or not sensible to recruit to make that requirement I am not qualified to judge but as a layman I am allowed to transact in logic and my layman's logic is that if this is something that is necessary to practice medicine safely in our Health Centre it should be required of everybody or of nobody but not of some and not of others depending on whether one is a locum or a contract officer or a permanent and pensionable officer on the basis that one is theoretically supervised and the other is not when the practice is that there is no supervision of that sort. So, at last we have alighted on an issue in relation to the Health Service after four or five or six hours of debates masquerading as questions and answers upon which the hon Lady and I appear to be able to agree.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will the Government therefore not agree that if Dr Mena has been working as a locum for three years that he has an advantage over other people that have not been there practising?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not know whether agreeing with the hon Lady on matters of health is good or bad for my personal health but I agree with her again. I agree entirely with the remark that I have made. The problem is that Government are humstrung by the fact that government Ministers do not exercise these choices personally. There are Boards, Medical Recruitment Boards, Medical Registration Boards and the Government have to have its say by way of representations. Ministers do not personally hand pick any Crown employee even doctors at the Health Service. So, I am explaining to the hon Lady my personal views and political Government's views. We would very much hope that the excellent common sense which must belong to any view which is shared by all the Members of the House will be taken on board by those that have to make the actual recruitment selection.

GHA – COMMUNITY NURSING MANAGER

Can Government confirm that no applicants from within the Health Service were found suitable for appointment to fill the vacancy for Community Nursing Manager at the Primary Care Centre in November 2002, and if so, how long has the post been vacant for and how were the responsibilities of the post carried out during this time?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answered together with Question No 187 of 2004.

NO. 187 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – DIRECTOR OF NURSING SERVICES

Can Government confirm why no applicants from within the Health Service were found suitable for appointment to fill the vacancy for Director of Nursing Services last year, and if so, how have the duties of this post been carried out?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Government can confirm that six applications were received for the post of Clinical Nurse Manager in Primary Care in November 2002 and that the panel did not find the applicants suitable for the post. The vacancy was re-advertised late last year and an appointment was made in November 2003. While the post was vacant the duties were carried out by another Clinical Manager with the assistance and under the supervision of the Director of Nursing Services and more recently the acting Director of Nursing Services. Government can also confirm that two applications were received for the post of Director of Nursing Services and that the panel did not find the applicants suitable for the post. The duties of this post are currently being carried out by the Deputy Director of Nursing Services.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 186 AND 187 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can Government confirm that the people that applied for the post of Community Nursing Manager actually did so on the basis that their advert included the qualifications that were required?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Just before the Minister answers the hon Lady's supplementary could I just be allowed to say something in the interests of fairness. One officer has been identified by post. The Deputy Director of Nursing is said to be acting it is also being said that none of the applicants were found to be suitable. Some people may choose to assume that the Deputy Director would apply for the Director's post and therefore deduce from that the Deputy Director who can be identified personally has been found to be not suitable that is not correct he did not apply for the post and therefore there is no insinuation or implication in the answer that the Deputy Director was found unsuitable.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

In answer to the hon Lady's question I did not have responsibility for this in November 2002 but I would assume that if the applications were accepted then the applicants must have had the correct qualifications otherwise the applications would not have been accepted.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Would Government therefore not agree that this is a very peculiar situation where six people apply with the right qualifications and they are not found suitable?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

These matters are either dealt with by an independent board appointed for the purpose or they are interfered with by the Government. Here we have a case where the board has been appointed, they have examined the people and they have decided that none are suitable. The hon Lady raises the matter two years later. If the Minister at the time, management or somebody else at the time had interfered and had come in and said no, no, one is suitable and had employed someone else presumably the hon Lady would now be standing up and in her inimitable style criticising the Government for having changed the decision of the Board. The hon Lady cannot have it both ways an independent Board makes a decision and either the hon Lady should get up and be honest and clear, is she questioning the members of the Board, is the hon lady insinuating that the members of the Board have not acted properly, what does the hon Lady mean that it is strange that none were found suitable? That is what the Board is there for to interview the applicants and they found no one suitable so what is the hon Lady saying that the Board were not doing their job properly? It certainly was not the Minister who made the decision, certainly not the CEO, so if the hon Lady wants to ask the question and make an insinuation let her say so. If the hon Lady is saying that the Board is not doing the job properly the members of the Board are failing in their duties is that what the hon Lady is saying because if that is what the hon Lady is saying then let the hon Lady phrase her question in that way.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I do not want the Minister to put words in my mouth. I have not said that at all, in the previous question the Chief Minister agreed with me in relation to similar situation regarding Dr Mena's position all I am saying is I am not in any way questioning the Board's decision but what I am saying is it is not so that if anyone puts an advert out for a particular position and the advert actually says these are the qualifications required that six people apply and none of the six are found suitable. All I am saying is do Government not feel or think or believe that that is a peculiar situation?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Just to answer her last point first no, because published academic qualifications are just one of the many criteria that apply when determining whether somebody is suitable. A job might require four O'Levels, I might have four O'Levels it does not necessarily mean that I am a suitable candidate for the job. I may have many qualities and characteristics that make me unsuitable for the job and therefore possessing, these are minimum qualifications not that if one has got four O'Levels one can have the job. No, no unless one has got four O'Levels one will not be considered for the job but if one has got five O'Levels and can be considered for the job now let us see whether one is otherwise suitable. That is the main point. The secondary point is that the exchange that one had on the previous question relating to Dr Mena cannot be compared to the exchange that the hon Lady has had with my hon Colleague on the question of a Selection Board judgement as to whether somebody is suitable or not. I have not said that I have agreed or disagreed with the finding of a Board as to whether somebody is suitable by reference to his qualities, what I have said is, given that it is a matter of legislation, that it seems to me illogical that certain minimum requirements of the O'Level sort not of the other type should be required from contract doctors but not from locums that is not an interference with the judgement in a particular case of a Board of Selection it is saying to the Government's recruitment machinery one has to be logical, rational and coherent in the criteria that one applies in the recruitment process. The hon Lady I hope will acknowledge that on this issue of Selection Boards she is in effect asking Ministers to account and to explain and justify or to comment on, or to express opinions about, if she is not doing any of those things then she should not be asking Government questions or rather she is questioning the Government about things that are not the Minister's functions and responsibilities and there is a limit to the extent to which Ministers can be held to account for things that are outside their scope of personal power because at the end of the day even if we were to agree with the judgement in any particular case that a Board has made a peculiar decision. We have discussed one such case in the past but if there were such a case at the end of the day what Government could say is, "...we are not putting up to the Governor a minute for the employment of that person." That is the power that the Government have if we do not like the decision of a Selection Board we can discontinue the recruitment and employ nobody and start again but we cannot impose our own judgements as to suitability on a judgement by the Board that no one is suitable. I do not know if the hon Lady recalls a discussion that we had in the last House about a situation that I personally found peculiar to the point of inexplicability. There was a case of a man whose name I will not mention but who the hon Lady will be able to identify who had been acting Director of Postal Services at SEO level for three and a half years, acting, and when he eventually applied for the post and the grade of SEO some Board decided that he was not suitable and I said to them, "Wait a minute I do not know whether this man is suitable or not but how can it be said of somebody that has been doing the job for three and a half years and acting in the grade for three and a half years how can it be said of him that he is not suitable?" That was to me an extraordinary decision it did not mean that I had the power to promote him, I did not have the power to promote him and therefore I could not over-ride the decision of the Board. I am just using it to illustrate the constraints that there are at the political level of Government when Selection Boards make what the hon Lady might regard or in another case not on this one Government might regard as peculiar decisions Government have to live around them. In that case Government allowed him to continue indefinitely as acting which was the only thing that Government could do to remedy what we regarded as a peculiar decision. I do not think it is fair to hold Ministers to account for things that (a) is not in Government's power but (b) if Government tried to make it our power I am sure that the hon Members would criticise and rightly so because Government would then be in a position where Ministers were personally deciding who should be recruited into the Civil Service and I do not think that that is prudent.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I agree with the Chief Minister I am not in any way suggesting that the should interfere, I was just hoping that they would just express the same opinion that I have, can Government confirm whether if in fact the Deputy Director of Nursing Services has been acting and he has expressed no desire to actually apply for the post and two applications were received and the panel did not find the applicants suitable whether in effect this means that Government will have to recruit somebody from outside?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

What it means is that the post will have to be considered in the context of the reviews that are currently taking place in management posts.

NO. 188 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – CONTRACT OFFICERS

Can the Government state whether the Gibraltar Health Authority allows contract officers that have been recruited whilst local employees are sent for training to the UK, to themselves apply to be sent for training to the UK during their contract period?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

No. It is not the policy of the GHA to allow contract officers that been specifically recruited to replace local employees who are sent for training to the UK to themselves apply to be sent for training in the UK during their contract period.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 188 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does that mean that a contract officer did indeed apply and the GHA have said no?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am not sure that I understand the question but if the hon Lady is referring to a specific case this has only happened once, there is a specific case where a contract officer was sent to UK for training on one occasion for specific reasons.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

If the Minister said it is not the policy of the GHA to do it and it has happened on one specific occasion is it not in contradiction to the original answer that I got from the Minister and in view of the fact that I have only got two supplementaries can he confirm why this specific officer was indeed sent when the policy of the GHA as he has just said is in contradiction to the second reply I have got from the Minister?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

It is not in contradiction it is the policy not to do it but it does not mean that it is forbidden from it being done under special circumstances. These were special circumstances this gentleman was promoted within the GHA during the period that he was holding this contract appointment and one of the conditions of the appointment was that it required a period of training in UK, a qualification in order to be able to carry out the work so on this occasion an exception was made to the policy because one could not discriminate against the application under EU law and he applied for the post and he was successful. Having been successful if Government had applied the policy that says that one cannot go to UK for training then the hon Member would be standing up here now and criticising us for having had someone in post without the proper training. So, the exception was made to the policy on this specific occasion exceptionally to allow the person to go to qualify so that he could do the job that he had been accepted for and be properly qualified to do it.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does that mean that even if the GHA have a policy they cannot adhere to that policy because under EU law they are unable to and secondly can the Government confirm that if a contract officer applies for further training surely would it not be more logical for Government to offer the training to local nurses rather than have a situation as we seem to be having in answers to questions that I have put in this House whereby we are seeing a trend that more and more contract nurses are being employed by Government and it could end up with a situation that the GHA have more people on contract basis employed than local nurses?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

First of all the hon Lady has lost sight of the answer that she got to the original question. The answer to the original question was and I remind her of it, “...it is not the policy of the GHA to allow contract officers that have been specifically recruited to replace local employees who are sent for training in the UK to themselves apply for training.” In other words, the policy is not that contract officers are not sent for training the policy is which the answer referred that if I have a Member of staff who I sent off for training for a year to the UK and whilst he is away in the UK for a year I bring somebody else on contract for a year to cover for him whilst he is away being trained, I do not send the covering recruit for training as well. That is the policy we referred to in the answer the answer did not say anything about a policy of not sending for training contract officers only those contract officers that had been specifically recruited to cover for local employees who were themselves absent in training. All the supplementaries that the hon Lady has developed since then have failed to take account of that very important nuance in the answer that she received. As to her last supplementary point we can have this exchange on every question to do with recruitment of health service staff, it is the policy of the Government that as much of its staff not just in health but in all areas of public administration should be locally based civilians because it is cheaper. One does not have to provide them with accommodation, travel backwards and forward, one does not have to do a lot of things for locals that one has got to do for contract officers but if there are not enough locally qualified people then one has to recruit them from abroad which is not to say that at the same time Government should not which it does do try to provide as much training opportunities to our local people so that over a period of time there will be more local people available for the jobs and therefore a reduced need to have recourse abroad. It is not for nothing that the availability of training and training opportunities in the public sector has increased by thousands of percentage points since the GSD Government have been in office since the 16th May 1996. the problem is being tackled now when it was not being tackled before, that we have not finished and that there are still a need to recruit people from abroad is absolutely true but Government agree with the hon Lady that the desirable situation is that there should be as many locally qualified people as possible so as to minimise the amount of people that have to be brought in but the gap has not been reduced to zero. In fact, as the hon Lady has correctly pointed out it is still widening, for example, yesterday the hon Lady asked a question about the nursing review I do not remember the date that had recommended many more nurses than we have got today (1996 review) in urging me to employ more nurses yesterday the hon Lady could only have been urging me to bring more from the UK or elsewhere because there certainly are not that number of qualified nurses waiting in a little heap in the unemployment office for us to recruit so yesterday she urged me to employ more nurses which necessarily means importing them, today she criticises the Government for importing the number of nurses that we have imported. The hon Lady has got to be more coherent than that.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Is it not legitimate for the Opposition to hold the Government to commitments that they make in this House about implementing the recommendations of a certain report and may I add is it not illogical for Government to bring over a contract officer that is going to spend time here whilst nurses are training in the UK for himself to be sent for training and that that training should not be offered to local people, in view of the fact more so that this Government have been in power for nearly eight years and they should actually already have information of where those needs lie and if the needs are there why do they have to rely more and more on contract officers and not avail the opportunity to local nurses to go to the UK?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is not clear to me whether the hon Lady simply does not understand clear and simple explanations given to her or whether she does understand them but simply wishes to repeat the misconception that she starts with in order to try and mislead listeners on the radio of what the reality of the position is. Has the hon Lady not understood from my pretty clear explanation that the persons that are sent for training are the permanent local employees not the people recruited in order to provide cover for the local people that are being sent to the UK, has the hon Lady not understood that? And if she has understood that why does the hon Lady repeat the premise of the last supplementary which is completely in contrary to the explanation that she has just received. The fact of the matter is that Government have employed an additional 50 nurses over and above the number that Government inherited on 16th May 1996 from the hon Lady in Opposition. A total of 50 five zero extra nurses which is a very large percentage as the hon Lady knows of the number of nurses that Government inherited and that is the Government's record and as to the one [INTERRUPTION] well, six a year if the hon Lady thinks that it is intelligent to reduce the proposition by dividing the total number by the number of years .....

MR SPEAKER:

Order do not interfere.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

.....so that Government gets a rate per annum, six per year is six more per year than they used to employ extra when they were in Government so it does not matter to me whether the hon Members wish me to present the facts on a per annum basis or on an overall basis, our record I still infinitely superior to them by either measure. One case that there has been of a contract officer being sent was not a case of a contract officer who had been recruited as a temporary in fill for somebody that had gone in turn for training so it is not a breach of the policy described in the original answer that the hon Lady solicited. Yes, the gentleman who was revealed as being the one contract officer that has gone for training was not an exception to the policy because the policy is as answered that the contract officers that we do not send for training are the ones that are recruited specifically for cover for local people who themselves have gone for training and this gentleman does not fall into that category. This gentleman if the hon Lady wants to know is a person who originally applied for a post that was advertised as being open only for permanent and pensionable staff and the Health Authority was advised that this was a flagrant breach of European Community Law in that it discriminated unlawfully as between permanent and pensionable staff and contract staff. He then was a contract employee, when the post more senior than the one that he then held on contract came out vacant it was originally advertised as being only open for people on permanent and pensionable terms to aspire to from below. That was decided I do not know by whom to be contrary to EU Law and therefore this gentleman applied even though he was then only on contract and got the job and he got the job only on condition that he agreed to go to the training that he eventually went to. Those are the facts of this one case but in any case it is not the case of a temporary recruit being sent for training.

GHA – COST OF TREATING TEMPORARY VISITORS IN UK

Can the Minister for Health now state what was the latest available cost to the UK of treating temporary visitors from Gibraltar in respect of 2003, since in answer to Question No 259 of 2003, the previous Minister for Health, apologised for not having the written schedule with him?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

There were 25 Gibraltar Social Security Pensioners resident in UK without UK pensions in 2002. The data for the Gibraltar Social Security Pensioners, who were not also in receipt of a UK Social Security Pensions, and who are resident in the UK as at the end of 2003 is not yet available. The number of UK Social Security Pensioners who are not also in receipt of a Gibraltar Social Security Pension resident to-date and registered with the GPMS is 462. This figure is subject to validation by the Department of Health UK. The annual average cost of providing healthcare to a pensioner in UK for the year 2000 was £1,867. The UK has not yet presented its 2001 average cost paper in treating a pensioner in the UK to the EU Audit Board. The latest figures provided by the UK Department of Health of treating temporary visitors to the UK from Gibraltar in respect of 2001/2002 is approximately £2,400. (This excludes treatment provided in Accident and Emergency and in a primary care setting for which data is not available). The cost of treating temporary visitors from Gibraltar in respect of 2003/2004 are not available to the UK Department of Health. However, the revised latest available figure for 2002/2003 is around £36,000 (this cost excludes treatment provided in Accident and Emergency and in a primary care for which data is not available).

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 189 TO 195 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm when was the last time that the UK had negotiations with the European Union?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Negotiations with the European Union on what?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

On the actual fees that relate to Gibraltar as well.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am advised that the UK have an on-going obligation to be sent figures through the EU Audit Board and on our enquiries the latest figures they have presented are for the year 2000. The figures for the year 2001 have not yet been presented.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So a settlement for the year 2000 has yet not been forthcoming?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

This subject is linked to the answer I gave yesterday in respect of quota patients and the on-going negotiations. The answer to the hon Lady's question is yes but it is part of current discussions that are presently on-going and once we move away from numbers to actual amounts of money then this problem will not arise because the figure in money will be able to be negotiated with numbers differently.

GHA - ALTERNATIVE MEDICINES

Can the Minister for Health confirm whether the GHA will fund the provision of alternative medicines for patients who are suffering from illnesses in respect of which there is no recognised cure, but alternative medicines have been shown to provide relief to those affected?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Complimentary treatments are infinite in scope and variable in quality. Public funding of health services cannot be provided on this basis. Public funds are reserved for those treatments which are proven to work in internationally validated trials that show effectiveness, efficacy, consistency, reproducibility and value for money. Public funding cannot be guided solely by individuals perceptions of success and patient demand, as such demand is unlimited. While we are all sympathetic to the circumstances of people who have illnesses that cannot be treated by conventional means, there is a limit to what the publicly funded health service can do and should do. Complementary (or alternative) therapies are therefore not routinely funded on the GPMS. The Authority's policy is that the public should have access to the best healthcare that the GPMS can provide but it cannot guarantee a cure or undertake to fund experiments to find a cure, particularly where the research evidence is poor. Many health departments in the UK are currently involved in reviews of various complimentary medicines with government support. As and when a product is found to have therapeutic benefit and is safe, it is incorporated in the British National Formulary which is used by doctors in Gibraltar. One recent example was a herbal treatment for depression.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 196 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So, really what the Minister is saying is that as and when the UK decide to use it we will follow suite?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes.

HON S E LINARES

As a matter of interest, are one of the professions like chiropractors one of those that the Gibraltar Health Authority feel that there is not enough research done into Chiropractic practices so as not to consider sponsoring patients to be able to attend chiropractic clinics?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is a different issue. We are discussing alternative medicines not all alternative invasive treatment or manipulative treatments. I recently opened a Chiropractic Conference in Gibraltar and although I am not knowledgeable in these matters there seem to be a lot of people who take it very seriously so I suppose that this is something that the management of the Health Authority keep under review. I think it is one of these things that is a considered a professional allied to medicine, LAM. It is not really the same category as alternative medications. It is in the field of therapies.

HON S E LINARES

I just thought that I would ask the question since it is alternative medicine it is alternative practices as well that is why I thought it was relevant to this question, it is alternative practice rather than alternative medicine I understand that.

GHA – MAINTENANCE PROGRAMME

Can the Government provide details of the maintenance programme in place for all the equipment in St Bernard's Hospital?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The GHA's Technical Services staff deal with all aspects of maintenance and repairs of the full range of equipment within the Gibraltar Health Authority. The equipment within the GHA may be divided into two main sections.

- A. The Electro-Biomedical Equipment that directly or indirectly is associated with the diagnostic or treatment to the patient's health.
- B. The Non-Medical equipment that supports staff, patients and visitors to the health service.

Training of GHA technicians is on-going and is constantly being reviewed to cater for new technologies and new equipment acquired.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 197 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does the Minister accept that in the September 2003 report the opposite is said of what he has just told this House, in fact it goes further by saying that the maintenance programme in place for all the equipment in St Bernard's is inadequate does he agree with the comments made in the report?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Even if the report says what the hon Lady says and I have not got it in front of me but accepting for the present that it does it is not contradictory of what the Minister has said in his answer. The hon Lady has asked the Minister to explain what the present system for maintenance of hospital equipment is and the Minister has given the hon lady a recital which explains what the present system of maintenance is. The fact that the report is critical, if it is critical, does not contradict as if it is the opposite. The Minister has not expressed the view about the present system he has just explained what the present system is.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I am asking him whether he will express the view that it is inadequate and whether he will agree with the comments in the report.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The first time the hon Lady asked the supplementary she prefaced it by saying, "Does the Minister accept that what he has just said is the opposite of what is said in the report?" It is not the opposite of what is said in the report because the Minister has limited himself to explaining what the system is to the extent that the report is critical of what the present system is the Minister has not agreed or disagreed with what the report says and therefore cannot have said the opposite.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Fine but I have still not got my answer.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

All right that is a different question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will the Minister agree or disagree with the comments that the programme for the maintenance of equipment in the hospital is inadequate?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. Mr Speaker, this takes us into the territory of last night. The system is what it is and more or less the same as we inherited with one or two improvements. This is precisely the sort of area that we have called people in to look at to see if the way that we are doing it is good, bad, or indifferent and this is precisely, the hon Lady can pick as many examples as she likes this is an area in which Gibraltar does things in a certain way because it has always done it in a certain way, we have asked people from abroad to come to look to see if the way that we do it is all right or whether we should be doing it differently, the experts according to what the hon Lady has read I am not doubting the accuracy of what the hon Lady is reading out it is just that I do not have it in front of me, the hon Lady reads the report where the experts are critical of what is said and unless the hon Lady thinks that they do not know what they are talking about then the hon Lady ought to welcome the fact that we called these people out to look at our systems because if we had not, the system which they think is not right would not be changed.

MR SPEAKER:

Your questions are exhausted.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Honestly Mr Speaker without being disrespectful I feel I am being gagged. I am here to represent the people of Gibraltar and I am only allowed to make two supplementaries to my questions....

MR SPEAKER:

Three supplementaries.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

..or three.

NO. 198 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GENERIC MEDICINES

Can the Minister for Health confirm whether he intends to change the present appeals procedure for those patients that are unable to take generic medicines?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

No. The vast majority of GPMS patients are served very well by generic medicines and only about 4-5 persons at most appeal each year seeking a proprietary product to replace the dispensed generic product. The following procedure exists (and has been in practice since 1999) to deal with these few clinical appeals objectively.

A clinical appeal is defined as an appeal to replace a generic product with a proprietary product on the grounds that the generic product is causing or is likely to cause harm to the patient. The harm should not be merely speculative but substantial, either as a clinical observation or from peer reviewed reports. Clinical appeals can be raised by any registered doctor who has examined the patient within the context of a GPMS (not private) consultation and are forwarded to the Chairman of the Gibraltar National Formulary Committee. If a generic trial has not yet been undertaken, the chairman advises the Prescriptions Adviser to arrange for this in co-operation with the doctor. Appeals are considered by the Gibraltar Formulary Committee taking into consideration the generic trial results. The appealing doctor may attend if desired. Decisions of the Gibraltar Formulary Committee are forwarded in writing to the referring doctor within two weeks of the meeting. I must emphasise that these procedures are applied in routine circumstances. Obviously we apply a fast track system if the circumstances so warrant.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 198 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The answer that the Minister has given me proves the point that I am trying to make. By the time the patient hears the result of the appeal in the meantime would it not be more logical for the doctor to continue to prescribe the proprietary product and I am saying this because I have actually brought such cases to the House before and therefore the patient would not have to wait for weeks or months on end until the actual result of the appeal is known?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The hon Lady seems to miss the point of the last part of the answer which I emphasised. This is the procedure for routine applications where the medicine is of a nature that there is no effect on the patient if it takes one day more or less. If we are talking about a life threatening situation or an emergency drug then fast track procedure kicks in and cases will not arise where a patient is deprived of a medicine that is essential for his well-being and for life threatening circumstances if the generic discussion arises.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will Government not agree that there have been cases that have occurred which I have brought to and continue to bring to this House, I must say not very regularly, but if we are talking about a patient whose life or there is a certain discomfort because of allergies that are created as a result of the generic medicine will Government not agree that the doctor should have the authority whilst the appeal is taking place to continue prescribing the branded medicinal product instead of the generic because there have been instances and there continues to be instances when this is not happening?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government do not agree. Government note that the hon Lady often or sometimes brings names cases to this House but the fact that the hon Lady names them on the basis of a complaint that the hon Lady receives from the patient affected does not mean that there is merit to the case, does not mean that the system as it exists has not worked properly in relation of the case, probably it simply reflects the fact that the person is dissatisfied because they would have liked a different result and therefore somebody who goes to complain to the hon Lady and the hon Lady raises the case in the House does not alter or give more or less credit to the merits of the case than the system itself is capable of identifying and the hon Lady's political constituency office is not a court of appeal for a system. If the hon Lady on the other hand thinks that the system is defective then it is perfectly legitimate for her to seek to persuade Government that the system should be changed [INTERRUPTION] No there is a difference between a discussion about whether the system is right, wrong should be different or better on the one hand and on the other hand once there is a system in place the hon Lady should not think that it can be overridden simply because somebody that is aggrieved with the result produced by that system simply goes to visit her in her political office. That is not a key or doorway or route to circumscribing the system and that is very different to debating whether the system should be different or needs improving or does not need improving which I accept is an entirely legitimate issue for the hon Lady to raise in this House.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I want to clarify what the Chief Minister has said. It is not that the patients that have come to me are aggrieved because they are not being prescribed the branded medicine it is because they have developed allergies to the generic medicine. In some cases and I have not even told Government that the system they have in place is ineffective or incorrect what I am saying is that I am trying to convince them that in the meantime whilst the appeals are being heard if one is talking about a patient who is taking a medicine which is in relation to their blood pressure or in relation to whatever other condition is it not prudent for the doctor to continue with the branded medicinal product until the appeal is heard that is all I am asking, even if there are one or two patients or three is it not logical to take that path rather than put the patient in distress and rather than have the patient suffering the consequences of either not taking the medicine or developing the allergies to the generic medicine?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I have made it my task in preparing the answer to this question to look into it personally and I am satisfied that the system that is in place works. The hon Lady has just mentioned blood pressure, that is what I meant when I said that there was a fast track procedure. The information that I have is that any patient who goes back to his doctor the immediate action that is taken by the GHA is that a generic drug is immediately changed and it is changed more than once if necessary. The hon Member may shake her head but that is what actually happens. What I would advise the hon Lady is if someone comes to her with an allergy or otherwise then she should direct the person to go back to the system and inform those who are responsible for giving her the medicine of the problem but if the hon Lady waits until it is brought up in this House then no doubt there is a delay. The system is one where if a patient as the hon Lady alleges and I have no evidence from the inquiries that I have made that this has happened to anybody for any length of time, if a patient has a problem action is taken immediately without waiting for the complaints procedure to take place and it is taken in consultation with the person's doctor and with the people involved in the GHA. That is what the hon Lady should do she should direct the people to the where the action is being taken.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I have, I have told the patients to go back to their doctor and on many occasions the doctors have said that the matter has to be dealt with by the Controller of Medicines and therefore when the Controller of Medicines looks at the situation it has and it is taking a long time for the patients to get an answer and all I am saying like the Chief Minister has just said, instead of the patient having to wait for Controller of Medicines why does the system not do what the Minister has said that in important cases the doctor continue to prescribe. This is different to what the Chief Minister has just said that doctors do not continue prescribing the medicinal product. The doctors say that it has to go to the Controller of Medicines. At least will Government not review the situation in the light of what I am saying?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, Government will not review the situation in the light of what the hon Lady is saying because we think that what she is saying is mistaken. To speak of continuing with the proprietary medicine ignores the fact that one does not start with the proprietary medicine one starts with the generic medicine because that is what is specified in the formulary and that is what the doctor has to prescribe so any argument based on a mechanical system that allows one to continue with what is happening until there is a decision is in effect to continue with the generic version because that is what is prescribed in the first place. Therefore the factual scenario that the hon Lady is recommending to Government never arises because if somebody is prescribed the proprietary drug which is the only way that the question of continuation with the proprietary drug can arise is because it is permissible under the formulary and there is no issue and no problem so, the scenario upon which the hon Lady bases her recommendations to the Government do not and cannot arise nor is Government willing to allow these decisions to be made even in the hypothetical and impossible situation that the hon Lady has described by the GP's because that would make the system unworkable. There are many reasons why other than the ones that concern the hon Lady why some people may want to prescribe proprietary rather than generic drugs. The system has in-built into it a mechanism to rescue (so to speak) patients that are victims of the generic drug. Government are not aware of any cases in which the system is saying even though there is patient 'a', 'b' and 'c' suffering consequences which she should not suffer never mind carrying on suffering them because we are going to take three weeks to make the decision. That is simply not the case there is a routine procedure when the decision can wait and then there is a fast track procedure to ensure that decisions that need to be made in a timely urgent fashion are made in a timely urgent fashion and the fact that somebody goes to the hon Lady and says, "Well, I do not think that this drug is working for me," is a layman's judgement the people who make these decisions in Government are themselves medical people and pharmacists they are not administrative decisions, these are medical decisions that are being made and therefore the question boils down to, "Should the decision be made by the formulary people or should it be made by the doctor?"

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

That is right.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is what it all boils down to. Government's policy as it is in other places is that it should be made by the Formulary Committee because the moment that one gives the decision to the doctors in effect one has no system that one can control and that one can deliver and one is just basically saying to the doctors, "you prescribe whatever you want to prescribe." Which will result in a re-version to the prescription unnecessarily of much more expensive branded products when there is no additional medical value for the much higher cost of the proprietary brand over its generic equivalent. That is why Government do not agree that it should be the GP, Government agree that it should be the GP in consultation and liaison with the Government pharmacists and chemists and between them they should make the decision in the interests of the patient and that is the way it works and it does not leave the patient exposed in the way that the hon Lady says that people have come to tell her and she is reciting it in this House.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I think it is my responsibility.....

MR SPEAKER:

Next question, next question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I think it is my responsibility.....

MR SPEAKER:

Next question I am sorry I am sticking to it.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

We are talking about patients that .....

MR SPEAKER:

There has been a decision that there will be two supplementaries. A supplementary is to the original answer there is no such thing as a supplementary to a supplementary.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So I have only got two?

MR SPEAKER:

The hon Lady is already on her fourth.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

But Mr Speaker, the substantive answer has only been given now the hon Members have been going round and round in circles and now.....

MR SPEAKER:

No I will not allow it.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

As I said before Mr Speaker I think if I am here asking questions about genuine concerns about people who are ill and everytime I want to ask a supplementary to what the Minister has said I think I am entitled to continue to represent those people that have elected me.

MR SPEAKER:

Next question.

NO. 199 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – COMPLAINTS PROCEDURE

Given that in the meeting of the House in March 2003, the Minister for Health, Dr Bernard Linares stated that the post for an officer with full-time responsibility for the Complaints Procedure would be shortly advertised, can the Government confirm if it has been advertised, and if so when, and if not, why it has failed to advertise the post as intended?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answered together with Question No 200 of 2004.

NO. 200 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – ORTHOPAEDICS/OPHTHALMOLOGY OPERATIONS

Can the Minister for Health state that since the number of people in the area of Orthopaedics waiting for routine operations, is more than double, 740, when compared to Ophthalmology 335, what measures he intends to introduce so as to deal with the backlog?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

These issues are now being dealt with in the context of the current general review.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 199 AND 200 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

If the previous Minister for Health the Hon Dr Linares in March said in answer to Question No 263 of 2003 we will shortly be advertising the post we are now talking about 9 months down the road and the post for the new Complaints Officer has not been advertised?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Correct. All these matters have now been subsumed into the review to ensure that they all take place in response to a structured cohesive plan for the modernisation reform of the Health Authority.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Do Government not agree that we are talking about a Complaints Procedure that has been a complete failure that people do not know where to go to and that they should now say that they are going to wait for recommendations when the Minister gave details of the actual way that the post was going to deal with complaints, the Hon Dr Linares and the Chief Minister in the last meeting of the House said that they were going to employ an officer full-time and that this was going to be done very quickly so that patients would not be left sort of in cloud 9 without being able to make the necessary complaints?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Entirely correct that is exactly the position. The assessment of the Complaints Procedure and what it might be replaced with is one of the specific work streams, implementation reports that Government are going to receive in the context of this review and we expect it shortly. I agree with everything that the hon Lady has said except her opening words that the existing Complaints procedure has been a complete failure. I do not think that it has been a complete failure although I would agree with the hon Lady that it has been much, much, much less effective than Government would have wished it to be.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I am afraid that when we are discussing a matter in the House of Assembly and we get Ministers making statements like, for example, "We will shortly be advertising to contract a dedicated officer with full-time responsibilities for quality assurance generally in the services and specifically the Complaints Procedure and this will be done very shortly," what is very shortly for the Government?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Lady can focus on the word "shortly" if she likes but clearly since "shortly" is by any definition a less period of time than has actually elapsed perhaps it might have occurred to the hon Lady that Government have changed their mind, altered course and come to the conclusion that the sensible way to do it is not the way then proposed to do it but by asking the visiting experts to make the recommendations rather than try to invent another homemade Complaints Procedure that does not work. Governments are allowed to change their minds and the fact that Governments change their minds does not entitle the hon Lady to critically remind us of what we said in March because if Government said something differently that we were going to do something in one way in March and in November, December, or January Government are doing it in a different way all it means is that Government have changed their minds which is not a mortal sin. Changing ones mind is something that the hon Members might benefit from time to time themselves.

HON F R PICARDO:

As did the Chief Minister in relation to his policy on Brussels just before the 1996 election.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

In answer to Question No 200 of 2004 have the Government not also changed their mind and that again here we have another example that we cannot even take for a fact what they put in their election manifestos, is it not the case that the Government were saying in the year 2000 that a second Orthopaedic surgeon would be appointed and this has not happened and that is probably why we have come to a stage in the Orthopaedic speciality that the number of patients waiting for an operation now stands at 740 and can he not agree as well that his so called experts have also said that the figure has gone up to 892?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Lady is entitled to question us on our actions and omissions in Government what she is not entitled to is to examine us as to how we have done in relation to our manifesto. Our manifesto is our offer to the electorate not our contract with the Opposition and in respect to the successes and failures to deliver on our manifesto commitments we account to the electorate at election time not to the hon Members. If we promised in our manifesto or if we committed ourselves in our manifesto in the year 2000 to recruit a surgeon and we have not yet done so then it appears that the electorate have forgiven us for not having done so because since then we have been re-elected on a new manifesto notwithstanding the fact that whatever deficiencies she may now be wishing to identify are omission from our 2000 manifesto. So, I am not going to stand in this House debating with the hon Lady whether we have complied or not complied with a manifesto that has been overtaken by a subsequent manifesto upon which we have been elected. If the hon Lady wants to know whether the Government still intends to recruit a second consultant the answer is that that issue is subsumed into the review and the hon Member might be able to find other examples with which I will also agree with her. It is true, all of the potential issues of this sort that were in the pipeline during the period that we decided to convene the review and the review have been held back where they can be held back to see what the review says because there are issues relating to the Orthopaedic surgery that raise other considerations and not just a simple multiplication of the number of surgeons.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Is it not the case then that this Government whatever they say in their manifesto nobody will ever believe them anymore because we have had more than three and four occasions when we have actually proved to them that what they say in their election manifesto is not adhered to by the Government and is it not a question that in order to be able to reduce the figure of people who are in the waiting list for orthopaedic surgical interventions does not require any expert, does the Government not understand that they can solve that problem like they solved the problem of the Ophthalmology?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No it cannot be done in the same way. I do not know whether it is true that nobody believes the Government manifesto anymore, what I can say to the hon Lady is that if her statement is true then either given that we have just been re-elected and we have been preferred to them, notwithstanding that according to her nobody believes us, either it is not true that nobody believes us and therefore that people do believe us or secondly another possibility is that people do not care whether the Government complies with its commitments or not which is obviously not the case, or more seriously for them even though people do not believe us they still prefer us to them which is very bad news for them indeed.

NO. 201 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – WAITING LISTS

Can Government provide the latest comparable waiting lists for public and private patients covering all specialities for both out-patients and in-patients, which also includes those who require surgical interventions?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The Government remains willing to provide to the Opposition detailed information of this sort which is unprecedented in Gibraltar before 1996. however, given the intense administrative burden of preparing this information within five days, I will forward this information in writing to the hon Member within 10 days.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION 201 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does the Minister not understand that if it is unprecedented it is because I was not asked this question whilst I was in Government it is as simple as that?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

What is unprecedented is the level of information that this Government have always given as opposed to the level of complete obscurity and lack of information given to us when we were in Opposition, shame on the present Opposition for the lack of information that they gave.

HON F R PICARDO:

If the Minister did not have the brains to ask the same questions that my honourable friend has surely it is more of a reflection on their ability to do Opposition than anything else.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The answer to the supplementary is no it does not reflect that because questions were asked and the lack of transparency came in the unwillingness to approach the answering of the question in the same way as we do. This Government approach answering a question maximising the information that can be given in answer to it. The party of which he is now a Member when it was in Government used to approach it the other way round and give as little information as possible and if the hon Members think that they are presently being gagged in the function of Opposition let me tell them that they get infinitely, infinitely greater margin to ask supplementaries and questions than we ever used to get because when we were in Opposition the position of the Speaker then was, “Well if Government do not want to answer that is up to them, next question.”

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

That is a matter of opinion.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is a matter of fact it is in Hansard.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can Government not confirm that I have asked three questions in this House where they have had five days notice and on previous occasions having had the same five days notice they have provided the information?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Correct and that is not limited just to health. The fact of the matter is that Government are no longer willing to for the machinery of the public administration to be paralysed in an attempt to produce in a five day period information which is statistical in nature, most of which does not result even in the asking of supplementary questions and where the Members waiting a few more days causes them no inconvenience but enables the Government to function whilst the information is put together. The hon Lady is correct there has been a policy decision by Government to change its position and it is for that reasons that I am just explaining. The answer is five days is no longer enough in accordance with the new policy to provide the information and they will get it within 10 days. This is information of the sort that in most parliaments are not given either in answer to questions or in debates or anything what we are just saying is that before we used to bust the guts to give it in five days, we are longer willing to bust the gut it simply places the administrative machinery under too much strain in too short a period of time so we have extended the period to 10 days. She is absolutely right, that is a change of policy and I have risen to answer the question because it is not limited to health. Some of the other hon Members will have noticed that they have got similar answers in relation to their other areas of responsibility which are not health.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So now we have a new policy whereby even if we put the question we will not get the answer in the House and then we had a situation yesterday where there were 27 questions on health which Government refused to reply at all and there is a ruling now that we only have two supplementaries to each question that is totally unacceptable to the Opposition.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

In her incorrigible and inimitable style the hon Lady seems to be intent on distorting and misrepresenting and simply basing her case on what she has not just been told. It is not the policy of the Government only to give information after 10 days. The vast bulk of the statistical information that they have asked for have been given within the five days some of it, a small amount of it, a minority of it has been extended to 10 days so what I have explained to her I would have thought in language sufficiently clear for the hon Lady to have understood is that some of the information is going to be given in 10 days but she has been sitting in this House and she has seen how many times the poor Gentleman Usher has had to go out of this door and in through that one clutching a piece of paper to hand. All those examples which are 90 odd per cent of the statistical information that the Opposition has asked for has been delivered in the five days so why the hon Lady feels justified in saying , “Ah, now the new policy is that we do not get information within five days,” she could if she was interested in being accurate and precise which I have no doubt she has no such interest, but if she were interested in being accurate and precise she might have said we no longer get all of the information within five days we now get most of it within five days and some of it a small part of it within 10 days that would be an accurate representation of what I told the hon Lady.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The Chief Minister says things and then qualifies what he has said by saying something totally different, did the Chief Minister not say that this was now new Government policy, will he now say that what he has said is that in his new policy he will decide which statistical information will be provided and which will not is that correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is quite clear that the Minister has not changed anything of what he has said. The policy is that not all the information can be provided in five days anymore because if the policy were that none of the information would be provided within five days how would the hon Lady explain the fact that they have had 95 per cent of it within five days. The hon Lady does not think that Government made a policy the day before yesterday and have not bothered to carry it out. It is clear both from what I have said and from what she has experienced here in the last three days that the policy relates to not all the information but as much of it as can reasonably be given within the five days relieving the administration of this wholly excessive administrative burden. Let me say to the Opposition that the normal parliamentary tradition and convention which they in Government used to have recourse to frequently and which we never have recourse to is to say “that information called by that question requires an undue amount of administrative effort to collate and the hon Members therefore cannot have it” that is the traditional acceptable parliamentary device. We do not do that as they used to do when they were in Government. We do not say the Opposition cannot have it because it requires too much effort. The Government says it requires too much effort therefore we are going to take 10 instead of five days to give it to the hon Lady. That is the policy it is an infinitely more transparent policy than the Opposition used to deploy and that is what the position is and it is not Ministers who decide it is what the administrative machinery can reasonably produce in those five days and that is the policy and we are sorry that we got the hon Members used over the last eight years to a system which we are now changing and which we should never have allowed them to get used to in the first place.

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – RECIPROCAL AGREEMENT

Can the Minister for Health provide the actual figure his predecessor promised to pass on to me, when I reminded him in the last meeting of the House that he had previously given a statement to the effect that in relation to the Reciprocal Agreement with the UK, the Government had received a settlement in 1996?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The amount paid to Government in 1996 in respect of EU Commitments was £101,336 and related to the years 1988 to 1992.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 202 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Since 1992 have there been any more sums that the Government have received?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So we are talking about a situation that there is about a 14 year delay?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will these figures in any way be altered by the new system where quota patients will be taken over by the actual sum of money for the quota patients instead of the number?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am told that both matters are completely unrelated. This is in connection with EU commitments and the other matter is in connection with the reciprocal arrangement with the UK or vice versa.

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – NEW HOSPITAL

Can the Government give an up-date as to their negotiations with the developers of Euorplaza for acquiring more parking spaces from them which are required for the new hospital?

ANSWER

The exact date for the new hospital to be fully functional and operational is not yet known. The manner in which Dialysis will, for the first time ever, be provided locally is still under consideration with interested parties. It is not appropriate to comment on commercial negotiations about parking until they are complete. The new hospital has been designed with a provision of about 10 beds in a private corridor.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 203 TO 206 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Is it not a fact that the kitchen will not be housed within the hospital and is it not a fact that there will be no geriatric wards in the hospital?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is a fact that there are food preparation areas in every floor in the new hospital. It is also true that the food that is prepared in those kitchens in the new hospital has been prepared up to a cook and chill standard in a central kitchen located elsewhere. Those are the facts. If the hon Lady wishes to get technical and facetious there are many more kitchens in the new hospital than there are in the existing hospital. If the hon Lady is simply trying to highlight the fact that the system of providing catering in the hospital is being changed then absolutely correct that is a matter of policy decision by the Government and if the hon Lady wants to highlight the fact that those arrangements mean that the first stage of food preparation takes place in a kitchen which is not located in the same building as the new hospital the answer to that is correct. The hon Lady should also be aware that as a result of this new system the quality of food and patient choice, and dietary choice will be elevated almost to restaurant standards. As a result of this system that the hon Lady appears neither to understand nor indeed supports because the hon Lady appears to be concerned only about whether the room is physically located in this building or in a different building but she should understand that the result of this policy is that the quality of catering the hospital, the quality of the food, will be not just enormously improved in quality and variety but indeed there will be menu choices for patients on a very wide range much more than the couple of things that they can now choose from when the trolley comes round. Government think that that is a vast improvement and the question of whether the kitchen is or is not in the same building in our view is a complete red herring but completely monumental of the hon Lady's obsession with trying to find mindless criticisms of the new hospital in order to tarnish the entire project without even understanding or asking the Government why there is not a full kitchen in the hospital. If at least the hon Lady bothered to find out the reason and then criticised the reason then at least, but to simply ask is it true that there is no kitchen in the hospital what does the hon Lady think that these architects that have come from the United Kingdom who are specialist hospital architects does she think that they have forgotten to put a kitchen in the hospital, is that what the hon Lady thinks, that we have forgotten that patients need to eat in a hospital? Is that what she thinks? No, well, as it is clearly not what the hon Lady thinks let the hon Lady criticise the difference system of catering rather than simply ask whether there is a kitchen in the new hospital or not. As to the geriatric ward yes it is true that the new hospital contains no wards exclusively for the use of old people who are ill. That is not because the Government or the Government's specialist hospital architects and consultants have suddenly come to the conclusion that either old people will stop getting ill or that if they do get ill they should not be admitted into hospital. I suppose that the hon Lady understands that that is not the reason and therefore that there must be a good reason or at least a reason which the hon Lady at least should enquire what it is before submitting to criticism and the reason is that nowhere in the civilised western world are modern new hospitals designed on the basis of segregating people on an ageism basis. The concept which I accept used to be established practice everywhere that one used to put people that were old and ill in a different ward to people who are young and ill is antiquated, discredited practice when one gets the opportunity to design a brand new hospital and as that is the advice that we have from our hospital design consultants we do not see why the people of Gibraltar should be deprived when they are spending £40 million on a new hospital why they should be stuck in the times of the Victorian principles because the hon Lady thinks that change is bad. Change is good when it results in Gibraltar staying up-to-date with modern western European standards and modern western European standards we are authoritatively and expertly advised are that new hospitals now integrate the elderly infirm in the same wards as the none elderly infirm as opposed to shoving them in a room as if to tell them, "..there you are this is a special room for people that are ill and who we do not expect to get better very soon." That is the modern principle to which the Government fully subscribes, to which Government enthusiastically embraces but which we note and record the hon Lady is opposed.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So, now I am mindless and now I think that the Government have forgotten that they have to have a kitchen, is it not the case that the Government have had to do away with certain facilities that were there before because what the Government have done is try to squeeze a hospital in a building which was not specifically designed for a hospital?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Lady does not even bother to establish the facts before launching political assault on invented facts. Far from there being a problem of having to squeeze facilities into the new hospital it has rather been a case of the existing and new facilities having so much space that [INTERRUPTION] why does the hon Lady giggle, does the hon Lady know, has the hon Lady been to the hospital, has the hon Lady seen the space that is now available for things that are squeezed in a little room in St Bernard's Hospital and that now have an entire floor in the new hospital, why does the hon Lady giggle if she does not know the fact is this a nervous tick or is the hon Lady saying that without knowing the facts the hon Lady is able to discredit what I am saying about the facts? The reality of the matter is that so excessive in size [INTERRUPTION] I understand that the Opposition does not enjoy listening to the real answers to their completely [INTERRUPTION] I am on my feet. Mr Speaker we cannot completely abandon all semblance of parliamentary discipline the rule is that if I am on my feet and the hon Member wants to say something he either asks me to give way or the hon Member invokes the Speaker on a point of order. No I am not giving way.

HON F R PICARDO:

Point of order.

MR SPEAKER:

No, there is no point of order.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

So much is the case the opposite of what the hon Lady has said about squeezing that we actually contemplated not using one of the four buildings that we purchased. We purchased buildings 1, 2, 3 and 4 in Europort and frankly we said let us not use building 4 because already we have provided for all the existing St Bernard's facilities in three or four times. The new Intensive Care Unit has got 13 beds compared to the five beds in the present one. It is six or seven times the size of the one in the present hospital and when the hon Lady talks about squeezing things out does the hon Lady not know that the useable space in St Bernard's Hospital is 9,000 m<sup>2</sup> and that the area of the new hospital is 23,000 m<sup>2</sup> how can Government possibly have difficulty in squeezing what is presently a 9,000 m<sup>2</sup> in an area more than twice the size of the existing area. If the hon Lady bothered or was interested in the facts of the matter rather than invent the facts simply to justify a political attack on the Government the hon Lady would not be doing and saying 95 per cent of the things the hon Lady is doing and saying but Government accept that the hon Lady is motivated by a desperate, desperate obsession with tarnishing the new hospital by whatever means the Opposition can just as the Opposition has tried to tarnish the new bus service by pointing out that they are two inches bigger than the regulations permit, by the way forgetting that all the present buses are bigger than the regulations permit even the little Toyotas that were last seen in New Delhi, so, the point is not to make constructive criticism of the Government the point is to find some meaningless way of tarnishing what are otherwise major, qualitative developments in the facilities of Gibraltar. We accept that, we understand that that is the cut and thrust of politics, we understand why the hon Lady does so but the fact that we understand that the hon Lady is just playing the political game does not prevent us from pointing out to the hon Lady that she is factually wrong. Having done we have no doubt that the hon Lady will continue playing the political game.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

As far as the Opposition is concerned politics is not a game, politics is about making the lives of people in Gibraltar better and what the Chief Minister does is try to ridicule everything that we say in this House. The Chief Minister knows better, everything that the Opposition says in this House the Chief Minister rubbishes with what I would say is language that can only be described as gutter politics, is it not the case that the new hospital will only have nine more beds than St Bernard's had originally which is 192 beds and that it does not even have a kitchen in it? Is that not the case?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The case is that the hon Lady can do her own mathematics. The case is that the new hospital has 211 beds. That St Bernard's Hospital presently has 167 beds, that is the reality. Actually if the hon Lady is interested the Government have actually been criticised by the consultants because they think that a 211 bed hospital for a community of 28,000 is in their opinion excessive by any standard applicable in the UK to which our reply has been, "..we try to improve on the standards in the UK and not mimic them where possible." Those are the facts the hon Lady can make whatever deductions and calculations of a mathematical and of a non-mathematical nature for herself whichever she pleases.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I think it is a waste of time trying to convince the Chief Minister about factual information as regards the number of beds here and the number of beds there. The Chief Minister simply twists the whole thing around and I honestly believe that this Government will make a complete fiasco of what they are trying to do with the new hospital. Turning now to another supplementary on another question can the Government confirm why they are still unable to give information over dialysis facilities which they promised six years ago in their election manifesto?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Lady has just said that in my last intervention I had twisted the facts. I only gave her two facts in the last supplementary and I would like her to consider which are the ones that the hon Lady thinks that I have twisted. I have said, "..there are currently 167 beds in St Bernard's Hospital" and I have said ".. that the new hospital has 211 beds" I have made no judgement, I have invited the hon Lady to draw whatever deductions mathematical or non-mathematical she wishes to draw for herself. In that statement of fact there is currently 167 beds and the new hospital has 211 which of those two facts does the hon Lady think is twisted?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The first one because St Bernard's originally had 192 beds and what the Chief Minister is saying now is that it only has 167. If one takes away the old Lewis Stagnetto Ward what the Chief Minister is doing is that he is not including the number of beds which are today in the new Lewis Stagnetto Ward which used to be the private corridor. If the Chief Minister wishes to go back to one of the reviews he will see that there is definitely a mention of 192 beds and if the Chief Minister cares to look at the Nursing Review they come up with 167 beds and say that they are not counting private corridor because that is presently being housed by Lewis Stagnetto Ward that is why I was telling the Chief Minister that he had got his facts wrong. Secondly, the Chief Minister has not answered the next supplementary that I have made in relation to dialysis facilities. Here we have another typical example of this Government making promises which they then do not fulfil which they then are unable to come with a solution and what do they do? They bring in more experts. Can the Chief Minister confirm why the Government have still not come to a decision when again in this election they have they same commitment that there will be dialysis facilities within the hospital and seeing that Mr Speaker has ruled that I only have two supplementaries will the Chief Minister not agree with me that if the facilities in the hospital that are going to be provided for the general public in Gibraltar, whether these should not be facilities that would not require patients to go for dialysis to Spain?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Lady has then clarified that it is not I who got facts wrong or twisted them but rather that the hon Lady does not listen to the facts and the words that I give her. If I say that there are currently 167 beds and that the new hospital has 211 beds why does the hon Lady think that that is getting my facts wrong or twisting the facts on the basis that in 1995 there were 193.....I am not referring to the number of beds in 1995, 1996 or when the Lewis Stagnetto Ward existed or when the kitchen existed or did not exist. I am saying there are currently in the hospital 167 beds.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

That cannot be.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

According to the Chief Executive Officer who is sitting behind me and has just confirmed it to me even though I knew it before, 167 beds, in fact in an attempt to bed manage seven or eight new beds were added yesterday.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

A point of order.

MR SPEAKER:

What is the point of order?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The point of order is that the Chief Minister is quoting the wrong figure because yesterday the Chief Minister said that there were 175 beds in St Bernard's.

MR SPEAKER:

That is not a point of order.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I did not say that there were 175 beds. I said that there are currently 167 beds in St Bernard's Hospital and that the new hospital has 211 to which the hon Lady leapt to her feet to say that I was twisting the facts, why was I twisting the facts? Because it is ignoring the fact that in 1995 there were 193 beds but I did not say anything about the number of beds that there were in 1993 so how could I have been twisting the facts? There are currently I said 167 beds and the new hospital contains 211 beds and those are facts and the only thing that is being twisted here is the use and distortion and misrepresentation to which the hon Lady submits the perfectly clear and untwisted facts which I give her because they do not suit her purpose and because it does not suit her purpose the hon Lady moves the goal post, twists what I am saying in order to make a completely different point. On dialysis I understand that after eight years the Opposition are entitled to demand from us higher standards than they presided over when they were in Government and I do not say to them that because they now ask us to do things that they did not think it was necessary to do when they were in Government that this somehow disqualifies them from pressing the Government on the matter, it does not, but it does require I would have thought the hon Lady to at least be careful in the language that she uses to do so because there was a border between Gibraltar and Spain between 1988 and 1996 when the Opposition were in office. Those were the years of the Braña triple filters when it was even more likely than it is today that there will be delay in getting across the border. In all those years they were perfectly content for Gibraltar's dialysis patients to go to have their dialysis in La Linea and apparently this did not amount to insensitivity to the dialysis patients to have to go abroad. It appears that the hon Lady since she has gone from Government to Opposition has become a convert to the view that dialysis should be done in Gibraltar. The hon Lady is converting to our view and abandoning the contrary view which is the one that the hon Lady had and practiced in Government [INTERRUPTION] no, no, there is as the Opposition call it, people's views are tested by what they do and do not do when they are in a position to do it or not do it, not by what they preach when they are not in a position to do something about it. It is a case of "do as I now say and not do as I did when I was in a position to do it." The substantive answer to the hon Lady is that she knows jolly well that there is very close liaison on this issue between the Government and the Dialysis Association but the Government have now announced that the new hospital, so it cannot be available until the new hospital is ready, will contain machines so that the Gibraltar resident patients that require dialysis treatment can have their dialysis in machines located in the new Gibraltar hospital in Gibraltar. Unless the hon Lady wants the Government to install the new machines in non-existent space in St

Bernard's hospital or plug the machines into the building site which the present St Bernard Hospital is the hon Lady will understand the sense of waiting for this brand new first time ever radical break from established practice until the new hospital is open so that it can be provided in the new hospital. Our patients will not have to go to Spain and the arrangements that are under discussion are for the Spanish doctors, technicians and qualified nurses to come to Gibraltar to monitor and supervise the dialysis process rather than our patients going on their machines. So, Gibraltar has the premises, the patients and the machines so that the patients do not have to cross the border. People cross the border for many reasons in Gibraltar including medical reasons not that crossing the border is such an enormous hardship but Government understand and sympathise with the fact which the GSLP apparently did not when they were in Government that one thing is to go for the occasional medical treatment and another is to have to go three times a week as a matter of a systematic part of ones life for two or three hours a day and that there are qualitative differences between that. That is the position it is not going to actually be on-stream until the new hospital opens some time later this year in the meantime between now and then the hon Lady might ask me the same question another 13 times and we can have the same debate between now and then the answer will be that it will happen when the new hospital is ready , not before and not after, when the new hospital is ready.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I must say that the Chief Minister is using the language of Louis XIV the Sun King but definitely he is not a bright shining star, am I not entitled to ask Government that if eight years ago they put in their manifesto that they would be providing dialysis facilities in Gibraltar and then the Chief Minister says that I did not provide it, I did not put it in my manifesto but the Chief Minister did and has not provided it within the eight years that he has been in Government and the Chief Minister keeps on and on talking in a language that appears as if he seems to want to treat us as if we were kids in a nursery school. [INTERRUPTION] Why does the Chief Minister not grow up himself and act as a responsible politician in this House, what about the dialysis facilities, when are those dialysis facilities going to be installed? We have heard that they are going to be in the new hospital, the Government during the eight years have brought over another expert Dr Terry Feast have his recommendations been accepted and are Government going to take into account that if they are going to spent money in a dialysis machine is it not logical and prudent for those facilities to be such that our patients will no longer have to go to Spain otherwise why have the dialysis facilities in the first place?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have already confirmed to the hon Lady everything that she appears not to have heard and just repeated.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I have not heard whether the Government are going to install facilities that will mean that the patients will no longer have to go to Spain I have not heard that.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The reason why the hon Lady does not hear it is not because I did not say it but because the hon Lady was too busy being instructed by the Hon Mr Picardo about Louis XIV that is why the hon Lady did not hear it because everybody else in this House heard me say clearly that the Government will have dialysis machines in the new hospital when the new hospital is ready, not before and not after but when it is ready so that our people do not have to cross the border. Gibraltar has much to be grateful to Louis XIV because it was Louis XIV who after the war of the Spanish succession and in the context of the negotiation of the Treaty of Utrecht refused to allow his grandson the new Bourbon King of Spain to cross French territory to get to the town of Utrecht to participate in the negotiations of the Treaty and it was by that way that the British were able to obtain by negotiations the permanent cession of British sovereignty of Gibraltar. So, three cheers for Louis XIV.

HON F R PICARDO:

At least now we know why it is that the Chief Minister models himself on Louis XIV because in the whole of this morning I have had to endure, my fellow parliamentary colleagues have had to endure, his fellow parliamentary colleagues have had to endure, and listeners on radio have had to endure what amounts to answers to questions couched in diatribe and personal insult directed at the Members of the Opposition which does not assist in clarifying what the issues are and it is that which hides what the Chief Minister may or may not be saying about an important policy issue like dialysis which is what the people who are listening, who are interested in issues of that sort want to be able to take out and distil from what amounts to a long lists of insults directed at all of us. Heaven forbid that the Opposition should direct a quip let alone an insult at the Chief Minister because otherwise we get even much more than we give back but that is his parliamentary style. Will the Chief Minister confirm to us that for the next four years we are going to have to put up at every meeting with a raft of insults one after the other even accusing Opposition Members of having ticks and other physical traits?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The only people who could possibly believe a word of what the hon Member has just said namely that I have given any let alone many insults, personal insults to the hon members, the only people of which there is the slightest risk might believe that nonsense are the people who have just turned on the radio 30 seconds ago who have only heard him but have not heard the last three days of questions unless, because I do not believe that I have given a single personal insult to any hon Member, unless the problem is that the hon Members do not distinguish between dealing with the inaccuracies in their statements and insulting them personally. If the hon Members think that it is an insult not to be allowed to get away with the factual distortions, inaccuracies and incorrect statements and analysis that the hon Members persistently make both inside and outside this House in their public statements if that is their definition of personal insults then I regret that the hon Member can certainly look forward to a full four years worth of that. But, if the hon Member means by personal insults what most ordinary people mean by personal insult namely playing the man and not the ball, insulting the person as opposed to dealing with his arguments then I have not made any personal insults. It is not my personal or parliamentary style to do so and therefore he can be certain that he who has only been in this House two days will not get any such insults just as nobody has had any in the past from me. The masters of personal insults such as they exist in this House are sitting in the Opposition indeed the main master is not here. So, that is the fullest answer that I can give to the hon Member and I know that he thinks that I am an “ignoramus” he has reported it on the front page of the newspaper. The hon Member does not believe in personal insults but to suggest that I am an “ignoramus” as opposed to saying, “Chief Minister you are wrong on a particular argument or case,” that is a personal insult as opposed to dealing with an argument. I do not know how many people the hon Member thinks he can persuade in Gibraltar that I am an “ignoramus”. He might be able to persuade people that I make mistakes or that I am wrong on this or that issue but if he has set himself the mission on day two of his two day old parliamentary career that someone that has been in this House and therefore has accrued 12 years of knowledge and information and that has served the people of Gibraltar as Chief Minister for two full terms, and whom the people of Gibraltar think is competent enough to be elected for a third term I do not know [INTERRUPTION] not says he says the electorate, then I do not know how many people he tries to persuade by the personal insult that I am an “ignoramus”. What the hon Member will find with me is that I deal with the facts, the arguments and with the issues and I have not said to the hon Lady, because this is what the Opposition does, they invent personal accusations that where never made, for example, in answer to a question a few moments ago the hon Lady started by saying, “Ah, so the Chief Minister is now saying that I am mindless,” No, the Chief Minister did not say that she was mindless, the Chief Minister said that it was a mindless policy. It is a very important distinction. I can describe a policy as mindless that is not to say that the person is mindless. I am sure that the hon Members think that lots of our policies are mindless I do not interpret that as the hon Member thinking that I have not got a mind in my head. They get statements that I make, they repackage them, they reformulate them and then misrepresent them as if I had made a personal insult and they do this systematically and I regret that the hon Member does the same and he has only been here two days and has been contaminated already.

HON F R PICARDO:

If that is the answer to my question let me assure him that we are going to meet fire with fire for the next four years but if the argument were whether the Chief Minister plays the ball or the man and if this were a playing field he would already have had more than one red card I assure him. As to the front page of the Chronicle I called the Chief Minister an “ignoramus” only after he had call me “ignorant”. We can have the same debate that we have had already in the past four not two but four days that we have been in this House about who has the shorter or the longer memory but Hansard will show who was first to deploy the gun of insult in this House.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

This is yet another example of the same thing as I have said to the hon Member. I did not say that the hon Member was “ignorant” I said that on the subject matter under discussion the hon Member was ignorant of the facts and I added “and perfectly understandable so given that he has only been in the House for two days.” To say that somebody is ignorant of the facts on a particular issue and then to add that it is perfectly explicable and understandable that he should be unaware of the facts because he was not around when it was last debated in this House is not to say of somebody that they are an ignorant person but they keep on themselves providing examples of the very thing of which I am complaining.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It is not correct for the Chief Minister to have said that Mr Picardo was giving me instructions about Louis XIV. That is not correct at all is it not even a worse situation that we have from Government when the Chief Minister is answering all the questions in relation to health, what is he going to make his second Minister for Health redundant?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Chief Minister is not going to do that but I am sure that the hon Lady understands that there is a new Government, that there are new Ministers in portfolio, that there are Ministers in portfolio that have only been in their posts for a few weeks and that it is therefore that their knowledge and understanding and familiarity with facts and issues which have been debated and discussed in this House and of which I have been briefed in the past because of my status as Chief Minister and which they are not aware because they were not involved that that requires for a transitional period until Ministers can get intimately familiar with their new briefs, that requires me to provide a degree of transitional cover. Even if that perfectly good and valid reason did not exist the fact of the matter is I am as the hon Lady knows responsible overall for the affairs of the Government and therefore when the hon members rise and say things which to my certain knowledge are not true I am duty bound to defend the honour and the record and the performance of the Government. Unless the hon Members think that I should just sit down and let them get away with what they are obviously trying to get away. I know that they go round restaurants at weekends bragging that they are going to give the Government hell and land running on our feet and they are going to seize the initiative and they are going to be so aggressive, yes, they have been heard saying all these things in restaurants. They are going to be so aggressive with them that half-way through this term they are going to be dead and buried politically and that the Opposition is going to start from day one and really mix it in with them.....well, it is not a bad idea that is what Oppositions should do. If they had asked me for advice obviously I am the last person whose advice they would value, except that I have managed to win three elections in a row so perhaps they ought to take my advice a bit more often but if they had taken my advice I would have said to them, "It is a jolly good thing that the Opposition should be a little bit more active than what they were last time but please do not start until February or March give the poor old electorate that have just been through a general election a month or two of respite before bashing them again. The Opposition will not loose very much it is a four year marathon not a sprint, you loose nothing by giving poor old GBC viewer and Chronicle reader three weeks to get over the election campaign," that would be my only criticism of the Opposition re- invigoration that appears to be under way and which frankly I very much welcome.

HON C A BRUZON:

Going back to the dialysis, I have understood everything that the Chief Minister has said recognising that they have been in power for eight years and that they realise that it is a commitment. But in answer to the question as to when the machinery will be operational in Gibraltar. If my understanding is correct what the Chief Minister has said is that it will be operational when the new hospital is functioning, for which there is no date yet mentioned. Is that correct?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes.

HON C A BRUZON:

The Government do not know really, that is the answer.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is sometime before, during or after the summer. We do not know the exact date but it is going to be either May, June, July or August or September. For the hon Member's own information he keeps on saying the machine, this is not a machine it is a bank of machines in the plural.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Going back on the question of dialysis will the Minister for Health state whether the people running the dialysis unit will be local or people brought from abroad until the local can be trained to run the unit?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

We are back to Louis XIV this is another bit of information that has already been given and the hon Lady has not heard. I suggest they consult for a change the hon Member on the hon Lady's right side who seems to be making copious notes and no doubt will have written down what my learned Colleague said.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It could be that I do not hear him because the Chief Minister gets up talks for 20 minutes and then I forget what the original answer was that is the problem that we have in this House. If the Chief Minister was constructive in the manner in which he answers supplementaries and he would not go on for hours on end then the Opposition would be able to digest what the answer was to the original question.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government cannot be more constructive than what we are being. In answer to the hon Members questions they are receiving an exhaustive, extensive, full explanation and analysis of the issue. If she prefers that in the interest of brevity we give her a less full explanation, a less complete explanation and therefore a lesser degree of transparency that can be arranged but if what we are interested is in brevity and not quantity of information then the hon Lady should not complain if she does not get as much information as the hon Lady might otherwise get.

GHA – NEW HOSPITAL

Can the Government confirm which employees will be re-generating the meals on each of the floors at Europort Building, once they are transported from the old wine factory area?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

It is not appropriate to comment on this issue at this stage.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 207 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Did Government not say in the last meeting of the House that the meals would be prepared by the cooks and that the transportation would be done by other persons?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The answer to that is yes but that is not what this question asks.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Are Government intending or have they already sent out included in a Gazette a contract for anybody interested in transporting the meals to the hospital?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The Government have advertised what is called the facilities management tender which relates to services which include the catering facility and which the Government are still considering, has not awarded, and that is the position but there has not been any tender for the transportation this is all part of the catering element of the facilities management tender. The hon Lady should understand that her questions asked for who will do the regenerating of the meals. Once the cooked and chilled food is already in the preparation kitchen on each floor of the hospital.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So, I did not really get an answer to my original question.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Lady did get an answer to her original question I was just trying to be helpful perhaps I should not because then they say that I spent too long on my feet. When the hon Lady was talking about preparing meals the word 'preparing' gives two different parts of an operation because 'preparing' could mean cooking the meal and it could also mean regenerating the meal. The hon Lady used in her supplementaries the phrase 'preparing' even though the question relates to regeneration that was all I was trying to say to her. The hon Lady did get an answer to her question about who would regenerate the answer is that it is not appropriate to comment on this issue at this stage.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does it mean that the Government are still not sure how the system is going to work?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

What it means is that it is not appropriate to comment on this issue at this stage.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Could we end up in a situation where we have the cooks preparing the meals and other people transporting them and other people regenerating them in the hospital?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is not appropriate to comment on this issue at this stage.

GHA – ENROLLED NURSES

Can Government state whether the 89 Enrolled Nurses who were required to renew their registration in the year 2003 have all done so?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answered together with Question Nos 182 and 209 of 2004.

THE HON J J BOSSANO

GHA – STAFF NURSES

Can Government state whether the 84 Staff Nurses who were required to renew their registration in the year 2003 have all done so?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Government acknowledges that the Nurses, Midwives and Health Visitors Registration Board will require first and second level registered nurses to produce a portfolio of continuing professional development. This is a professional matter and is a requirement introduced by the Board under the provisions of Part III of the Medical and Health Ordinance. The requirements mirror those of the Nursing and Midwifery Council in the United Kingdom. Not all of the Enrolled Nurses and Staff Nurses have applied for re-registration. The process is currently being reviewed by the Nurses, Midwives and Health Visitors Registration Board in the light of representations made to it by the Government on the question of re-registrations fees and the prescription of requirements to be followed by Enrolled Nurses. With regard to these professional requirements, the School of Health Studies has prepared a document for consideration by the Board and the Board will be contacting the persons on the Register in due course.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 182, 208 AND 209 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will Government not accept that this is a matter that we have raised here in the House and in press releases on four occasions, the last time of which was in April 2003, and that the Opposition has heard nothing from Government and that the Opposition have asked Government whether there appears to be a direct contradiction with this new legal requirement and with the contracts of employment which makes these nurses permanent and pensionable. This position as we see it appears to be in breach of their terms of employment as from now on nurses would therefore have their jobs guaranteed only for a period of three years, is that correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is not for Government to accept or reject whether the Opposition have issued three or four press statements. Those are matter of facts which remain facts regardless whether or not Government accepts them. As to the substance of the supplementary the hon Lady appears to have prepared supplementaries written out in front of her which she is determined to read notwithstanding the answer that she has given. In the answer that the hon Lady has given there is every acknowledgement of the debate that we have had across the floor of the House on this issue before. The Leader of the Opposition in one of our exchanges on this issue I do not know how many months ago raised with me his interpretation that there seems to be a legal anomaly in the chronology of legal requirements. In the question of whether there had to be a prescription before the obligation arose and following that debate I looked into the matter myself, I concluded that I am not sure whether this was the legal or the precise point that the hon Member he had identified but in any case I formed the view that there was a doubt about whether something which had not been prescribed could be a requirement given that the requirement was termed in context of something having been prescribed and that is what the hon Lady has been told in the answer that the Nurses, Midwives and Health Visitors Registration Board in the light of representations made to it by the Government on the question of re-registration fees and the prescription of requirements to be followed by the enrolled nurses. So, that matter which results from a prompting by the hon Members of Opposition is indeed being looked at and I am not sure where the matter stands but it is certainly something that is on the table as requiring remedy, action or modification of some sort. Similarly, the hon Gentleman brought to my attention a letter that had been received by nurses requiring them to pay I do not remember the exact sum was for re-registration. Something that had been done not by Government but by the Registration Board. Again I asked Health Authority Management and the Minister to look at it and it was something that seemed to me to be worthy of reconsideration. One thing is to ask one's staff to keep up with standards of nursing practice, another is to require to make a payment without which they cannot continue in ones employment. This raises issues as between employer and employee rather than as between nurses and Registration Board. If there is a fee to be paid without which our employees cannot continue to be our employees if anybody should pay it it should be the employer and not the employee and that is my personal view. That is a view being considered at ministerial suggestion by the Nurses and Registration Board but Government are not in a position unless this House were to repeal the Nurses Registration Board Ordinance or the sections relating to that Board. Neither of these issues are matters that Government itself, Government can say "We will pay for them" we will pay for them but the Government itself can eliminate the requirement to pay the fee because these are matters which are vested in the authority of the Board and are not matters which lie in the hands of the Government. So, depending on what the Board decides upon its consideration of Government policy or representations, Government will decide whether there is a need or not to amend the legislation. Far from having ignored the points made by the hon Members both have been followed up in a very real way.

HON J J BOSSANO:

That covers much of what we have raised but I do not think that it covers everything because additional points that the Chief Minister has not mentioned Government may have done something about that as well in terms of analysing the problem that this creates. First of all the Chief Minister is right, we said that how could Government introduce conditions affecting people's continued employment which they were not told about at the time they applied for the job and that is one of the issues. The Board was saying, “...in order to continue to be registered and in order to continue to practice one has to re-register every three years.” As we saw it the conflict arises in that nurses have a contract of employment with Government that does not say, “you are permanent and pensionable for as long as you remain registered and as long as you are able to practice.” Therefore, Government would be required by the terms of employment to continue to employ somebody who according to the Board would not be able to do the job for which they are required. If they wanted to make that a condition of employment in the Opposition’s judgement they would only be able to make it for people from a current date when the advert came out people would be told there is a vacancy for registered nurse in the hospital and one will only be able to continue in employment if one is successful in re-registering every three years so applicants would then entering a lottery because presumably they would not be able to guarantee. The other thing that arises is that if that is the system that is going to operate and it will operate on one basis for existing and another one for new staff we put it to the Government that one certainly cannot require people to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Board that they have been successful in attaining certain levels when nothing has been done to provide.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

To prescribe.....yes the Board has to prescribe what needs to be done and then the facilities to be able to do it have to be provided neither of which has happened. The third thing is that if one is going to have out of 84 staff nurses and 89 enrolled nurses and presumably even more in the future a requirement that they are going to have to spend ‘x’ weeks in the year on courses in order to be able to satisfy the Board at the end of the three years then presumably the manning levels for the hospital would have to factor in something that was not there before just like if tomorrow there is an increase in sick leave entitlement or an increase in holiday entitlement the manning levels are then looked at on the basis that the available working hours have been reduced. Those elements concern Government as an employer independent of what the Board does and that is that there is an inevitable manning level effect and cost to the Government and the Health Service if this is proceeded with. If it is something that is desirable or necessary or good I suppose it will have to be done but I was pointing out to Government that there were all these repercussive effects which did not seem to have been considered and I hope that that further element is looked at as well. If I could make just two points. First of all there is a disagreement of analysis before we get on to the substance and reality on the ground. Government are both the employer and also somebody who has to comply with the law. The Leader of the Opposition spoke about conditions introduced after people were first employed and that how these should only apply to new employees and how this is not a condition of employment of existing nursing staff but these are not things that Government are doing as employer this is the law of the land which applies as much to nurses employed by Government as to nurses employed by private clinics. The law of the land establishes in order to ensure a minimum standard of nursing and patient care throughout Gibraltar the law establishes certain statutory requirements that have to be complied by all nurses not just Government nurses, nurses in the Westminster Clinic and the nurses in this or that private clinic too. That being the law Government are the biggest employer of nurses in Gibraltar and as an employer now has to set about complying with the law in relation to nurse registration and re-registration and the Leader of the Opposition knows that the law often changes the conditions of employment of people both to the benefit and prejudice of the employee and to the benefit and prejudice of the employer. All the employment legislation that we pass in this House, EU directives and things like that, that is the law being superimposed on private arrangements namely contracts of employment. So, the idea that regulatory standards if one could very loosely call them that imposed by legislation cannot apply to anybody that is already employed in that occupation I do not think is a sustainable analysis. What the Leader of the Opposition says might be true if Government as an employer was in respect of its employee trying to change established rights in the conditions of employment so, for example, if Government were to say, "we now require that unless all our nurses have 26 'O' Levels they are immediately sacked," that is a change of established acquired rights in an employer/employee relationship. In that context the Leader of the Opposition's analysis I believe will be correct but when it is the law of the land that imposes both on the Government and on any other nurse employer this idea of this sort of cut off date would not apply. Secondly, I think that the Leader of the Opposition is misinformed about the nature of this portfolio obligation and the business of re-registration. From listening to the hon Member both today and on previous days in this House I detect that the Leader of the Opposition has formed the view of this that somehow it is some form of examination. The portfolios is little more than presenting a package of a presentational submission that in the ordinary course of their normal duties they have kept up with certain standards of practice and there are facilities available to assist nurses to comply with this. They may want to suggest that there are not enough but that is another issue. There are resources, courses and time-off given for study and or preparation and or access to the nursing school to assist them in getting all this. I am not in possession of detailed information as to what that boils down to in terms of hours and help so there might be a debate about whether or not it might be enough I have no information that it is not enough or that anybody has complained that it is not enough but it would not be true to suggest that this is a matter that has not been thought about, that has not been prepared about and that there are no resources or scheme in place to assist nurses and that is something that Government do as the employer. As employer of nurses that have this legal obligation Government provides time and resources and assistance to its nursing employees to assist them in their compliance with what is a legal requirement and not an employer's requirement.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it not a legal requirement that they have to re-register and the fact that they letter was sent out by the Board saying for the registration to be successful one has to produce evidence that one has met and successfully completed certain prescribed training modules and nothing had been prescribed so nothing could have been met. So, that is the first issue that has been looked at because it is so obvious but in addition to that it appears that the Board has a free hand on what to prescribe, the law does not say that things have got to be prescribed and therefore the need to re-register which is one thing which is what the law requires is not a handicap. It is quite reasonable quite apart from anything else if somebody comes from outside forget the Government as the Chief Minister has said, in the private sector, if somebody comes along from outside as they do and they register initially in order to be employed in a private clinic I think it is a good thing that they should be required to re-register three years later and that they should not, for example, simply disappear and turn up 20 years later and the registration should be there. The Opposition is not against the re-registration, the Opposition supported that when it was done what is being questioned is whether the additional conditions being attached to re-registration now create a new situation which the House never perceived or intended which is that the failure to register means that one cannot be employed and they are now putting conditions on the registration which were not there before and are now being put by the Board because independent about what the Chief Minister has said that it is a different issue if one does it as an employer from doing it because it is the law of the land, I accept it is a different situation, I would have thought that as an employer which happens to be the employer that based the laws Government are creating a situation [INTERRUPTION] the laws are made by all of us that is why I am able to make a contribution in helping in this matter. If a law is made and the result of that law which is brought to the House and supported by the Government and the Opposition support it because it seems a good idea and then we find that the operation of that law in the way that it is going to be operated means that one could have people then suing the Government for unfair dismissal because they have been in the Health Service for 20 years and suddenly they find themselves that they are not able to continue in employment because they are not able to carry on doing what they have been doing for 20 years because they have not passed some prescribed thing, quite apart from anything else it is one thing to do these things when people have come straight out of training and another thing is to do them for people who have been all their lives and near retirement. Those are important considerations. On the job training is one thing and another thing is a prescribed portfolio of things that must have been done, the wording of that gave the impression that people would have to do extra courses which the Health Service does make available but they do not make it available on the basis that it affects ones ability to continue the job one is doing. Whenever those course have been made available and I have asked questions in this House about them the answer has been that the reason that the courses are there is to create an incentive because the more courses one does the better the chances are when one goes to a Promotion Board because one has shown (a) an interest and (b) ones breadth of knowledge. It is a very good thing that as an employer Government should give people the opportunity to improve their skills and their prospects of promotion and another thing is to say and if one does not one cannot carry on doing what one was doing before one did the courses and that is a very significant difference. All the courses that are there now, to my knowledge, are not courses which if one is not successful negatively affect the job one is doing now. All the courses that are there now do not have that effect and to my knowledge that has always been the case and has continued to be the case when the Opposition have asked about people being sent for training and I know people who have done it and have come back and expect that when there is a vacancy in a particular area, in fact, people look for the area where vacancies are likely to occur and then apply specifically for the courses that are likely to be useful for that. So, I believe that notwithstanding the argument of the Government which I can understand in distinguishing between the law and the role as an employer it would be a very unusual situation if the state decided that a qualification that was not needed by people who have been years in employment is going to be needed now for them to continue doing the job that they have been doing all the time.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

First of all we have to be clear that there is a difference between training courses made available through the School of Nurses for enrolled nurses to be able to get to staff nurses or for enrolled nurses to increase their levels of expertise and therefore promotion prospects. There is a difference between that on the one hand and processes designed to ensure that even within ones existing position one is keeping up with modern practices and that one is keeping up with the standards required. I honestly do not think that the Leader of the Opposition's analysis that he has presented is correct about whether changes which are designed either to improve or maintain standards should not be imposed in areas such as healthcare and others in respect of existing staff, for example, and as to one can or should be affected, if the Bar Council were suddenly to introduce a new requirement without which lawyers could not continue to practice that would affect the lawyers in the Attorney General's Chambers and they have got permanent and pensionable posts and Government could not continue to use them as lawyers because they would no longer have the rights of audience in the court because the law of the land says that to be a lawyer one now needs to have blue eyes and all the ones that do not have blue eyes therefore can no longer practice and Government would be affected just like anybody else. This does not apply just to nurses it applies to other people like pharmacists and doctors in the Health Authority. When the Leader of the Opposition suggests that this is somehow an unusual or difficult to justify regime. In the United Kingdom they have exactly the same process where nurses who are employees of the Health Authority are required to re-register every three years, they are required to submit portfolios of work, it is exactly the same system no one says there that this raises the sort of structural issues in terms of employment relationships that the Leader of the Opposition has just described, I think that there is an acceptance in certain lines of business, in certain activities in life healthcare being one of them where it is thought legitimate that the authority in this case the Medical Registration Board should have a mechanism whereby they are able to ensure not that one is fit and proper and up to standards on the day that one is employed but that indeed those are maintained. Government cannot exempt itself from that process what I would say and where I would agree with the Leader of the Opposition to this extent and this is something that perhaps ought to have been debated at the time that if the Health Authority is a good employer with proper management and disciplinary control over its staff and able to develop its staff and obtain its staff development, theoretically it ought not to be necessary, for Government to subject to a law before ensuring that all its staff were up to standard. Usually regulatory things are to regulate people that might otherwise try to get away with behaving at a lower standard. It is to be assumed that Governments and Health Authorities do not fall into that category but at the end of the day this is something that regulates a profession without making a distinction whether it is practice in the private sector or published in the public sector but the system almost in the same way exists in the United Kingdom. I suspect that that is exactly where the Medical Registration Board and the proposal to bring standards into line where taken from I do not suppose Gibraltar designed or invented this mechanism. As the hon Lady has said these requirements mirror those of the Nursing and Midwifery Council in the United Kingdom so by all means we can discuss this but this is what the UK thinks is necessary in the interests of nurses and patients. We can debate whether it is necessary here but it is not an extraordinary or unusual or peculiar structure.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is this available and could it be made available to us what is being mirrored from UK so that we know what we are talking about. In the original answer if I heard the Chief Minister rightly he said that not all the 89 enrolled nurses and not all the 84 staff nurses had actually re-registered?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Independent of the question of the proficiency how can they continue, we are talking about having to re-register without having to meet any specific thin, how can they continue to be practising if they have not re-registered?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

What I said was that not all have applied for re-registration. The process is on-going. The Leader of the Opposition in his previous contribution finished off by talking about achieving a qualification and if that qualification was not achieved was Government going to sack the nurses. That is not the scenario, the scenario we are in and the on-going process is that the Board having said this is what we want, and it is an independent statutory board, the School of Health Studies are now liaising with the Board to see how the on-going work that the School of Health Studies does and the work that it does and the courses that it provides for nurses how that can tailor and fit in to the requirements of the portfolio so that when that portfolio shows the work that is being done through the School of Studies that portfolio will at the end meet the requirements of the Board. So, the work that is being done far from being done from a philosophy of finding ways of avoiding people being able to register the philosophy is exactly the opposite it is one of co-operation between the Board, the school and the GHA in finding ways to help the nurses to be in a position to apply for re-registration. The implications in the Leader of the Opposition's questions of nurses not yet having re-registered is that the process is still on-going until we solve it we will not be able to finish it.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Can I just add to that as that answer is not complete to the hon Member's questions which I thought was intended to imply – are the nurses therefore breaking the law or is Government breaking the law by reason of not having been registered. No, this raises the question that I put to him in answer to the first supplementary by the hon Lady. It is this problem as to whether there is a doubt which I think is a very real doubt I would personally although it is not my job to advise Government in legal matters that there is much more than just a real doubt as to whether or not there is a legal requirement to submit a portfolio because it has not been prescribed and therefore there is no requirement for portfolios for registration that is presently being considered by the Board so failure to have delivered a portfolio would not be an obstacle legally at the moment because nothing has been prescribed and therefore at the moment it is an empty obligation. When something is put in to that obligation by way of prescription then I suppose that could be used. There are now proposals being considered by the Board to prescribe those requirements but they have not yet emerged and have not yet been prescribed.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I understand all that but the point that I am making is being entirely missed. The original letter that was sent which I brought to the attention of the House said that on this occasion the portfolio would not be demanded so everything that we are being told about the portfolio is totally irrelevant. The original letter from the Board to the nurses said, "...because on this occasion we have not put in place the necessary machinery for the portfolio on this occasion you will not be required to submit a portfolio.” That is what the original letter said so everything we have been told in the last 10 minutes is neither here nor there because I am talking about re-registration in the year 2003 which is what the original question is and for the re-registration of 2003 what the letter from the Board that I brought to the House on the last occasion we debated this said was, “...we are putting you on notice that this time round we will re-register you without the portfolio.” So, everything we are being told about the portfolio is for the next time round not for this time round I am asking this time round when the portfolio is not being demanded, was never going to be demanded even before we debated it because the people were put on notice that this was a legal requirement and my question to that was, “How can one send someone a letter saying there is a legal requirement to do this and we are waiving it, is the Board in a position to waive legal requirements?” But independent of that point all the explanations that are being given now are about the portfolio, what the school of nursing is going to be doing with the portfolio, the intention is not to make life difficult but to make it easier and that is not my question. My question is without the portfolio which is not being required one still has the requirement for re-registration and that is a legal requirement as I understand it not a requirement that the Board may waive . If everybody has not applied for re-registration how is it that the people whose registration was due, forget the portfolio, are still there? That was my supplementary.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The whole issue of re-registration is being kept in limbo I am just being reminded that one of the legal niceties that I thought arose when I considered this on prompting from the Leader of the Opposition was a doubt in mind as to whether the registration and re-registration process applied to enrolled nurses at all in the language that the legislation used, not just whether one could demand re-registration but actually whether they were required to have been registered in the first place. So, that is the issue that is being looked at in respect of the enrolled nurse. I apologise to the Leader of the Opposition I forgot to make that point which had been one of the two potential legal objections that I had identified in the middle of last year when I looked at this. As to what the point is, and I understand the hon Members, have they re-registered or not and if they have not is the Health authority in breach of the law? The answer is that that is the answer in respect of enrolled nurses that the question of whether they are required to re-register or to participate in any register is under careful legal scrutiny. As to what the answer to his question is in relation to staff nurses I would have to take advice, my understanding is the same as his that this is a legal requirement. I am not aware that the Board has any powers to waive. The view has been taken in respect of staff nurses too that the obligation to re-register is inextricably linked to the prescription of things that would need to be done before anybody could do that and as they had not been prescribed the view is being taken whether rightly or wrongly by the Board that until the question of the prescription of these requirements are prescribed the process of re-registration is on hold. Whether or not that amounts to the exercise of a discretion that the law does not give the Board or whether it amounts to an exercise of a discretion that the Board in law has I would need notice either to research the point in law myself or to get legal advice on the point. I do not know from my off-hand knowledge of the requirements of those sections whether they have or have not got that discretion.

HON J J BOSSANO:

That last answer means that some people have applied and some have not but no one has been re-registered yet is that correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Certainly the process of re-registration of people that applied for it stopped after Government raised these issues and placed it on hold. It may be that some people that have applied for re-registration before it was placed on hold may have been re-registered before it was placed on hold but once it was placed on hold re-registration application, I am advised, have been held and not taken forward to the register.

HON J J BOSSANO:

It is not that Government have asked the Board to put it on hold am I right? This is something that they have done on their initiative and I take that that is the case because something that the Chief Minister has not referred to but I have mentioned in earlier supplementaries that my recollection of the text of the letter was that the registration in the year 2003 would not be affected by the absence of this portfolio. If one sends people a letter saying, "We are reminding you that you are required by law to apply for re-registration otherwise you are not capable of continuing practising nursing from the first of January. We also need to remind you that there is also going to be a requirement to meet a prescribed portfolio of studies or courses but since we have not produced the prescribed list on this occasion we are not asking you to do it but we are putting you on notice that the next time round in three in years you are going to be able to do it" which is fine because one is giving people plenty of notice that they cannot argue that it has caught them by surprise but to go on from that and say "We are now putting the whole process on hold and we are not re-registering anybody," certainly it cannot be following UK practice for a start and I would say that as a matter of urgency it needs to be looked into because if there is a law that says that people cannot practice nursing without being registered just imagine that something happens to somebody in the hospital and the patient was dealt with by one of these nurses whose registration has not been done. The original letter in my judgement covered without complications the registration of this year as it was drafted and I remember it and it seems that we are now in a slightly worse situation that we were if they had done what they said they were going to do which was to automatically re-register everybody and then over the next three years put in play something for the next time round.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

In answer to the first point, this is not a Government initiative in the sense that Government do not issue instructions or directives in fact it is unable to do so to the Board. The Government makes representations to the Board which the Board choose to take into account or chooses not to take into account that is a matter for the Board, as is the administration of this requirement. The Leader of the Opposition says that the matter appears to have become much more different and complicated than the one that he initially raised that is true but that is because once one starts pulling a thread from a piece of string other threads are pulled out with it, for example, the point about whether this applies to enrolled nurses at all this was an issue that arose. In a sense what has happened? The administration, implementation and operation of this system that did not exist before 1997 is suspended whilst its efficacy, validity and correct application is under review. I accept the Leader of the Opposition's implicit observations that it is not a satisfactory state of affairs that that situation should persist for any longer than strictly necessary and that the process of review should be such that the system is restored to proper operation as soon as possible. If that is the point I entirely agree with it and I will certainly take it up to ensure that that occurs.

EMPLOYMENT – DISABLED PERSONS

Is it Government policy to ensure that disabled persons are not discriminated against at work or in their ability to access the labour market?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The policies of successive Gibraltar Governments are reflected in the provisions of the laws of Gibraltar in this respect mainly in the Disabled Persons Ordinance 1992.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 219 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Do Government keep a record of the number of disabled people that are in employment?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Disability is a very varied concept and there are records in the Employment Service of the number of disabled people at different stages of disability who have employment. In fact, there are some who have been placed, not employed, as trainees with different employers. The records are there but I could not give them to the hon Lady across the floor.

HON F R PICARDO:

In relation to the answer given a moment ago is the Minister's position then that the provisions of the Equal Opportunities Directive, is he aware that we have the Bill in the House, which will apply also to elderly people and disabled people as from 2006.

In relation to disabled people have already been dealt with in Gibraltar under the Disability Ordinance or that we will have to make specific provisions in the future?

HON DR B A LINARES:

The Equal Opportunities Ordinance which will be introduced at this meeting of the House reflects the Directive of the European Union 2000/78 EC which covers areas of discrimination against aged and disabled persons but nevertheless the European Union has actually made allowances to Member States to delay the actual practical implementation of those requirements because of the wide-ranging complexities that it involves affecting employers having to make adjustments to the new requirements in 2006. Nevertheless, the Government are committed to introduce these areas of equal opportunities and anti-discrimination in due course. But we do have time even in England the Disability Discrimination Act will not come into practical implementation until August this year so we do have a time lapse in which we can actually process this legislation.

HON F R PICARDO:

So in effect the Minister is telling me that we will have to go further in transposition?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes, indeed the 1992 Disability Persons Ordinance is very inadequate as it stands and nevertheless we would welcome very much a much more precise and specific elements of a new legislation in the Equal Opportunities Ordinance.

HON C A BRUZON:

I was hoping to mention this in the discussion that we will be having when we talk about the Equal Opportunities, the Ordinance, but I can assure the Minister that there is no mention to the disabled or the elderly in the green papers that I have received from the Clerk of the House.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I will just explain why. The European Union has allowed a time lapse to 2006.

HON C A BRUZON:

Is it possible for the Minister to give us some statistics regarding the present figure of employment of disabled in Gibraltar, how many disabled people are employed?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I have answered that before and I have said that I cannot here and now give details because I have not got the.....

HON S E LINARES:

I think that the hon Member would like those figures if he can to be passed to him.

HON DR B A LINARES:

Indeed, I did mention that we have records and they will be passed on.

EDUCATION – PRIVATE NURSERIES

Can Government state how many times school nurses have visited private nurseries in the years 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

All entitled children are assessed at the age of three by the Health Visitor. The assessments are carried out at the Government nurseries or at the Primary Care Centre if the child is not attending Government nursery. No visits are made by the Health Visitor to Private Nurseries.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 223 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Is it all private nurseries. 100 per cent of the private nurseries?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I do not understand the question.

HON S E LINARES:

Is there not one nursery who does have school nurses visiting them?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Not to my knowledge.

NO. 224 OF 2004

THE HON S E LINARES

EDUCATION – PRIVATE NURSERIES

Can Government state how many times Education Advisers have visited private nurseries in the years 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The Advisory Service conducted a full inspection of all private nurseries in 1997 where the following information was collated:

- ? ? Number of children on roll;
- ? ? How many children are organised;
- ? ? Resources available;
- ? ? Activities planned for a “typical day”;
- ? ? Details of records kept;
- ? ? Fees charged.

In subsequent years, the advisers have held informal regular contacts with nursery owners and staff and they have been available to advise on how these criteria can be implemented effectively. They have also involved themselves in investigating individual parental complaints when such complaints have arisen, which I must say very rarely.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 224 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

The Minister has not answered my question because the question is how many times have educational advisers visited private nurseries. I am aware of the inspection that was done in 1997. Since 1997 to date we are six years on nearly seven and therefore it does not relate to my question. My question is how many times have Educational Advisers visited private nurseries in 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003? If they have not visited the answer is none.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I do not have a statistical answer to the question as put to me but what I have tried to do is actually reassure the hon Member that there is no problem that there is constant attention in informal, in a whole variety of ways by the Educational Advisory Service to the private nurseries and we go beyond the statistical mechanistic answer to his question to reassure him that there is and I have no problem whatsoever that the department is very much monitoring and advising and supporting the private nurseries.

HON S E LINARES:

What is the statistical mechanistic answer then?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I do not have any, that is the point that I am making. I think it is much more important to tell the hon Member how the department operates educationally than telling him just a shopping list of .....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

(Inaudible)

HON S E LINARES:

Thank you very much.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I do not know I do not have a record but I was pretty serious that there is constant attention, monitoring, advising, helping, encouraging the department, the teachers and the owners of the nurseries who ensure that academic standards, health standards are maintained. I was pretty serious about that and that I think was more important to put before the House than just that shopping list of visits.

HON S E LINARES:

Is the Minister aware that there is a new way in which to deal with nurseries which is the foundation year which has been implemented recently? I am asking the question because I think that it is the responsibility of the department of Education to visit regularly private nurseries to make sure that the foundation year which is now becoming, might well be incorporated as part of the National Curriculum, which is the foundation year .....

HON DR B A LINARES:

Reception Year.

HON S E LINARES:

No foundation year which is pre-school it is no longer the reception years 1 and 2 it is the foundation year which is the pre-school year which might well become in the future part of the National Curriculum and therefore I am asking because these new innovations should be implemented or at least starting to be implemented in private nurseries because this is what is happening in Government nurseries.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In relation to the statement that the Minister made that he said the information that been obtained in 1997 and then he went on to say that the department is engaged constantly in making sure that the criteria are implemented effectively. I could not follow that because he was talking about the criteria being implemented effectively and he did not say anything about any criteria in 1997, he was talking about the number of children, their ages, their sex, the facilities, how much they pay, what is this criteria that he has told us they are ensuring is implemented effectively?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I did not mention the word criteria.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Yes, I wrote it down.

HON DR B A LINARES:

The Advisory Service conducted a full inspection of all private nurseries in 1997 where the following information was collated and then I listed the information.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Yes but at the end.

HON DR B A LINARES:

Perhaps I used the wrong word. I meant all this information, all this data that was collated they now monitor that it is being implemented and that the situation is continuing to be up to scratch.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I really do not understand the nature of the answer we have received to the original question because if he says, for example, in 1997 they found they had so many children of so many ages what is it that is subsequently being implemented, if he has got factual information which gave the Education Department a picture of what was happening in 1997 I would understand it if he were to tell us that at subsequent intervals they have updated that information to find out what has happened since but what I do not understand is what in that information has now become something that the department is monitoring to assure that is implemented effectively?

HON DR B A LINARES:

The Advisors were satisfied with the information roughly and globally. Satisfied with the information that they gathered in 1997 about the number of children enrolled the resources available, the activities planned for a typical fruitful day for the children, details of records kept, that was established in a bank of data which satisfied the Advisors that there was no crisis and no serious problems involved in the private nurseries. That is the situation generally which informally without this sort of formal meetings perhaps is being monitored and kept as you mentioned up-dated if necessary by the Advisors through these regular contacts with the owners and with the staff.

EDUCATION – CHANGE OF SCHOOL HOURS

Can the Minister of Education state at what stage his department is in relation to the Review of the Change of School Hours?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

No such review is taking place. The Government are content with the present school hours.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 225 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

I state the review because it was himself who stated he would be reviewing on an annual basis or at least regularly which can be either an annual , six monthly or ten yearly, that he would be reviewing the whole of the situation in respect of the change of school hours. That is why I put the question and therefore it seems as if there has been no review, is that the case that there has been no review whatsoever?

HON DR B A LINARES:

There is no review here and now, the hon Member asked me whether there is a review currently taking place and I say no review is currently taking place. That does not mean that we do not keep in mind the fact that we also have to in general terms monitor developments in the school. At this stage there is no swell of discontent or of problems coming to us from the implementation of the school hours?

HON S E LINARES:

I have not suggested that there is anything negative about the change of school hours at this stage what I am saying is that he was the one that stated about the review and therefore I am just asking at what stage it is. It is obvious that there is no review whatsoever.

HON DR B A LINARES:

Not at this stage.

EDUCATION – SCHOOL LUNCHES

Can Government state whether they are conducting a feasibility study into the possibility of providing food in schools for the lunch break?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The Government are not at presently conducting any such study.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 226 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Is it Government policy to look into the feeding of children in school via an outside agency?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

As the hon Member knows the Government have a manifesto commitment to consider the feasibility of providing meals at school and to conduct enquiries. The question asked whether they are conducting a feasibility study meaning is any such feasibility study under way. It is not presently under way hence my Colleague's answer but at some stage in honour of its manifesto commitment the Government have got to address this possibility and enter into a consultation process about it.

PRE-SCHOOL NURSERIES

Can Government state how many children attend full-time pre-school nursery education this academic year?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

A total of 256 children attend pre-school nursery education this academic year.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 227 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

I insist on the word full-time pre-school nursery education, is it 256 that are in full-time nursery education?

HON DR B A LINARES:

If the hon Member means by full-time all day, this is not on, it has never been so. We have morning sessions and afternoon sessions.

HON S E LINARES:

So there are no children in full-time pre-school nursery education?

HON DR B A LINARES:

To say that there is no worthy full-time nursery education is really a bit of a myth is it not? There are 256 children receiving nursery education in the traditional and normal acceptable way which actually goes that well it seems with parents morning sessions and afternoon sessions.

EDUCATION – PUPIL REFERRAL UNIT

Can Government state whether it is reviewing its policy in relation to children with challenging behaviour with a view to setting up a Pupil Referral Unit?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The Government are not reviewing their policy in relation to children with challenging behaviour with a view to setting up a Pupil Referral Unit since they are satisfied that the Pupil Referral Unit, as currently set up is perfectly adequate

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 228 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Can the minister state when this Pupil Referral Unit was set up?

HON DR B A LINARES:

The Pupil Referral Unit was set up a few years ago and I have given details of this in the past to the hon Member. It is a question of what is his concept of a Pupil Referral Unit. If he means a physical location, a place where one actually segregates, a sin bin, type of place which I suspect is what he has in mind that is not so. We have a Pupil Referral Unit made of the Peripatetic Team of highly experienced teachers, three ex-headteachers, one deputy headteacher, who actually attend to pupils with challenging behaviour within the parameters, within the social environment of the school as far as possible. It does not exclude offside attention to these children when necessary, fortunately at this very moment of time there is no pupil who has required that type of exclusion and that is the, the hon Member is asking me for a date I cannot remember the date because it is a number of years ago that we have often debated this matter here and I can give him the date when this was established but it has been there now well established over a number of years.

HON S E LINARES:

It is incredible that the definition of the Pupil Referral Unit is now being changed. I have been asking this question since I entered this House about the Pupil Referral Unit always to be told that a Pupil Referral Unit will never be set up by this Government because they do not believe in it. Now, the Minister is trying to give me a definition of a Pupil Referral Unit. I never, ever intended it to be one sin bin and we have gone through this debate before. I have never said that a Pupil Referral Unity is a sin bin institution. It is not a sin bin institution, I think the Minister and I understand or should understand what a Pupil Referral Unit means and therefore to say now that a Pupil Referral Unit has been set up a number of years is beyond comprehension.

HON DR B A LINARES:

The type of Pupil Referral Service that I have described and which no doubt from what he has just said he attends to agree with because if he does not believe in the physical sin bin type of thing then he agrees with this type of .....yes there is a certain type of fundamental contradiction in the mind of the hon Member because on the one hand he is pressing for inclusion and on this case he is pressing for segregation.

HON S E LINARES:

I said I did not believe in the institution of the Pupil Referral Unit. I do not have to justify the Government, the Government are accountable to the people of Gibraltar not myself.

HON J J BOSSANO:

We can pass a motion of censure and prove it.

EDUCATION – ST PAUL’S SCHOOL

Can Government state when the dining hall at St Paul’s School will be completed?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The extension currently being constructed at St Paul’s School consists of a hall, four classrooms, a nursery, stores and toilet facilities. The expected date of completion is September 2004.

THE HON S E LINARES

EDUCATION – BISHOP FITZGERALD SCHOOL

Can Government state whether a dining hall will also be provided for Bishop Fitzgerald School?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

There are no concrete plans to build a dining hall at Bishop Fitzgerald School.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 230 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Does the Minister not believe that there is a need for a dining hall in Bishop Fitzgerald?

HON DR B A LINARES:

There are many things which are desirable and which can be understood as needed but the Government have to set priorities, there are also logistical problems in the question of building extensions in the context in the geography of Bishop Fitzgerald and I have been honest enough to say that at this stage, it does not mean that we do not recognise that there are problems in Bishop Fitzgerald School with regard to dining, the main problem is that the hall has to be doubled up as a gym and for assemblies and that means tables and chairs have to be moved in and out for dinner but that is not the end of the world although we understand the difficulty and realise that perhaps they are not as fortunate in the provisions as other schools and definitely we will have in mind to see how improvements can be made within a total context of priorities.

THE HON S E LINARES

EDUCATION – ST PAUL’S SCHOOL

Can the Minister of Education state whether Governor’s Meadow School will be having a dinning hall like that of St Paul’s School?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

There are no plans to build a dining hall at Governor’s Meadow School.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 231 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Is the Minister aware that St Paul’s has exactly the same dining hall as Governor’s Meadow and that it was decided that St Paul’s needed another dining hall. Why has it not been decided that St Paul’s needed another dining hall if they are the same?

HON DR B A LINARES:

The hon Member may have missed the point I made when speaking about St Paul’s. I did not say a dining hall, the headteacher there is perfectly happy to continue the use of the present building for lunches and she is perfectly happy to continue using that. The works being carried out in St Paul’s I said was an extension of a hall, a nursery, classrooms, in terms of lunches the present construction will continue to be used because the headteacher is perfectly happy with it.

HON F R PICARDO:

Generally in relation to dining halls can the Minister state whether in fact this question of having to prioritise and not be able to provide one in particular in relation to Bishop Fitzgerald School, for example, relates to having to prioritise financially in what other aspects the department spends money on.

HON DR B A LINARES:

In what the actual department not the Government but the department?

HON F R PICARDO:

Yes. The Minister said that one of the reasons for not providing a dining hall at Bishop Fitzgerald School was because the department had to prioritise does that mean that for financial reasons the department cannot provide a dining hall at Bishop Fitzgerald?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

What it means is that there is a finite pot of money and that not everything that might be a good idea can all be done at the same time. As the Government do not want to just build school dining halls in one year it has to share out the monies available to housing, sports, leisure, so that we can get on with building the leisure centre that he is always criticising us for having had in the manifesto since 1996. There are all manner of areas where there is demand on Government finances in public expenditure and the idea that in any area of Government, Government can just do the whole of their wish list is financially unrealistic. There is not just sort of unlimited resources available.

HON F R PICARDO:

It is a financial prioritisation?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, one of the factors is financial prioritisation. If money were no object and space were no object and need were no object I suppose we could build buildings around every corner.

HON DR B A LINARES:

Space is a problem as the Chief Minister has mentioned. I did mention it myself when answering that question that the logistics, what I call the geography of the place, presents difficulties. At present we had to build further classrooms and facilities in the school and then in the playground and then we had to move the open playground area to the tennis courts. That would be an open area that could be built upon in order to provide a new hall so that it would not have to double up with the present hall for gymnastics, assemblies et cetera but that encroaches on the playground area so there are logistical problems. Nevertheless I am open to solutions.

HON S E LINARES:

I beg to differ with the Chief Minister and the Minister that it was a financial problem, it was not a financial problem, the Minister knows that it was not a financial problem the fact that Bishop Fitzgerald has not got a dining hall now. The fact is that there was no requisition at the time for a dining hall, is that the case? There was no requisition at the time for a dining hall and therefore Government did not budget for a dining hall at Bishop Fitzgerald's?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I do not know anything about that. It certainly comes to me as new requisitions came from all schools. All the schools had their advises made and assessment of the needs to provide for school lunches and there were no formal requisitions as such it was an inspection of the schools to see how best we could provide facilities for school lunches.

NO. 232 OF 2004

THE HON S E LINARES

EDUCATION – NEW SCHOOL IN WESTSIDE AREA

Can Government state whether a new middle school will be constructed in the Westside area?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The Government do have such plans for a first/middle school, although no decision has been made about when it may be implemented.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 232 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

I am sure that the Minister is aware that Bishop Fitzgerald School is bursting at the seams. Would Government not think that it is a priority to start thinking seriously about building a school down in the Westside area?

HON DR B A LINARES:

We are thinking about building a school in the West side area.

HON S E LINARES:

In 2001 I asked the same question and they were thinking of seriously building a school down in the westside area yet nothing has materialised. The answer to the question then was that they were trying to identify sites around the area to where the school will be. Three years on and still we are at a, "...we would like to do it stage."

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The problem here is in bad urban planning. The problem here is in desirably concentrating or building a large number of houses in a new area of Gibraltar and not making sufficient plans for parking, schools, that is the problem and when one tries to resolve these things after the event it is much more difficult but a properly thought out urban plan of the west side area when it started would have made provisions for the schools that were bound to be necessary by moving thousands of families down there and would have made proper provision for parking for the thousands of people that were going to be down there. Now, a subsequent Government have got to provide where there are no longer any sites available and therefore the question of the timing of demands for schools as I am sure he knows is very much a question of the demographics of generations and these things can be followed from the birth rates and things like that as to how many children of certain school ages we are going to have in Gibraltar in any year in the future because barring people that come into Gibraltar from abroad assuming that the bulk of our school children are the children that are born in Gibraltar one knows from the date of their birth when they are going to need a place in a First and Middle school because of the age bracket and this is something which is kept under review. There was a problem was it Bishop Fitzgerald or was it Governor's Meadow with an excessive number of children wanting to transfer to that school from other catchment areas which was increasing the overcrowding so to speak of the school. That has now been in a sense stopped so to relieve the places available to people on that catchment area. There is going to be a need for a school, there is a plan, we are down to choosing between one site or another site it is now down to two sites on one side of Queensway or another depending on how certain negotiations with other entities goes ahead. The exact timing of the need to make the investment is being kept under careful observation and it is a balance of prioritisation with when will the need really arise in terms of Bishop Fitzgerald and Governor's Meadow really will not be able to cope even without transfers from other areas. It is not just Governor's Meadow and Bishop Fitzgerald the spill over effect is into places like St Anne's and many of these schools, St Paul's, a lot of these schools are bursting at seam point so there is unquestionably a need but it was not that the need existed in 2001 or 2002. The need is there, the timing of the satisfaction of that need is under careful consideration.

HON S E LINARES:

I accept his arguments but what I do not accept is that seven years on the demographic move that happened to the Westside is still a problem, not only that, this Government must also bear the responsibility of having all the Edinburgh House being given out therefore it is not a problem that was created before it is a problem that has been created through time so it is therefore not a thing that its demographic move because of all the houses that have been built down there. We are still even developing down there, there is Europlaza, Westview Park, all these developments have been done by this Government. I accept the Chief Minister's argument that there is a need for a school down there all I am asking is to make it more urgent than it is now at present.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is the urgency that the demand requires.

HON F R PICARDO:

In that event will the Chief Minister agree with me that if his argument is that the urgency of the demand is not great then what the planning officer did or did not do 12 or 16 years ago cannot have been so bad after all?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No because the demand is there, for example, we had to move Bishop Fitzgerald down to that area where it was not previously located to immediately meet the demand and literally over a summer the school had to be moved down there to meet the demand. That was the immediate response to the unprovided for demand and now we are in the position of having to prepare for the next wave of demand as young couples have more and more children of their homeownership and that is the reality of the situation. I am afraid that we have all got to learn in Gibraltar that the days when we could take the view where one could build 2,000 flats there and not provide schools because anywhere in Gibraltar is close enough and therefore one does not have to think in terms of the local provision of schools that does not apply and proper planning of new zones, proper zoning of new residential housing has to take and I think should have taken account of future schooling needs and I do not think there is any getting away from that. The hon Members generated the construction of over eight years 2,000 odd more flats. To have done that without making any accommodation for schooling in the area seems to me like an oversight of planning. I regret that the hon Member should not regard the point as so obvious that he wishes to contest it. It seems perfectly obvious to me.

HON F R PICARDO:

What I am asking the Chief Minister is whether he does not accept that in fact by saying as he has at the moment that there is not at the moment an urgent need to reprovide the school is in fact denying the basis of his own argument that the whole area was so badly planned that there needs to be a school there now even though the Minister for Education moved Bishop Fitzgerald school down there, although we are now three administrations away from the last administration responsible for that.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We can repeat the question and the answer as many times as he likes. If he wants the last word I am quite happy to give it to him I have never been of the view that whoever has the last word persuades anybody new, so if he wants to repeat this two or three times let us just agree that the next time he repeats it I will not stand up to answer this question he can have the last word in the hope that everybody will then accept his version of the story. The fact of the matter is :-

- (1) That thousands of families of childbearing age were relocated to a new area of town with no provision made for the education of their children.

- (2) That that situation had to be immediately dealt with by us when we arrived in office.
- (3) That there is now a need to make still further provision in the form of new schools.

The suggestion that because the matter has been managed on an interim basis through the rapid relocation of two schools in Gibraltar and through having to withdraw the freedom of parents from other districts to transfer to that school which always used to be possible, the fact that by extraordinary means we have been able to immediately put out the first fire, does not entitle the hon Member to deduce that there was never a problem to solve, on the contrary the fact that it had to be dealt with in such extraordinary ways is precisely evidence of the lack of urban planning that I have specified. If he wants to get up and argue to the contrary I promise not to contradict him.

HON F R PICARDO:

I will not take the Chief Minister up on his magnanimous offer but I hope from here on that we discuss his administration rather than everybody else's.

EDUCATION – HEALTH AND SAFETY

Can Government state what procedures are taken to make risk assessments in relation to Health and Safety in schools?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

Risk assessments are carried out on an on-going basis by teachers and Headteachers whenever the lessons and other school activities involve an element of risk, for example, laboratory experiments, PE activities, external visits et cetera.

EDUCATION – REGISTER OF ASBESTOS

Can Government state whether all schools have been inspected in order to draw up a register of asbestos in these buildings?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

A register of asbestos has been drawn up for Governor's Meadow and Bishop Fitzgerald Schools, where asbestos was detected last year. The other schools have not yet been inspected.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 234 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Is the Minister aware that there is a need to have a register of asbestos specially in schools?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member is wrong and because he is wrong he is constantly giving, by the questions that he asks, the impression that somehow it is essential to find out immediately where there is asbestos. The law of Gibraltar in transposition of a European Union directive which is perfectly well implemented and respected says that wherever asbestos is detected its location has to be recorded so that one has a register. But asbestos as the hon Member must by now surely know given the number of times that we have debated this in relation to Mount Alvernia and schools, asbestos is not per se unsafe. Asbestos is not per se something that has got to be tracked down, located and marked. Asbestos is only unsafe if it is disturbed. The Directives which have been implemented in Gibraltar then require you to do certain things when asbestos is disturbed and when asbestos is located but it does not require one to go hunting for it as if its mere presence was a problem. There is bound to be asbestos in every building, in every town in western Europe built between roughly 1950 and 1975. It is almost inconceivable that there should be any building built between these two periods or refurbished during these two periods which does not contain asbestos and therefore the idea that it has got to be identified and subjected to a register is not what we are advised is required for health and safety purposes but I can assure the hon Member that when asbestos is stumbled across in some repair as he has seen for himself the matter is taken very seriously. The Directive is immediately implemented, specialist contractors in asbestos handling are brought in and immediate resources are diverted to that to make sure that the school is able to operate safely and I hope that I have drawn a reasonable distinction for the hon Member between what is required of Government namely dealing with asbestos when it is come across on the one hand and hunting down asbestos in the ordinary course of business which is not required and frankly it would be terribly impractical to try and do.

HON S E LINARES:

I do not usually give credit to Government but in this case I must give credit to Government and all the workers that dealt with Governor's Meadow and Bishop Fitzgerald's asbestos. The only thing that worried me most was the lack of information at the time and the way they handled things but quite frankly they did a good job in covering up the asbestos and dealing with the [Interruption] covering up yes, it was covered up.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It was encapsulated.

HON S E LINARES:

Encapsulated fine which is covered up the same thing. Covering up the asbestos was done properly it was the cover up of having identified the asbestos that was not done properly?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am grateful to the hon Member for the complimentary part of his words but he has this idea that somehow there was lack of information. There was not, the Committee of the Parents Association I am sure was completely in the know and consulted. If the hon Member means that the Government did not immediately put out a press statement saying, "Asbestos has been found everybody put masks on your children and do not send them to school," the answer is that such alarmist reactions are neither desirable nor necessary so there may be a difference in perception between the hon Members and those who advise ministers on these issues, the technicians, about what degree of publicity is necessary for these purposes and I can assure the hon Member that when publicity is necessary in order to safely deal with the problem, for example, in Mount Alvernia then the necessary publicity is given. When we are advised that the situation does not require that degree of publicity to simply start saying things in public is simply to worry people unnecessarily and all I am saying to the hon Member is please accept if he can that the level of publicity is not determined by any desire on Government to shelter or hide or conceal but rather that the matter should receive a proper safe and balanced treatment and neither be exaggerated nor underestimated as to the danger or the seriousness of the situation involved. Grateful as we are for his comments about how that particular incident was otherwise dealt with, I do not think that his criticism of the publicity aspect is justified either.

HON S E LINARES:

It is not a question of putting a press release out or publishing all this to alarm the people it is just to inform. It was just a question of informing the parents at the time and saying that the Parents Association was informed is not good enough because the Parents Association is a committee who probably comprises five or six parents of which one was informed at the time and therefore all Government are doing is informing one parent, two or even at the most three from the association and that justifies informing all parents. I can tell the Chief Minister that nearly 90 per cent of those parents were not aware that asbestos had been identified. There was a lack of communication with parents, with staff who were not aware at the time that asbestos had been identified. It is not only a question of putting a press release out it is a question of informing first the staff that work there and two the parents and that is where they went wrong

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No I do not agree the hon Member's statement are based on the premise which we consider to be erroneous that there is a need to inform all and sundry about the mere fact that asbestos has been detected and frankly I think that that is completely misconceived. There is a need to advise everybody if they face any degree of danger or risk, of course there is a need of that, but when the situation does not involve any danger or risk there is frankly no need as he appears to be presupposing, there is no need to advise them of it and what I am saying to the hon Member is because the hon Member attaches an inherent danger to asbestos he believes that whenever asbestos is found there has to be information. Whereas the Government says that information and communication is related to whether or not a danger or a risk to health exists and if no risk to health exists the fact that there is asbestos detected does not ring any alarm bell of a need to communicate information. Why would information need to be communicated to 90 per cent of parents or the percentage that he believes were not informed, of something that represented absolutely no risk to the health of their children, what would be the point of communicating this information to them? I just do not understand why the hon Member links the need for communication with the mere facts of asbestos having been detected regardless of whether it represents a risk to public health or not.

HON S E LINARES:

I am glad that the Chief Minister thinks that the members of staff are, "all and sundry".

HON F R PICARDO:

The first answer that the Chief Minister gave he drew the useful distinction between what is needed and what is required under the legislation in relation to asbestos but the original question which talks about the register of asbestos in schools and because we are dealing with a school environment even though it is not needed under the legislation would either the Chief Minister or the Minister for Education agree with me that it might be prudent if at all possible perhaps during a school holiday to try and undertake an exercise such as that in relation to the school establishment and the Chief Minister has already indicated that we only have to do it in relation to buildings fitted out between a particular date just because a child might pull a panel or something and there might be asbestos behind?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. It is completely impractical without dismantling all the schools, completely unnecessary. To detect whether there is asbestos in pipe lagging, roof lagging, most floor tiling contains asbestos, asbestos is not dangerous unless the solid matter contains asbestos fibres and it is grated or sanded. The need to create a register relates to asbestos which is identified, for example, if the Government are undergoing routine maintenance or building works in a school and comes across materials that it considers to be asbestos then it is required to keep a record of that as opposed to going to every single floor tile, every brick, every panel, every roof tile and trying to find out whether it has got asbestos in it or not.

HON F R PICARDO:

I am sorry if I did not express my question appropriately at least in relation to areas which are easily accessible to the children, where the children could interfere with a tile or something which could then release the asbestos.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We are advised that there are no things that children could do that could immediately expose to them to asbestos and the advice that we have is that the search for asbestos is likely to create more danger than leaving it intact. Bear in mind that depending on the kind of asbestos that it is, one incident is unlikely itself to generate any great threat to public health. I hope that the hon Member can understand and accept that these are not things which ministers at political level make judgements these are things upon which ministers make decisions on the basis of technical advice by people who specialise in these areas.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The planning of schools and every other decision.

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

SCHOOL OF TOURISM

Can Government state how many students are currently in the School of Tourism giving a breakdown by year of intake?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

Intake 11 of the School of Tourism commenced in June 2003 with six trainees. However four of them dropped out early on in the scheme so the decision was taken to merge this group with the next intake which is due to commence in the spring of 2004. In the meantime the two remaining trainees continue to gain work experience, which is part of their training course, with training providers within the Tourism Industry.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 240 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Has the Minister got any indication of how many will take the offer of going into the School of Tourism for this year so that they can join in with the rest of the seven that are left?

HON DR B A LINARES:

No I have no indication whatsoever because the recruitment process has still not been advertised and processed.

HON S E LINARES:

Is this the first time that the Minister has had to join in two intakes because of low number of roles?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes it is the first time.

CONSTRUCTION AND TRAINING CENTRE

Can Government state how many Trainees are currently in the Construction and Training Centre giving a breakdown by year?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

As at December 2003 there were 47 trainees at the Gibraltar Training Centre, eight were enrolled in September 2001, 15 in September 2002 and 24 in September 2003.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 241 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Out of the eight in 2001 can the Minister state how many completed the course?

HON DR B A LINARES:

They have not completed the course they are still there in training. They are part of the 47 trainees which I have stated are presently in training at the Gibraltar Training Centre.

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Government state what qualifications they will end up after they complete their course?

HON DR B A LINARES:

They will end up with NVQ qualifications Level 2 and some go on to Level 3.

HON S E LINARES:

Out of the 47 there are none at present doing a Level 3, obviously, because if one has .....

HON DR B A LINARES:

NVQ level.

HON S E LINARES:

NVQ Level how many of the 47 students are currently doing the Level 3?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I am sure there are some but I do not have the information with me.

HON S E LINARES:

Could the Minister pass it on?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Certainly.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Are the eight who entered in 2001 due to finish their training in the summer of this year would they be in a position to take up employment?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes it is a three year span so if they came into training in September 2001 they should be finishing towards the end of this academic year which is in June.

HON J J BOSSANO:

At that level they would be what at NVQ2?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Not necessarily, most of them will be in Level 2 but some do Advance, remember that the NVQ is a very much on-hand type of training with work experience and I think some of them may be actually going into Level 3 progress, I am not too sure of that.

HON J J BOSSANO:

But it would not be that they could have done Level 3 within the three years it would be that they had already commenced a Level 3 before the end of the three years is that right?

HON DR B A LINARES:

They can do Level 3 in the three years.

HON S E LINARES:

Is the Minister satisfied that Level 2 is being accepted by most employers as a good qualification for them to obtain employment?

HON DR B A LINARES:

There has been considerable negotiations and discussions with employers at the private sector certainly in the public sector and Level 2 is now considered as a craftsman qualification.

HON S E LINARES:

Is this the case with the Government owned companies as well because I have had representations from certain students or trainees that have come to me saying that after doing their Level 2 they have tried to seek employment say in GJBS or other Government entities and they are Government companies and they have not been accepted, could the Minister investigate and try to find out whether these companies do accept Level 2 as an adequate qualification for them to obtain employment?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There is an issue here, NVQ Level 2 is predominantly theory based and the tuition is delivered mainly in the centre whereas NVQ Level 3 which is what I think these training centres should be increasingly gearing up to has a much higher element of in the field placement work experience input. There are issues there, there are many who speculate that the Construction Training Centre should gear much more to NVQ Level 3 than 2. I am not aware that there is any Government company that is taking the view that he has just described I am not saying that there is not, I am not aware of any Government company, but certainly these trainees would be much more useful immediately to employers if they had studied to Level 3 than to Level 2. So, there is an element in effect with an NVQ2 of a prospective employer in effect having to continue the training curve into the first period of employment whereas somebody trained up to NVQ Level 3 would be much more immediately and comprehensively useful to his employer and in the private sector they are much less willing to continue that training than in the quasi public sector so I am surprised to hear.

EDUCATION - EDUCATIONAL MANAGEMENT

Can Government state whether one of the criteria for applying of Headteacher or Deputy Head is that candidates obtain qualifications on the Management of Education courses offered by the Department of Education?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The Public Service Commission circular advertising posts at Headteacher and Deputy Headteacher level states that “relevant qualifications/experience in educational administration and management would be advantageous, for example, the Sheffield Hallam Educational Management Course”.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 244 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Is the Minister satisfied that there are candidates that obtain these qualifications and are successful as Headteachers and Deputy Heads following on from what the Minister has just said about its advantageous, is the Minister satisfied that this is happening across the board because there are certain managerial posts which have been lately given which are high managerial posts in education of candidates who have not even gone through the first year of the Management of Education Course which seems to be advantageous is the Minister satisfied with this?

HON DR B A LINARES:

The management course is one of the elements involved in selection there are many aspects and criteria like track record, report references from superiors, experience, performance at interview in presenting for themselves a verified competence, there are a whole variety of factors that have to be taken into account by the Public Service Commission when making the best assessment and selection that they can make but certainly it is established in principal that pursuing a course in educational management is a very important factor that will be taken into account by the Public Service Commission.

THE HON S E LINARES

EDUCATION – SUPPLY TEACHERS

Can the Minister for Education state how many teachers are on permanent supply at present?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

There are currently 25 teachers on full-time supply in our schools.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 246 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Is the Minister satisfied that these 25 full-time supply teachers are on a full-time basis which is a contradiction in terms when it is a supply teacher and should not the Government not be looking at actually giving them a contract rather than on a supply basis. The supply basis brings with it conditions on the person who is on a full-time supply that it is not normal when one is either on a contract or on a permanent basis.

HON DR B A LINARES:

It is a bit confusing the way the hon Member has put the question, I can tell him that all these teachers are filling vacancies which are temporary, for instance the hon Member's unpaid leave precisely in his position has to be filled in by someone on a temporary basis not on a permanent and pensionable basis there are the five peripatetic experienced teachers that we mentioned before in the pupil referral service they are over 50 precisely because they are retired and experienced and therefore they cannot obtain a permanent and pensionable. There are some covering for teachers in maternity leave. It is not a question of having them on casual supply it is that they cannot come in to the permanent and pensionable cadre precisely because of the circumstances.

HON S E LINARES:

I have not said that they should be put into the permanent and pensionable role or list what I am saying is that if a teacher on a supply basis is going to cover for me, for example, which the Minister has mentioned, the department knows full well that I could well go back in 2007 when there might be another election and then I do not stand and I go back but then there is a three year period in which somebody is covering for me and therefore it is a contradiction in terms to have somebody to be stated on the supply list going to cover for me when that person should be on a contract to cover for me for three years.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There are terms to this supply work. It is a sort of employment not a contract of employment but the terms upon which the supply is engaged. There are now laws and European Union Directives about the consequences of continuously renewed contracts of employment and as an employer the Government do no longer have the amount of flexibility that the hon Member thinks the Government might have to employ people on contracts in the way that he is describing and then discontinue their employment when the vacancy no longer exists. I accept that there are some situations that lend themselves more than others to the likelihood that for one reason or another a particular post has in effect become permanent and should be supplied on that basis but it is actually very difficult to identify what these posts are and the difference between supply and contract is not as inconsequential in terms of ability to terminate as it was just a few years ago. The hon Member will recall a Bill that we recently considered in this House on that subject so, what we are actually focusing on is on other sorts of supply workers rather than teachers who genuinely are on the sort of permanent conditions that the hon Member is describing. There have been quite a few that have been made permanent and pensionable not just going on contracts. When we are satisfied that somebody is in so-called supply but are in effect filling a post which has de facto become a permanent requirement of the establishment then we make them permanent and pensionable. It is not right that the Government should use supply terms to avoid employing permanent and pensionable staff to posts that have in effect become permanent and pensionable. At the other extreme there are genuine supply situations and then inbetween there are shades of grey and it is not always easy to draw scientifically a line as to where areas people fall clearly into one side or another but it is an area of the public employment policy and it is constantly under review and whole groups of workers are concerned particularly in the classroom aide area of line and that sort of area of line and quite a few officers have been made permanent and pensionable. The choice as far as we are concerned is permanent and pensionable supply as opposed to the option that the hon Member is suggesting as a half-way house which is supply and contract which I am advised is fraught with difficulty.

HON S E LINARES:

I agree with the Chief Minister on that point but we do not have to have a half-way house what we can have is the three, the permanent and pensionable, contract teachers and supply teachers and what I am stating is ,for example, the Chief Minister has just stated the fact that when they identify posts to be permanent that they are made permanent well, the Minister seems to be quite satisfied that the peripatetic teachers who are dealing with challenging behaviour are very successful they are doing so well. Why are then these teachers not given a full-time job permanent and pensionable job? Or if the Minister is not satisfied because I understand again that there might be one year when one needs five peripatetic teachers because there are more children with challenging behaviour and therefore one increases the numbers but surely there must be within that department one or two who should be made permanent and pensionable and that is only giving an example.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I have given an answer to the peripatetic teachers, I have told the hon Member that all of them are over 50 and I believe that under General Orders or whatever they are not eligible for a permanent and pensionable employment.

EDUCATION – POST 16 ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Can Government state how many times the Post 16 Advisory Committee has met in 2001, 2002, 2003?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The Post-16 Advisory Committee has met on six occasions, three times during 2001 and three times during 2002. In 2003, interim recommendations were made to the Minister by the Advisory Committee and I decided that this should be expanded into a consultation process with the NAS/UWT who were invited to contribute their views on Post-16 issues. The Department is awaiting an input and a response from the NAS/UWT, but I do not blame them for not being too prompt about this because as we all know the situation in UK over the 14-19 green paper is fraught with controversy, it is a very fluid situation and therefore both the union and the department feel that things should be monitored more carefully before jumping to problems that may arise in UK and we can avoid at this stage

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 247 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

I agree we should not refer to Post-16 but to Post –14 actually but nonetheless should Government or the department not be looking at places like Scotland which have a different approach to Post-16 Education and other jurisdictions which have a Post-16 Education policy which I have been looking through and are quite interesting. We should not always follow England and Wales policy because of what the Minister had just said that because of political interference in the UK in the Education system they tend to fail in their presentation. That happened with the National Curriculum as the Minister well knows.

HON DR B A LINARES:

There is a point in that, that we should look further afield and not just within the confines of England and Wales but nevertheless there are other factors involved because of our close link to the examination boards in UK.....

HON S E LINARES:

.....and so have these jurisdictions.

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes. What I mean by tradition, we have actually fitted within the framework of reference of England and Wales in many respects to breakaway from that would be a bit dicey.

EMPLOYMENT – NUMBER OF UNEMPLOYED

Can Government state why it has not published the unemployment figures for the months of June, July and September (that is the third quarter of 2003) in October 2003 or subsequently in 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

This has been due to an administrative oversight. The figures will be published in the next day or two with the December 2003 figures for the last quarter.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 248 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister agree with me that an administrative oversight is something that might have been relevant before the Opposition called for the publication of the figures in the first week of December 2003 but surely the Minister and the administrators will have noted that the figures were not published then and if there was only an administrative oversight then they would have been published immediately thereafter.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The Government do not accept that, in fact, the administrative oversight was in No 6 Convent Place. Having had the oversight pointed out to us given that there was only a month left until the next set was due to be published we thought it appropriate to wait given that it was mainly the Christmas period intervening and publish them together. The hon Member if I could just mention it to him although he has not been in the House until yesterday is quite right to hold us to our extraordinary high standards of publication of information and statistics which have never been known in Gibraltar before 1996 and on the one occasion when we slip through an advertence from those very high standards I believe the hon Member is entirely justified in pointing it out to us. What I do not think he is entitled to do is on that first occasion to impugn the motives for that given that he sits with a party who when they were in Government used not to publish unemployment statistics at all. In order for us to get unemployment statistics during all the years that we were in Opposition and they were in Government we had to ask questions in this House, there was no automatic publication of Employment Statistics by the Opposition, that is not a reason why he can not hold us to our different and very high and much more acceptable standards but I think on one occasion when there is an oversight and there is not publication history would at least require that the Opposition moderate the exact nature of the imputations that they cast.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would the Chief Minister not agree with me that history is sometimes down in writing and cannot be disputed and that in a Hansard of the 15th March 1993 when the learned Member was talking on a Motion dealing with the Employment Survey he recognised himself that Employment Statistics were published but they were published annually therefore giving the lie and I use that word advisably to what he has just said now about Employment Statistics not being published during the GSLP administrations and that in any event during the course of the same debate he himself said that the statistics should be published monthly or quarterly at the very least and that not to do so would represent a further attempt he then said to further delay the publication of information of public interest and that therefore the Opposition which he led at the time would be against it and that his party's failure to publish the statistics this time round can only be seen in exactly the same light?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not think there is any advised way of using the word 'lie' and when somebody who knows what they are talking about uses the word lie they get away with it when they are at least right but when somebody who has been in this House for two days starts using the word 'lies' from a position of complete ignorance then I think there is absolutely no justification from it. The figures that were published annually to which he has referred are Employment Statistics published in the Employment Survey. The figures that we are discussing as not having been published and that which he complains are unemployment statistics which they never used to publish weekly, monthly, quarterly or annually. So, before he starts calling me a liar across the floor of the House he should at least bother to know the difference between Employment Statistics and Unemployment Statistics and then he may not make a fool of himself.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would the Chief Minister agree with me that it is very clear that what he was talking about at the time "ignoramus" though he may be was that statistics should be published monthly if we are going to have an accurate picture of unemployment and that his party is not doing that but then he relied also on them being published quarterly and I that his party has not done that.

EMPLOYMENT – ILLEGAL LABOUR

Can Government say whether as a result of inspections carried out on the site where the Europort buildings are being converted to house the hospital the ETB inspectors have found contractors using illegal labour and if so can they say when the inspections took place, the numbers that have been found and the action taken against the offending employers?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

Following a labour inspection conducted on 23rd May 2003, at the site of the new hospital at Europort, three contractors were found to be using illegal labour as a result of which 80 Fixed Penalty Notices were then issued.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 267 OF 2004.

HON F R PICARDO:

Could the Minister just give me the dates of the inspection again?

HON DR B A LINARES:

The 23rd May 2003.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Have there been any inspections since then?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I have no information to that effect.

HON F R PICARDO:

The Minister will no doubt agree with us that if the information that he has been provided with by his department relates to the 23rd May 2003 and we ask generally, there is an indication that there had been no inspection since then and that the one he refers to is the one inspection?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes, by implication when this figure has been given to me in relation to the 23rd May 2003 I take it that it is implying that no further inspections or at least no further detection of illegal labour has been found since then.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Other than the fixed penalty notices in respect of illegal labour what happened was the illegal labour terminated or registered?

HON DR B A LINARES:

The illegal labour has been registered but the penalties remain.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am aware of that. In respect of the registration of the illegal labour did this involve non-EU nationals who would require work permits?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I have not got that information at hand it was not in the original question.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Because the original question was whether anybody had been found and we did not know whether anybody had been found until the answer was produced but given that there have been consistent reports from people in the area of a whole variety of nationalities suddenly disappearing when an inspector appeared over the horizon, would the Minister look into the fact that if it involves non-EU labour presumably they could not simply be registered because of the requirement to obtain work permits so it would not be just a question of registering people on the basis that they were thought to be working if amongst the illegal labour there were non-EU nationals.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The enforcement of the registration of labour laws is not carried out on the basis of nationalities. It is carried out on the basis that every worker of whatever nationality including Gibraltar British are required to be registered for the purposes of social insurance, PAYE, and that is the basis on which the law is enforced and monitored and the law is applied with equal measure to all employees regardless of their nationality or problems.

HON J J BOSSANO:

That is not my question and therefore it is quite obvious that the Chief Minister did not hear me or did not understand me when he has volunteered the information. I am perfectly aware what the law is. My question is if I am told that there are 80 people found to be working illegally in Gibraltar and a proportion of those 80 are non-EU nationals then it must follow that one cannot simply register the non-EU nationals, one can register the EU nationals but the non-EU nationals require work permits, that is my question and therefore what I have asked the Minister if he does not have that information will he look into that aspect of it that in the case of non-EU nationals found to be working illegally unlike Gibraltarians and EU nationals the registration cannot be automatic because they require a work permit and there are other people who apply for work permits for non-EU nationals and they do not get them.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

In the first instance, although employment permits is the trigger, the hon Member's supplementary raises issues of Immigration Control. These would be illegal immigrants in Gibraltar their presence in Gibraltar regardless of their employment status would itself be illegal and that is a matter for the Immigration Authorities. What we can certainly tell the hon Member I am not sure the Minister will have that information with him now is whether work permits and therefore residence permits have been issued for any non-EU labour that was found to be legal. My understanding is that no such permits have been issued but the Minister may have to find that out for him.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I believe that this illegal non-EU labour was not residing in Gibraltar. They were frontier workers from various parts of Eastern Europe and South America living in La Linea so I do not see why they would require residence permits because they have got work permits, it does not follow but if they have been registered rather than requiring their employment to be terminated then we have a situation were, and that is the whole point that I would like the Minister to take into consideration, if we automatically allow the registration of people found to be illegal here whereas we deny work permits to people who go through the proper procedure it seems to me that there is a risk of encouraging the employment of illegal labour on the basis that it will be subsequently legalised whereas if one does the proper thing and ask for permission to employ a non-EU national one is likely to be denied it.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It would certainly be the case if facts were as the hon Member is hypothecating but I do not believe that they are like that. If one asked for work permits so that a residence permit can then be issued in respect of non-EU labour and it is denied and then one brings them in illegally and the moment they are discovered they are regularised, then it is not a backdoor but a large side-door into the labour market. That cannot be the position. If, which I do not think it is the case, if there has been any situation involving a non-EU labour in this case it is because a specialist sub-contract in respect of the new hospital I seem to remember that non-EU labour were bought out to do the electricity or pipes sub-contract for the new hospital that might be true but certainly I do not think that the position could possibly be, I do not believe it is, and if it were the Government would not sanction it that the regularisation of illegal labour gave one better results than a proper application for legal labour made at the appropriate time and accordance with the appropriate legislation.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am not saying that that is what has happened. I am saying on the basis of the answer that we have been given that as far as the Government knows the 80 people that were found to be there illegally were regularised rather than sacked. I am pointing out to the Minister since he is not able to give me the information because it is not available to him that on the information that is available to me from people working in the hospital on the site who happen to be Gibraltarians there were quite a number of people working there illegally who were non-EU nationals and therefore I am asking him to look at that aspect precisely to avoid running the risk of the situation developing which the Chief Minister has said he does not believe has, can or should develop but I do not believe it should but I believe it can and I believe it is avoidable and therefore I am asking the Minister to look at that.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I will certainly look at that but the information I have is that the concept of illegality was related to non-registration rather than to a lack of work permits in the cases where it is needed but I will find out whether it covered work permits aspect as well.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 268 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister clarify whether in relation to the part of my question where I ask whether matters being pursued through further prosecution I shall be looking at the final line in the breakdown for each month which relates to matters pending with the Attorney General?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes, I think so, if the matter is pending with the Attorney General it is in the context of considering possible prosecution.

HON F R PICARDO:

In that case can the Minister further clarify because we have the statistics here for the whole year given that there have been no meetings for Questions since March of last year almost a year ago, what the current state of play in respect of each of the pending cases with the Attorney General is if he has that information or if he can provide that information after this House?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The Minister cannot and it will be quite improper for him to do so or to be in a position to be able to do so even. Ministers of the Government at least in this Government do not concern themselves with the exercise by the Attorney General of his wholly independent institutional role as Prosecuting Authority.

HON F R PICARDO:

I do not think that the Chief Minister understood my question. It may be because he is still upset about the ding dong we had earlier but all I was asking was whether I could have the information. I did not ask the Minister to interfere with the Attorney General's decisions on those pending cases simply whether he could provide the information whether those cases had come forward.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, and it is still the same answer that is involvement by Ministers in the prosecution process it is wholly improper for Ministers to account in this House for the status of prosecution decisions.

HON F R PICARDO:

I hate to be a Tom chasing the Chief Minister's Jerry around this House but all I am asking for is statistical information about prosecutions that have gone forward, how can that be characterised as interference with the prosecution process I fail to understand?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member is now not asking for statistical information. He asked for statistical information in his original question and got it namely two pending cases with the Attorney General for him now to argue that he is now still only asking for statistical information in his supplementaries is completely disingenuous and dishonest on his part. He is asking the Minister for an account of the status of the current consideration by the Attorney General of the cases, the statistical information relating to which he has already had so he cannot now be asking for that statistical information. The hon Member either does not hear the words that he utters, does not understand what they mean, or when it no longer suits him tries to deny the words that he has uttered. He cannot get away with it.

HON F R PICARDO:

It is good that the allegations of dishonesty are flowing both ways in this House this morning because at least in that case the Chief Minister might realise that he is the lucky one not to hear what he is saying. I am simply asking whether we could have further statistical information on what the present state of play is in relation to these pending cases, have a number of them gone forward to prosecution or not I am not asking that anyone interfere with the Attorney General I am simply asking a further supplementary statistical question?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The distinction that the hon Member tries to draw between statistics and substance is wholly unreal.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Should the Attorney General be here then to answer the question as to what is happening with the pending case in relation to breaches of the law in the Employment Service or is it that the House is not entitled to know whether something that is gone to the Attorney General for action involving breaking the law in the Employment Service actually materialises into a decision that there should be a prosecution or not, how many times in the past have we had information as to action being taken without the Chief Minister getting so worked up is it that he got out of the wrong side of the bed this morning?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No the hon Member has never had information of the type sought by the supplementary, the hon Member has always had the statistical information of the number of cases that the administration has referred to the Attorney General for prosecution decisions. That is the information that he has had and I am not here to give the hon Member legal advice.....

HON J J BOSSANO:

I do not want his advice.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

...but as he has asked me my personal view is the second of his options, that the House is not entitled to question the Attorney General even if he were present about his prosecuting role because the Attorney General does not sit in this House in his capacity as Prosecuting Authority and it would be quite wrong and wholly unprecedented for the Attorney General to give an account in this House of where lies his consideration of particular cases before him for consideration as to prosecution and whether he is going to proceed or not and if not why not, I have never heard a debate in this House, I realise that the hon Member has been in this House longer than me but certainly in the 10 odd years or more that I have been in this House I have never heard such a debate.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Nobody is starting a debate on anything except the Chief Minister that converts every single question in this House into a debate. We are not asking if he has done it why he has done it and if he has not done it why he has not done it. We are asking has the Attorney General in the pending cases taken a decision or not? If the Chief Minister tells us that there is a case pending with the Attorney General it is perfectly legitimate it seems to me to ask whether the Attorney General has now taken a decision on the pending case we are not challenging his right to take a decision we are not saying that the elected Government should take over the role, heaven forbid that the Chief Minister should now decide who gets prosecuted and who does not we would all have to show our party card not to get prosecuted in Gibraltar if he did that.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I know that the hon Member is not saying any of that rubbish.....

HON J J BOSSANO:

I have not sat down.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

..... but what he is saying ,

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am in the process of asking a question and the Chief Minister chooses to answer the questions of all his Ministers which does not reflect very much in his confidence of their abilities so to do. If the Minister is willing to tell us whether something that is pending with the Attorney General has come back or not because he thinks that he is interfering with the course of justice that is the most incredible statement I have heard in 30 years. If that is the position perhaps he will confirm it.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The extent of my confidence in getting up to participate in a question posed to my Honourable friend the Minister for Education cannot be any more or less than his in the Hon Mr Picardo by his intervention in the Hon Mr Picardo's supplementary and at least the Hon Mr Picardo has the advantage that he is a lawyer which the Minister does not since we are discussing legal matters. The fact of the matter is that the hon Member can go off at a tangent and again impute to the Government so that he can then deny it in a mocking style things that I have not suggested namely that I have accused him of wanting the Government to take over the Prosecution no one has said anything of the sort and the hon Member in his typical parliamentary style can invent facts to put into people's mouths so that then he can theatrically deny their veracity. That is his parliamentary style, it has always been his parliamentary style, I do not suppose one can teach an old dog new tricks, it is unlikely to change and I am not going to try but the fact of the matter is that regardless of all that red herring on the point which is seriously at issue across the floor between us and which we have both said the Government seriously disagrees with his view of whether he is entitled to that information or not we believe that he is not entitled to put to the Government questions relating to the exercise by the Attorney General of his role as Prosecuting Officer and he can ask questions as many times as he likes. We have a view as the Government, he clearly has a different view on whatever basis he holds it and so be it he is not going to change mine and we are not going to change his.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Chief Minister perhaps indicate in succinct terms without the soliloquy how seeking statistics from the Attorney General can be seen to amount to trying to interfere with his prosecutorial rights or determine whether to proceed against someone or not?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member has not sought statistical information he has sought a report about the status of the prosecution decision.

NO. 269 OF 2004*THE HON F R PICARDO*EMPLOYMENT REGULATIONS (OFFENCES) ORDINANCE

Can Government state how many prosecutions have been commenced under the Employment Regulations (Offences) Ordinance since September 2002, the date of filing of any such prosecutions and the penalties, if any, imposed by the courts in respect of any prosecutions which may have been completed?

ANSWER*THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The statistical information sought by the hon Member is set out in the schedule that I now hand to him.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 269 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

I am grateful to the Minister, will he agree with me that despite the dispute that we have had across the floor of this House a moment ago this amounts to the information we were being told we could not have?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I do not think so. We were talking about pending cases with the Attorney General these are cases which have already been processed so there is a difference between consideration given by the Attorney General in respect of possible prosecution which is the question that the Chief Minister said was out of order and information as to cases which have already gone through the process of prosecution or possible prosecution in the past.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister not agree with me that in fact all we had to do was simple mathematical exercise as a result of saying if so many are pending and so many have gone forward this number is still pending which is exactly the statistic that we wanted to have so to an extent I am very grateful to the hon Gentleman for this further answer.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The hon Member cannot resort to his little disingenuous tricks and try and pull it off.

HON F R PICARDO:

Why not the Chief Minister does?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Because on every occasion that he does it we will have to point it out to him. At least point it out to him that he is doing it we cannot stop him doing it but we can point out to him that he is doing it. The hon Member cannot now pretend that what he was seeking all along and what has been denied is the number of pending cases for consideration by the Attorney General. Why not? Because that information was given to him in the original answer to his original question and it was in response to that answer – How many questions are pending with the Attorney....., two, - and then he asks for clarification – does that mean that that is the number of cases pending before the Attorney General for consideration, yes – so if he can no longer thereafter be asking questions designed to illicit information - how many cases are pending before the Attorney General for consideration - so the answer to his last intervention is no, it is not as the hon Member says and therefore we cannot agree with him.

HON F R PICARDO:

I do not think that the Chief Minister has understood the point so I will not labour it any further.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In terms of the answer to Question No 269 of 2004 given that there is this gap between October and July of a number of prosecutions is there a particular significance to this given that the inspections are taking place every month does the Government or the ETB have a system where the moving to a prosecution follows prior steps?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes indeed before the matter is put before the Attorney General for possible prosecution the Employment Service does take a number of steps in respect of their inspections and detection of illegal labour. The fact that none of these cases have been followed up could mean a measure of the success of the legislation and the fixed penalties have been accepted and paid and in any case that a deterrent is provided by the present legislation so that actually no illegal labour was detected in the course of those inspections but to some extent I speculate.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In June 2003 we have no inspections, no fixed penalties issued and no fixed penalties paid obviously if one does not inspect anybody in a month one does not expect to find any illegal labour in a month. Is there a particular reason for some months showing zero inspections?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There are zero inspections in June and December from the answer to Question No 268 of 2004. I think we have had this discussion in the House before in the last session, the answer that I recall being given to him by the previous Minister was that it sometimes coincided with absences on annual holidays by the inspectors. Just looking down the list there were no inspections in June 2003, no inspections in December 2003, they are months where people take their summer holidays and that could be the explanation.

HON J J BOSSANO:

If the hon Member checks up it was December the last time and we were told that it was a combination of holidays plus being engaged on other duties but this time I do not think we have had June before that is why I am asking about June and not December.

Can Government state how many Gibraltarians registered as unemployed with the Employment Agency for each month of the year 2003 were registered as looking for part-time jobs giving a breakdown by sex and age for each month?

EMPLOYMENT – WAGE SUBSIDY

Can Government state what was the expenditure by the Employment Agency on wage subsidy in each month of the year 2003 and the number of people and of employers involved in each of these months?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The Government remains willing to provide to the Opposition detailed information of this sort which is unprecedented in Gibraltar before 1996. However, given the intense administrative burden of preparing such wide-ranging statistical information within 5 days, I will be pleased to forward this information in writing to the hon Member within the next 10 days.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION 249 TO 266 AND 270 TO 272 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

I can accept what the Minister has said except for the preambular paragraph that one has to put up with everytime they answer questions on statistics but would he not agree with me that in relation to his earlier answer about the unemployment statistics not having been published as a result of mere oversight and given that really in Question Nos 262, 263, and 264 of 2004 I am only asking about a derivation of that, at least those could have been provided today or sooner.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I have already stated that those statistics will be published within the next few days.

HON F R PICARDO:

Very well, I will look forward to receiving the Minister's letter.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Given that the explanation by the Minister is the considerable administrative burden is it not the case that when the system in the ETB was computerised a number of years ago it was on the basis that this kind of statistics could be produced once the computer system had been working and which it has now been doing for a number of years. It is not a manual thing anymore this is just a question that the statistics are readily available in the form that they are being asked because they have been produced before?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I am still not entirely familiar with the operational employment service but even if it is machine lead information there is still work to be done on it and compilation and collation of statistics and anyway that is the information that I have that it is too short a time to present the package of information that the hon Member has asked for.

NO. 273 OF 2004*THE HON F R PICARDO*EMPLOYMENT – JOB CLUB

EMPLOYMENT – VOCATIONAL CADETS

Can Government state what is the latest estimate for the expenditure that will be incurred in the current financial year in respect of the items for Vocational Cadets (a) EU Projects; and (b) other?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The latest estimate for the expenditure that will be incurred in the current financial year in respect of Vocational Cadets is (a) £1,077,500 for EU Projects and (b) £15,000 for Other.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 275 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

In respect of the subsidy on EU Projects is the amount spent the part contributed from EU Funding or does that involve the EU and Gibraltar Government?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Are you talking about wage subsidies?

HON J J BOSSANO:

Yes that is right.

HON DR B A LINARES:

This question is not on wage subsidies.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The same argument applies I am just looking at the wrong question. In terms of the amount that you are spending on the EU Project is that just what the EU contributes or does that include both the EU part and the Gibraltar Government part, the figure that we have been given?

HON DR B A LINARES:

The figure includes 45 per cent of EU Funds and the rest is made up of local funding.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Minister indicate on what the excess of in the region of £700,000 has been from the estimate of £960,000?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I am afraid I could not here and now I would have to study that one more closely than I have done. I have not had the opportunity to do so up to now.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Minister undertake to provide a note in that respect?

HON J J BOSSANO:

In respect of the additional amount of money that has been spent on this particular sub-head in the Gibraltar Development Corporation does the Minister know whether that means that in fact the contribution from the Corporation is higher because presumably when we had the estimates at the beginning of the financial year and there was an amount on the expenditure side that was matched by the £560,000 contribution from the ESF does he know whether in fact we have achieved a higher contribution from the ESF?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I am afraid I have to honestly admit that I do not know the answer to that one at this stage.

CONSTRUCTION TRAINING CENTRE

ANSWER

The latest estimate for the expenditure that will be incurred in the current financial year in respect of the Construction Training Centre is (a) £71,150 for EU Projects and (b) £204,400 for Other.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 276 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Minister if not today subsequently provide in relation to the Head Other a note as to how the difference of in the region £108,000 over spend has been incurred?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Certainly not today but certainly at a later stage.

HON F R PICARDO:

Obliged.

TRAINING DEVELOPMENT PROJECTS

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 277 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Minister in relation to the Other aspect which has seen an overspend of in the region of £300,000 undertake to provide a note explaining how the difference is incurred?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I am sure I can at a later stage.

HON F R PICARDO:

Obliged.

EMPLOYMENT – WAGE SUBSIDY

Can Government state what is the latest estimate for the expenditure that will be incurred in the current financial year in respect of the items for Wage Subsidy (a) EU Projects; and (b) other?

ANSWER

|     |             |   |         |
|-----|-------------|---|---------|
| (a) | EU Projects | - | £82,700 |
| (b) | Other       | - | £25,700 |

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 278 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

In relation to both Heads can the Minister if not today subsequently provide a breakdown of how the further cost has been incurred as previously estimated?

HON DR B A LINARES:

HAMILTON SPIRITS MANAGEMENT LIMITED

Will the Hon Dr Bernard Linares make a statement to the House of Assembly as to his involvement as a director of Hamilton Spirits Management Limited?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

No. I have not been a director of that Company during the time that I have been a Member of this House and in any case my involvement has been entirely proper.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 279 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister accept that although I do not call into question what he has said in the latter part of his statement nonetheless it should be in the public interest that he should provide some statement given that the three other co-directors were sentenced to sentences of imprisonment in the United Kingdom as a result of their involvement with that Company?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The only thing that is a surprise is that no other Member of the Opposition during the last eight years in this House has thought it necessary, appropriate or proper to ask that question and the fact that it is asked now eight years after the event when no Opposition before the hon Member has entered this House has felt that the public interest of Gibraltar requires that question to be asked I think says more about the hon Member than it does about the failure of his predecessors during the last eight years to have done their public duty, frankly that is what I think is extraordinary.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Minister at least indicate whether he was interviewed in relation to these matters by the Authorities that were investigating the issues that arose in that case?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. On guidance provided to the Minister by me he will answer no questions on this subject to the hon Member.

SCHOOL OF TOURISM

How many of those trainees from the tenth intake who completed the School of Tourism course are now employed in the hotel industry?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

Eight trainees successfully completed the School of Tourism course in intake 10. Upon completion of the course, six were employed in the hotel industry, one found employment elsewhere and one changed training avenue.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 280 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Will information in relation to Question No 281 of 2004 be given separately to Question No 280?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes.

NO. 281 OF 2004

THE HON DR J J GARCIA

SCHOOL OF TOURISM

How many trainees started the tenth training course offered by the School of Tourism and how many completed the course?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

A total of 12 trainees commenced the School of Tourism training course in Intake 10 in October 2002. Of these, eight successfully completed the course. Perhaps the hon Member will be interested to know that of the four who did not complete one left before the end of the course to take up employment actually within the tourism industry itself.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am not sure whether it is that the Social Services Agency was not yet there in October 2002 or whether it is that it was included in the public sector, can the Minister clarify that for me?

THE HON L A RANDALL

BUS SERVICE

Can Government state whether they are satisfied that the width of the new buses purchased for bus route services is adequate for Gibraltar, given the narrowness of some of our roads?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The 18 buses ordered from Transbuses are fully able to operate in Gibraltar. The last vehicles were received in the week of 22nd December 2003. The vehicles have been tested and found able to cope with all bus routes except for the Upper Town bus route which will be serviced, as planned, by small vehicles. The process of recruiting and training drivers for the new bus service will commence shortly.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 286 TO 289 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

Was the statement or the article in the press purporting to the fact that the Traffic Regulations would have to be changed to allow these buses to use our roads incorrect?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I must say that the article in the press was actually following on a press release issued by the hon Member. Comments were attributed to him personally so obviously the hon Member should be aware of what was actually in the statement. Having said that let me say that there is not actually the need to change the legislation and the regulations in order to make these buses legal to operate. For a long time, and I mean years, buses have been allowed to operate in Gibraltar with an exemption issued by the Licensing Authority in order to exempt them from the necessary legal requirements and so therefore what the Government have decided to do was actually to change the regulations in order to avoid having to go through this process on an on-going basis. At the moment the Licensing Authority is the Principle Secretary for the Ministry of Transport and I can say that most of the Toyota Coasters, for example, that operate in Gibraltar today actually operate with an exemption from this Authority and so therefore there is no need for us to change the law even though the Government have opted to go down that particular route. The exemption from the Licensing Authority is sufficient for those buses to operate. I hope that clarifies the matter for the hon Gentleman.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Minister say whether at the time of issuing the tender all prospective tenderers were made aware that they could actually quote for oversized buses if they so wished?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The actual tender notice asks for 18 mini, midi, low floor buses and with that description all currently manufactured vehicles in the market would not conform to the actual size of the current Gibraltar Regulations. Let me say that all applications that were submitted too did not conform to the Regulations they were larger than the Regulations stated.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the actual award of the tender, when the Government are sued the statement at the time in relation to these transbuses the point was made that these were being purchased directly from the United Kingdom from a factory which the Minister was photographed at, is there no local agent or local support or backup from established Gibraltar companies for these buses?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The buses were purchased directly from Transbus as manufacturers. There is no local agent involved even though as part of the submission that was proposed to us by Transbus they will have an after sales service agreement with a local garage.

HON L A RANDALL:

Will Government confirm that the buses can take 29 passenger seated and 20 passengers standing?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

If that information is taken from our press release that is correct. The total number of passengers it can take is just under 50 and the configuration is varied between standing passengers and seated passengers with some space available for disabled and senior citizens.

HON L A RANDALL:

Will the transbuses be permitted to use the stretch of Main Street between Referendum Gate and the Convent which I have been given to understand the cavalcade is not permitted to use in order to avoid the risk of the road caving in under the weight of the floats and as the buses can take 49 passengers and the weight of the bus is there no risk of this happening, are Government comfortable that these buses can circulate in that stretch without any risk at all?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Yes. We have not been advised on the contrary buses will be able to circulate in that part of Main Street. The technical explanation given in respect of the actual cavalcade is the fact that these cavalcade floats carry a substantial number of children et cetera and the actual weight on these exceed possibly what the buses can carry. I really cannot comment any further apart from the fact that we have not been advised to the contrary.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Following on from the answer given to me earlier by the Minister, which local garage will be providing the maintenance for the buses?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The local garage is A M Capurro.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I want to make it clear that that is not an arrangement with the Government that is under the tender contract the manufacturer has to provide for a minimum of one year after sales service. Whether they can provide it directly or through contractors of theirs that is entirely their arrangement. Government are in no way a party to those arrangements.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

To clarify what the Minister has just said is it that the buses have some kind of guarantee and this guarantee will be carried out by A M Capurro on behalf of the manufacturer and after that it will then be put out to tender or how will it work?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is not just a guarantee it is also an after sales service but I suppose the bus operating company will come to some decision on its own. The hon Member should not assume that this service will be carried out by the Government.

THE HON L A RANDALL

GIBTELECOM

Can Government state why the Gibtelecom report on securing an adequate supply of telephone numbers for Gibraltar has not been shared with this side of the House, as the Minister said he was prepared to do on the 28th March in answer to Question No 117 of 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

Gibtelecom have not presented a report to the Government on numbering, so there is nothing to share with the hon Members of the Opposition. The Government will embark on a process of consultation once it has itself identified and evaluated the technical and economic viability of possible ways forward.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 290 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

May I remind the Minister that in reply to Question No 117 of 2003 the Minister said that they expected the report shortly from Gibtelecom?

HON F VINET:

It is indeed true that in a reply to supplementary answer in Question No 117 of 2003. The House was informed that Gibtelecom were reviewing how the Gibraltar numbering plan might be expanded. Gibtelecom have subsequently informed the Government that they will not be issuing a report nor recommending an alternative numbering plan.

HON L A RANDALL:

May I then ask the Minister whether they have taken a decision as regards migrating Centrex to a new system in order to allow more numbers for Gibraltar?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Maybe in due term.

HON L A RANDALL:

In answer to Question No 369 of 2003 the Government said that it was not financially viable to migrate to another system but that they would reconsider in the light of the Gibtelecom Report and give their consideration based on political consideration.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I understand that work continues both on that and on the surrendering up by Government of numbers that we can surrender but on the more general question that the hon Member asked I think the Government together with the Telecom's Regulator is going to have to take over the question of the new numbering plan rather than leave it to Gibtelecom because there are competition issues here. Whilst there are no telephone numbers to award in effect Gibtelecom is being insulated from the rigours of full competition because whilst there are no numbers to give there are no numbers to hand to a competitor Gibtelecom owning all the numbers that exist in the existing numbering plan. So, there is that situation, there was the hon Member's Colleagues that were in the last House of Assembly will recall that from time to time had discussions about this. There has been some element of consultation with the industry who did not like it very much or at least who were split some sectors of the Finance Centre did not like it very much on the question of this number shadowing module as it is called but I think that the Government are going to have to revisit that given that Gibtelecom has, let me explain why that debate stopped. That debate stopped because Gibtelecom said that they did not think that number shadowing was a very attractive option and that they were going to look for other solutions. That they were going to speak to I think it was Marconi or some UK Specialist phone manufacturer to see if there was a technology available that would enable them to come up with an alternative proposal. Now that Gibtelecom has decided as the Minister has answered in the Question not to do that the Government are basically as it was at the time that we were debating with the industry the number shadowing module. That is in effect the only option which is available as far as the Government are aware other than the hand to mouth and very short term solution of Centrexes and the Government freeing out lines so there might be a number of short term things that might put off the evil day for a short while but I think the Government are now going to have to make a final decision on the long term solution which is number shadowing. Whether the Government presses ahead with that immediately or awaits the outcome of the case that may now ensue outnumbering by Gibtelecom depends on the advice that we receive on how long any such case might take to come to judgement and whether Gibraltar can wait that long before expanding its numbering plan.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In terms of the present availability of numbers what is the kind of timescale when a decision will have to be taken?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not know the answer to that question as at the moment, I know as I have told the hon Member before that for certain types of premium services which require a large number of numbers D-Day has in effect passed. There are already certain types of premium telephone services which Gibtelecom would like to be able to offer to its subscribers particularly business subscribers for which there is a demand and which in practical terms cannot be delivered which is not to say that they do not have a supply of numbers in sufficient quantities to give out, for example, to new domestic subscribers. I do not think they have run out of numbers for that, domestic single line sort of purpose but certainly in terms of bulk usage of lines in connection with modern technology for offices I think they have long since stopped being able to offer those services.

HON J J BOSSANO:

My question really was given that that is the situation and that that information follows the statement that a decision would have to be taken sometime and that one possible factor is how long the court case will take, what I am asking is are we talking about months, weeks or maybe one or two years is that the time scale?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Remember that this is the one that has not yet been initiated. This is the numbering issue but if court action is initiated and assuming that it will be and they make the same decision as they have made in relation to roaming, to expect a ruling of the European Court much quicker than 12 to 18 months is probably not realistic so the question is, is it necessary or desirable to wait that long when that length of time authoritatively identified by the lawyers or not. It is a question of how the telephone company is holding out but it is not just how Gibtelecom is holding out there is always lurking in the background the competition issue and that is that whilst there are no numbers to hand out to potential competitors the degree of competition and the number of services and the intensity of the competition to which Gibtelecom can be exposed with whatever effect that might have on a downwards driving of telephone prices is itself severely curtailed. So, it is not just, are there enough numbers for Gibtelecom to continue to deliver services but rather whatever might be the answer to that how long should Gibraltar be deprived of the full benefits of full blown competition which is presently being severely frustrated by the lack of numbers.

HON J J BOSSANO:

We were told some time ago that there was in the pipe-line some company applying for a licence which actually wanted to provide land lines is that something that is not going to happen now or is this something that is not possible because of the .....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I think the hon Member is referring to an application by a company called Broadband Limited, I think we did identify it at the time, I believe although the new minister with responsibility in this area will nod his head if I am correct, that is still very much on the cards. I am not sure that they themselves are still ready to press ahead but the numbering shortage is a serious problem in that context even if they were ready to press ahead. The sort of competition that we have had in the past has the effect of having a favourable impact on price but in a way which is wholly undesirable from the point of view of Gibraltar's wider economic interests. These call-back services which I understand are not illegal under EU law but certainly that they are from Gibraltar's wider economic interests aside lower telephone prices are not particularly helpful because these companies who employ almost no staff in Gibraltar nevertheless cream the good revenue from the companies that do employ dozens and dozens of people in Gibraltar with a physical presence with an office with backup, billing staff and are therefore reinvesting some of that revenue back in the wider economy. The call-back services with minimal local infrastructure just siphon off usually the better quality business revenue leaving the locally established company who have to bear the infrastructure costs to deal with the less profitable domestic traffic so, there is not much the Government can do to stop it but certainly we ought not to be looking at that to encouraging it very much as a way out of our problems.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I do not recall if it was Broadband Limited or somebody else but I do recall having been told in the House that there was an application pending and there was some reference to local calls being provided free by this applicant. What I am asking is, in the light of the fact that the numbers are not available is that something that has now disappeared as a possibility or are they still around waiting for .....?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not think anybody has gone away, I cannot confirm to him whether Broadband's proposal is the one that included that free local call offer but I do not think that anybody has gone away from the licensing lead up process since we last had this discussion.

Can Government state when they propose to transpose into Gibraltar law the new European Union Regulatory framework for the electronic communications sector?

ANSWER

GTB - BEACHES

Can Government state the date that they propose to make facilities for beach users available in our beaches this year?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

Full facilities will be available at all beaches for the official bathing season, which will commence on 12th June 2004. In addition, some facilities will be available during the Easter holiday season. In the meantime, toilet facilities are available at Camp Bay and Little Bay during the winter months.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 292 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

In terms of the facilities, over what period is it intended to employ lifeguards?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Lifeguards are employed during the official bathing season starting on the 12th June and usually finishing somewhere between the second week in September.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Not during the period of Easter that the Minister has mentioned?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Normally lifeguards are not available during the Easter period.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Have Government given any thought to extending the official bathing season so that it starts earlier in June?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

This is a matter that has been given some consideration however the reality is that we have analysed those that use our beaches and we find that it is not until the half-day leave of school starts and until the end of the bathing season that people tend to go to the beach so targeting to the majority of people the bathing season is quite adequate.

EASTSIDE DEVELOPMENT

Can Government state what are the estimated requirements for electricity supply to the proposed east side reclamation development project announced by Government and how is it anticipated that this will be met?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

It is premature at this stage of the negotiations to comment publicly on these issues. An initial assessment study has been made.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 293 TO 295 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can the Minister say whether the initial assessment is that there is going to be a need at all or is he implying that a development of that size can be handled?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Obviously there is a need for infrastructure but the extent of it, the nature of it, who will pay it, et cetera are precisely the sort of details that are presently under negotiation with the developer and it would be most unhelpful for the Government to make any public statement on these things now. As soon as there is clarity on the matter or the negotiations are completed the hon Members can have all this information it is not that there is anything sensitive about this other than in the context that it happens to be the sort of issues that are presently under negotiations but obviously there is substantial infrastructure required for a project of this size.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can the Government at least say, for example, there would appear to be from an outside point of view more of a problem in respect of the sewage and the electricity element than the water because presumably the water we can just put in more RO plants and produce more water but in terms of the existing installed capacity, for example electricity, are we talking about something that for the development as a whole the additional capacity that would be required would be something that would be very large or are we just talking about another engine and that is it?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member has to just as he has done distinguish between production and distribution. There are infrastructural issues relating both to the generation of electricity, the distilling of water, and getting it there. The distribution networks in both cases and the requirement for significant investment applies to both. The distinction is that in relation to water both increase production, capacity and the additional distribution is much less money than for electricity but it still involves both and indeed the same applies to telephone capacity were there is a cost in getting telephones there but it is much less. Electricity is the biggest when it comes for both distribution and generation.

HON J J BOSSANO:

As regards sewage is the possibility of dealing with that in that area being looked at as opposed to sort of pumping it to Europa Point?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Leader of the Opposition may recall from his days in office that there is actually a longstanding project which no Government have ever proceeded with or funded to divert sewage in that direction. All Gibraltar's sewage goes down Winston Churchill Avenue and Line Wall, for example, the present sewage on the east side is pumped to the pumping station near the Victoria Stadium along Winston Churchill Avenue and then enters the main sewer at Line Wall Road so everything is diverted that way. This requires pumping stations and the sewers are old, small, new developments more demand being placed on them et cetera. They are now really creaking at the seams in terms of their ability to absorb greater volume so this longstanding report that exists is precisely to divert the sewage from the north and east side of the rock along Devil's Tower Road and straight to what will be the urban wastewater treatment plant which is going to be built somewhere in the area of Europa Point. So it will go round the east side through the tunnel which is a very cheap way of laying because one does not have to dig a ditch along the length of all the tunnel so the civil costs are lower than they would be to rebuild a ditch along the public highway and that scheme exists in respect of that and we are now seeing whether this project and those that need to contribute to the cost of the infrastructure works now provide a convenient opportunity to achieve that for Gibraltar as a whole.

NORTH MOLE – SULLAGE PLANT

Are Government aware of the reasons for the planned installation of a new storage tank at the sullage treatment plant in the North Mole?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 299 OF 2003

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can Government give the reasons to the House?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

SAUT who are the owners of the sullage plant in the north mole need more storage capacity as a result of new EU legislation which requires that ships have to discharge their waste oil if they do not have enough capacity to take them to the next port. SAUT is also negotiating with the MOD in order to try and see if they can obtain the MOD contract to handle their waste.

CONFERENCE SPONSORSHIP

Can Government list the conferences that they have assisted with, sponsored or co-sponsored since March 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

There were three conferences:

- (a) the annual conference of the European Association of Airport and Seaport Police; and
- (b) a Chiropractic Conference;
- (c) the Calpe Conference.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 306 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Minister say whether the assistance that they gave was financial or logistical in each case and what amounts?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

In respect of the annual conference to the European Association of Airport and Seaport Police there was a financial contribution which totalled £24,143.63 and $228. In respect of the chiropractic conference I do not think that there were any actual expenses I think there were logistical arrangements and in respect of the Calpe Conference I believe from memory that this was partly funded by the European Union as part of the Interreg initiatives between Morocco and Gibraltar but the total cost was £40,000 and I believe that the European Union funded about 40 per cent of that.

POWER CHIPS PLC

Can Government say at what stage are discussions with Power Chips PLC to set up a manufacturing facility in Gibraltar and what potential sites are being examined for this project?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

There has been intermittent contact between the Government and Power Chips PLC over the last two and a half years but there are still no concrete proposals and therefore the Government cannot say where there is a real possibility of any sort of facility being set up in Gibraltar.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 307 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Minister give any indication of when was the last contact with this company?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I believe it may have been just before the general election. There has definitely not been any contact at ministerial level after the elections with me.

LICENSING LAWS

Have Government now completed all stages of the licensing review, the consultation process for which finalised in November 2000?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

Government are presently not pursuing a review of licensing laws.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 308 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In the light of that answer is the Minister saying that the review which closed with the consultation process in November 2003 which included amongst some areas the opening hours of bars and restaurants and discotheques which included other aspects like under age drinking et cetera, that wide review which was going to be looked at again has now been abandoned or is it still on the shelf?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Not the bit about underage drinking laws that is still afoot what is no longer under consideration is any change to licensing hours et cetera outside of the existing I cannot remember what the Ordinance was called, the special regime that applies to Casemates, discotheques and the marinas but Government are still intending to review and to change the laws in relation to alcohol and tobacco in relation to young persons.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

So, what was originally described as temporary licensing hours for Casemates and for discotheques and for the marinas is now a permanent arrangement is that the case?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is correct.

BUNKERING

Have any new applications for a bunkering license been made since April 2003, and if so at what stage is each application?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

Answered together with Question Nos 311 and 313 of 2004.

BUNKERING

How much revenue, direct and indirect, did the Government receive from bunkering operations in the Bay of Gibraltar in 2002 and 2003?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

No new bunker operator licences have been issued since April 2003, neither have there been any new applications for such licences. The Government do not have any figures on the indirect revenue which accrues to the economy from the bunkering activities in the port, nor is it feasible to calculate the sum within the short time frame since notice of the question was given. This will require a vary considerable amount of work, and is too onerous to produce. Insofar as direct revenue is concerned, the exercise which would be required to analyse all ship calls in which bunkers were taken to establish whether it was exclusively for bunkering or for other purposes over and above bunkering and to apportion a proportion of the Port dues to bunkering.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 313 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is the Minister therefore saying that he has no way of establishing exactly how much revenue Gibraltar makes from bunkering operations?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The only figure that could be used for direct revenue could be possibly the port dues arrived at from ships calling at Gibraltar for bunkers. However, what I was trying to explain to the hon Gentleman is that ships call in to Gibraltar not necessarily just for bunkers they may call for other purposes and so therefore the economic benefit from the bunkering operation is not necessarily strictly speaking for bunkering but for other activities as well so one would have to apportion the figure to depending on the other activities of whether one wanted to apportion part of the revenue to other activities. In the year 2003 the figure for port dues was £193,694 that is really new revenue because one will recall that back towards the end of the year 2002 Government introduced port dues for ships calling in for bunkering and other activities, prior to that ships of this nature had been exempt from port dues and so that can be I presume a source of revenue to the economy directly from ships that call in for bunkering. There is also the environmental levy which is a fund that was introduced again in the year 2002 for bunkering ships calling in at Gibraltar where there is a levy raised on them in order for us to be able to create a fund to be able to counteract environmental and pollution disasters or incidents and the figure for the year 2002 was £129,000 that was generated from that levy and in the year 2003 was £148,000. Obviously the Government policy is to go for the culprit of any incident but we need to have a contingency fund in place to be able to tackle the incident on the spur of the moment and then deal with the cost of the exercise later and blame and try to recoup the cost in that so those are two direct revenue earners from the bunkering business.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is it not the case that most ships that call at Gibraltar for bunkering do not physically dock at Gibraltar and that there are bunkering activities carried out in the bay, do those ships also pay the port dues and the environmental levy or not?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Absolutely that is precisely what was introduced in the year 2002 in order to increase revenue and actually derive some benefit directly from this particular commercial activity.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is the annual amount that comes in from the levy if it is not used is that put on one side to build up a fund in case it is needed if something goes wrong in a big way?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

There is an internal fund that is accounted for even though the revenue from that actually goes straight into the Government General Account but there is an accounting process where we have access to that money and have an income and expenditure account to be able to cater both for the income that is coming in and expenditures that may be incurred. We need to buy, for example, anti-pollution equipment, human resources that need to be used and employed during an incident all that comes out of these funds.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it that the money simply goes into the Consolidated Fund and it is spent by the Appropriation Bill is that what happens or are we setting up like a contingency fund?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

It actually does appear in the Estimates of Expenditure in the Port Department Revenue.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Except to the extent that there is a general contingency fund then as it is presently set up I believe that it is just an additional income stream from an activity in respect of which the Government incurs expenditure. The expenditure being the Consolidated Fund expenditure for the state of preparedness that exists for pollution response. Training, equipment, dispersants et cetera. I believe this is the thrust of the hon Members' questions I do not believe that it is set up as a special ring-fenced fund. I believe it is general Government revenue which off-sets general Government expenditure in the Consolidated Fund on that sort of thing so it is a general income stream.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Would the Government not agree that the concept of an environmental levy would indicate that it is something which makes sense but which is there for a purpose and therefore as it is at the moment really at the end of the day the money will be used for whatever the money is needed as part of the general revenue?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes that view could be taken. We had this debate in relation to the environmental levy in respect of the Upper Rock last year or a few years ago whether this is hypothecated revenue or whether it is not hypothecated revenue one can either take both views. The extent to which Government creates little pockets of nest eggs to respond to different contingencies that may or may not occur I do not know but in this respect the first port of call is 'polluter pays' in fact we have an international treaty obligation to apply the principle of 'polluter pays' these are required by international treaty. If there was a pollution incident and it was not possible immediately to get the polluter to pay immediately the Government would always have to pay the cost of the clean up whether or not there was a separate fund. Whether or not there should be a separate fund is something that the Government can give consideration to, I can see the arguments for there being a separate fund given that this could be very heavy expenditure if the incident was large enough or whether the £800,000 or whatever is left in the general contingency fund would be enough. It is something the Government can give consideration to whether the fund should be made at least to a certain level. Anything in excess of that level could then flow into the General Consolidated Fund. It is certainly scope for reviewing.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Other than this in terms of the direct revenue to the Government are most of the companies there operating qualifying companies or are there full-time tax paying companies engaged in the bunkering business?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We do not know the answer to that question. We certainly know of one that is a full taxpaying company, Shell and its partner, Gibunco or Cepsa Gibraltar or whatever the company is that they do it through. As to the Greek owned companies of which there are two or three what their tax status is I would have to check.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to Question No 316 and to the third sponsor, when the Government gives a grant which includes a rent subsidy if the premises that are going to be occupied are Government premises or does it apply irrespective of whether they are Government premises or private sector premises?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Could the hon Member repeat the question?

HON DR J J GARCIA:

If one looks at the answer to Question No 316 the third sponsor on the list received a grant of £1,932 which is approved from the ERDF and £1,932 from the Gibraltar Government. That was for the purchase of furniture and equipment fit out costs and a rent subsidy, my question is about the rent subsidy, if the tenant is in private sector premises or in Government premises or is it given irrespective of what premises are being occupied?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I am afraid I am not able to confirm either way but I can find out and revert back to him on this particular issue but I assume that it is irrelevant whether it is done within Government property or whether it is done within the private sector. The application would be considered irrespective of that but I can confirm it to him in writing if he so wishes.

In relation to the second point, telephone infrastructure investment can the Minister tell the House what investment that is?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The information that I have here in respect of investment in telecom infrastructure adds up to a total of £13 million which has been invested not just Government, the industry in itself in the providing of the broadband, the cheap 884, the old ISP service, the prepaid mobiles and the cheap IDD rates.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Minister say whether those initiatives are actually initiatives of Gibtelecom not necessarily of the Gibraltar Government?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The investment in telecom infrastructure broadly speaking the responsibility and the initiative is of Gibtelecom.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can Government say whether there is any appreciable increase in the use of e-commerce in Gibraltar as a result of these strategies, are Government monitoring their effect?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I cannot really give the hon Member a categorical answer on this particular issue but I am told by those who operate within the Department of Trade and Industry and have responsibility for the promotion of this particular sector that there is increased activity however I cannot really give them any particular detail to backup that particular statement.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Do those who make those comments base their information on anything, a survey or any other kind of statistical compilation of the use of e-commerce in Gibraltar?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I presume they base it on, for example, the increase on the imports of computer software as an indicator of activity in this particular area. The level of interest that has been generated within the private sector as a result of the announcement of the initiative by Government to develop an e-commerce house project.....I am being completely honest with the hon Gentleman I cannot give him any more than that.

ADSL

What steps do the Government intend to take to lower the cost of ADSL to the business community and to home owners?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The Government do not provide ADSL to anyone and cannot therefore lower the cost of that service. However, the Government regularly urges Gibtelecom to make its telephone services price competitive. I suggest the hon Member should pursue the matter directly with Gibtelecom and the two local Internet Service Providers, Gibconnect and Gibnet.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 324 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is it the policy of the Government that there should be wider use of the Internet in Gibraltar?

HON F VINET:

Yes.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In the execution of that policy in trying to push it forward, have Government approached the operators in the field to see whether the cost of ADSL can be lowered or not?

HON F VINET:

As I have said Government do continuously urge Gibtelecom to lower its ADSL prices.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

I take it that Government accepts that the cheaper the cost of Internet the more people will use it, that is in the interest of Gibraltar and in the interest of pursuing the policy of greater use.

HON F VINET:

Subject to resilience and quality of service I would agree with that.

GIBRALTAR CITY PLAN

At what stage is the production of the new Gibraltar City Plan?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

What is now at an early stage is the production of the Development Plan.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 325 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Minister give an indication of when the development plan is expected to develop?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The estimated time for this development plan to be completed is the end of 2004.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Let us make sure that we are actually talking about the same thing, is this the plan that will include the different zoning arrangements for different parts of Gibraltar and which is open out to the public to make representations?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

That is correct. The question originally was for the city plan and or going back in history this plan was basically for the City of Gibraltar, now this plan will encompass the whole of Gibraltar and will have zoning in terms of planning policy and proposals for use of the areas et cetera and obviously this will be subjected and open to public input.

BOTH WORLDS

At what stage is the consideration by the Development and Planning Commission of the application for planning permission to construct two additional houses at the northern end of Both Worlds?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

No outline planning permission has been granted for the proposed project at Sir Herbert Miles Road, nor has any application for dredging at Sheppard's Marina been made. No representations were received with respect to the Monaco Ocean Village Ltd application to erect a temporary workshop or the Little Genoa request for relaxation of the building rules. Two representations were received in respect of the funicular proposal. The Little Genoa application related to ventilation requirements for a rear bedroom window on three of the houses, and it was granted. The DPC is awaiting submission of an Environmental Impact Assessment in respect of the funicular application before considering the matter further. The DPC is awaiting further information on the Both Worlds application prior to considering the matter further. The DPC is awaiting the outcome of further discussions with the applicant for the proposed 2 Buena Vista Road development.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 327 to 334 of 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

There are a number of questions answered together so I will be going through them and asking supplementaries accordingly. In relation to Question No 327 of 2004 which was to do with the Outline Planning permission in respect of 65 units and car parking at St Herbert Miles Road to which the answer was that the Planning Commission was not given is it that the project will now not be proceeded with on that basis, or can Government say for what reason the permission has not been given?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The no Outline Planning Permission has been granted in respect of the 65 residential units and carpark at Sir Herbert Miles Road DPC is awaiting the submission of environmental impact study prior to considering the application. An environmental consultant met with the Town Planner some months ago to discuss this but there has been no further feedback subsequent to this meeting.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to Question No 329 of 2004 which is the dredging of the Sheppard's Marina in connection with the Ocean Village development, are Government aware that part of the project is being marketed with a dredged marina?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I can tell the hon Member that in my discussions with Monaco Ocean Village Ltd they have intimated the fact that they intended to make out some dredging. No formal submission or application has been made so therefore until that happens I am not able really to comment on the matter. Whether they wish to market the product that they do not really have is really up to them it is nothing that the Government can do.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can I ask Government whether a formal application for dredging is actually something that is needed in the light of other legislation before this House?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Traditionally there has always been a planning application, it happened in respect of the Island project, for example, and we assumed this would be a requirement, legislation for this House for discussion for consideration later on in this meeting actually clarifies the issue as to whether there is a local requirement for that or not.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Minister say whether that legislation has been put forward to this House for consideration in the light of this project?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The Legislation responds to an observation by the European Commission that the Town Planning Ordinance is deficient in terms of some EU Directives in that it does not statutorily require planning permission for the seabed. In the context of some environmental Directive it was a non-compliance of some such directive I will have this information for the hon Member when the Bill comes to the House but there is some EU Directive which is not being complied with as a result of it not being clear in the Planning Legislation that the seabed is part of the territory covered by the Planning Legislation.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In respect of the Ocean Village Development is that something that can be accommodated within the existing infra-structure, I know that they do not have a problem on one side but in terms of the capacity that we have?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The issue has not been raised with us but I do not think that there is an issue in respect of it.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In terms of planning the investment the Government needs to make is there a system for looking at the projects that are there to see what that is going to do, for example, the load on electricity, is that something that is happening or happens?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

As the hon Member knows it is sometime since there has been some investment in electricity generation or distribution but the studies are now being done in-house by the management of the Electricity Authority and that is certainly things that they are taking into consideration. On the sewers there is not much one can do, the sewers are there and it either has the capacity or it does not. There what one has is a major infrastructural work but yes, it is not just in terms of the projects in the pipeline but in terms of, for example, the urban waste-water treatment plant and the new refuse incinerator are being planned on the basis of realistic growth expectations both economically and in terms of population projected forward by actuaries there is quite a lot of strategic planning now going into various utilities co-incidentally because for one reason or another they have all arrived at the need to do it at more or less the same time both in sewer and electricity in particular but also I know that Lyonnaise is doing the same in respect of water.

TOURISM ADVISORY COUNCIL

How often and on what dates has the Tourism Advisory Council met since 20th March 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

Twice, on 29th May and 25th September 2003.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 337 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Are Government satisfied that the Council can do its work with so few meetings in a year, I believe it is three?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Normally the Tourism Advisory Council meets every quarter so therefore by implication it is roughly four times a year. There would have been a further meeting if the elections had not been called there was a meeting due some time in November and that would have probably completed the quarterly quota. Yes, the answer is that we feel we can carry out the business with quarterly meetings however if the need arises for meetings at more regular basis that would happen in any case.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Has the composition of that Council changed over the last 12 months?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I am not totally sure about that, there may have been an addition to the board but I do not know when that exactly happened. Let me say that shortly after the elections I wrote to all members thanking them for their participation in the Council and informing them that I would be appointing new members during this term of office and that would happen shortly.

HON F R PICARDO:

In the event that he was re-elected?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I said I wrote after the elections.

HON F R PICARDO:

Sorry, I thought the Minister said before the elections.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

When does the Minister envisage that the new appointees will be in place and will the Council be based on a similar format to what it was last time?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Yes, it will be based on the same format. Some members of the public have been contacted by the Chief Executive of the Tourist Board and we are now waiting for its formal formation which will probably happen sometime during the next month.

REDLEAF ASSOCIATES

Can Government say whether and if so when the contract to Redleaf Associates as public relations consultants to the GTB was renewed and if it was for what sum?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The contract was renewed on the 1st April 2003, in the sum of £30,000 per annum. This contract expires on the 31st March 2004.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 338 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Has the work that Redleaf performs in relation to this contract for the £30,000 paid changed over the last year or does it form the same kind of function?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

No. Throughout this year the work that Redleaf has undertaken is based on the contract which currently exists with the Government of Gibraltar. Let me say that later on sometime next month we are inviting other parties including Redleaf to re-submit their offer because as the hon Member knows the contracts that we have for services in the UK are reviewed annually. Some are renegotiated, others are terminated and new contracts are put in place depending on the performance and the value for money they represent.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 339 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

There were two bidders for that particular tender can the Minister say how much did the unsuccessful bidder bid and for what products?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The information I had that there were two tenders, however the only other tenderer that bid for this was in respect of one item only and that was the car sticker at a cost of 36 pence each. There were no other bidders and so the Treasury Tender Board decided to go along the lines of recommending Corporate Events for the award of that tender.

GTB - LOGO

Are Government now in a position to give the costs with a breakdown associated with the change of logo of the Gibraltar Tourist Board?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The cost was £5,162. The design was £1,734, the changing of signs was £2,845 and the press conference was £583.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 340 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Do any of these items of expenditure relate to the changes in things like stationery et cetera that needed to be changed as a result of the change of logo?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

There was change of stationery, literature et cetera, but those were costs that would have to be incurred anyway. It was not costs that were attributed particularly to this because we planned this rebranding at least two years before and so therefore our ordering of stationery, our ordering of the various literature was done so as to try and terminate the stock in existence of these at more or less the time of the launch and it has worked quite well in the sense that most of the reprinted material actually came into place when the need arose.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 341 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the £6,139 spent on website development can the Minister tell the House whether that involved the construction and design of a new website?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

No, this is an on-going contract that currently exists in order to maintain the UK website in order to up-date information on events, developments, changes. There is a UK tourism website which is exclusively for that purpose and that is the on-going cost of that.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the £78,525 spent on what is called "Gibraltar events," can the Minister elaborate on what that item of expenditure relates to?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Yes. Those cover events like the Gibraltar Regatta where we are part sponsors, the Rally Antigua which is the rally that set off from Gibraltar, the Gibraltar Kennel Club Dog Show where we are part sponsors, the Classic Car Rally, the Gibraltar Powerboat Festival that actually did not take place this year but it has got a slot with zero expenditure, the Chess Tournament that is due to happen for the second time and the BGTW dinner which is the dinner that we part sponsored in the UK. It is not actually a Gibraltar event it is the dinner of the Institute of Guild of Travel Writers where we participated with the Federation of Small Businesses.

A point of clarification, the answer to Question No 342 of 2004 says that the ABTA visitors were not an ABTA delegation a statement which was issued by the Government says, "The Gibraltar Tourist Board is hosting a delegation from the Association of British Travel Agents (ABTA)," that was issued at the time in October, can the Minister clarify which of the two it is?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

One of the delegates by the name of Mr David Kent he is the Honourable Secretary of ABTA so that was the only connection with the actual ABTA Committee the others were ABTA Members that came along to this familiarisation visit and they were not an ABTA delegation as such, they did not represent the ABTA Committee but they were all ABTA Members.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 344 TO 346 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to Question No 345 of 2004 which is to do with the British Guild of World Travel Writers Dinner sponsorship, can the Minister explain how this sponsorship actually materialises is it that the Guild of Travel Writers put it out to competitive tender and so many territories or organisations express an interest and bid to sponsor the event?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The reality of this is that we are well connected with members of the Institute Guild of Travel Writers hierarchy, in other words the chairman and her Board and on one of the visits to Gibraltar along one of the cruise ships they had meetings in Gibraltar and they know certain members of the tourism industry here in Gibraltar quite well and met them socially and they said that would Gibraltar be interested in sponsoring this dinner. I have been to these dinners before, they represent good value for money in the sense that the exposure that Gibraltar obtains from the evening's event is quite significant and the Federation of Small Businesses approached some of its members and decided to put a proposal to the Government where if we were to match their participation in this event, put in £25,000 of public funds the private sector would put £25,000 themselves in order to promote the event and sponsor the event and the government decided that it would support the Federation in this initiative and carry the event forward.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

The cost of the dinner was £33,238 of which £15,370 was spent on a video presentation can the Minister elaborate on that particular item of expenditure?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Yes. Basically the sponsorship of the evening is £50,000 out of which the Federation put in £25,000 and the Government of Gibraltar put in another £25,000 out of those £50,000, £15,370 were actually the cost of the presentation that was made at the dinner and was produced by leading personalities within the tourism industry that were out here in Gibraltar and was actually shown on the evening. Therefore the cost of the video presentation was that but it was part of our sponsorship money, that came out of our contribution towards the cost of that.

UKGTA BROCHURE

Did any local hotel make representations to the Government following the publication of the UKGTA brochure last year?

NO 350 OF 2004

THE HON DR J J GARCIA

UKGTA BROCHURE

Can Government say who is responsible for checking for mistakes in the UKGTA brochure?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

One local hotel, the Queen's Hotel, made representations to the Government following publication of the 2004 UKGTA brochure. The brochure consists of two elements: pages written by and provided by tour operators, and pages produced by the Gibraltar Tourist Board. The Chief Executive of the Gibraltar Tourist Board is only responsible for the accuracy of the Gibraltar Tourist Board pages in the brochure. Any inaccuracy noted in tour operator pages is pointed out to the tour operator in question.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 349 AND 350 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the representations made by the Queen's Hotel once the brochure was published, can the Minister say what was the substance of the complaint?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The substance of the complaint was that the Queen's Hotel which appeared under accommodation A to Z section of the general Gibraltar Tourist Board pages did not include a telephone number.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Have I understood the Minister correctly when he said that this appeared under the Tourist Board pages that the telephone number was not included?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

That is right.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Minister then say what action was taken on receipt of the complaint from the Queen's Hotel?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

We agreed with the Queen's Hotel that a flyer would be inserted into the brochure which would include information on the telephone number.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Am I correct in assuming that this would involve an extra cost so what was the extra cost of including a flyer in the many thousands of brochures which I am sure were printed.

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The cost of this is not significant as we had a number of flyers actually printed but the actual cost was not of significance. I cannot recall what the figure was. The Queen's Hotel wanted the flyer to be inserted in every single brochure and we agreed. We were willing to insert the flyer only on brochures that are requested by members of the public directly from us at the Gibraltar Tourist Board the reality is that the main purpose of the brochure apart from distributing to the public is to have them on travel agents and tour operators for them to get relevant information so they would go to the tour operator. This information actually appears on the general pages of Gibraltar because as part of the UKGTA brochure only the three big hotels find it cost effective for them to participate in it so therefore, in order for us to present a far more complete picture to the general public we actually put in general pages ourselves which we list hotels that are not part of this UKGTA forum in order to show that we do have not just three hotels but that we do have more budget rated hotels available in Gibraltar as well. It is part of the general information on Gibraltar rather than specific hard sale that we intend to do by providing that information.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Would the Minister none the less agree to supply information relating to the cost of this flyer and how many flyers were printed?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I will indeed.

UPPER ROCK

How many parties have submitted tenders for the supply of litter bins at the Upper Rock?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

One tender was submitted for the St Michael's Cave Tender and three tenders for the litter bins. The Government decided not to award the St Michael's cave tender to the sole tenderer.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 352 TO 354 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can Government say why the tender was not awarded in respect of the maintenance of the audio lighting system and ancillary equipment at St Michael's Cave to the only entity that submitted a tender?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

This was not awarded on two counts, value for money, significant costs and also the level of expertise offered by the tenderer was not appropriate for the maintenance that is required by the system.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Was the tenderer for the maintenance the same company that carried out the original installation in relation to the value for money element and is that why it was not considered to be value for money because it was a company from abroad or was it a local company?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

It was a local company.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the second reason as to why the tender was not awarded, the level of expertise, can the Minister say who made that judgement in relation to the level of expertise that is needed for this type of tender?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I do not know who was in the Tender Board but there must have been an element of technical expertise within the Tender Board to advise on that matter.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Given that there was one tender that the Government rejected who is doing the maintenance of the lights in St Michael's Cave at present?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The Electricity Authority.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is it that the Electricity Authority submitted a tender for this at some stage or is it that Government have directly allocated it to them?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government do not organise tenders to award things to its own in-house publicly owned facility. Having the tender is to put things out to the private sector as an alternative of doing it in-house. In-house does not include just Government departments it includes statutory Authorities which are in the public sector.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

My question is really aimed at establishing why is the Authority interested in carrying out this type of work which was normally carried out by a private contractor if they did not bid for it at the time?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government departments and private sector entities are not at liberty to participate in Government tenders. There is one that does but that is because it is more remote and that is GJBS they sometimes bid for Government tenders but even then very rarely. Government departments and statutory agencies are not at liberty to participate. I have never known a case where a Government department.....the tender is as a potential alternative to it being done by a Government department so the decision is made at political level whether something should be done in-house or go out to tender, goes out to tender, if the prices that come back from the private sector are too high and is more than the Government wants to spend on that then it reverts back to the public sector.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Going back to the original question can the Minister say what was bid by the sole tenderer that was considered not to be value for money and how much it will cost to have the Government do this in-house?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I am afraid I do not have the relevant information about the actual cost. I can submit it to the hon Member if he wishes.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

If the Minister could supply the information I would be grateful for it.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Was it being done in-house before it was put out to tender?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

No. It was the actual manufacturers and those that actually put the system in who had an obligation of after sales service maintenance contract and when that expired then it went out to tender.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Most of the new thing that is being set up with the Authority having its own separate accounts would a situation like this mean that it would show as revenue the expenditure of the tourism side of the budget or there would not be a paper exercise?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I am not sure what has actually been agreed but I would tend to say that there would be a cost incurred as far as the Gibraltar Tourist Board budget is concerned and a revenue on the Electricity Authority as well. The terms to be honest I do not have here with me.

ST MICHAEL'S CAVE

On what date did a major tour operator pull out of sending tourists to St Michael's Cave for safety reasons?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

In May 2003, Thomson Travel took a completely unjustified decision without reference to the Gibraltar Tourist Board to stop their clients visiting St Michael's Cave. The GTB in consequence engaged in a successful campaign to make Thomson Travel appreciate that the Cave is safe for visitors and that the reports that they had heard to the contrary were completely without foundation. Thomson Travel visitors therefore continue to visit the Cave.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 357 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Did the decision by Thomson follow several accidents at the Cave on the part of tourists who had come to Gibraltar with them?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

As Thomson Travel reported to us that there had been a few, and I cannot really quantify but it must have been something like maybe two, three, four, accidents that had been suffered by senior citizens who had visited the Cave and had fallen and therefore they decided that they were not going to continue offering St Michael's Cave as part of the Rock Tour because they thought it was unsafe so we then contacted the relevant management that had taken that decision, brought them over to Gibraltar, showed them the Cave, produced the relevant Health and Safety

Reports that had been produced and they were convinced that in fact the Cave was safe for them to continue with their tours.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is it not also the case that members of staff working at the Cave have also had similar accidents to these senior citizens, presumably those are not senior citizens as well?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I am not aware of any member of staff actually having had an accident in the Cave. They may have but it definitely has not come to my knowledge.

BARBARY APES

How many apes have been killed in 2002 and in 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

A total of six in 2002 and 35 in 2003.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 358 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA

Do Government continue to look into other options such as exporting the apes to zoos or parks in other parts of the world or has that avenue now been closed?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

No. That continues to be our policy and GONHS who have management responsibility for the apes consider all other options before they consider the culling of the apes. Once the decision has been taken that culling is the only option I can assure the hon Member that all other options will have been explored.

AIRLINES

When do Government foresee the resumption of air links between Gibraltar and Morocco?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

Government are presently in discussion with four airlines. None of these airlines are airlines with which the Government was previously in discussion: at present there is no dialogue with those five airlines. Two airlines have expressed an interest in a route between Gibraltar and South West England, one of which is Flybe and discussions with them continue. Government last had contact with Fly Europa in April 2003 and it would appear that the airline is no longer in existence. Government would wish to see the resumption of air links between Gibraltar and Morocco but there is no immediate prospect of this happening. The Government do not expect any impact on flights to Gibraltar consequent on the commercial discussions between British Airways and Iberia.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 359 TO 365 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

The Minister said that he is in discussion with four airlines. That all the four airlines are new and that two of the four are in respect of links between Gibraltar and the southwest, can the Minister say whether the other two airlines he is in discussion with will open up new routes from Gibraltar airport to a new airport not being served at present?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Yes.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is it possible for him to say what airport these are or to give an indication of regional nature, north of England, south, Wales et cetera?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

We are talking of Stanstead and Bristol.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the airlinks with Morocco which the Minister has said there is now no prospect of re-establishing those links, is it the case that the on-going discussions with regional airlines have now finally and definitely come to an end?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

My understanding is that Regional Airlines have had problems and so therefore there has been a complete change of management and strategy and the long-term prospects of the airline are at risk at the moment. Therefore, the possibilities of coming to an arrangement at least in the short to medium term are quite remote.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

I am not certain whether it was Regional Airlines or whether it was another airline that was interested in flying a Morocco route including Gibraltar as a stopover, can he confirm to me if that was Regional airlines or was it a different carrier?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

It was not Regional Airlines it was another operator that came but there was no stopover it was Gibraltar/North Africa type of link. It included Tetuan and Tangiers it came and went nowhere to be seen again.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Do Government consider it important to develop airlinks between Gibraltar and Morocco in the light of business contacts Interreg Funds et cetera and if so what further can be done to encourage that?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government would greatly welcome and would enormously value there being airlinks between Gibraltar and Morocco but at the end of the day the marketplace has got to itself decide whether such a service is commercially viable for the operator. The Government attempts to bring its desires about firstly by talking to people and to applicants and then by participating with them in a negotiation about a degree of publicly funded subsidy of some sort so those are the two ways in which the Government goes about trying to bring it about but at the end of the day just to answer the hon Member's last part about how much more can the Government do, not much more. The Government certainly cannot go so far as to in effect underwrite the commercial viability or the full cost of the operation on an open ended basis it is not that important although it would be desirable. There is a Question on the Order Paper about even the ferry links to Morocco are down to two a week which appears to be what there is demand. The amount of traffic movement that there is however desirable he and I might both agree that it is the actual traffic that exists does not seem to sustain commercial operations for it.

NO 366 OF 2004

THE HON DR J J GARCIA

SEA LINKS – GIBRALTAR/MOROCCO

How many operators are currently providing a service by sea between Gibraltar and Morocco and with what frequency?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

There is a single operator who runs a service on the route on Fridays and Sundays.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 366 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is it that the operator leaves Gibraltar and goes to Morocco on the Friday and then comes back on the Sunday or is it a round trip on each day?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

No the current operator leaves Morocco on a Friday arrives in Gibraltar and goes back on the same day. On Sunday the same operation is done. Between that time it actually travels to other ports in the area.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

The information given by the Minister in this House is in conflict with the information in the Government's Tourism Website when I last looked at it where the indications were that there was a daily service leaving in the mornings and returning in the afternoons, a round trip every day, can the Minister ensure that the information provided to the tourists who may wish to visit Morocco through Gibraltar is corrected on the Tourist Board's Website?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Yes.

BOUTIQUE LINER TERMINAL

Can Government say whether there has been any progress on discussions with a private sector operator to set up a boutique liner terminal in connection with an existing berthing site in Gibraltar?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

No.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 367 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Are there still any on-going discussions regarding the setting up of the boutique liner terminal in connection with an existing berthing site?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

No.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

When we originally raised this issue in the House the Minister mentioned that there were two or three sites which were being considered and it emerged subsequently that there was another site in connection with the east side project for this, is it now definitely the case that all the other discussions have fallen through and the only one that remains is the east side project?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

That is correct.

NO 368 OF 2004*THE HON DR J J GARCIA*HOTEL ARREARS

What amounts are due and owing to Government by hotels broken down by item and in respect of which period these monies become due as at 30th June 2003 and 31st December 2003?

ANSWER*THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The hon Member has been asking at each meeting of the House how much is owed by hotels in respect of arrears, to monitor the success or otherwise of the Government in recovering debts in respect of social insurance, PAYE and electricity which totalled nearly £1 million. This was the situation inherited by the Government when it came into office in May 1996. The success of the Government in this area is testimony to the way in which tourism in Gibraltar has grown and hotel occupancy increased thereby allowing hotels to clear a large proportion of this debt. Of the original £924,000 owed to the Government, the following amounts remained outstanding on 30th June 2003 and 31st December 2003:-

|                                |                  |         |
|--------------------------------|------------------|---------|
| 30 th June 2003     | PAYE             | £46,180 |
|                                | Electricity      | £91,876 |
|                                | Social Insurance | £19,164 |
| 31 st December 2003 | PAYE             | £ 2,180 |
|                                | Electricity      | £53,876 |
|                                | Social Insurance | £ 9,164 |

The total amount still outstanding is therefore about £65,000, and this will be recovered during the first half of 2004.

NO 371 OF 2004

THE HON DR J J GARCIA

CRUISE LINERS

What steps are the Government taking to encourage the development of full-day tours for cruise passengers visiting Gibraltar?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

In cases where a cruise call at Gibraltar is scheduled for a full day, the Government urges Shore Excursion Agents to develop new products to offer cruise passengers. This will encourage more passengers to go on organised tours. Given the size of Gibraltar, it is not feasible to offer a full-day tour. That only occurs at ports where passengers need to travel a certain distance from the ship because places of interest to tour are a greater distance from the port than is the case with Gibraltar. Nor would it be in the commercial interests of retail businesses in Gibraltar that cruise passengers be engaged in organised tours all day.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 371 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is it not the case that the Minister in the past has highlighted the lack of full day tours as one of the reasons why cruise operators might prefer to go into another port as opposed to coming to Gibraltar?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Could you repeat the question again please?

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is it not the case that in the past the Minister has highlighted the lack of full day tours as one of the reasons why cruise operators may prefer to go to another port rather than come to Gibraltar?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Absolutely, what I have said in the past is that obviously the geography and the possibility that are available in Gibraltar due to its size makes it difficult to get cruise calls into Gibraltar for a full day. Let me say that, for example, when one compares the likes of say Malaga and Cadiz when cruise calls actually call at Malaga they are actually intending for tours in Granada and so therefore they tend to be travelling for a couple of hours there and back so the actual tour in itself has a longer duration. When it happens in Cadiz they end up in Sevilla or in Jerez. In Gibraltar if they turn to find themselves within the Upper Rock within minutes of arrival so therefore they find that they can basically carry out the same function in Gibraltar by actually calling in Gibraltar for four to six hours which is the average duration of a cruise call.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In his budget address this financial year which was at the end of June, the Minister said that it is important to highlight one of the problems which Gibraltar suffers with compared to other ports of call in the region. The Gibraltar tours that are sold on board do not allow for full day tours for which a cruise operator can charge a high premium price and make a substantial profit. What this means is that cruise operators are unable to make as much money from shore excursions at Gibraltar when compared with other ports. Given that the Minister accepts that this is what he has been saying what action is the Government taking to try and encourage that the development of these full day tours in terms of, for example, I know that the normal Rock Tour might take two or three hours but combining it with shopping and combining it with some of the other excursions where the Rock tours do not normally stop at or allow enough time for passengers to see the whole of the area. Is Government not thinking of taking any action or encouraging tour operators to take any action in this area considering the problem was identified by Government?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I think where the confusion is is in the actual duration of the visit and the duration of the tour. The duration of the visit obviously we try and encourage cruises to visit Gibraltar for as long as possible. The duration of the tours have limitations as I have explained before what we try and do is actually try and see whether we can get cruises to actually stay in Gibraltar for longer but not necessarily on tour. We prefer them obviously to spend some of their time going through the shopping experience in Gibraltar and actually spending money in our economy rather than actually being bussed around which really generates very little for the economy as such apart to the tour operators themselves.

ARRIVAL OF YACHTS

What special security arrangements were put in place for the control of yachts arriving at Queensway Quay when the security state in Gibraltar rose to amber in April/May of 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

Yachts arriving at Queensway Quay prior to the increase in security alert state did not need to report to the Yacht Reporting Berth. With the change in the security alert state, the Government did not consider this acceptable. The operators of the Marina therefore implemented new measures, to the satisfaction of the Government, to ensure that yachts arriving at Queensway Quay had to report to the proper authorities on arrival at the Marina. I can write to the hon Member to furnish more exact details, which is not prudent to discuss openly in this House.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 372 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

If the Minister does that we would be grateful for the information but presumably every yacht that came into Gibraltar in that time went through those procedures so there would not necessarily be any secret but if the Minister prefers to put it in writing we will accept that.

I will.

YACHT VISITS

Can Government supply the figures for marina occupancy by yachts on a monthly basis for each month of 2001, 2002 and 2003 to date?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The information sought is not information which the Government have to hand, as this is not statistical information which is supplied to the Government on a regular basis. The Marinas have been asked to supply the information sought and once it is received it will be sent to the hon Member.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 373 AND 374 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

"This information is not supplied to the Government on a regular basis," is his answer can he say when it was last supplied to the Government?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

In terms of statistics I believe that it was when we were having this exchange of press releases as to whether marinas were actually in deterioration or actually performing better and at that point I did seek some information. I then followed that up recently but in terms of whether the occupancies were actually increasing or whether there was any decrease and the information that was given to me was that the occupancy levels were increasing. We have asked for them but marinas fail to deliver this within the short period of time that we requested.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

But does the Minister accept that when we had that exchange and that was in May of last year the marina yacht occupancy figures and the marina length of stay of yacht figures are not part of the official statistics so therefore there would not be figures that will be available to the Opposition?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Yes that information has not been supplied to him or supplied to me unless I ask them.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

I say that because during his budget contribution which was in June the month after we had the exchange the Minister said, "...what Dr Garcia fails to do is analyse whether the length of stay of yachts has increased." Given that that the information is not part of the authorised statistics and is not available to the Opposition not even to the Government it was something quite difficult for us to do but I take the point that the Minister has written to the marinas and we expect that information when he receives it.

Notes:

During 2002 all yachts arriving at Queensway Quay were cleared by fax communication between the Marina and Customs. Customs visited and/or searched yachts only when suspicious.

As a result of a heightened State of Alert, all yachts arriving at Queensway Marina were visited and/or searched by Customs from 21 March 2003 to 14 August 2003.

This was reduced to only 20 per cent being visited and/or searched from 15 August 2003 to date.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 375 AND 376 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

What the figures show is that these are the figures in relation to the yacht arrivals at Queensway Quay that were cleared by Customs is that in fact if my reading of this is correct the Minister can correct me if I am wrong is that in the whole of 2002 of the several hundred yachts that arrived at Queensway Quay Marina only two were visited or searched the rest of them were cleared by fax is that the case?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

That is the correct, obviously the situation changes in the year 2003 especially during the period in which there were high alerts.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

The situation then changes as he says in 2003 in relation to the alerts and also in relation to the fact that this situation came out in public at the time although it seems to me that after April and May is when every yacht is actually visited and searched. I am grateful for the information.

CRUISE LINERS

What arrangements have been put in place to ensure that the tourist sites remain open when there is a cruise liner in port?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The question implies that it is only of recent date that arrangements have been put in place to ensure that tourist sites are open outside normal hours to service cruise ships' needs. This is not the case. It was an early priority of the Government to ensure that this happened. At the request of Shore Excursion Agents, the GTB ensure that staff are available to man the sites outside normal hours every day of the year except Christmas Day.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 377 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

I know this is not really a tourist site but are Government aware whether the cable car itself remains open when there is a cruise liner in port that may come in late?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

As the hon Member clearly points out the cable car is a private commercial entity which takes a commercial decision as to whether it wishes to have its facilities available or not but from what I understand it depends on the cruise ship that is in port whether it does open or not.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 382 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

When the Minister first met with his Moroccan counterpart at a trade fair did the Minister announce an intention to organise a visit by himself to Morocco or by his counterpart to Gibraltar and if so why has that visit not materialised?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

When I met the Minister for Tourism from Morocco in FITUR in Madrid and we agreed that this was going to be the case that I would visit Morocco and he in turn would visit Gibraltar. Unfortunately due to security threats in Morocco between the period of March to the summer period, this did not happen as they recommended that there should not be any official visits during this period. We then subsequently agreed to meet at World Travel Market but unfortunately the elections had been called by then so we agreed that we would re-establish contact with each other after the elections. This has not yet happened.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Am I correct in understanding that the Minister has only met with his Moroccan counterpart once not twice?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

No. We have met twice we have met in Madrid in FITUR and then subsequently at World Travel Market in November last year.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Is the question that we discussed earlier of airlinks between Gibraltar and Morocco one of the issues discussed?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I do not think it is really appropriate that I should comment on our discussions on specific matters.

TERCENTENARY BOOK

On what basis and using what criteria did the Government select the author, photographer and printer for the Tercentenary book?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The Government have not paid the author, the photographer or the printer anything for the Tercentenary Book "300 Years of British Gibraltar 1704-2004." The Government merely committed themselves to purchasing 2,800 books of the 8,200 print run. Some of these books are for marketing use and for presentations. The Government are the sole supplier of the book to bookshops and purchasers who had not placed advance orders with the publisher, and have already recouped more than half of the cost of the books it ordered. The intention is not to make a profit from the sale of the book but to cover costs and there is every likelihood that this will be achieved. This book has not been subsidised by the tax payer. I am prepared to write to the hon Member to inform him of the printing cost per book as this is confidential commercial information. The author and publisher of the book, Mr Peter Bond, was approached by the Tercentenary Committee because of his excellent track record in producing the Millennium book, "Impressions of Gibraltar". As publisher, Mr Bond selected his preferred photographer and printer as the Government were not paying for the publication of the book.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Just to clarify a couple of points in relation to the answer that the Minister has given to the five questions, is the Minister saying then that the Government have been charged £25.00 for each of the 2,800 books that it committed itself to purchase?

No, Government have paid the cost of the book.

TERCENTENARY WEBSITE

When did the design of the Gibraltar Government Tercentenary website go out to tender, how many parties expressed an interest, and for what amount was the contract awarded to the successful party?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The design did not go out to tender. As designer for the Tercentenary logo, Mr Stephen Perera was asked to develop the theme through the website. In respect of creative work of this nature, it is often very difficult or impossible to go through a tender process. A certain standard of creative excellence is required and a proven ability to deliver in the way that the Government envisages can usually only be obtained by going direct to a graphic designer who has worked in a particular field and understands its needs. The key element is value for money.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 391 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Given that the key element is value for money and the question asks what amount the Government paid, does the Minister have that information?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Yes. The design and set up costs were £1,700. There is a website maintenance of £220 per month.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In respect of the £220 a month website maintenance what maintenance exactly does the website require?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

There will be constant update of information that will need to be added to the website and various changes made depending on how the programme develops throughout the year.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 396 TO 400 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

The answer to Question No 400 which is that there is a list of 57 events submitted by the general public , it is quite a lengthy list so does the Minister know offhand how many of those have been adopted as events which are going to take place?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I am not sure how many. I can tell the hon Member that all were considered and those that have been taken onboard appear in the provisional programme that has been made public. I think the hon Member will have to do this exercise himself.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

The answer to another question. The cost of the Tercentenary logo is that the cost of designing the logo was £1,500 and that 18 designs were submitted, is the Minister in a position to say whether this £1,500 was the cheapest of the 18 or how did it fare?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The design work was actually presented by one individual. They submitted different options and obviously it kept on coming for comment and going back for further changes and eventually there were 18 submissions before the final logo was approved.

Can Government list the parties that submitted tenders for the East Side Development Project, with a brief outline of the project, indicating which were local consortiums and which were not, and showing the sum of money bid by each?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

Answered together with Question Nos 401 to 405 and 407 of 2004.

THE HON DR J J GARCIA

EASTSIDE DEVELOPMENT

On what basis was one particular tenderer for the East Side project selected as the preferred bidder and given the sole option for 90 days?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The preferred bidder for the Eastside project was required to negotiate the terms of a Development Licence Agreement with the Government within a period of 90 days from the start of negotiations. Should the negotiations fail, there are other short-listed parties which submitted proposals which the Government can consider. One party withdrew from the tender but it is not appropriate at this stage to name the entity concerned or to provide information on the reasons for its decision nor is it possible to provide the details sought in respect of who the tenders were together with details of the project submitted or why one tenderer had been selected as the preferred bidder. The tender has not been awarded yet. Until such time as negotiations with the tenderer are successfully concluded the issue of an environmental impact study does not arise. With regards to the time taken to decide on the preferred bidder the hon Member should realise that the development of the eastside is a major project. Government must ensure that the right decisions are taken. A short list of projects had to be considered in detail and analysed. All short-listed tenderers were asked to submit to further and better particulars of their project. They in turn required assistance and advice which took time to obtain. There was a need for presentations by bidders, discussions with them and the eventual choice of the preferred bidder. The Government are satisfied that there was no undue delay in deciding on the preferred bidder.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 401 TO 407 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

The Minister has said that there are other short-listed parties in answer to one of the question, can he say how many more other short-listed parties are there?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I think that this information has already been made available to the House previously but if not, there were three short-listed parties.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Given that there were a number of questions taken together I will go through them one by one for supplementaries. In relation to Question No 403 of 2004 and Question No 407 of 2004 which referred to the preferred bidder giving the option for 90 days by the choice of the preferred bidder was announced by the Government in a statement that they issued on 3rd October 2003. If my calculations are correct, we are already above 90 days, can the Minister say whether an agreement has been reached within 90 days or has an extension been provided to continue the negotiations?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The actual 90 days commenced on the 19th August 2003 and the 90 day period concluded on 19th November 2003. That fell just a few days before the general election so an extension was granted to the negotiating process in order for us to go through the election process and then take a decision.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

There is something that does not quite tally. On the 3rd October 2003 which is midway through the 90 days in the way that the hon Member has just explained, Government are sued a statement which says, “..following the public tender process Government have awarded one of the bidders preferred bidder status, this means that they have a 90 day exclusive negotiating right period to reach a detailed and binding agreement with the Government. Those negotiations are now under way.” This gives the impression that the 90 days started on the 3rd October and 90 days from then on the Government will be negotiating with this preferred bidder, is that not the case?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The 90 days is an initial period that the ‘preferred bidder’ is entitled to and cannot hold the Government to more. In other words, it is a maximum entitlement to period by the preferred bidder but the Government are free to extent for as long as it likes and to give extensions for as long as it likes provided that it is satisfied that satisfactory progress is being made towards reaching an agreement. That is the position that we are at the moment, only this week the 'preferred bidder' has asked the Government for a further extension and Government will continue to give short extensions whilst we believe that the preferred bidder is negotiating with the Government seriously and with a view to reaching a doable deal. That is the position subject to what the next supplementaries might be I am going to ask the hon Gentleman not to press us further. All of this information is of some commercial value to the other side to the extent that the hon Member gets us to explain our attitude towards extensions in public. These things are useful for the other side to know and therefore given that this is a large commercially sensitive and commercially significant in terms of both development and premium value to the Government, I think that the Government will not allow itself to be pressed further in answer to any question which involves information which involves the negotiations with the 'preferred bidder'. Obviously if the hon Member has other aspects of the project to ask we would be very happy to give them information.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

I am grateful for that clarification that was the point that we were trying to establish to see whether in fact there had been extensions granted beyond the 90 days and the Chief Minister has confirmed that there have been and there will be, at least one, that was the point that we wanted to establish. The other issue is more specific and perhaps the Minister will be able to answer it, is he in a position to say whether the projects will contain one or two hotels as it is currently envisaged?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Again it relates to the content but I will try to give him the maximum amount of information consistent with the Government's negotiating interests. The Government's requirement is for a minimum of one and that is the position that Government adopted with all bidders and with all tenderers. That has been the Government's position from the outset and it has not changed.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is the preferred bidder expected or required to put cash up front and presumably this is not something he does not know so he is not going to find out from me putting the question because he must have already been told whether he is expected to put up cash or not?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The comment that the Leader of the Opposition adds namely that the 'preferred bidder' already knows the answer and therefore there is no reason not to put it in the public domain is actually not exhaustive as to the prejudice that it does to the Government's negotiating procedure because if the negotiations break down with the preferred bidder this information will be of very significant value to the second bidder, somebody with which we might wish to negotiate later would know what it was that we were holding out for with the unsuccessful bidder but given that the Government would not take a different position with the second bidder anyway the position is that the transaction envisages the payment of a substantial premium and that it envisages that a significant part of that premium will be payable upon the signing of the development licence agreement.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Government say whether this project is or perhaps will be linked to the project to expand Eastern Beach and Catalan Bay which was also put out to the tender at the time?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Beaches Project which is how the Government knows the project to which the hon Member has referred is a Government project and not a project that will belong to the successful bidder of the east side project. However, because for technical reasons it is desirable both as to cost and as to marrying one project and another it is preferable although not essential that they both be done at the same time and by the same party. One of the options available to the Government are to contract the successful bidder as a contractor to the Government not as a developer of the Beaches Project if he understands me. So, if that were to materialise in that way the successful bidder would be the developer of the east side project and the Government's contractor in respect of the Beaches Project pursuant to a separate contract.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In terms of this substantial sum that they are expected to put up if they are successful it is not that different people have been asked to put up a sum, we are talking about what the Government in its own mind has got as a figure that it is looking for or is it that it is like an auction and different people have said how much are you prepared to pay?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government are only negotiating with one party.

HON J J BOSSANO:

When it opened initially was it done like that, when they open bids is that what it was?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes. The bids that were submitted included the premium that they were willing to offer.

VISIT BY SPANISH TRAVEL JOURNALISTS

What was the cost of inviting eleven Spanish travel journalists to Gibraltar in November, what media did they represent, and what publicity has been obtained as a result of these visits?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The information sought is being submitted to the hon Gentleman in written format.

The 11 travel journalists were:-

|                        |   |               |
|------------------------|---|---------------|
| Pablo Ignacio Dalmases | - | Onda Cero     |

| Carolina Lopez         | - | Guia Del Ocio |
| D Jose Gil Franqueza   | - | De Viajes     |
| Cristina Sanchez       | - | Telva         |

| Victoria Hinojosa      | - | Preferente    |
| Pedro Aviles           | - | Jubilo        |

The cost of the familiarisation trip was £5,080.

An article has already appeared in Preferente. However, the other journalists are committed to publishing articles in the editions of their publications which come out for FITUR in late January 2004.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 408 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the answer passed on to me in writing by the Minister regarding the 11 Spanish travel journalists, the cost of the trip is given here as being £5,080 for the 11 journalists, can the Minister perhaps clarify whether these people came by air to Malaga or by rail or which mode of transport was used?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The delegation came down by train from Madrid.

WESTERN BEACH

Can the Government now confirm when they can expect to transfer the boats at Western Beach to the area of Coaling Island, something they promised to do nearly four years ago?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The transfer will take place when all relevant construction and marina related works are completed, following the successful conclusion of a reprovioning agreement with MOD. We expect that the move will take place this year.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 409 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Are we still talking about the fee that the Government expected to incur as regards the facilities that they need to provide?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Just before answering that question can I point out to the hon Lady that the premise and the factual content of her original question is false. Yes, it is false, Government did not promise to do anything four years ago they did not promise to transfer the boats to Western Beach in fact longer than four years ago the Government committed itself to transferring the boat owners to Coaling Island when the Coaling Island had been made available to the Government by the Ministry of Defence which is not the same thing as the way she has asked the question which suggests that Government have been default of a promise for four years having had the wherewithal with which to honour it and has simply chosen not to do so.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can Government not confirm that they reacted to a statement made by the boatowners themselves saying that they were expressing doubt as to its commitment and Government actually said in their statement that they were detailing the six years of negotiations?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

This is a Government statement is he saying that he does not believe that he issued the statement?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We issue lots of statements.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Therefore he is not accepting that his statement is correct he is saying that what he issued is false is that correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. What I am saying is that the hon Lady persists in saying things that are not true. Government have never promised to do anything regardless of other events happening which were outside of its control and the Government have made it perfectly clear from the outset that it was promising and committing itself to transfer the boatowners to Coaling Island as soon as the necessary land transfer deal could be negotiated with the MOD. Since it has only recently been possible to conclude the conditional aspect of that the promise has not been outstanding for four years as the question falsely suggests.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is the Chief Minister aware that for the second occasion in replying being just now he has said that the promises to transfer the boatowners to Coaling Island and would he like to rectify that before he accuses us of having put words in his mouth that he did not say?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Is the Leader of the Opposition seriously drawing a distinction between the boats and the boatowners?

HON J J BOSSANO:

Absolutely, unless he is saying that he is going to put everybody in the water in the Coaling Island presumably he is transferring the boats and not the boatowners.

HON F R PICARDO:

Perhaps the Chief Minister can agree that in the press release that he did issue and I am sure that he will accept that he did issue the Government referred to the legitimate and agreed expectations of the boatowners and that therefore it is not the Opposition that believe that he promised something but obviously clearly in his own statement also the boatowners.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. That line of logic is as illogical as the hon Lady next to him and the boatowners themselves understand where the problems have laid and they do not blame the Government they know where the problems are made so, the answer to the hon Gentleman is no he is entirely wrong and the Government have honoured its obligation and promised and commitment which was to proceed without delay with the transfer as soon as it was physically in a position to do so which is when the deal with the MOD has been done.

HON F R PICARDO:

Therefore the extent of the Government's promise is to try ..

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is really very difficult to debate with the hon Member of Opposite . I have less difficulty I have to say with people who should know better. The hon Member must know that when land belongs to the MOD and when Gibraltar would like to do something on that land it is a matter of reality of life that it cannot be done until the land is procured from the MOD. The MOD are not obliged to give up land they are entitled to negotiate and place conditions and demand price et cetera, et cetera and therefore if the hon Member cannot understand that Government cannot just expropriate land from the MOD and therefore requires to negotiate with the MOD he will not ask the question that he has just asked. Obviously the Government if it wants to do something on MOD land cannot do it until the land has been acquired by the Government. Yes, that is absolutely right could it possibly be any other way?

HON F R PICARDO:

Therefore the Chief Minister is agreeing with me that the full extent of the promise or commitment is that they would try to get the land back by negotiation and once they got it back then to effect the transfer but really the full extent of the commitment is only to try?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member's logic limitations are becoming quite apparent. The Government's commitment was to relocate the marina once the land had been obtained from the MOD for which the Government was then and has until recently been in negotiations with the MOD. That was the Government's commitment.

HON F R PICARDO:

I have never been in a public school debating society so I do not know whether it is common for them to call themselves illogical but certainly in the comprehensive education which I had it was uncommon when debating to accuse other people as the Chief Minister has done in this case but I thank him because he has proved the point that the hon Lady was trying to show, namely that the Government have been able to progress this matter not one jot.

THEATRE ROYAL

Can Government state whether the Theatre Royal will be managed by the Ministry of Culture?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Answer to Question No 415 of 2004

The tender of the Second Stage of the construction has not yet been awarded.

Answer to Question No 416 of 2004

The approved budget is £8.5 million.

Answer to Question No 417 of 2004

The total amount spent on the Theatre Royal to date has been £3,063,709.48.

Answer to Question No 418 of 2004

A total of £481,855.94 of EU money has been obtained as at 31st December 2003.

Answer to Question No 419 of 2004

Asbestos residue was found in the Theatre Royal in August 2002. A Clean Air Certificate was issued on 19th November 2002.

Answer to Question No 420 of 2004

It has not yet been decided how or by whom a new Theatre Royal would be managed. It would either be by the Ministry for Culture or, under its auspices.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 415 TO 420 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

If the finding of the asbestos was in August 2002 the Chief Minister is then confirming that this asbestos was found after the signing of the agreement with the owners, correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I cannot remember the date in which the agreement with the owners was signed but I do not suppose that we had access to the building to conduct construction works in it until after the date of the agreement so by that logic I suppose it must be as he says, yes, but unless he can remind me of the date if he has it...

HON S E LINARES:

The date of the agreement of was in 2001 for the Chief Minister's information and 2002 was the year asbestos was found, would it not have been the logic that before signing the agreement with the owners that inspections and at least surveys were done of the property?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No.

HON S E LINARES:

Are Government envisaging more money from the EU?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes.

HON S E LINARES:

Government said that they would be spending £8.5 million once completed, can the Chief Minister explain why they have budgeted £9.8 million according to the Estimates of Expenditure?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The budget is £8.5 million.

HON S E LINARES:

I beg to differ, it might be a budget that they originally thought of but the budget in the estimate is £9.8 million, is it because they are envisaging over-budgeting on the Theatre Royal?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member will have to agree the terminology here between the budgets in the context of the contractors and the approved budget in the Government's Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure. The budget that the Government have set themselves for the construction of the Theatre Royal is £8.5 million.

HON S E LINARES:

Is the cost of the project then £9.8 million?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, £8.5 million is the budget for the construction that is the amount of money that the Government have budgeted. The hon Member say that there is a different figure in the Estimates. I would have to find the explanation for that. I am telling him now what is the Government's budgeted figure, not budgeted in the sense of approved estimates but the amount of money that the Government have decided to spend in that respect is £8.5 million. If there is a higher figure there has to be an explanation of which I am not aware but it is not the fact that Government intends to spend that sum on the construction of the Theatre Royal.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Given that the item in the Improvement and Development Fund is described as Theatre Royal refurbishment, is it that by using the word 'construction' there are £1 million of other costs?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

If that is not an error and there is an explanation, a real explanation not a semantic one.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In the estimates before the House at budget time last year it was shown as an EU Objective 1 Project. Is the sum that has been given to the House today of the amount received from the European Union Funding all the European Union money or is there more to come?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I believe that there is more to come. There is a cut-off date from one programme to another. I think that there is more to come than that but I would not be able to give the hon Member details about that.

HON J J BOSSANO:

When this project was originally announced in the House was there not a need to complete certain works by a certain date in order to be able to get the money that was thought to be available initially, I am speaking from memory but I am pretty sure that dates were given in the House as to the work having to be started and completed by certain dates to get the initial sum that was being bid for under EU. Is this the same we have got or is it some thing else?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not have with me the detailed breakdown but I certainly recall that in order to maximise the amount that was available by a certain date materials were purchased in advance and they are in storage but as to sums of whether it was the full....I need to further .....

HON S E LINARES:

Is it still with the EU funding a 60/40 arrangement in which the EU will be paying 40 per cent and the Gibraltar Government 60 per cent as the Minister stated in answer to certain questions I made at the time?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not know whether as things now stand it will be 60/40 on the full amount of the project or whether some of the sums originally allocated to this project given the delays that it has suffered may have been diverted to other projects. I would have to find out whether there is still full funding available for 40 per cent of this project available from EU funds.

CIVIL SERVICE

Can Government state whether it is their policy not to allow Civil Servants to use Government telephones for private or charitable matters?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The political Government have no policy on this matter but assumes that telephones provided to Civil Servants, the usage of which is paid for by Government, are used for official Government business.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 421 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Are these instructions given to the Head of Department and therefore disciplinary action will be taken against members of the Civil Service if they do so or phone out privately?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have not suggested in my answer that there are any instructions.

HON S E LINARES:

I am actually asking him whether there has been?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have not given anybody any instructions and to my knowledge nor has any Minister.

THE HON J J BOSSANO

BUSINESS TAX STRUCTURE

Is it still Government's intention to introduce the new business tax structure on 1st July 2004?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

This depends on the EU Commission. Subject thereto, it is Government's intention to do so.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 423 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

I know that was the original position, obviously I am asking at this stage because there appears to be at least from the information that has come our way less than 50/50 chance that the decision will be forthcoming before the 1st July and therefore the question really is on the premise that would it still do it if the Commission had not replied before July perhaps that is what I should have said?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am aware of the statements, if he does not mind my saying so, rash statements made by the hon Members of the Opposition in their own manifesto in which I think they said that they would proceed with some sort of plan regardless. The hon Members need to bear in mind that there are two dimensions to this issue in terms of EU Legality. One relates to the nitty gritty of the measure itself and I suppose the hon Members or indeed the Government might be able to devise another tax scheme which was less likely to fall foul of the State Aid Rules on this one in terms of the content of the proposal. Indeed it might be possible to devise a scheme of revenue and or taxation which did not invoke breach of the taxation which did not involve conceivably breach of the State Aid Rules itself, it might be possible I am not saying that it is easy or that it is not severely disruptive. That by itself would not be the whole story because the issue now is not so much the nitty gritty or the content of the Government's proposal but rather this issue of regional selectivity which would apply to every and any other scheme other than the existing corporate tax laws of Gibraltar. What the Commission is saying in the regional selectivity issue although we are very confident that it would not end up being applied to Gibraltar but the regional selectivity principal applied to Gibraltar would preclude Gibraltar from having a tax system different to the United Kingdom's. So, we would not be arguing what we would like our tax system to be or whether my system is better than his or indeed of whether he can think of one that could be implemented sooner or later than the Government's, it would simply be a question of Gibraltar being compelled to have the same tax regime as the United Kingdom. That is the reason for the delay now not a consideration of the technical content of Gibraltar's notified tax regime. In that circumstance anything that were done and if things could be done, we could all say we could just take the risk and do this or that or something else, any such thing that were done without EU approval would be new as opposed to existing aid bear in mind the hon Member will recall the discussions we have had about the difference that we are only able to continue even with the existing exempt status regime because we took the Commission to court and won on the question of whether the exempt status regime was new or existing aid. They said it was new aid and therefore subject to immediate suspension and subject to recoverability if it was eventually found to be unlawful, we said it was at worst existing aid in which case we could continue it and if it eventually turned out to be unlawful not subject to recoverability. That is a vital distinction because anything that were done which would be new aid which would certainly include anything that were done now for July of next year would definitely new it was not existing at the time that we joined the Community, the Finance Centre could not live with because it could not be offered to clients with any degree of certainty that it would not have to be refunded. That the tax benefit derived for the customer would not have to be refunded to the Government under the recoverability rules and as if that were not bad enough the Commission could immediately say, "We are investigating it." And because it is new aid our decision to investigate it has immediate suspensory effect. So, not only could they cause one to suspend it immediately the day after one has introduced it but if they did not do that one would still be in danger of recoverability so about the only thing that might be doable by the 1st July regardless of EU Commission approval would be the abolition of corporation tax altogether on companies but to anything that involves a new tax law would definitely require notification and be subject to everything that I have just explained and I would like to withdraw what I have just said that even that could be done because to abolish corporation tax would be a breach of the principle of regional selectivity if it correctly applies to Gibraltar because having no corporate tax in Gibraltar is not the same thing as having the tax regime as the UK. The real issue now which is why I started by saying that I thought that the hon Members' manifesto commitment was rash because I think it failed to have due regard to the issue of regional selectivity which if it is sustained in it's application to Gibraltar would require us to have the same tax regime as the United Kingdom and that includes having no tax as well as having a lower tax so the option of doing things unilaterally on the 1st July attractive as it might at first sight seem works neither in law nor in delivering the certainty that the Finance Centre craves for.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Perhaps the Chief Minister will agree that those are not the arguments that he used the last time that we asked him about this. If he looks back he will find that his argument then was that because there had been slippage and because it was not manageable to do it in mid tax year and because it was wiser to wait for the decision to be made rather than do something and then find that it needed amending as a result of on-going discussions with the Commission, it was more prudent to delay it for another tax year and we in fact agreed with the Government that that was a sensible approach.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

At that stage the issue of regional selectivity was not at the fore. That was at the stage where the Commission was simply considering the merits of our proposal as against the State Aids Regulations. What has now happened is that they have stopped asking us for information on that and when I last went to Brussels sometime in the autumn of last year and asked, “is there any more information that you want on our reforms?” the answer was “No” in effect the matter is pending (a)Europe-wide discussion on regional selectivity. The regional selectivity debate is not specific to Gibraltar it is for the whole of the EU and all the sub-layers of Governments in Member States that have taxation powers. I said, “Can we not for these obvious reasons that Gibraltar is not a region of the United Kingdom can you not surely immediately accept that whether or not the Commission is right in its regional selectivity arguments with respect to everybody else, it obviously would not apply to Gibraltar, and the question now is whether we can persuade the Commission to extricate Gibraltar from the ring-fenced debate and that they should proceed with considering our notified proposal on its merits on the basis that the regional selectivity principle whatever may be its applicability elsewhere cannot apply to Gibraltar because Gibraltar is not a region of the United Kingdom.” There are many arguments that have been advanced to try and persuade the Commission of that most simply that if Gibraltar did not have its own tax laws, the United Kingdom's still would not apply to Gibraltar. Unlike all the other regions that whereby the taxing powers of the sub-set so to speak is in derogation of the National System so if there was not a subset derogation, for example, by the Landau in Germany or by Scotland the United Kingdom National System would then apply. There are many, many arguments. I would not want the hon Member to think that that is the only one there are many arguments but that is now the issue and that has come to the forefront because the Commission has in a sense the debate in the Commission about the relevance generally of the regional selectivity principal Europe-wide has arrived on the scene after our own notification but our own notification has now in effect been arrested by until somebody is willing to make the decision not to await the outcome of the regional selectivity discussion. That said, the 18 months that is allowed to the Commission to consider the scheme that we notified expires I am advised in very early February. That is the earliest time that the Government of Gibraltar could take any action for failure to act on the part of the Commission. In other words, it is entitled to 18 months and one cannot complain if within that 18 months period they have not said yae or nae but that 18 month period is about to expire.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Given that I think both sides of the House agree that the regional selectivity in Gibraltar's case is completely absurd there are many, many arguments that can be paraded against him and that the Chief Minister has said that the regional selectivity would apply to this or anything else that was not exactly the same as the UK it would obviously raise many more questions on the Finance Centre.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

If the hon Member could give way he would have heard me say that if the regional selectivity arguments succeeds the least of the casualties is the fate of the Government's tax reforms there are then massive Constitutional and economic implications which do not bear thinking about, which is I suppose, amongst others, the reasons why the United Kingdom is as persuaded and as firm and as robust as we are in this matter.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Therefore on that basis we ought to be looking at this on the premise that as he says if this was in fact a non-starter because the regional selectivity argument was deemed to be applicable we would be facing a completely different scenario with lots of other problems which would require this House to be addressing what it is doing here even if it does not even have the power to raise taxation. But is it the case then that the Government's position is that until the question of regional selectivity is decided one way or the other whether it is exclusively for Gibraltar or in the context of the whole EU it will not be able to move all the tax structure?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is an issue, not that issue but what the Leader of the Opposition has just said touches upon an issue about which the Government are about to embark on extensive consultation to the industry because there is a choice to be made here, either we accept to wait, to sit on our hands and await the decision which we hope will be that regional selectivity, Gibraltar can be excluded from the regional selectivity debate on the basis that at least in the meantime the Commission is playing ball and is not aggressively pursuing its exempt status investigation so that we are at least able to carry on with the existing regime, remember that these are two different dossiers, one is the notification of our new reform and a quite separate thing is the investigation into the legality of our exempt status regime. If we were to adopt.....

HON J J BOSSANO:

That would be as existing aid.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

...as existing aid but they could close it at any time and once they closed it, if they were to decide tomorrow as they could. That they have finished their enquiries on the exempt status and they have reached the conclusion that it is unlawful then it becomes unlawful regardless one has to stop. So, the choice is, to sit on our hands, not provoke the Commission and therefore continue to benefit from the status quo, it at least gives the industry some sort of product or adopt a more aggressive stance with the Commission with no guarantee that that will result in an approval of the tax scheme but with the risk that they might then close the exempt status regime and then we end up with neither. That is a tactical choice upon which the Government wishes to consult with the industry who would ultimately be, let me say that the people in the industry who are knowledgeable of these things and follow the case and who make enquiry with the Government tend to favour [INTERRUPTION]. It is economically quite important not just to the Finance Centre but to us all.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Do Government not agree that given the way he has put the choice what answer does he expect to get if he tells people, “Look you have got a choice, either one is let to do the business that one is doing because the Commission is not pursuing this very aggressively and we sit down on our hands and pray for the best possible result or else, we can choose to be more aggressive and provoke the wrath of the Commissioner and then one might finish up with nothing,” and if that is the choice I think it is a pre-foregone conclusion what the answer might be?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

But that is the reality. I hope that the Leader of the Opposition is not suggesting that we are somehow distorting the reality in order to obtain a particular result. That is the reality. In all the starkness that he has made it sound that is the reality and I think that the Government are duty bound to lay out the realities to the industry and to at least give them the opportunity to give an informed opinion to the Government.

HON J J BOSSANO:

At one stage it was being argued by the United Kingdom I am not sure where that argument is today but at one stage it was being argued right at the beginning that there was an obligation and there was this question of whether that political agreement or an enforceable obligation to roll back what we were already doing by 2005 and I think they were saying that in the context of the exempt company being existing state aid.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The leader of the Opposition is correct except as to the source. The source was not state aid at all, the source was the code of conduct, the Primorolo Group Assessment. Other than that he is entirely right. It is clearly understood by everybody that we cannot be pressed on that until we have something to replace it with and the United Kingdom understands the logic and fairness of that position and is therefore not pressing us on the roll back or even on the standstill.

HON F R PICARDO:

The Chief Minister has said that the industry is really presented now with a very stark choice whether or not we proceed aggressively against the Commission which may incur their wrath also relation to our existing Finance Centre product. In fact, our existing Finance Centre products because all our Finance Centre products will fall if the argument of regional selectivity obviously succeeds but I recall hearing the Chief Minister saying in more than one occasion that it would not come to this because there was always a plan B, is this time to start fine tuning our plan 'B'?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

This is the same point as the Leader of the Opposition asked me before. That was in the context of the merits of our notified scheme, in the context of regional selectivity there can be no plan 'B'.

NO 424 OF 2004

THE HON F R PICARDO

PACE

Do Government plan to implement the PACE in Gibraltar in whole or in part ?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The matter is under non-urgent consideration at technical levels within Government. The issue has not yet been submitted for Ministerial consideration. It may happen, but I could not give an indication when.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 424 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

The Police And Criminal Evidence Act attaches great importance to the rights of defendants held in custody, in the custody of the Police in particular before they appear before a Magistrate and I would urge the Chief Minister to keep this issue not so much in the back burner but at the forefront of his mind because at my understanding is that at all levels of law enforcement in Gibraltar, all parties in the Criminal Justice system, defendants, police officers, in the Chambers of the Attorney General, in the Chambers of defence council in Gibraltar, everybody would favour the implementation of PACE, the arguments advanced previously against implementation have usually related I believe to expense of implementation but already a lot of the expense has been incurred because the police have had the equipment that they would need and the PACE for recording et cetera, so will the Chief Minister undertake to try and keep this on a closer wicket than it does at the moment.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not wish that I would like to give the hon Member that undertaking as I think the hon Member, he may not know but certainly some of his Colleagues will know, detailed amendments to the Criminal Law and the Criminal procedure very rarely result from political policy of the Government. They tend to come up to the Government from technical levels. There is a joint working group here or the Law Revision Committee. I am not quite sure what the Committee is called. The Government have no political policy in favour or against this. If this comes up from the Law Revision Committee or from the joint working Committee that I believe has been established by the Attorney General to consider these things then the Government will give it consideration and I suppose that that consideration will be favourable if it is clear that everybody else in the legal fraternity supports it. There might be a short consultation process just to make sure that everybody did support it, it is unlikely that the Government would fail to bring and support legislation that everybody thought was a good idea but this is not something that the Government will do the running on or make a political commitment to the hon Member to give priority to or to pull or to push. If it comes up to us we will do it, if it enjoys, not everybody's support it does not have to be unanimous but at least that it enjoys sufficient groundswell of support. I do not want to get involved with the hon Member on a debate about which I suspect he may know more than me given that he has been in practice until very recently but I seem to recall that PACE in the United Kingdom has both its supporter and its detractors. In other words, that there are aspects of PACE which are thought to have worked very well but there are aspects of PACE, I do not know if this sounds right to the hon Member, which are criticised. I do not know whether that is the case or not.

HON F R PICARDO:

Yes. There are aspects of PACE which are criticised but none of the criticisms suggest that they should go back in the United Kingdom to the days pre-PACE but rather that PACE itself should be further improved. I am bringing to him a groundswell of support for implementation, I am putting to him that all Government's in Gibraltar should have a policy in relation to the rights of defendants in custody and I urge him to consider the issue perhaps before the next House.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have already declined to give him an undertaking to do so.

HON F R PICARDO:

The Chief Minister is right he declined, the undertaking I asked for was to consider very carefully whether they should do it. I have just asked him now to consider the issue again before the next House to see whether at that stage he might have a different view. He is right to say that having, I qualified after him, I do not know whether he qualified before or after 1984 I think one will find that most people who qualified after 1984 are almost to a man in favour of PACE.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

So, the young Turks all want it?

HON F R PICARDO:

I do not know about the Turks.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It seems to me that the second thing that he is asking seems to me more onerous than the first given that I was not willing to give him an undertaking to adopt it at all, to ask me to consider it and bring it back to the House at its next meeting or to consider it before the next seems to be like a tougher ask than the one that I had already said no to. What I will agree to do is to make enquiry of the Attorney General as to the status of the work of whichever committee is considering this to find out where the matter is. That is the most that I would contemplate doing.

HON F R PICARDO:

I am grateful for that, it is a good start.

NO 425 OF 2004

THE HON F R PICARDO

OESCO

Will Government state whether it has commenced or is considering commencing discussions or negotiations with OESCO and/or the MOD for the relocation of the OESCO power station?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Government are not involved in negotiations for the relocation of the OESCO Power Station.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 425 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Are Government considering commencing in such discussions or negotiations?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is not presently considering it, no.

HON F R PICARDO:

I think that the Chief Minister will agree with me that although there may be a dispute between Government and Opposition as to what the decibel level emanating from the OESCO power station is, there can be no dispute between us that those who live near that area because it has two power stations do feel very aggrieved at the fact that they have to live in that area and would benefit certainly from the relocation of the power station. If it were possible to relocate the power station with the agreement of OESCO and MOD hence the question about negotiation would the Government not be happy to be a catalyst to that?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

If it were to be so then many more hundreds of people would benefit from the relocation of the Waterport Power Station. The idea that one can relocate in a small place like Gibraltar all sources of noise and move them all away from residential areas, the only non-residential area that one could think of is Lathbury Barracks Europa Point area. The cost is enormous. The Government's approach at this stage is to focus not on relocation but on noise reduction. The Government accepts and indeed we have a manifesto commitment, as the hon Member may be aware, to reduce the noise and there are proposals and projects and plans in hand to do that. That is where the Government's focus now lies and not in the relocation of those stations which would necessarily take many, many years. Let me say that when the MOD talks of building a new power station it is talking about making the decision in the next three years and starting maybe six or seven years before the noise could be eliminated from the existing sources. The Government accepts its commitment to noise reduce through insulation leaving open the possibility if a Government of Gibraltar can afford it to relocate the stations but it would have to be both of them and the cost, I would caution the hon Member, in relocating the power stations are enormous. Bear in mind that the MOD, their power station is obsolete. The machinery has outlived its useful life and they have got to start afresh again anyway. For us, it would mean dismantling the plant that is presently in use, we cannot shut down whilst we do this, very difficult, very expensive, to relay all the main feeder cables up to the whatever position, rebuild the stations, manage the process of a continuation of supply whilst one moves machines physically, dismantle generators, reinstall them in the new plant, it is a massive, massively expensive exercise and I really do think that it is much more sensible to focus and even if it were possible it would take many more years than I think it is fair to make people wait in terms of noise reduction. Government have persuaded that the more sensible approach, the more realistic approach and the more deliverable approach both in terms of cost and timing is to invest money in the noise insulation of both the OESCO plant and indeed Waterport Power Station to ensure that the noise that emanates from them are completely not unobtrusive there will always be some noise but we understand that the technology now exists to very significantly reduce to levels that will not be regarded as extraordinary in Gibraltar.

HON F R PICARDO:

Best available technology which is where we were yesterday on Question No 11 of 2004 and Question No 12 of 2004 which were my questions asking what it was that the Government was going to do in order to reduce the noise levels emanating from the OESCO power stations below the recommended levels. The only answer that I got then was that the Government do not accept that there is a noise pollution problem because of the recommended levels at the OESCO power station.[INTERRUPTION]. I have absolutely no difficulty with us not having the dispute about who has the short memory and looking at Hansard once it appears but I would say this to the Chief Minister, he has showed himself to have obviously as much knowledge almost of electricity generation as the City Electrical Engineer and I appreciate that he is right when he says that it is a very, very, complex job to move a power station. He is absolutely right but what I was asking was could there not be some benefit without having to waive a magic wand that would enable us to spend millions in doing this in commencing a negotiating process with OESCO and the MOD to see whether it is in fact viable that OESCO move with the MOD because we would in any event be looking at the provision of new generators et cetera which are best available technology so that we achieve the movement out of the residential area of the OESCO plant and that is what I would urge the Chief Minister to consider. In relation to the Waterport Power Station the Chief Minister is right to say that it would be wrong for us only to act to benefit those in the south district in the area of the Alameda Estate, Jumper's et cetera and ignore all those who live in the Waterport area but the Waterport generating station belongs to the Government and it would be the Government involved in making the expense. If we could at least save the expense in relation to OESCO because we get them to move it that would make it easier as a result of negotiations for us to bear the cost of the other.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government did not say yesterday and it is not a question of shortness of memory and it is not a question of looking back at Hansard it is a question of the hon Member just being coherent and conducting debate in this House by reference to what people have actually said and not by reference to what he would like them to have said in order to enable him to illustrate whatever point he wishes to make at that precise moment. Government did not say there was no problem with noise in OESCO. If Government thought that there was no problem with noise in OESCO why would we have committed ourselves in our manifesto to introduce noise reduction measures? What Government said yesterday was "the Government do not accept that relevant EU Directives and local legislation relating to noise are not being complied with." That the law is not being broken but that does not mean that there is not a problem with noise. That is what the Government said and the hon Member really must learn that precision of language in Parliament is important and not to be dismissed with some quip about shortness of memory. Secondly, it is not true that our discussion in relation to this issue is contradictory to or somehow proves that he was right in his questions on best technology yesterday. The discussions about best technology yesterday related to generators and generation equipment. The new technology that I am referring to has nothing to do with the generators which he said should be best technology, these are silencers on factory flues and things of that sort, nothing to do with generation equipment, so if only he would listen to the nuances and differences between both the questions that he asks and the answers that he receives he would less often fall into the traps that he has already laid for himself quite frequently in the two days that we have been discussing. Thirdly, if he does not mind my saying this to him almost as a gratuitous comment, it really is extraordinarily unrealistic of him to think that it is okay to move the OESCO plant because OESCO would bear the cost of it and this is not the Government unlike Waterport where it would be the Government but OESCO can be asked to move the plant at its expense – OESCO operates under a contract in which it is entitled as a matter of contract to occupy that plant and indeed it's contract requires the Government at its expense to noise insulate it. The idea that in a contract for service in which the prices have been keenly negotiated and the rights and obligations of the parties are both fixed that we can turn round to OESCO and say, "Well, now spend £12 million in moving your plant somewhere else..." OESCO would turn round and say, "look Chief Minister thank you very much if you want me to relocate my plant this is how much it is going to cost you." The idea that they could pay for the cost out of their own pockets is not something that the Government could realistically hope to achieve in a negotiation and it is not the basis of the contract that exists.

HON F R PICARDO:

Let me start first with the question of the OESCO contract before I move on to the question of the insults about not being able to understand nuances et cetera. Is the Chief Minister telling this House that the OESCO contract has now in fact been renewed and that a new contract is in place because that is what it appears. He is saying, In relation to the nuances et cetera which the Chief Minister refers to and without stooping to his level and calling him all the sorts of names that he calls me can I ask him to refer to my questions because my questions really only related to the reduction of noise pollution below recommended levels. There was no reference there to legal levels and the other question, Question No 12 of 2004 very clearly stated what measures the Government had agreed with OESCO were to reduce levels emanating from the plant. That is all that I asked and then said, “Will this ensure that those levels are below the legal levels.” For me only to have got the answer that Government was satisfied that the noise levels were below the legal levels did not address the issues which I was trying to address and which very clearly in Question 11 of 2004 addressed on its own which were what the Government was going to do to reduce noise pollution levels without reference to the legal limits. So, having detected those nuances and entirely properly appreciated them I will be very grateful for what the Chief Minister has to say.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I fear that a debate with the hon Member could be absolutely interminable. What he has just said is not true. His question no 12 of 2004 asks the Government what he was going to do about reducing noise levels “..to those required for compliance with the relevant EU Directives and local legislation.”

HON F R PICARDO:

Point of order.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

For him now to say the question.....

MR SPEAKER:

Order. He has raised a point of order I have got to hear what the point of order is first.

HON F R PICARDO:

Point of Order. I think it is unfair for the Chief Minister to have parried my question that way. I think it is important that Hansard should show that my question actually says as follows, “Can Government state what are the measures that have been agreed with OESCO to reduce noise levels emanating from the plant, when they are expected to be introduced and is Government satisfied that these measures will bring down noise levels to those required for compliance with the relevant EU Directives and local legislation.” That is what my question says and the Chief Minister should not jump three quarters of it.

MR SPEAKER:

Okay the hon Member has made clear what the question was.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Precisely, so the question yesterday was implying that noise needed to be reduced to comply with relevant EU Directives and local legislation ergo at present they do not otherwise there would not be a need for measures to reduce it for it to comply to which he received a two part answer. Firstly, not exclusively, that the Government did not accept that there was a breach with the legislation and secondly that the Government had a manifesto commitment on noise reduction and we would make an announcement as to how and when that would be done when we were ready to do so. The suggestion now by the hon Member that he asked a question that was not based on legal compliance or non-compliance and that he only got an answer based on legal compliance and non-compliance is wrong on both counts. His question was linked to legal compliance or non-compliance but the answer that he got was not limited to legal compliance or non-compliance. It dealt with the question of legal compliance or non-compliance but then went on to deal with the matter outside the law by reference to what the Government's political commitment was. I do not recall calling the hon Member any names but if it gives him any pleasure in suggesting that I did call him names then so be it. As to his remark that, “Well it is clear from the hon Member's argument, is he saying now that the OESCO contract has been renewed?” Of course, the OESCO contract has been renewed the Government have made public statements saying that it has been renewed, there was a question in the House in which it has been answered saying that the OESCO contract has been renewed, the fact that the hon Member is unaware of all that does not entitle him to insinuate that some answer that I had given here suddenly lets the cat out of the bag that the OESCO contract was being renewed. It is a matter of public record that the OESCO contract was renewed back in October, November or earlier than that. The hon Member should therefore stick to the facts and if he is not aware of the facts which is not surprising.....

HON F R PICARDO:

Point of Order.

MR SPEAKER:

I will not allow it. I am only going to allow one more question and one more answer.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have finished.

MR SPEAKER:

One more question, one more answer.

HON F R PICARDO:

I think I should end this because I think that we are moving away substantially from the original question. One of the things that the Minister has said is that in questions in this House he has already made clear that the OESCO contract had been renewed. In the last House in answer to Question No 118 of 2003 which was as follows, “Have Government now taken a decision on whether or not they will renew the OESCO contract for the supply of electricity which expires in 2004? The answer was this and it was given then by the Hon and Gallant Mr Britto, “These matters are still under consideration and no final decisions have yet been taken by the Government.” I leave my Hon Friend’s recollections in light of that.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government have issued press releases, interviews have been given informing the general public that the OESCO contract has been renewed. Indeed if he had read the GSD’s manifesto at the last election it is stated in the manifesto that the OESCO contract has been signed and has been extended.

TEPs

Will the Chief Minister confirm that the Government are monitoring developments in the on-going difficulties being experienced by a large number of Gibraltarian investors in "TEP" plans who have found that they have lost substantial amounts of monies they invested?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Answer to Question No 426 of 2004

The Government are not accountable or answerable for the behaviour of the financial Services Commission. However, the Government have every confidence that the FSC operates professionally and properly. If the premise of the question is factually correct then Government are happy to assume that there is a good and proper reason why the Financial and Services Commission have decided not to make the report available.

Answer to Question No 427 of 2004

I cannot confirm that I will pass on to investors any information that I receive. That must depend upon the source of the information, the basis upon which it is provided to me and the propriety and appropriateness of my making it available.

Answer to Question No 428 of 2004

The Government are obviously taking an interest and monitoring developments.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 426 TO 428 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

The first part of that intervention is absolutely right. The Government are not accountable for the actions of the Financial Services Commission which is an independent statutory body but how is the Government going to monitor developments and how is the monitoring going to see itself in action favourable to the investors.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government are not in a position to take action favourable or disfavourable to the investors. In so far as the case raises regulatory issues the Government have no jurisdiction in regulatory issues. As one knows it is exclusively the jurisdiction of the Financial Services Commissioner and to the extent that it raises legal claims and counter claims it is a matter for the courts and not for the Government. The way in which the Government are monitoring it is that the Government receives from time to time reports from the Financial Services Commissioner, about how it is going. The Minister who is now myself with responsibility for financial services gets very brief overviews of how particular cases are going and secondly the company itself chooses to keep the Government informed of particular developments or things of that nature.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In terms of the last answer is the Government then saying that it is being informed by the company, because it chooses to do it but it is being informed by the company?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. There is a difference between being informed by the company which implies of everything fully and comprehensively which is not the case and being told whatever it is that the company wishes to tell us. If a representative of the company asks for a meeting with the minister with the responsibility for financial services to inform him of certain matters then the minister does that. I have not yet done that but I know that my predecessor did do it. That is not being kept informed because one is informed of what is communicated to one in that meeting but one has no way of knowing whether that is the whole story or not. One just hears the information being communicated and the views that company itself expresses to the Government and that is the extent.

NO 429 OF 2004

THE HON F R PICARDO

FINANCIAL SERVICES COMMISSION

Can the Chief Minister state what action, if any, the Government proposes to take to ensure that obligations imposed by legislation on licensees under the Financial Services Ordinance 1989 and 1998 (in particular rules relating to the regulation of advertisements for Financial Services products and rules requiring licensees to be covered by professional indemnity insurance) are effectively enforced and policed?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The issues alluded to in the question are matters for the Financial Services Commissioner who is the authority responsible for policing and enforcing the Ordinance. If he requires and seeks assistance from the Government, we shall, of course, consider it sympathetically. He has not yet done so, nor do I expect him to need to do so.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 429 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

The issues that we are dealing with here are that certain obligations imposed on licensees by the Ordinance or as conditions on licences are sometimes not complied with and as the Chief Minister has said, the Financial Services Commission is an independent body for which he is not answerable but it is "a creature of statute" and this House through statute cannot, and I will hesitate to use the word, interfere, but can legislate to ensure that the Commission acts in a particular manner and what I am trying to get to at and I am sure that the Hon Gentleman will agree with me is that this House could, through legislation, improve the Financial Services Ordinance to ensure that there is a mechanism in place to check more effectively the existing rules as to PI cover and advertising, is that something that the Government will now consider?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The Government will not now consider it nor do Government consider that there is a need to do so. If the hon Member believes that the Financial Services Commissioner is not properly discharging his duties then he should write to the Financial Services Commissioner and urge him to do so. This House has already legislated the Regulatory Regime in Gibraltar which imposes certain obligations on the Financial Services Commissioner. The legislation of this House gives powers, responsibilities, rights and obligations to whomever this House has chosen to give it. This House has not chosen to give those rights and responsibility to the Government, it has chosen to give them to the Financial Services Commissioner. So, the Government have no responsibility in the context of to quote him, "A creature of statute" which the statute has not bestowed on the Government and it would be, there was an issue at the time in 1993 when these Ordinances were passed and I do not think anybody would have voluntarily wanted to have given control of the Financial Services Regulatory Process in the way it was done. We all understand the historical backdrop in which it occurred but that happened and that is the legislation as it is. Government have not only no responsibility in the area, it has no means of deploying any executive authority in the area. It has no enforcement powers, it has no administrative responsibilities and I would not wish any part of my answer to be interpreted as accepting, which I do not, any implied criticism which the hon Member may be making of alleged shortcomings in the way the Financial Services Commissioner discharges his obligations. I do not suppose that he would accept that he is in breach of any obligations. If the hon Member feels that he is he might wish to write to him and point them out to him and seek to persuade him to do things differently if that is what the hon Member believes the Financial Services Commissioner should do.

HON F R PICARDO:

There is no question of legislation being "as it is" as the Chief Minister has said and us not having in this House any remedy in that respect. Legislation is as it is whilst this House allows it to be "as it is". It is always subject to amendment in this House. The issue that this question gets at is the question about advertisements and professional indemnity cover and in particular in relation to advertisements, where advertisements have appeared which are not in keeping with the relevant Ordinance and where professional indemnity cover has not been in place in relation to more than one company operating in Gibraltar under licence of the Financial Services Commission although that is a requirement, we in this House have to ask ourselves whether in 1993 and the Chief Minister was not in Government then thus not responsible for the legislation passed then, whether the statutory framework that we put in place was sufficiently clear in those particular respects and that is why what I am asking the Chief Minister and ask to address now is whether Government will consider in these two very distinct areas looking at the Ordinance to make sure that there is effective enforcement and policing of the provisions as to advertisement and the provision as to professional indemnity cover. Where necessary giving the Financial Services Commissioner not a rap on the knuckles but more power to enforce obligations in that respect.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It seems to me that the hon Member is now raising a wholly different question . The hon Member is now for the first time suggesting that there may be a lack of clarity in the 1993 Ordinance which could be eliminated through clarifying or amending legislation and he is suggesting for the first time that the Financial Services Commissioner lacks sufficient powers to enforce the legislation that he is charged with enforcing. Those are wholly novel to the exchange that we have had until this supplementary. I have to say to the hon Member that if, which I do not believe to be the case, the Financial Services Commissioner shares the hon Member's view he has never found it necessary or appropriate or helpful or desirable to express those views to the Government with a view to asking the Government to strengthen his powers by amending the legislation.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can I therefore ask that the Chief Minister consider an amendment to the Financial Services Ordinances of 1989 and 1998 to the effect that copies of the professional indemnity cover notes required to be in place are provided to the Financial Services Commissioner periodically and annually so that in that way the Financial Services Commissioner shall receive a copy of the cover note and second that copies of advertisements must on pain of licences being suspended be provided to the Financial Services Commissioner before they appear. There is already provision in the Ordinance for adverts to be provided to the Financial Services Commissioner before they appear. I believe that they have fallen into misuse that is why I believe that the rule should be made mandatory upon pain of licences being suspended if they are not.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, the Government will not propose that or any other amendment to the Ordinance unless and until the Financial Services Commissioner makes submissions to the Government suggesting that any such amendments are needed by him.

HON F R PICARDO:

My final point therefore would be, "Would the Chief Minister take up those points with the Financial Services Commissioner now that I have raised them in this House?"

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The Chief Minister will not. The Financial Services Commissioner is perfectly capable of himself bringing to the attention of the Government any deficiencies in the legislation which he has identified and which he would like the Government to correct or remedy through legislation. When he has done so, and if he does so, the Government will then contemplate it. Government are not going to go around chasing the Financial Services Commissioner for advice on legislative proposals for which the Government are not aware that there is any need. What I suggest the hon Member does if he is as exercised as he appears to be by this point is that he writes to the Financial Services Commissioner pointing out to him that in his, that is the hon Member's view, the legislation is defective in respects that he might wish to set out in the letter. If the Financial Services Commissioner agrees with the hon Gentleman the Financial Services Commissioner will then and to the extent that he agrees make submissions to the Government and that is how the Government proposes legislative amendments in these and all matters.

HON F R PICARDO:

Is in fact.....

MR SPEAKER:

One more, the hon Member said it was the last one.

HON F R PICARDO:

So, is the Chief Minister in fact saying that it is not the merit of the proposal for the amendment of legislation but the source of the proposal for the amendment of legislation that matters?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Chief Minister has made what he is saying perfectly clear and has no intention of repeating it again.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Would the Chief Minister not agree that if at some point we provide funding for the Commission from public funds we are entitled to question whether there are customers of Gibraltar's financial services that express dissatisfaction with the way their investments have performed on the basis that they feel that the level of supervision in terms of the accuracy of what is being sold is not what it ought and expect it to be and that if we are using the taxpayers money to help out the Commission to carry out the role we are also entitled to question when there are constituents that bring their concerns to us?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Absolutely. All Members of this House have that right regardless of and whether or not there are public funds being used to support the costs of the Financial Services Commission. The Financial Services Commission is a 'creature of statute' as the hon Member next to the Leader of the Opposition likes to call it and that is enough to give this House the right to express concerns. All I am saying is that the concern with which the hon Member has every right to express and the account that he may have a right, I am not sure whether he has the right to demand an account, but I would certainly support his right to seek an account, should be sought from the party that is statutorily responsible for it namely the Financial Services Commission rather than to seek to make the Government accountable for something which it is not accountable, in respect of which it has not authority or powers. I fully support the hon Member. On the same basis as I discuss these things with the Financial Services Commissioner even though I have no statute I suppose the hon Member is just as free to bring things to the attention of the Financial Services Commissioner and ask for his views or explanation. Whether or not the Financial Services Commissioner responds in the way the hon Member would hope and expect is another matter but I would certainly support his right as an elected representative of investors that may be affected by the acts or emissions of be it an investment firm or be it the Commission itself, I would recognise that he has as much right as any other Member of this House as an MP so to speak to write to the Financial Services Commissioner. The issue is whether these points are correctly addressed at the Government or whether they ought to be made directly and I think they ought to be made directly to the Commissioner.

HON F R PICARDO:

In relation to Question No 431 of 2004 the answer kindly provided by the Chief Minister, the following 4 (four) persons made up the Gibraltar Government delegation at the Gibraltar As A Centre For Funds Conference:

|                        |   |                                                  |
|------------------------|---|--------------------------------------------------|
| The Hon Keith Azopardi | - | Minister for Trade Industry & Telecommunications |
| James Tipping          | - | Finance Centre Director                          |
| Guy Canessa            | - | Marketing and Liason Officer                     |
| Maite Mir-Parody       | - | Personal Assistant                               |
| Brian Morris           | - | Investment Services Supervisor – FSC             |

Is that another one of the nuances I have to be careful about, they say four but there are five or should I simply take it that I should not count Mr Morris as a part of the Government delegation?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It would really be a matter of enormous Parliamentary import that the Government should say four and then proceed to list five I suppose that would be an act of gross misbehaviour on the part of the Government. If that is the level of issue that the hon Member wishes to raise I suppose that we have to deal with it. It is in fact the second version and that is that Mr Morris whilst attending in support of Gibraltar is not part of the Gibraltar Government delegation because he is a member of the Financial Services Commission. It should have said four persons, the Government delegation accompanied by Mr Morris and then the hon Member would not have been misled.

HON F R PICARDO:

I did not mean to make a frivolous point I wanted to establish that in fact as a Member of the statutory body which is 'a creature of statute' he was not there as part of the Government of Gibraltar which is a serious and important point.

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Since 7th July 2003, the Financial Services Commissioner has received five notifications of an intention to provide investment services on a cross-border basis in other EU Member States. As the hon Member I was going to say presumably knows, clearly the way he has formulated his question he clearly does not know, one does not need to apply for passporting one simply needs to notify an intention to do so.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 433 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Would this provision of investment services in another Member State be something that would require a presence in the other Member State or is it something that would be done from Gibraltar?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It can be both. One can establish a presence and one can directly market into the market from outside. In either case I believe one simply notifies ones Home Regulator of ones intention to do so. The Home Regulator then has to pass on that notification to the Regulator in the country that one has given notice that one intends to perform in and that is why the postboxing arrangements were necessary in this context for that transfer of notification and then one is just allowed to do it. One does not have to wait for any permission from the foreign Regulator. It is a process of notification, it is both for presence and for direct marketing.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it exactly the same whether it is one or the other? I was under the impression that there was more to it if one was actually establishing a presence than if one was just selling the product.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I believe it is one and the same thing so that one can establish even establish a branch as indeed there are some in Gibraltar. I believe there are one or two branches in Gibraltar of organisations that have passported in and they are regulated by their home regulator and not by the others.

CAPTIVE INSURANCE CONFERENCE

Can Government state what the cost to the government was of attending the 18th Annual Captive Insurance Conference and exhibition in Burlington, Vermont from 5-7 August 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Two persons made up the Government delegation to the 18th Captive Insurance conference and exhibition in Burlington, Vermont on the dates that the hon Member has mentioned. They were Mr Guy Canessa , the Marketing and Liaison Officer and Darion Figueredo, Communications and Technology Development Officer.

The costs were £9,520.00 in total.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION TO NOS 434 AND 435 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

The total of £9,520 seems like a very high figure for two individuals to spend over a period of only three days, can the Chief Minister provide a greater breakdown of how that figure is made up?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member should not assume that it was just three days. If the conference is between the 5th and the 7th I suppose there might have been a need to travel on the 4th and return on the 8th but in any case as the hon Member is particularly interested and I do not suppose that there is any suggestion that the money was spent on anything else the information I have is as follows:

|                                |                  |

CATEGORY 2 STATUS

Can Government state how many individuals are registered with Category 2 status in Gibraltar as at 31st December 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The information the hon Member has requested is on the attached sheet which I now hand to him. As to the number of category 2 individuals that there were as at the 31st December 2003, the answer is 155.

Answer to Question No 437 of 2004

The records kept by the Finance Centre show that a total of 378 individuals have been registered as Category 2 or High Net Worth individuals since the status was first introduced.

The yearly registrations are as follows:

| YEAR               | REGISTERED |
|--------------------|------------|
| 1992               | 7          |
| 1993               | 14         |
| 1994               | 28         |
| 1995               | 15         |
| 1996               | 23         |
| 1997               | 44         |
| 1998               | 34         |
| 1999               | 34         |
| 2000               | 41         |
| 2001               | 46         |
| 2002               | 43         |
| 2003               | 49         |
| Grand Total | 378 |

But of this total 124 individuals had their certificates revoked or returned.

The current active yearly registrations are therefore as follows:

| YEAR               | REGISTERED |
|--------------------|------------|
| 1992               | 2          |

| 1994               | 15         |
| 1995               | 9          |
| 1996               | 10         |

| 2001               | 37         |
| 2002               | 39         |

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

According to the best statistics available to us, as at 30th June 2003 the insurance industry in Gibraltar included 28 employers with a total of 200 registered employees of which 130 were Gibraltarian, 58 were other British, 1 Czech, 1 Irish, 1 Moroccan, 1 Portuguese and 8 Spanish. Can Government state how many persons were employed in the banking sector in Gibraltar, giving a breakdown by bank and nationality (showing how many are Gibraltarian), as at each month of the year 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Monthly figures are not available at such short notice. However, as at 31st December 2003 the banking sector included 17 employers with a total of 649 registered employees, 452 of which were Gibraltarians, 105 other British, 15 Danish, 5 Dutch, 4 French, 10 Germans, 3 Irish, 1 Italian, 1 Maltese, 3 Moroccan, 1 Portuguese, 36 Spanish, 1 Swedish and 12 Swiss.

As at 31st June 2003 the banking sector included 17 employers with a total of 652 registered employees breaking down as 448 Gibraltarians, 111 British, 16 Danish, 5 Dutch, 6 French, 8 Germans, 4 Irish, 1 Maltese, 3 Moroccans, 38 Spanish and 12 Swiss.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 441 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

In answer to the first part the Chief Minister said that this was as far the most reliable source, is it the industry itself or is it open contracts in the ETB or some other source?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The source is the ETB and although therefore it is subject to the caveat the figures might be slightly higher than is real because of unregistered deregistrations. The information that I have is that actually the banking and insurance sector are quite good at compliance so there is a high level of confidence. If the hon Member were to ask me this question about bars or shops then the level of inaccuracy by reason of unregistered vacancies or deregistration would be much higher. So, there is a high level of confidence in these figures but it is still subject to any unnotified cessations.

OFFICE SPACE IN GIBRALTAR

Can the Chief Minister state what plans, if any, the Government have to address the concerns of professional and business representative bodies as to the shortage of office space in Gibraltar?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Answered together with Question No 445 of 2004.

NO 445 OF 2004

THE HON F R PICARDO

OFFICE SPACE IN GIBRALTAR

Can Government state whether it intends to monitor the cost of rental of office space in light of the current shortage?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The Government are confident that the private development market will respond to any shortage in supply that may develop for office space in Gibraltar. In the meantime, I hope that the hon Member will acknowledge that any shortage of office space that he has identified is the result of the Government's successful management and growth of the economy and also inconsistent with his party's frequently expressed pessimism about the performance of the Finance Centre Government have no specific plan to monitor rents because they have no intention of controlling them.

SUPPLEMENTARY ANSWER TO QUESTION NOS 444 AND 445 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

I will not acknowledge the fact that there is a dearth of office space as anything to do with us being wrong about the Government's economic policy. In fact, will the Chief Minister agree with me that putting a hospital in an office block proves (a) that one does not have enough people coming round to take up offices when one has lots of them and (b) that once one has taken the majority out of the market one then finds oneself in a situation when even the business that we are getting these days does not find a place in which to work.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have some difficulty following the hon member's point. There are still vacant office spaces in Gibraltar but to the extent that there is a shortage it is because demand is growing. If demand for office space in Gibraltar is growing it must be because the economy is growing and if the economy is growing unless the hon Member thinks that the Government have nothing to do with the success of the economy then it has to be because of the successful management and growth of the economy. So, I do not see why the hon Gentleman has to be so ungenerous as not to recognise that the growth of the economy is down to the Government. After all he blames Government when things go wrong, surely he should have the magnanimity to acknowledge that when something is going right it must be the Government who can claim the credit for it. The answer is the same, Government do not intend to monitor rents. Whatever the rents might rise to be I do not think that Government thinks it is appropriate to exercise any form of control over business rentals in the private sector particularly in the Finance Centre.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it not the case that in commercial properties the rates follow the rents and move with the market, so, is it not a fact that if the rents are going up the Government itself can monitor it without having to do anything because it is reflected in higher income from rates on business premises?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, eventually that information comes through. Subject to the poundage and ten twelfths and that calculation the higher rents go the higher the income to the Government from rates. It does not enable the Government unless it does a rate payer account by rate payer account, it does not enable the Government to follow how much rents are going up in individual properties unless one analyses each net annual value for rating purposes. So, I did not say that the Government did not have the means to monitor it. I said that the Government was not monitoring it because it was pointless. What is the point of monitoring something if one does not intend to do something about it regardless of the results of the monitoring.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I would have thought that the Government would be interested in knowing what was happening in the economy without necessarily requiring to intervene, control or introduce rent freezes. [INTERRUPTION] We know that Government believe that we are growing at 6 per cent and that that is enough and we will know whether that is eventually reflected when the figures of the economy eventually come out. Surely the Government knows that in the way that GDP is calculated, rental income is a component of GDP so presumably if rents are going up that will be reflected in the growth rate of the GDP. From the breakdown that Government have provided in the last report they published, would Government agree?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government do not think that 6 per cent is enough in the sense that Government would not want it to be more and indeed it might be more post 2001. Government have said that 6 per cent is a perfectly respectable rate of growth particularly if it is sustained year on year. Of course it is possible occasionally to get much higher rates of growth but not to sustain year on year at extraordinary rates of growth. Of course, if there is a one off development whilst that project is closed to the economy there will be a bleep upwards. It is not that Government says, "Ah, the economy is growing at 6 per cent and we can sort of sit on our laurels and not try and generate greater levels of economic growth," of course Government tries to generate greater levels of economic growth and indeed we think we are generating probably greater levels. The figures we show and I hope that they will be shown to me and I will be able to publish them soon. Certainly annual growth rates of 12 per cent which I think is what the Leader of the Opposition was promising on a sustained basis is in our view not realistic. One might get 12 per cent for one year or two but on a sustained basis Government do not think that it is sustainable.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Do Government have information on unoccupied commercial premises as a result, for example, of the information that they get on rates and is there an indication there of the level of unoccupied property coming down?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not have the information and it is not reported to me in that way. As to whether the information is available I cannot be certain but I think it probably can be available because I think the rates are then payable under a different section and I am sure that the LPS computer charges the amount collected to a particular section. There must be a total whether it can be broken down into individual premises. If the total is available then presumably the computer can report anything that went into calculating that total. The information is not presented to Ministers in that way.

FINANCIAL SERVICES OMBUDSMAN

Will the Government, in light of the serious financial loss and associated suffering occasioned to a large number of Gibraltarians and overseas investors in the past year, now consider creating a body with jurisdiction similar to that of the Financial Services Ombudsman in the UK (and elsewhere in the EU) to deal with complaints relating to licensees under the Financial Services Ordinance 1989 and 1998, and with the power to provide redress to complainants?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Government are considering this matter.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 446 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

I am sure the Chief Minister is aware that under the provisions of Section 54 of the 1989 Ordinance there was provision for the making of regulations dealing with compensation and that no regulations had in fact been made thereunder. Whilst the issue of the Ombudsman is under consideration can the Government indicate whether it will be moving regulations under this section of the Ordinance?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am not aware of what those regulations provide but certainly Government have no intentions, the matter is not in hand and as far as I am aware is not even under consideration.

HON F R PICARDO:

In relation to the first answer given by the Chief Minister at what stage is the Government's consideration of this issue of the Financial Services Ombudsman and what more can the Chief Minister share with the House as to the type of creature that the Government are considering creating?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I cannot give the hon Member any details as to the statutory framework because I do not think that a lot of work has been done on it but certainly the issue has been consulted on, the Financial Services Commissioner has expressed his views, I know that he has discussed it with the previous Minister with responsibilities for financial services, that the Ombudsman is keen because at the moment as there is no Ombudsman all the complaints go to him and it is not really his job unless the complaint raises regulatory issues. Very often it does not raise regulatory issues it just raises things such as, "I went to such and such a bank and they kept me waiting in the queue for three quarters of an hour." That is not a regulatory issue but it would be the sort of thing that a Financial Services Ombudsman might be interested in. So, the Financial Services Commissioner is keen, the Government are not opposed provided this is not another body that has to be maintained at taxpayers expense. Provided the costs of operating the Financial Services Ombudsman is borne by the industry by some means or other not yet thought about still less decided the Government are not opposed and actually thinks that it is a good idea. I often receive letters in my office of people complaining about the treatment that they may have received. At the end of the day what can one do. The Government cannot get involved in quality of service issues. I think it is a good idea but there will be costs attached and the Government's present thinking is that those costs should be borne somehow by the industry itself.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can I urge the Chief Minister in that process of consultation as I will not be consulted further than I get a chance to put my little grain of rice in this particular forum, that if we are to have an Ombudsman we should not fall into the trap of having an Ombudsman again with no teeth and that this particular Ombudsman should have the power, as I say in my question, to provide redress and not simply to make recommendations like the present Ombudsman. The Financial Services Ombudsman would not be dealing with Government so the Chief Minister would have nothing to fear from him but the complainants to him would have the ability if the Ombudsman had teeth to also attain redress from him which I think is the important aspect of the question.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am not sure that I could consult the hon Member in his professional capacity since I am led to believe that he is no longer the partner of any firm and that he is now a consultant.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will the Chief Minister give way. I am actually the one and only partner of Picardo and Co.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I see. Well, I understand that there is some sort of special consultancy arrangement with his ex-firm, I hope that that works very well. Speaking for myself I have never understood why people have to leave law firms simply because they are in politics but still that is a matter for the law firms themselves. Nor can I accept the premise of his question and to an extent the remarks that he has made that the Public Services Ombudsman lacks 'teeth'. He very much does not lack 'teeth'. He has very, very, very wide ranging powers to require production to him of almost every piece of Government paper. Indeed all pieces of Government paper that I do not certify, the public interest requires not to be sent to him. I have never exercised that power and I cannot envisage circumstances in which I might have to but I suppose they might. If by not having 'teeth', somebody who has the power to investigate, summon witnesses, require the entire public administration to open its files to him can hardly be said to lack 'teeth' unless by lacking 'teeth' what he means is that he is not a super privy council. So, that when he has formed a view about something he does not have the power to impose his view and require and the elected Government of the day to act according to his view. That would not be to give him 'teeth' that would be to elevate the Public Services Ombudsman, somebody that the Chief Minister designates to a position much more powerful than the combined power and authority of the elected Government and for that matter the elected Opposition in its parliamentary capacity as well. I am not aware of any Public Services Ombudsman anywhere in the democratic world, by which I do not suggest that they do have those powers in the non democratic world but rather that they do not exist at all, that has the power to cause his judgements and his views to be acted on. It is generally accepted in the Ombudsman's model which the Leader of the Opposition will remember is a Swedish creature that the Ombudsman's powers are limited to the powers of persuasion through the publicity that statute entitles him to give to the criticisms that he chooses to levy at the public administration and it forms no part of the role of an unelected Ombudsman that he should have the power to order the elected Government to do this or that if it is contrary to the policy of the Government. So, I do not accept that the Public Services Ombudsman lacks teeth nor am I aware in terms of the Financial Services Ombudsman what sort of powers they normally get into the UK. I would expect our Financial Services Ombudsman when we have one to be the same sort of creature with the same sort of powers and roles as is the norm in the UK which is what we did with our Public Services Ombudsman. We got all the legislation from comparable territories, we based ours on Malta, New Zealand and Ireland primarily to make sure that we were doing more or less what everyone was doing and I assume we will do the same for the Financial Ombudsman too.

HON F R PICARDO:

As the Chief Minister has said the Ombudsman has the power to investigate, summons witnesses and to obtain copies of pieces of papers to look at files. That is already a power which the Financial Services Commission has in relation to all of the issues which the complainant in my question would be bringing before the Financial Services Ombudsman and that is why I think it is important that we do concentrate on providing an Ombudsman that is able to provide redress and in that respect the Chief Minister has spoken of a Super Privy Council. Well, then so be it. In fact, recently in the United Kingdom the Financial Services Ombudsman in its capacity as a Super Privy Council made an order against one particular bank where it ordered them to pay a substantial amount back to investors in a product that had been improperly advertised and I would urge that that be the level of power to provide redress that any creature of statute designated as a Financial Services Ombudsman has when the Chief Minister brings legislation to this House to that effect.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

As I say, I have said that I was not aware the sort of powers wielded by Financial Services Ombudsman. I am familiar with the powers wielded by Public Services Ombudsman because we had to research it at the time that we created ours. I have also said that I am not aware because I am not familiar with the powers that are held by Financial Services Ombudsman but I have said that we would expect ours to have the same power. I presume that if the Financial Services Ombudsman has power to make awards it is limited to loss flowing from regulatory failures rather than contractual situations which are still presumably the province of the courts. We will find out when we get there.

TAX EXEMPT COMPANIES

How many tax exempt companies have terminated their tax exemption certificates in 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Government continue to approve the granting of new tax exempt certificates. There were 1,022 new tax exempt certificates issued in 2003. A total of 989 companies have terminated their tax exempt certificates in 2003.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 448 TO 450 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

In relation to the answer to Question No 448 of 2004, the position as to the continuance of the issue of the certificates is as we discussed earlier in relation to the other question, that until the Commission proactively requires us to stop we shall continue to issue them unless we have a different system in place is that right?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes. If the hon Member had seen any of these recently he will see that they are all now issued under cover of a letter advising that the Government intends to reform company taxation in Gibraltar and that the validity of the certificate ends when the said reforms are implemented.

HON F R PICARDO:

Therefore there is no other date on the horizon apart from that which might be set by the Commission by which we have no alternative but to stop. There is no long stop date that we have to be careful of because of the existing aid provisions. We are really in the hands of the Commission in that respect. There is no objective long term date.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The only other date that might intervene is the code of conduct roll back date. This is one of the harmful tax measures identified by the Primorolo Group and as I said earlier in answer to a question by the Leader of the Opposition it is currently understood by the UK and accepted by them that we cannot be expected to roll back the exempt regime until we can replace it with another one. We cannot be without a regime but if that were to change then that is the only other date that might intervene on the horizon that the hon Member has painted.

QUALIFYING COMPANIES

Can Government state how many of the qualifying companies which remained as at the end of December 2003 are considered by it to be active or trading?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

As far as our records show during the year 2003 no qualifying company relinquished its status. As far as we can ascertain the majority of registered qualifying companies remain active.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 453 AND 454 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Having had the opportunity of going back to the answer to Question Nos 330 and 331 of 2003 where the answer given by the Chief Minister's predecessor as Minister for Financial Services was White Rock Insurance Gibraltar PCC Limited is the only Protected Cell Company that is formed in Gibraltar up to the end of 2002. I suppose that explains the whole of the answer to those four questions. The answer to all of them is one.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Is the hon Member inviting me to repeat the answer that I have just given him? One is the answer that I have just given him.

HON F R PICARDO:

What I am inviting is comment on the fact that there is one Protected Cell Company in Gibraltar, there was one Protected Cell Company in Gibraltar, there is no application for any others and none have gone. It appears that one is the number that came and that is it.

NO 457 OF 2004*THE HON F R PICARDO*FINANCE CENTRE DIRECTOR

What conferences, seminars or events does the Government expect that the Finance Centre Director, or any Member of his staff, will be attending in the next six months, by whom will he be accompanied and what is the expected cost of attendance at each event?

ANSWER*THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

One of the principal functions of the Finance Centre is marketing and the promotion of Gibraltar as a Financial Services Centre. As such and in close collaboration with the private sector the Finance Centre has over a number of years developed a rolling programme of events and marketing trips that it engages in. This year and more specifically over the next six months we would expect that the Finance Centre would be actively considering the following:-

|             |   |                                                                                                  |
|-------------|---|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Geneva      | - | marketing of private client products, funds and insurance                                        |
| Zurich      | - | marketing of private client products, funds and insurance                                        |
| Lisbon      | - | marketing of private client products, funds and insurance                                        |
| San Diego   | - | attendance at insurance conference                                                               |
| Scandinavia | - | insurance marketing                                                                              |
| Luxembourg  | - | attendance at insurance conference                                                               |
| UK          | - | various events including London and Manchester for the promotion of financial services generally |

The above illustration does not take into account specific requests from private sector firms for the Finance Centre to attend and to speak at or co-host events and conferences with them. One such example is an in-house insurance workshop at a major international insurance company in London – attendees would comprise international staff of the company. This is being held in late February. We would also expect to receive invitations from conference organisers inviting the Finance Centre to speak on financial services topics. Generally the personnel at the Finance Centre that are involved in marketing and travel are:-

|                  |   |                                      |
|------------------|---|--------------------------------------|
| James Tipping    | - | Finance Centre Director              |
| Joe Macano       | - | Director Licensing Unit              |
| Guy Canessa      | - | Marketing and Liaison Officer        |
| Veena Purswani   | - | Marketing and Administration Officer |
| Maite Mir-Parody | - | Personal Assistant                   |

The actual number of staff attending any one event depends largely on, inter alia, the level of expected attendees at any event, the complexity of the organisation, how many speakers we would wish to put forward, individuals to have available for networking etc. The involvement of staff in marketing travel is also used as a career development and motivation tool. It also provides for a pool of in-house resource and experience to be developed which is crucial for continuity purposes.

As regards costs, average costs have varied from circa £600 for attending as a speaker at a third party conference to approximately £11,000 for the organisation and development by Finance Centre staff of a large conference, for example, on insurance in London with approximately 75 attendees in total. However this does not take into account the fact that the Finance Centre would normally arrange for tag-on events at the same time such as a journalists lunch or similar. This is to ensure value is maximised in respect of the fixed costs such as travel and accommodation costs. Importantly, each and every event is discussed with the private sector on a case by case basis to ensure that broad based support is forthcoming prior to any event being staged.

HON F R PICARDO:

I am very grateful to the Chief Minister for that answer which volunteers so much more information than my question sought but looking at my question the only conferences which are planned at this stage appear to be the Geneva, Zurich and Lisbon conferences and everything else is envisaged but not yet programmed is that right?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member is overlooking the width and depth of his question. I do not think that there is any extra information in the answer although I agree that if I had drafted the answer I would certainly not have made it so long. Still, I am not able to distinguish between the ones that are firm and the ones that are not, it is not disclosed to me.

Can Government state how much of the amount of the DTI Financial Services budget allocated to marketing, promotions and conferences has been spent as at 31st December 2003, giving a breakdown of the sums expended?

NO 459 OF 2004*THE HON DR J J GARCIA*VISAS

What is the total number of visas issued in British Consular Offices in Morocco for non-EU nationals wishing to travel to Gibraltar, on a monthly basis since March 2003 inclusive?

ANSWER*THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The total of visas for Gibraltar issued in Morocco to no-EU nationals is not available at the moment because the premises which accommodate the British Consular Offices in Tangier and Casablanca have been closed since 15 December 2003. The hon Member may have read in the press that indeed when the Foreign Office conducted a security analysis of its various diplomatic posts around the world these two were identified as being really exposed, high risk locations and therefore they were just closed down overnight. Both offices are pending relocation and officials are temporarily unable to access their records. For the time being, all applications for visas for Gibraltar are being handled by Rabat. The information sought can therefore only be provided in respect of visas issued by Rabat. The total number of visas issued by Rabat on a monthly basis since March 2003 is as follows:

OFFSHORE BETTING

Have there been any new applications for a licence to conduct offshore betting since the last question time in this House in March?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Since the end of March 2003, 26 enquiries have been received. Of these, seven, resulted in formal applications, three of which have been rejected and four are under consideration.

NO 461 OF 2004

THE HON DR J J GARCIA

OFFSHORE BETTING

Can Government say how many people are employed in the offshore betting industry indicating how many are part-time and how many are full-time as at 30th June 2003 and 31st December 2003, listing the companies where such persons are employed, how many are Gibraltarians, how many are EU nationals and how many are non-EU nationals?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Based on the available information supplied by the gaming operators themselves, as at the 30th November 2003, a total of 708 persons were employed by 10 companies. This compares very favourably to the 567 persons employed on the date of the previous detailed return from the gaming operators on the 3rd March 2003 which was provided in answer to Question No 387/2003. I hand the hon Member the information requested.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 465 TO 471 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the answer given to Question No 468 of 2004 which asked for a breakdown of the £1.17 m spent on Government lobbying, hospitality and travel, there is an entry in the answer which says political and the amount spent on that is £960,573.39, can the Chief Minister clarify or give an indication of the kind of political event or activity that would fall under that item of expenditure?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I cannot give him details of any specific event but that is the general head to which all politically related expenditure is booked.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

When it is travel it would presumably come under official travel which is £213,000, then there is another for inviting guests which has its own subheading which is £16,900 and then there is a third one which is political which is the largest of the three which is over £960,000, it is that third one that I am asking what kind of activity would come under that kind of expenditure?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Any Government expenditure in respect of Government lobbying, hospitality and travel. The breakdown that the hon Member has had is not broken down into hospitality, travel and lobbying but rather into official travel, invited guests and political. So, the breakdown does not coincide with the title of the subhead in the accounts expenditure. All expenditure that is political I cannot think what might be there as opposed to elsewhere but that is what the head is for and I am afraid I do not have a breakdown by events that I could glance at just to give the hon Member the flavour of the sort of expenditure that it might be but I will have it looked into and I will drop him a line just giving him an indication of the sort of things that are involved there.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

If the Chief Minister could do that I would certainly be very grateful. In relation to Question No 469 of 2004 which asks for a breakdown of the £100,000 forecast out-turn in terms of research, development studies and professional fees there is one entry of £30,088.04 and the name of the item is IT review can the Chief Minister give an indication of what that item of expenditure refers to?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am afraid I cannot. A review of information technology but precisely of what and by whom I do not know.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Could I ask the Chief Minister if he could perhaps write to us in the same way as he will do with the other subhead. In relation to Question No 470 of 2004 where the answer is that the information asked for is too voluminous but subtotals in respect of a particular item of expenditure would be given, can I ask them for that breakdown of subtotals if the Chief Minister has it or if not could he write to us with that information? This is the question in respect to the expenditure on National Day.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Moving on to the total cost with a breakdown per event of Gibraltar Day in London which is Question No 471 of 2004, the total cost shown here is £43,511.55 but I seem to remember other associated events which take place at the same time in London. One which is mentioned here which is paid by the Finance Centre budget of £13,614, and events organised by the Tourism Industry.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

LAND RECLAMATION WITHIN THE HARBOUR

Has the final report on land reclamation within the harbour now been submitted to the Government?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 472 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Chief Minister tell the House what the general conclusions of the report are?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The report is an investigative works and conceptual design report on the project. It invites three options for the possible land allocation and usage within the reclamation areas that would be created. Government are presently considering which of these three options to choose based on economic and engineering considerations. The final choice is dependant on MOD negotiations as to the reprovisioning of facilities in the area. Not so much on the final choice it is between the three options but proceeding on any of them is dependant on the completion of negotiations with the MOD to reprovision the facilities in No 4 dock. It is no longer called the Army Watermanship Training Centre.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Are Government in a position to elaborate as to the three options they are considering for land allocation and usage?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We are in a position to elaborate in the sense that we have the information with which to do it. We do not think it is appropriate at this stage simply to speculate. It is just different configurations and mixes of use, it is no greater deal. It invites the Government to just consider whether it just wishes to locate some of its projects here or elsewhere, for example, the hon Member knows that the Government have plans at some stage to build a new first and middle school in the area. It would be possible to do it on this site if that is what the government chose to do. It would be less for housing some of it would be part for the road as he knows the Government wants to drive through there to Queensway. I do not think it is really appropriate to set out in detail what various permutations for land use are.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the Chief Minister say how many square metres of land they are talking about if this reclamation went ahead?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Depending on the option figures ranging from 21,000 square metres through to 34,000 odd square metres. The hon Member should bear in mind that some of that would have to be dedicated to reprovisioning the Yacht Club although we would then gain the area where the Yacht Club is presently situated.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The reclamation would take in the area in front of the Yacht Club and the No 4 Dock is that it?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Yacht Club, Rooke and it would link up in effect with the existing reclamation where the Calpe Rowing Club and the Mediterranean Rowing Club are. So, it would link the Coaling Island reclamation where the skate park is straight across to the existing reclamation.

NO 473 OF 2004*THE HON DR J J GARCIA*HEAD 8A, SUBHEAD 14

Further to Question Nos 393 of 2003 and 1056 of 2002 can Government provide a breakdown of each of the following:

|     |                 |   |              |
|-----|-----------------|---|--------------|
| (a) | official travel | - | £133,288.51  |
| (b) | invited guests  | - | £ 8,718.10   |
| (c) | political       | - | £336,116.95? |

ANSWER*THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

This is the answer that I have given the hon Member on the last two occasions that he has asked this question. The information requested by the hon Member is too voluminous and too minutely detailed. The hon Member is in effect asking the Government to publish a Nominal Ledger of all the items charged to general subheads. It is not appropriate. If the hon Member wants sub totals in respect of any particular item of expenditure I will endeavour to obtain that information for him.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 473 OF 2004*HON DR J J GARCIA:

Question No 393 of 2003 was actually a different question in the sense that it asks who the money was paid to and the purpose of the expenditure which is what I have interpreted as being what made the question too voluminous to give an answer. That was why the question was narrowed down when it was presented this time thinking that perhaps this information could be provided without saying who it was paid to and what the purpose of the expenditure was.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is not what the question asks. The question as asked in respect of those three items in effect requires the Government to hand over its accounting books for the hon Member, the Nominal Ledger, we might as well just give the hon Member the Government's books and ask them to look at them. I know that we practise enlightened policies of transparency and that certainly no House of Assembly in Gibraltar has ever received volume of detailed information that we provide but that would be taking it a smidgeon too far.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

If I ask for the information in terms of established subheading will that be a problem, because in order to arrive at these figures there must be subheading into which the expenditure items are placed, no?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The answer is intended to say to the hon Member, for example, if the hon Member wanted to know how much does the Chief Minister spend travelling? I would then try to find out the answer to that question. How much have Government spent in MP visits to Gibraltar? Then I would try to find it because that does not require me to just hand him over the books it means that I can just get specific information out of the books to answer whatever specific interests the hon Member may have as opposed to just giving him the books of the company for him to peruse it at his leisure which is not really answering questions, simply sharing the Government's financial accounts with him. So, the hon Member really needs to decide what is the information that he wants, formulate a question around it and then we will try to provide that information for him.

PROPOSED REFORM OF BUSINESS TAXATION

Have the Government now received legal advice on whether it is possible to supply copies to the Opposition on a confidential basis of the submissions made by the UK and Gibraltar Governments to the European Commission regarding the State Aid investigation into the proposed reform of business taxation?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The Government are advised that it is free to provide its own submission. As to UK's submission, the Government do not feel at liberty to disclose it to the hon Member without HMG's agreement which we are seeking on his behalf. I hope to be able to write to the hon Member shortly on this matter.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 474 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Will the Chief Minister be supplying us with the Gibraltar Government's submissions independently of the UK's reply or will he wait for a reply from the UK before he does that.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We are going to wait if the hon Member does not mind because there may be a need to edit ours if the UK objects because I think there is an element of cross referral and that we refer in ours to some of the arguments. If the UK really says, "No you may not tell him anything of what we have said," we may have to blank out one or two paragraphs and if they agree we will just send both.

LAND MEMORANDUM

Has there been any negotiation between Government and the MOD or HMG on the terms of the Lands Memorandum?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

No.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 475 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is the Lands Memorandum something that is on the agendas as having to be revisited or is it not a priority?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is certainly a priority for the MOD who are very anxious that there should be a renegotiation of the Lands Memorandum.....

HON J J BOSSANO:

Are they?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

.....Government remains in the position that the Leader of the Opposition is familiar with, however, we have indicated that we would be willing to take part in a wide ranging negotiation with the MOD were everything that we want from them is on the table and everything that they want from us is on the table and we can then take a sort of holistic approach and see what deals can be done regardless of a renegotiation of the Lands Memorandum and saving the principles of our position on the Memorandum.

MOD PROPERTIES

Can Government state whether there are any MOD properties or sites pending transfer by the MOD to Government in respect of which the MOD is seeking payment?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

There are no pending transfers of MOD held properties in respect of which MOD is seeking payment. The MOD may have its own list of pending transfers but we have not been made aware of any.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 477 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Have there been any properties then which have been discussed as possible sites for transfer where the transfer has not materialised because the MOD was seeking payment?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There are some notorious and historical examples of that, they date right back to the Leader of the Opposition's date of office. Cumberland Road and Tower Buildings the two properties that were demolished, there are still issues. Those lands I think are still not formally transferred. There used to be 'H' block or whatever it was called in the Old Naval Hospital Road but they have now developed that themselves for their own use. There is Edinburgh House which has been transferred and which on a technical and strict application of the Lands Memorandum requires a payment on the sum of £2.4 m which has not been paid pending a final resolution of all these sorts of matters.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is that strict interpretation a reference to the continuing use, the criteria that there used to be in the 1985 memorandum?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The reference to strict interpretation is somewhat to overstate our case. By almost any interpretation the payment is due it is just that we have invited the Ministry of Defence to take the view that it would not be right to charge. They have not accepted that position but they nevertheless went on to transfer and left the matter of payment pending. Certainly, as far as the MOD is concerned and indeed I believe the UK Treasury that the payments were due, they have just been left in permanent abeyance until the memorandum can be restructured, hopefully on terms that will no longer require the payments even retrospectively.

HON J J BOSSANO:

As I recall the 1985 Lands Memorandum, there were two elements in it. One was the question of reclaimed land and freehold properties and the other was buildings which had an unexpired use and there was a formula related to the number of years left out of a potential 60 year, is that the one that produces this evaluation?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

In the case of Edinburgh House yes. In the case of the other two properties, the one at Tower and Cumberland, that is a question of the freehold issue rather than the Lands Memorandum.

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Probably not, but Government have not addressed or studied the issue.

POBJOY MINT

Has there been an increase in the cost of minting circulating coinage since the financial year 2001/2002?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

NO 480 OF 2004

THE HON J J BOSSANO

POBJOY MINT

Has there been a drop in the sales of commemorative coinage by Pobjoy Mint since the financial year 2001/2002?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

There has been no increase in the cost of minting circulating coinage since the financial year ended 31st March 2002. The increase in expenditure on the purchase of circulating coinage is attributable to the increase in the number of coins purchased. As regards sales of commemorative coins, information on actual sales value of commemorative coins has not been made available to the Government by Pobjoy Mint. Royalties paid by Pobjoy Mint have declined since the financial year 2001/2002. However, under the contract with Pobjoy Mint, these royalties are based on the number of coins sold irrespective of face value or sales price. This anomalous situation has been regularised under the terms of the revised contract with the current supplier of coins – Tower Mint, with royalties now being directly linked to the sales value of coins sold.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 479 AND 480 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

So the decline since would be because there have been less coins sold even though they may have been of a higher value coin. In the case of the answer to Question No 479 of 2004 the answer given is that the purchase of the circulating coin reflects more coins, however if the Chief Minister looks at Appendix 'L' in the Approved Estimates of Expenditure Page 133 it shows that the issue of coins in 2001/2002 was £705,000 and the cost of the purchase of these coins was £85,000 and in the following year the issue of the coins is £700,000 that is £5,000 less and the cost is £175,000 which is £90,000 more. The actual figures in the account show £5,000 less of coins and £90,000 more of cost that is why I asked whether the cost of minting had increased?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I can only speculate but it is only speculation that it is the configuration of the coins involved presumably £1 coins cost more than 20p coins so one can have higher value but lower cost depending on the volume of the coins that have been purchased. It can only be that if the answer that I have been given here that the cost has not increased is correct.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The Chief Minister has got his arithmetic the wrong way round because if one has the value of the coin the more £1 coins we produce (INTERRUPTION) therefore the gap between the cost and value of circulating coins is bigger for the higher value than the lower value so if that was indeed the explanation it would mean that we were minting lots of pennies and very few pounds. I put it to the Chief Minister that we lose money on the pennies and the five penny coins money is only made from 20p up from my recollection of what it used to cost and what the value was this is why I always encourage people to use English pennies and Gibraltar pounds in my time. A policy I recommend. Perhaps the Chief Minister would go back and check because it does not seem to tie up with the figures that we have got in the House.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I will.

SOCIAL ASSISTANCE FUND

Can Government state what is the latest forecast out-turn for the Social Assistance Fund?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The forecast out-turn relates to a completed financial year. The latest Gibraltar Development Corporation and Social Assistance Fund revenue and expenditure for the year ending 31st March 2003 is set out in the schedule I now hand the hon Member. If the hon Member is intending to refer to expenditure during the current financial year, that will be published with the Estimates of Revenue of Expenditure for next year and as discussed yesterday this is the time of year were the forecast out-turn for the current year is just being calculated.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 481 AND 482 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it the forecast outturn for the financial year 2002/2003 the information that is being provided?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, it is being handed to me in answer to the question of forecast out-turn for the year ended 31st March 2003 is the financial year 2002/2003, whether it is by now more than that or whether it has been confirmed .....by now I would expect those figures to be firm and not just forecast given that it is nine months on from the date.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Not just that but the law requires that the accounts should have been closed in December and handed over to the Auditor. The forecast out-turn for that year is already in the published estimates that we have got. There is no date in my question but obviously I am talking about the current financial year as an indication of what the expenditure is to-date perhaps I should have asked the Chief Minister for the actual expenditure up to December but certainly I cannot assume that this must still be the forecast out-turn because.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, I must assume it is firm by now.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I would have thought this were the figures that have been finalised and handed to the Audit.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Of course.

DEVELOPMENT AID

Can Government confirm whether it has been given any advice or indication by HMG that Development Aid could be in conflict with EU rules on state aid?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

No. Development Aid was originally listed by the Code of Conduct Group as a harmful measure, but that was not pursued.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 483 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

The fact that it was not pursued effectively is the same as if it got the green light?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. They have never chased that up nor is State Aid Rules the only criteria for measuring harmfulness for the code purposes.

HOLIDAY ON 2ND JANUARY 2004

Can Government confirm whether employees in Government-owned and Joint Venture Companies and public sector employees and other persons indirectly employed by Government received an extra days holiday on 2nd January 2004?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

All employees in Government-owned companies and Joint Venture Companies (by which I mean Gibtel, Nynex, and Aquagib) and public sector employees, were either released from duty on Friday 2nd January 2004, or were allowed to bank an extra day's annual leave to be included in their 2004 annual leave entitlement.

NO 485 OF 2004

THE HON J J BOSSANO

HOLIDAY ON 2ND JANUARY 2004

Can Government say whether employees providing services contracted out by the Government were entitled to a paid holiday on the 2nd January?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

In the previous question the Leader of the Opposition used the more correct phrase of received an extra holiday, here he uses the word entitled. There is no question of entitlement in either category but in any case I do not know, Government are not accountable for the decisions of other employers. These are not government employees directly or indirectly, they are the employees of contractual companies so I cannot say whether any followed the Government suit.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 485 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

I would imagine that if people have got contracted services into which the cost per worker that they provide takes into account the leave that they get anybody that is providing people permanently to the Government on a contract would pass on the bill to the Government so if Government do not know it has presumably not happened.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

They pass on the bill to Government eventually not on the morning of the 3rd of January so we would not have found out yet. Certainly if they gave a days leave to which they were not entitled we might wish to query whether the contractor is entitled to recover the cost of it under its contract with Government. These are not employees that are provided to the Government by a contractor it is the service that is contracted not the staff to the Government.

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

NO 488 OF 2004

THE HON J J BOSSANO

SAVINGS BANK

Can Government say whether the level reserves in the Savings Bank as at the end of the financial year 2001/2002 was 10 per cent of the non-Government deposits?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The level of reserves in the Savings Bank as at 31st March 2002 was £9.04 m, representing 9.5 per cent of non-government deposits. Although there was a recurrent account surplus of around £1 m during the financial year 2001/2002 this was more than offset by a reduction of £1.2 m in the reserve account due to a decline in the market value of investments. The overall level of reserves therefore decreased during the year by £0.2 m. During the financial year ended 31st March 2003 the recurrent account surplus was £0.6 m and there was also an increase in the reserve account of £1.4 m as a result of an increase in the market value of investments. The total increase in the reserve account during the financial year was, therefore £2 m bringing the level of reserves to £11 m. However, because of the increase in non-government deposits during the year, which stood at £112 m at the year-end – representing an increase of 18 per cent over the previous year – none of the surplus was transferred to the Consolidated Fund. The £520,000 expected to be available for transfer to the Consolidated Fund during the financial year 2003/2004, is not now expected because of the downturn in the value of investments and the continued increase in the level of non-government deposits – currently at around £128 m compared with £112 m at the beginning of the year (a further increase in deposits of 14 per cent).

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 486 TO 488 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is there any surplus expected in the current financial year available for transfer or will it all be required for the reserve on the basis of the figures that the Chief Minister has given us?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is not clear it does not say whether all of the £520,000 that will be available or none of it. I suppose that the Leader of the Opposition is hoping that there will be none of it so that there will be less to spend on other things.

HON J J BOSSANO:

That is totally uncalled for Mr Speaker I keep on telling the Chief Minister how to do things to get more money and he accuses me of the opposite.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes but the Leader of the Opposition wants me to get more money and leave it there and not be able to spend it so this is why he was smiling when I was telling him that there were increasing reserves but we could not use it because of the increase in deposits I will find out if it is all or part of the £520,000.

HON J J BOSSANO:

No. The Chief Minister is attributing a motive which is totally unjustified and incorrect. I was smiling because the figures that the Chief Minister gave reflected the seesaw in the value of the investments which went down by £1 million, up by £2 million and then down by £1 million. It reminded me of the lottery and that is why I was smiling. Nothing to do with wanting him to spend money or not spend money. I want the Chief Minister to spend money on some things and not on others.

RGP – OVERTIME PAYMENTS

Can Government confirm that it has received a claim for the recalculation of overtime by Police Officers, based apparently on an incorrect application of the parity agreement with UK in the early eighties and if so, when was the claim received and what steps have been taken to establish whether there has been underpayment?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

It is not government policy to comment on outstanding claims. Government are in receipt of several claims by the Royal Gibraltar Police and these are under consideration. There is a claim which more or less meets the description in the question.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 489 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Given that in the month of November the information that reached us which we were not able to confirm as we were no longer Members of this House, was that officers were being told in the police force following the election of a new Government the claim would be met and officers were being given order of back payments that they were likely to get, is this a reflection of an imminent announcement by the Government or not?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not think so. There are discussions taking place between the Chief Secretary and the Police of which I am actually not aware where the negotiations are at this point and I am certainly not aware of it before the elections. I am aware that the hon Member met with someone with a recent link with the RGP and that all sorts of promises were made to them. Perhaps they thought that they were just mirroring the promises that he assumed that we had made. We had not made any such promises, there was none. Anything that the Leader of the Opposition has heard was being calculated and said was certainly not by us or on our behalf. Government have resisted the claim as it has been formulated which regardless of how it is arrived at is contrary to pay agreements that have been signed off by the Police Council in the past. There are several claims, they are being looked at, they are being discussed, the Chief Secretary is to put to me things for policy decisions shortly but I am not aware now so I could not have been aware before the elections what the basis of the negotiations are still less have promised any offer in the event of there not being a change of Government which we did not think would depend on saying things of that sort.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Apparently some people thought that they did depend and that they were being told those things. I can tell the Chief Minister that when that information was passed onto me by some officers still within the force who claimed to have had first hand knowledge of what was circulating within the force, I made an attempt to obtain a correct version before I reacted in anyway from the Police Council and the Police Council were not interested in a meeting to tell me what the correct version of events was and therefore we just ignored what had reached us because obviously we were not going to react to something that could not be established and therefore this is the first opportunity in this House to establish because frankly, I was surprised that something going back to the initiation of parity should have been there sort of accumulating as a potential liability with us passing heaven knows how many budgets and no inkling that this was ticking away in the background. That is how the story reached me. I am trying to get some confirmation or denial of the versions that have reached me since I could not get it from the Police Council because they were not interested in giving us their version of things so I ask the Government.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I can certainly reassure the Leader of the Opposition that no pre-electoral offer was made to the Police Council and indeed has not been made. The opposite is true. The Government have resisted this claim it has not been going on for that long. A new or recent last but one committee before this one spotted it and raised it back. It is not really our style to make specific pre-electoral offers of this sort and I think we are justified in the view that we were right to think that the election outcome would not have depended on that. I think that the elections have shown that targeting tailor made offers of this sort to individual sector groups in the community does not have the effect of altering the results of elections as the last two elections have demonstrated.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I do not know perhaps it is the question on the basis of the information that reached me of whether there is too much targeting or too little targeting because the information that reached me was that the targeting was down to the last penny and the individual's name saying, "Mr so and so you would get £x,000." So that is how targeted I was told it was. Maybe it worked after all.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I regret that the Leader of the Opposition was misled by people who were perhaps hoping to extract a commitment from him in the forlorn hope that he might have won the election and then been saddled with the commitment around his neck. [INTERRUPTION] It is certainly not what I heard and it is certainly not the story that was circulating. If we are talking about [INTERRUPTION] circulating stories let me tell him that the stories that are reaching us was that he had promised to meet the claim down to the last penny. I hope somebody has told him how much meeting the claim down to the last penny will cost because he will not be in a position to honour it.

The new accounting arrangements are not yet in place.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 494 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

So for the figures that appear at the end of this financial year at the end of March it will still be as was provided in the original Approved Estimates, is that correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Some employees technically have transferred to the Authority during the financial year so a way would have to be found to reflect the fact that those salaries were paid out by the Authority and not as emoluments to civil servants but what I mean by the accounting arrangements not being in place is that the revenue and the other items of expenditure have not been desegregated from the Consolidated Fund. We hope to do that as from the 1st April so all the planning work has been done during this last quarter so that we can start the financial year on the right footing. Now, whether that is going to be done quickly enough for it to be reflected in the estimates we cannot be certain but what we can do is if we are not ready for the estimates so that the estimates once they have to be published by the end of April are not yet ready, we could during the course of the year Table in the House a proforma reassessment as from the date when this might happen. We are trying for to be ready in time for the publication of the estimates booklet which is due by the 30th April.

IMPORT DUTY

Can Government state whether it still expects to achieve a £2.5 million increase in receipts from import duty in the current financial year compared to the financial year 2002/2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

No, the latest estimate of import duty revenue for financial year 2003/2004 is £29 million.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 495 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is there a particular explanation for this because it is a repetition of what happened last year. There was £29 million nearly £30 million in 2001/2002. In the 2002 budget Government was projecting £31 million which perhaps might not have been unreasonable because it might have been going up from £30 million but the outcome turned out to be £29 million and I remember that at the time of the budget given that they had not achieved the £31 million the year before and that normally the Treasury works on the basis of what is achieved in terms of projecting what is anticipated, why the £2.5 million extra now we seem to have repeated the exercise of the previous year. We put in £2.5 million and then we finish up not getting it and it has been done two years in succession which is not normal. Normal estimating in this area is reasonably accurate.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I cannot say whether it is just wishful thinking on the part of the estimators or whether there is a genuine hope and expectation that with inflation in prices and the increase price in goods that they can factor some level of increase given that duty is charged against the landed cost of the item. Whether there is an assumption that in a growing economy the receipts from import duty can be expected to increase I cannot say why but certainly I agree with him that what he has just described is correct. It has happened two years in succession. It very much depends on one or two particular commodities I am sure the Leader of the Opposition can imagine and it is just coincidental that it has come in again at the same figure. Unless the Government were to introduce or announce some increase in the duty rate on significant items I think they will probably now accept that the £29 million is the correct estimate.

| 2002/2003 | £9.3 million |

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 496 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is the £9.3 million a reflection of the sale of the Government in 50/50.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Entirely. There may be one or two flats that were sold in Sir William Jackson Grove I cannot remember on which side of the Financial Year. I remember some flats were of people who had been re-housed, four or five flats, they might be included. All the others were certainly 50/50.

SALE OF LAND AND PROPERTIES

Can Government state how much was raised by sales of land and properties and credited to the Improvement and Development Fund in the financial years 2001/2002 and 2002/2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Revenue raised by sales of land and buildings, credited to the Improvement and Development Fund was as follows:-

|           |              |
|-----------|--------------|
| 2001/2002 | £2.6 million |
| 2002/2003 | £1.6 million |

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 497 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

In this case are we talking about predominantly land for development or are we talking about sales of residential properties.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I think it should be predominantly the latter. I cannot imagine there is any significant development premium in that. There might be some lease extensions, the 99 year extension of expiring long leases, but from the figures it does not seem that there is any significant development premium there.

PUBLIC DEBT

Can the Government confirm whether it has been told by HMG that the level of Gibraltar's public debt has to be agreed to by the UK?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The Gibraltar Government have not been told these things specifically in relation to Gibraltar, but the Gibraltar Government are aware that this is HMG's position in respect of all Overseas Territories. Chief Ministers were reminded of this at the recent meeting of the Overseas Territories Consultative Council.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 498 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Are Government aware that in Gibraltar's case, I do not know what it was like in the case of the other territories, this was not the case when the £100 million existing ceiling was legislated by this House when the decision was entirely that of the Gibraltar Government there was no question of agreement by the UK.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not think that is strictly true. The £100 million ceiling which cannot be exceeded is in effect the level that HMG has approved for Gibraltar.

HON J J BOSSANO:

That is the whole point. It was not approved by the UK for Gibraltar, is the Chief Minister aware of that?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is the de facto level that has been approved whether it was or not at the time because to change that now would require new legislation from which they could either withhold Royal assent or exercise the powers of disallowance. So, de facto now we could not borrow more without some sort of understanding with HMG. Let me say to the Leader of the Opposition that the Treasury who is leading on this area because of their concerns about contingent financial liability are not just saying, "We have to agree the levels and so apply to us..." there are guidelines and they are actually quite normal guidelines, the sort of borrowing guidelines that one might expect to see in a prudent independent country. The same sort of criteria. Because they think that in some territories GDP is not very well calculated where it says 35 per cent of GDP they have invented another formula to prevent that. Gibraltar could borrow substantially more even within the guidelines that they have established for approved and borrowing limits for the Overseas Territories, much more.

NEW CONSTITUTION

Can Government state whether it has now taken a policy decision on how it intends to proceed with regards to the establishment of a process of negotiation with HMG to agree a new Constitution for Gibraltar?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

No, but I hope to invite the hon Member to take tea or coffee with me at No 6 Convent Place shortly in order that we might discuss this very issue ahead of Government making a decision. I do hope that he will accept my invitation.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 499 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am quite happy to meet the Chief Minister anytime as happy as he is to meet the Spanish Foreign Minister provided there are no strings attached and we can reach an agreement. I think having agreed the Constitution my view is that we should pursue the matter together but we will have to see to what extent we are both in tune.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

He will get at the very least a cup of tea or coffee and for the rest of it it depends on whether his expectations are realistic but he knows what my thinking is on that in terms of involvement of the Opposition.

GDP FIGURE

Can Government state what was the calculation for GDP using the expenditure method for the financial year 1994/1995 and 1995/1996?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The calculation of the value of imports and exports for GDP and for Input/Output purposes can never be identical. For the purposes of GDP, the calculation regarding the value of goods is based on the trade statistics produced by the Customs Department and that for the value of services is based on Family Expenditure Surveys and other secondary data. The Input/Output Estimates are calculated by grossing up the imports recorded by each business sector. The calculation takes account of the split between the value of goods and services. The method of calculating the value of imports and exports in 1996/1997 was changed to that used previously as a result of the recommendations of the Mansell review on the compilation of the accounts. These changes basically encompassed the following:

- (a) The deduction of the value of notes, coins and monetary gold from the import figures.
- (b) An adjustment to take account of the value of tobacco and cars re-exported.
- (c) The inclusion of financial and maritime services as export income.

Finally I will hand over to the hon Member a schedule containing the GDP breakdown using both the income and expenditure methods for 1994/95 and 1995/96.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 500 TO 503 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

From the answers that I have been given I deduce that in the expenditure method that I am being provided with for 1994/1995 and 1995/1996 the figures that will be shown there for exports and imports of goods and services will therefore be before the changes of the months of review, that is to say it will include the things that I have been told have been excluded and it will exclude what is now being included which was the inclusion of financial services and maritime activities, is that the case?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Deduction of notes, coins and gold from the import figure, adjustment to take account of tobacco and cars re-exported and the inclusion of financial and maritime services as export income. I say yes, I do not know, but it would be extraordinary if these figures had been recalculated ex postfacto applying the new principles to previous years without that having been noted in the answer that I gave the hon Gentleman. He should assume that the premise of his question is correct unless I confirm to him tomorrow differently.

NO 507 OF 2004

THE HON J J BOSSANO

INPUT/OUTPUT STUDY

Can Government state what has been the cost of the Input/Output Study report to date?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The process of updating the Input/Output Study on a bi-sector basis will commence shortly as originally agreed with the consultants. This will entail conducting further business expenditure surveys together with the inclusion of more recent data currently available to Government to ensure that the model's forecasting capability is maintained. There will also be a revision of classification by industry to make the model more user friendly and relevant to Gibraltar's particular circumstances, for example, the reclassification of financial services. The hon Member will recall that the model uses United Nations sector classification which puts some of the things that we regard as financial services in the business and real estate United Nations category so that when one is actually wants to know and extract financial services measures from the model one cannot just look at the financial intermediation section. One has to look at the financial intermediation section and bits of the business and real estate section and that is going to be restruct so that the categories better follow without destroying the model as a sub report representing the same information but by classifications that better follow the local labelling rather than the United Nations. Once this process is underway persons and organisations within the business community who wish to make use of the applications of the model will be able to submit in writing relevant enquiries for subsequent evaluation and reply. It is not the intention at present to make the model itself openly available for general use, by which I understand that one will have indirect access to the calculations that the model is able to throw up rather than access directly to the model in terms of here it is take it and use in one's own office. As the model is updated and developed further training will become available to the civil servants charged with the running of the model. Government can confirm that the statisticians have already undergone a period of training in the United Kingdom in July last year. Training will not be extended to others outside the civil service. As regards the provision of the full report to the Opposition the Chief Secretary in his letter of the 29th September 2003 invited the Leader of the Opposition at my suggestion to pursue this possibility directly with my office. I have not yet received any such request from the Leader of the Opposition. The cost of the Input/Output Study was £46,335. I should add that the hon Member should not think that there are different versions of the report, one of which he has, the published version and the other which he has not which is markedly different. The real difference is in the transaction tables and technical coefficients which are not contained in the published version but which he has already had confidentially. Those are the main differences between the published and unpublished versions of the report. So, getting the bits that the hon Member thinks he has not yet seen is actually I believe a very, very small element. If the hon Member thinks that there are very large chunks of the report et cetera, et cetera mainly to things that he has already had confidentially from us, the coefficients and transaction tables, there are more detailed transaction tables that give away information of the sort that he knows we avoid publicising.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Yes I do not want the Chief Minister to make publicise things that it is better not to but when I wrote to the Administrative Secretary in the course of the previous correspondence I was told that he only had authority to give me the table of the transactions and I asked him to obtain the authority from the Chief Minister who is only two yards away from him and the reply was that I should write to his Office. As far as I am concerned if one is only two yards away from the other I would have thought I was already writing to his office. Given the fact that the Chief Minister volunteered to provide this in the budget of 2002 and said that it was the Government's intention to publish the report in full and that if there were any bits that they thought it was better not to publish in full they would be provided. I would have thought that since I do not know what bits have not been published it is not very easy for me to ask for this or that other bit. I would have thought that when I was being provided with the transactions tables it would mean that that was the only thing there was to provide me with and would the Chief Minister not accept that subsequent to that I started asking if there was something else that I had not been provided with because the published report gives the effects of changes in the tourist industry, financial services and in different sectors of the economy and the impact of employment. Nothing the Chief Minister has given me and nothing that is published explains at how one arrives on the impact on employment and I therefore asked what for me is a natural question, Is there such a thing as an employment multiplier table which there was in the two previous studies and was made public in the two previous studies?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That does not fall into the category of things that the Government would have wished to suppress publication of either publicly or still less to give it to the hon Member confidentially. So, I will double check before giving him a categorical answer but if it is not in the public version it must be that there is not but I will check and tell him authoritatively. On the question of writing to me directly there is a view which I am told is based on convention which I think is worth preserving is that when Members of the Opposition want things out of the Government they should write at a political level to the Minister rather than dealing directly with officials. In this issue of the model the Chief Secretary had my authority to answer the hon Member's technical question which he has been doing in correspondence which frankly I have not been following in detail but I suppose he has been giving the hon Member answers to the technical questions that he has been asking. I think that the Chief Secretary has been correctly taking the view that publication or provision to him of documents that have not been published is not the provision of technical details but requires a political issue that he should write to me about and I see I have here a copy of the letter from the Chief Secretary to him saying I suggest therefore that you should address your request for a full copy of the report to the Chief Minister direct. That was in September last year it might have been overtaken by elections and things of that sort. I would prefer it if it is not too inconvenient to the hon Member that he should just drop me a two line letter just asking for that because that gives me the opportunity to send it to him under cover of a letter which will make clear what the constraints attached to it and in relation to what because there may be things in the report which I would not mind if he used them publicly and I would not wish him to feel bound by confidentiality except in respect of issues that we specifically identified in that reply which are things that relate to things that he knows that they will relate to.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am grateful for that. In relation to some other questions, when the report was made public and there was a press conference, there was no indication given that the model would require further work on it before it was accessible to people who might want to use it in respect of their business activities. It said, "The model built following United Nations standards to make it universally accessible and understandable to any economist." That is what they said in the press conference and they went on to say that the local business would be given the opportunity. All I wanted to know was whether that had already happened. Apparently it has not happened.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not think it has happened, I do not think anybody has written to the government from private businesses saying "please may I use the model?" The point that is being made is that there are two aspects of the model that perhaps make it less useful than it might be to private business as opposed to economists. One is that it is based on information from 2000 or 1999 and whilst the model contains the ability to project, that forecasting capacity is more accurate the more recent the data that it contains. The second which I think is probably a more relevant one, given that in respect to the first one the accurate forecasting capacity one will recall probably stretches to five or six years forward that the forecasting becomes less reliable and we are not into that area of time yet. The other aspect that makes it a little less useful to business is that the categorisation is not recognisable so if one is in financial services and one wants to know the effect that this or that investment is likely to have it is not very useable in that sense because one is stuck with UN categorisation that may not correspond with the sort of categories that local businessmen will find useful. That is why they have decided to restrike a version of the model which, leaving the original version intact, which is not UN categorisation compliant but maybe notwithstanding that more useful to businessmen locally who will be able to recognise the labels and the sectors that we tend to follow in Gibraltar in our economic and commercial debating but in strict answer to the hon Member's question I am not aware that there is anything in the model as it is at the moment that would prevent it from being used albeit indirectly by somebody who wants to use it now. In its present condition, and with its present vintage of information and with those drawbacks of labelling of categories, the answer is no.

HON J J BOSSANO:

He has used twice the example of the categorisation of the Financial Services which I think was made clear initially in the report. It said in the press release conference that was used when the report was made public, if this point was particularly drawn attention to where it said that people like accountants and lawyers and so on that we might normally think of as being part of the activities of the finance centre were not classified as such in the model. I am thinking more as for example, the retail trade, which is a very big chunk of our economy and if the model does what is expected of it people might be interested to find what shifts in either the pattern of origin of tourists or the levels of expenditure might be an indicator of possible demands for goods which they would be interested in exploring in terms of their business development. That presumably would not be altered by what we have been told by UN classification I would imagine no?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The model does precisely that. I do not suppose a small shopkeeper might want to do it but if a large retailer in Gibraltar wanted to know whether his type of business is better served by more cruise passenger and less cross frontier visitors or more British cross frontier visitors this is precisely the sort of economic management, forecasting and planning tools that the model works. I cannot tell him the extent of the re-classification, what I know is that they are re-classifying the industries to make the model more user friendly and relevant to Gibraltar's particular circumstances. The reclassification of the financial services is cited to me only as an example which leads me to believe that it is not the only one that they are doing but as to the extent of the reclassification I could not tell him indeed it is that they have not made their decisions themselves again.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In terms of what is available on the internet in order to become conversant with what needs to be done to use the model when the Chief Minister says that it will only be available on the internet in order to become conversant with what needs to be done to use the model. When the Chief Minister says it will only be available to civil servants is he saying that the Government will not pay for the use of this or is the Chief Minister saying that it is not available to anybody who may want to have access to it from Bournemouth University.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not know what the Government decides what distant learning or courses are available but when I say access I am not sure whether the hon Member is referring to access or training?

HON J J BOSSANO:

Training.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Training for use of. There is a distinction to be drawn there between training in the actual hands on operation of the model which I think is what is being said is going to be limited to those who are actually going to be doing the actual operation of the model as opposed to a sort of training which I think at some stage if this is going to be useful in the private sector has got to be made available. That is not training as how to actually operate the model but at least courses or seminars "training" as to private sector businesses and others so that they understand the potential uses that this has for them. The sort of questions that they can ask it albeit indirectly through the Government operators because otherwise no one is ever going to make a use of this is there is not some sort of coaching to familiarise people with what it can do for their business, how they can access it being done for their business, whether they have or do not have to pay for something, unless that happens no one is ever going to use this model and it will just be limited to an in-house Government public sector economic forecasting tool and it would be a pity because we would then be giving away a large amount of the potential value of this exercise.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In terms of the cost of this exercise can the Government say what has been the cost of asking Dr Fletcher to provide the answers to my questions which the Government at one stage said they were prepared to pay for and I thought should not have a cost attached but I am interested to find out if there has been?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Without wishing to encourage the Chronicle to repeat this morning's headlines I think it would be unrealistic for the hon Member to think that Dr Fletcher will work free of charge for the Government answering as many as the hon Member's questions and for as long as the hon Member chooses. I may have a duty to stand here debating these issues with the Leader of the Opposition but Dr Fletcher does not and he takes the view that if he has to he is entitled to be paid for his time. I know it is not an excessive amount but there is a charge. I could not tell him what it is but I can find out.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am certainly interested because it is my view that since the questions were all of a technical nature dealing with things that I think people were entitled to ask the person that constructed the model and I can tell the Chief Minister that if I had been able to meet up with Professor Fletcher here he would probably have been able to deal with them on the spot. The questions that I had were all designed to clear up things that by themselves are not clear from reading the published report or indeed the additional information the Government was good enough to provide me with. So, I am interested in finding out what he has charged because I do not think that he should have charged.

ORAL

NO 508 OF 2004

THE HON J J BOSSANO

MOD

Can Government state what is the MOD budget for Gibraltar in the current financial year?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Answered together with Question No 509 of 2004.

NO 509 OF 2004

THE HON J J BOSSANO

MOD

Can Government state what is the MOD complement in the current financial year in respect of (a ) military posts and (b) civilian posts, giving a breakdown for UK based and locally entered?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The hon Member will understand this is not Gibraltar Government information and therefore all I am doing is providing to the Leader of the Opposition the information provided to me by the Ministry of Defence.

I am advised by the Command Secretary that the MOD budget for Gibraltar in financial year 2003/2004 is £92.177 million. There are, as at 31 December 2003, 418 Military Service posts plus 389 Royal Gibraltar Regiment posts, the latter includes TA. United Kingdom based posts total 58 and there are 1027 Locally Entered Civilians.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 508 AND 509 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Have Government been given any advanced notice by the MOD or by Her Majesty's Government of any reduction in the budget in the next year or so?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. The Government have only seen a press release or bulletin to its employees I am not quite sure which that was put out several weeks ago by the Ministry of Defence itself alluding to their need to work to an increasingly tight budget in future years. We have had not information and we have no reason to believe that there is. We know that the MOD generally not just in Gibraltar that all MOD budgets across the MOD worldwide are operating to increasingly budgetary limitations. The impact that that may have on the Gibraltar budget over the immediate future years is not something that the MOD has yet raised with the Gibraltar Government.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Government will of course be aware about the public exchanges that have taken place in relation to the proposed cut of part of their TA and that is apparently an economy move, is that something that the Government have raised with the MOD?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is obviously something that Government raised with the MOD when we saw the press reports and we have asked the MOD to confirm whether or not the reports of the imminent cutting of the TA Company is true, to which we have had a response, that no such decision has yet been made, that is what they have confirmed to us in writing.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Which is the same as they said publicly is that not the case, when the Government asked was it after they had come out saying that no decision had yet been made?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Simultaneous, the day before, same morning came out in the afternoon that sort of thing.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Are Government aware that they are engaged in a policy regarding the civilians in which they have invented a new concept which they call regeneration of the workforce in which they say they [INTERRUPTION]. Apparently from the information that has come back to me it is not intended to replace one for one, have Government any knowledge of that, that is I have got fairly reliable sources telling me that when they are talking, for example, of introducing early retirement which makes sense if they have got as they claim to have and that is probably the case because they have not recruited people for a very long time, they may have a lot of people who if no action is taken would all be retiring at the same time and that therefore rather than have say for example, 200 people leaving in one year they may want to take action to give early retirement to some people in order to phase the regeneration of the workforce over a number of years but it appears that what is intended in the process is not to replace one for one but to maybe retire two and recruit one, has the Government any knowledge of that because that would of course involve a reduction in the numbers and that would not be good news for Gibraltar or for Government finances?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government are aware of the existence of the regeneration policy. It has no knowledge of the mathematics that applies to the process. If it were as the hon Member is saying then this is not so much a policy of regeneration but rather a process of staff cuts disguised as a policy of regeneration which the Government would obviously oppose. However, I have to say that I would not support a process of regeneration in principle. I can see that there may be a limited legitimate use for it to manage as the hon Member has said a particular agglomeration of retirees in one year. But, keen as we all are in this House to ensure that there are jobs for our youth and people at the bottom end of the labour market it is not the policy of the Government and therefore I would not wish it to be the policy of the MOD either that this should be at the expense of removing people from the labour market at the top end before they are ready to be removed from it. A lot of these people still have the need to earn money. When the rest of Europe is talking about extending the working life of people as a means of controlling the pension bills and the social security bills it would not be helpful that we were here moving in the opposite direction, in other words, dumping people into the labour market at a time when they still have a need for earned income and at a time when they are at their most vulnerable in terms of their ability to find alternative employment because people do not normally like employing people aged 53 or 54 years old. In terms of social engineering it is in principle a non desirable policy for wide application without prejudice to the fact that in limited it may be a valid tool for limited application to specific and restricted factual circumstances such as the ones as the Leader of the Opposition described in his question.

WESTSIDE 1 PHASE 2

Can Government say whether it has proved necessary to apply the alternative method of charging the market value as lower than 4 per cent annual increase on the original cost price to the sale of the Government's share of any co-ownership flats at Westside 1 Phase 2?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Yes, out of a total of 180 sales in Westside 1 Phase 2 there were two cases where the "50 per cent of Market Value" option was lower than the "4 per cent annual increase" option and this was applied accordingly.

EU SAVINGS TAX DIRECTIVE COMMITTEE

Can Government state how many times since March 2003 the joint working committee formed between Government, the Finance Centre Division, people in the Government and representatives of the Finance Centre Council and the Banker's Association has met, providing the names of the individuals who make up the committee, the dates on when the committee has met and whether it has now completed the review on listing the bits of the EU Directive on Disclosure of Information on the Income from Savings that would apply and the business that would be affected?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The EU Savings Tax Committee met five times in 2003. It met on the following dates:

Wednesday 26th February 2003
Wednesday 5th March 2003
Wednesday 18th March 2003
Tuesday 25th March 2003
Monday 14th July 2003

Outside of these formal meetings the Committee has kept in regular contact by e-mail. In addition, Paul Tipping, a Director of the British Bankers Association gave a lecture on the EU Savings Tax directive at the Finance Centre conference room on the 19th March 2003. the lecture was open to the whole industry. The members of the Committee are as follows:

Chairman of the Bankers' Association, Chairman of the Bar Council, a representative of the Gibraltar Society of Chartered and Certified Accountancy Bodies and of the Society of Trust and Estate Practitioners. A second representative of the Bankers Association, representatives of Barclays Bank, Credit Suisse, Lombardi Odier Hentsch, Jyske Bank, the Finance Centre Director Mr James Tipping and the Finance Centre Officer Mr Guy Canessa. This Committee has completed the review of the situation as it stands and is monitoring on-going developments. In particular, the EU Savings Tax Directive will not commence until agreement is reached between the EU and third countries. The Committee was scheduled to meet again on Tuesday 13th January 2004.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 511 OF 2003

HON J J BOSSANO:

The Chief Minister has covered everything except the last bit of the last sentence the business that will be affected. I take it that that has also happened?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The directive is clear as to what it applies and what it does not apply to. Whether business of the sort that it applies to is being done in Gibraltar or not and will therefore be affected by it depends very much on an operator by operator basis. Some operators will be doing a lot of business that is affected and others will be doing less of it. There is no way of assessing what the overall effect will be. It is bound to affect some more than others but depending on the kind of profile of the business being done would each operator be able to assess that now. But everybody understands in detail the scopes and bits of application and non application of the directive and are now able to run this past their own business base and assess for themselves the extent to which they are going to be affected by it whether the bits of their business that is affected by can somehow be restructured in a way that may put it on the right side of the line and not be affected by the extent to which the business that is affected and cannot be saved the extent to which it is going to be lost altogether, they will keep it notwithstanding the impact of the directive, all those things are now clear in people's minds and each business will be making their own assessments of the situation. I personally have no doubt that there will be an impact, that there will be overall in the Finance Centre a loss of business, I think that the impact will be strongest in what I call the unstructured small depositor business. Small to medium sized bank deposits where placing the asset inside a corporate or trust structure is uncost effective or cost and ineffective one or the other.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I take it that this exercise is being done on the assumption that we are stuck with the situation where we will have to follow the UK and not be able to be taking advantage of the transition alternative of deducting at source which is going to be available to other competitors and that that has been factored into the effect as well by the people who have done the work?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, it has been done on that basis.

EU – DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION

Can the Government now confirm that for the EU Directive and Disclosure of Information on the Income from Savings to apply between Gibraltar and the United Kingdom, it would require a policy decision on the part of the Gibraltar Government to enter into a reciprocal arrangement between Gibraltar and the UK, as if the UK and Gibraltar were separate Member States?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The directive itself only applies as between different Member States. It cannot therefore apply as between the United Kingdom and Gibraltar except pursuant to some arrangements extraneous to the directive itself.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 513 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

So the answer is yes to the question is that correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The answer is drafted as it is because a policy decision of the Gibraltar Government are not the only conceivable way in which the result can be brought around. The others would be extremely constitutionally difficult but theoretically possible.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am taking it as read that the policy decision to which the question referred would not be a policy that would enjoy the support of the Government?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is not something that the Government would do as a matter of policy choice.

OCCUPATIONAL PENSION SCHEMES

Can Government now say, in respect of the period since the first of April 2003, how many private sector employers were operating approved occupational pension schemes and give a breakdown into money purchases and final salary schemes and the number of employees in each category in the last tax year?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The position remains as stated in answer to Question No 421 of 2003. The information requested is unavailable and would require considerable manual administrative effort to produce which is not being invested.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 513 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

At the last meeting I asked this question and was given this answer. The exchanges ended with my suggesting that given the problem of finding the historical position as a matter of policy it might be a good thing for the Government to instruct the tax office to do it from a current date and the answer from the Chief Minister was yes.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am sorry I do not follow, do what from a current date?

HON J J BOSSANO:

Do the monitoring of this because if in the tax returns that employers make and in introducing schemes of this nature, where the Commissioner of Income Tax has got to approve the scheme and approve the tax relief that goes with it, I could understand that going back in time would be an expensive and time consuming exercise but given that it is the policy of the Government to have occupational schemes I would have thought that it would be desirable in furtherance of that policy to find out what there was already in the market because the Government have said previously that they would move down the route of legislating for this if the voluntary efforts did not produce results and I do not see how one can come to a conclusion whether the voluntary efforts have produced results unless one is monitoring the results and therefore I suggested to the Government acknowledging the difficulty that the Chief Minister has mentioned that it might be desirable to introduce the monitoring from a current date and the answer the Chief Minister gave me was yes.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I understand. The Leader of the Opposition means in terms of how many occupational schemes he has approved this year, for example, by just keeping a tally. I suppose he might be able to say how many schemes he has approved as opposed to saying how many people are actually participating in the scheme as at which would introduce a historical context and the question does say in respect of the periods since the 1st April. Whether that is intended to exclude all the pre April schemes I do not know that might be the purpose of the question. I will have to ask the Commissioner of Income Tax whether he can at least say how many new schemes have come into existence since 1st April.

HON J J BOSSANO:

If I may remind the Chief Minister, what I said to him in the last House of Assembly was, “Can I ask whether it could be possible to try and monitor given that it is not practical to try and find out the historical position to try and monitor new ones from say the 1st April 2003 and then we will see what is happening during the year and we will be able to ask periodically?” and the Chief Minister answered “yes” and now I am asking periodically.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

His excellent advice has not yet been put into effect.

I & D FUND

Have Government now borrowed any funds from their loan facilities in the current financial year and if so give a breakdown by date and amount?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

A total of £10 million was drawn on the 17th December 2003 from the revolving loan facility with Barclays Bank PLC and it was credited to the Improvement and Development Fund.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 518 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is this likely to be the amount for this current financial year or does the Government anticipate that between now and the end of March there is going to be any borrowing?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I really cannot tell the Leader of the Opposition as a matter of day to day or even week to week cash flow management whether that would be required. I believe of the sources of funding to the Improvement and Development Fund I think that the figures that I gave him yesterday confirm this. The proceeds of sale from Government properties is probably lower than is estimated the other balancing figure is the draw down from the reserves from the Consolidated Fund. I do not know whether there will be some massaging of one figure against the other that is if they prefer to draw more borrowing and less from the reserves I do not know. It would be for that sort of reason if more money were borrowed. I am not aware of any need to borrow any more money.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I just wondered because the fact that it has been borrowed so recently would be an indication that it has not been needed earlier in the year. In the estimates the sum of £10 million was put in at the beginning of the financial year and therefore we are talking about a situation where having put in the estimates a requirement to have £10 million for a period of 12 months it is not until nearly the end of nine months that they have actually gone for it and that would give me an indication that having borrowed it so late in the year is why I am asking?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It probably will be that the expenditure of the Improvement and Development Fund will be less than it always is by 20 or 25 per cent less than estimated. It depends on the coincidence of projects coming, payments due perhaps a cluster towards the end of the year I do not know but it is a cash management situation rather than an expenditure driven situation in terms of over expenditure. There is certainly not going to be any over expenditure in the Improvement and Development Fund.

EU – EXTERNAL FRONTIERS CONVENTION

Can Government explain how it is that it was not made aware of Spain's objection in November to Gibraltar's participation to a future external frontiers convention/regulation of the EU?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

As stated in the Government's press release of the 22nd December 2003, the Government have sought clarification from HMG regarding Spain's objection in November to Gibraltar's participation in a future external frontiers regulation, including an explanation as to why Gibraltar had not been duly informed of this matter at the time. A letter was sent to the Foreign and Commonwealth Office on the 22nd December 2003 to this effect but to date no substantive reply has been received. I am informed that this is due shortly and that the delay has been caused by the intervening Christmas break.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 520 AND 521 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

On the assumption that shortly means that the reply will arrive before the next Question Time arrives will the Chief Minister mind informing me of the reply if it arrives before there is another Question session when I can raise the matter again?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I can certainly inform him as to whether or not we receive a reply. I have not undertaken even in answer to this question to tell him what the reply would have been. The hon Member has to respect that the Government are entitled to confidentiality in correspondence if it chooses to do so. My policy is, if it is possible to do so without destroying the conduct of business between governments to be as frank and open in this House as to HMG's position on issues as put to GOG but I would not wish to undertake to publish the content of the letters before I have seen what they are but I would certainly tell him if I get a reply or not and let him know what it is if it is appropriate to do so. This issue goes to the heart. The Leader of the Opposition has seen the public statements on the issues that arise from the draft treaty negotiations. Most recently the full document full analysis. One of the issues that we have been highlighting with HMG is precisely whether the borders language enables Spain to continue to object to an exclusion. On the one hand the United Kingdom is telling us that our concerns are over-egged and on the other hand the Spaniards is giving notice that they object in the knowledge that any such regime external frontiers regulation is likely to emerge after the new convention is in force. So, they must think that the new convention.....

HON J J BOSSANO:

Has an effect.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

.....yes, they must think that it has the effect of giving them the right to object so that is the circle that needs to be squared in the United Kingdom's response. It cannot be true, both, our concerns are over-egged and that Spain is free to consummate her objection.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can Government explain how is it that the Brussels Office did not pick this up before it became public?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

This is not in a public document. This has only entered the public domain because the Spaniards have boasted about it. But the meetings of that sort are not available on the public domain. These are Coreper meetings. These are not occasions which are reported in public so the fact that Spain has made this observation in this meeting is not something that is findable anywhere, British Government would know because they would have had a representative at the meeting in which this was said.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I believe the report in the Chronicle to which the Government reacted which apparently was the first they heard of it from the text of the Government press release. From memory their reaction was that they had contacted the Commission or whoever and that it had been confirmed obviously it was something that the pertinent institution in the European Union was not treating it as a confidential matter that there was a Spanish objection. They were willing to confirm it to the press.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, but before one asks for something to be confirmed one must be aware of its existence. The fact that they are willing to confirm or deny it, I am not assuming that the report did carry the element that the Leader of the Opposition has described does not mean that it is available publicly. These are not available publicly.

NO 522 OF 2004

THE HON J J BOSSANO

COMMUNITY CARE LTD

Can Government state when they intend to Table in this House, the audited accounts of Community Care Limited for the years since 1996?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Although I seem to recall that the accounts for Community Care were Tabled in this House for a year or two before 1996, Government believe that Tabling the accounts of Community Care Limited in this House may encourage others to argue that the arrangements are not private and non-Governmental and this is not in the interests of Gibraltar. Government are however provided with copies of the accounts by way of information by the Trustees. The Government are happy to provide copies to the hon Member outside of this House after clearing it with the Trustees.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 522 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

I will be glad to receive a copy after the Government have cleared it with the Trustees. The reason for the question is that the Chief Minister will remember that he actually said during the course of the elections in a debate on radio that the audited accounts of Community Care were Tabled every year in the House and the last year in respect of which they have been Tabled by this Government was for the year 1996 but I think that was in 1997 or 1998 and nothing has happened since then. The Chief Minister actually said only in November that they were being tabled regularly and we checked and we have found that 1996 was our last year.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

If I did say that which I do not recollect but if the Leader of the Opposition recollects that I did say it then I am happy to rely on this occasion on his recollection. It must have been that I had forgotten that at some point in the late 90's when it became clear that Community Care was being challenged on the basis that it was the Government in disguise as opposed to a genuinely private arrangement the decision was taken that to continue Tabling in the House would have tended to confirm that because at the end of the day the only things that are Tabled in this House are the accounts of public bodies. The accounts of the Trustees of the John MacIntosh Trust are not Tabled here, the accounts of other private trusts are not and their investment companies are not Tabled here. It must have been that in that debate I forgot that that assessment had been made and that we had stopped Tabling. Government do not regard themselves as the owner of those accounts and it has not objection to the Leader of the Opposition seeing them but in a way that does not enable somebody in the future to say, "Ah, you see they are the Government in disguise why else would they be Tabled every year in the House?"

HON J J BOSSANO:

I think the answer to that is that they are Tabled in the House because they receive money from the House. We have in this year's budget an amount which the Chief Minister will recall I asked should be dealt with in a particular way precisely for the reasons that he is saying and he actually agreed to change the subhead so that the money went into the Social Assistance Fund and the Approved Estimates shows a different place from the Draft Estimates. The Approved Estimates we have seen here today. Distancing the charity from the Government was the reason for keeping the Social Assistance Fund going that he gave way back in 1996 but when accounts have been Tabled here of other entities it has been because they have received money from the Government that is why the MacIntosh Homes used to be Tabled here before the Elderly Care Agency existed and nobody was suggesting then that they were owned by the Government or were part of the Government. But that was the rationale, that they received money from the Government.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Government are not saying that it would necessarily have a lethal effect it is just that it seems to us not worth taking a risk with and as the hon Members can continue to have access to them by another means I am sure the Tabling is not of any importance to the hon Member. The advice that Government have is that actually whether it is done directly from the Consolidated Fund or from a special fund and whether it is funded from one type of Government revenue or another is actually in all legal likelihood and probability irrelevant to the question of the determination of the issue if it came to be determined. I understand why but the advice is that given the test that it would have to meet the distinction is too much of a nuance to be relevant.

I do not have that information to hand available at the moment, Question Nos 525 and 526 of 2004 which are estimated revenue and estimated expenditure to the end of the year could be put together with just a few more days notice and I can send that on to the hon Member. ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE

Can Government say when they expect to be in a position to provide this House with copies of the approved Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the current financial year?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

I am not aware that there has been any change in the long-established practice whereby copies are circulated by the Clerk and not the Government. When I saw this question I could not for the life of me work out what it was that the Leader of the Opposition was getting at. I have never been aware of how those copies are circulated, by whom and when, and who generates them nor was I aware that there had been a difficulty in this year within the arrangements. So, I have to say that the answer reflects what I was told in response to the hon Member's question rather than reflecting any knowledge that I might have had of what the mechanics have been in the past which I do not know. I did not actually know whether this was sent by the Government or by the Clerk but I am told that they have always been sent by the House and not by the Government.

Can Government now explain how the initial result of the Input/Output study put the MOD share of National Income at 10 per cent and the final report places it as 3 per cent?

ANSWER*THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

I can confirm that the published pre 1996/1997 GDP figures included the MOD. Indeed when I saw the question on the Order Paper I looked up the file and actually found a letter dated May 2003 that I had drafted to send to the hon Member. I cannot find evidence because there is no photocopy of the original that it has been sent from which I conclude given that he is asking the question and there is only a draft on the file that it was never sent and that it stayed in draft. I can now confirm that I did look into it at the time as I said and indeed was able to establish that it was. Under the income method for measuring GDP, the income contribution of the MOD as a proportion of GDP for the period 1994/1995 to 2001 was as follows:

| Year      | MOD(£m) | GDP(£m) | per cent |
|-----------|---------|---------|----------|
| 1994/1995 | 21.31   | 326.61  | 6.5      |
| 1995/1996 | 21.98   | 327.73  | 6.7      |
| 1996/1997 | 19.82   | 352.12  | 5.6      |

The comparable estimate from the Input/Output Study for 1999/2000 was 3.8 per cent. However, the MOD generates other expenditure within the local economy. The Input/Output Study gave an estimate of around £17m in respect of such expenditure on goods and services. Adjusting for imports, this would increase the contribution of the MOD to the Gibraltar economy to a total figure of between 6 and 7 per cent. The original estimate of the draft Input/Output Study had put the MOD share of GDP at around 10 per cent. This figure was revised subsequently when it was discovered that the data provided by the MOD had included MOD expenditure which, although allocated to the MOD's Gibraltar budget, had not been spent within the Gibraltar economy.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The figure in the table the Chief Minister has provided which shows the MOD share coming down to 3.9 per cent for 1999/2000, from the sentence that preface's it suggests that that is using the Income method for measuring GDP because it says under the Income Measure of GDP. The Input/Output Study by putting 3.8 per cent for the year 1999/2000 shows a very close result to the other one. If one is saying for 1999/2000 in one method says that it was 3.8 per cent and the other method says that it was 3.9 per cent that would be indicative of a very high level of accuracy using the same argument that has been used for the figure of £409 million. The argument in the Input/Output Study was that if two different methods come up with a very close result one is for £409 million and the other is for £410 million then that is taken to be indicative of accuracy and therefore by implication that is also through to 3.9. I find that strange because when the Chief Minister answered the question last time in March the impression that he left me with was that it was generally recognised that the 3 per cent was an understatement and that it was likely to be corrected in an upwards direction, would he not agree that that is what he seems to be saying in March? He said in March, "I think that he (Professor Fletcher) accepts that the figure of 3 per cent is an understatement of the current contribution of the MOD to the economy and he has an explanation of why it is..." rather than an explanation as to why it is an understatement I think that what we have got in this answer is an indication that it is an accurate figure because if there was an explanation saying under the Input/Output method we have come up with a figure of 3 per cent but under the income, the traditional method the figure is higher but there is an explanation for the discrepancy I would understand it but what it seems I am being told today is that the 3.8 is a very accurate figure because the income one produces 3.9.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I agree with him. Adjusted according to the answer that has been prepared here for imports it would give a figure between six and seven. I cannot help the hon Member as to why that is mathematically so but as he has got the answer in front of him he might like to follow it there in print. In the end of the first paragraph it says, "adjusted for imports, this would increase the contribution of the MOD to a total figure of between six and seven."

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am not sure what sense one can make of that answer because if what we are being told is that if we included what the MOD spends on imports the contribution would be six to seven per cent I can assure the Chief Minister is a nonsense answer because if the MOD is spending another £10 million on imports that is not a contribution to the local economy. Precisely in every element in the Input/Output methodology what we do is we take imports out of the equation on the basis that they do not have a multiplier effect and there is no indirect and induced income generated by imports because those effects happen in the country which exports to us not in us so if what we are being told is that the MOD's spend in Gibraltar is of the order of six to seven per cent if one treats imports by the MOD as a contribution to the Gibraltar economy which I would not think of doing and neither would Professor Fletcher from the explanations in his book and neither would the Government Statistician from the figures in the table then I am afraid it does not explain anything. If the MOD imported an aircraft carrier presumably the contribution would then be 100 per cent.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Perhaps I ought to send the Leader of the Opposition this letter anyway, the one that was drafted in May, because it helps to explain the answer to this last point as to how they have split MOD into the bits that should be included and the bits that should not be included and this perhaps explain why the figure is lower than he and I might have expected because it reflects only the bit that they have decided should be included. Even though he has had the answer I will actually convert this letter with the current date and this will explain that and perhaps at a later Question Time it can be discussed again or write back if he is not satisfied.

NATIONAL INCOME ESTIMATES

When do Government expect to publish the National Income Estimates of the years 2001/2002?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Preliminary estimates of GDP and GNP for 2001/2002 are being finalised by the Statistics Office. Once these figures are available in their final form, hopefully by next month, they will be made available to Members of the House and published as were those in respect of the period 1996/1997 to 2000 /2001 in May last year. Since this was written I have been told that it may actually be before the end of this month.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 533 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it the case that the Chief Minister from remarks made earlier on in response to another question had an indication that we may have achieved more than six per cent that year?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have not actually seen figures but as I was rushing out of the office to go somewhere the Chief Secretary made a remark to me in the corridor saying there is a paper on its way to you. Yes, the answer to the hon Member's question , although I have not seen figures , I understand they show an improvement on the six per cent.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 534 TO 537 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

I have asked in supplementaries to questions seeking this information in the past that we find that it is the same employers given that the numbers always seem to finish up around the same figure. If it is the same 150 employers year after year who never do it should something not be done about these particular individuals if they happen to be the same all the time, if there are a different 152 in each year which might be rather surprising then it might be a different kettle of fish but if they are the same ones all the time and they just do not bother ever to return it if nobody ever does anything about it then presumably they never will?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I appreciate that the hon Member probably does not enjoy my New Year messages and that for that reason he may not listen to them too carefully but he will have heard me say, I hope, that arrears and those who do not pay for something that the Government are determined to tackle and this is precisely an instance of that sort. I believe it is usually the same rump who either do not pay or always pay much later than they should and if the hon Member reads the Auditor's Report attached to the account he will see that the Principal Auditor's criticisms for non-collection of arrears have risen in crescendo over the years and I think that it now needs to be tackled. There may be resources issues here but I think that probably what can be recouped would probably justify some additional resources. This is just one example of many areas of non or late payment of dues to Government that will now be much more firmly addressed than has been the case in the past.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In drawing attention to this particular instance where probably we are not talking about a lot of money because we are not talking about a lot of people, the point I am trying to make is that it seems in terms of seriousness, if they do not even bother to return it and nobody does anything about it, there are those who return and pay the lot, there are those who return and pay some, there are those who return and pay nothing and there are those who do not even return it. I would have thought that one needed to start at that end of the spectrum with the ones that are actually ignoring the existence of the system altogether and I think that one of the things that the Auditor has pointed out over the number of years is that this particular element is entirely unquantifiable because they do not return anything nobody really knows how much tax is involved or how many employers. The answer provided by the department in their case is entirely guesswork because they simply do not write back. What I am suggesting and asking the Government whether they agree that with the existing resources, certainly 150 people, it seems to me to start with the ones that are in the greatest breach of the law which is not even to answer.

Also the PAYE Deduction Cards for the year 2002/2003 are currently being processed and it is not possible at this time to provide details of the number of Deduction Cards returned.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS 547 AND 548 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

When I asked the question in March about the 2001/2002 tax year one of the things that I queried was the very low figure in respect of the Gibraltar Government which in answer to Question No 448 of 2003 showed £9.6 million being paid in respect of Gibraltar Government employees and only 3,100 persons affected. We had an exchange as to whether the explanation was a failure to submit in time the Employers' Declaration and PAYE statement. Given what we have just heard from the Chief Minister about whether I really knew his New Year message or not would he not agree that he is unlikely to impress those affected by the content of that message and by what we have said today if in fact in January 2004 Government Departments themselves have failed to make the return for the tax year ending in June 2002, will the Government agree with me that they are going to have a problem in persuading people that he is taking a tough line? The Chief Minister has just agreed with me that if people have not returned their statement and declaration then they ought to be pressed to do it but should the Government themselves not give an example?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I did not refer to delays in submitting Declarations I referred to delays or non payments of monies due to the Government. In the case of the Government itself this is financially academic. Since the Government are paying in effect itself it does not affect the availability to Government revenue given that if it has not received the revenue nor has it incurred the expenditure. In the case of Government it is entirely a book-keeping entry I am sure there is no exchange of cheques or anything it is just a book-keeping entry. There is a difference between what is an administrative entry in the case of Government as an employer in respect of its employees and private sector employers whose failure actually results in the Government failing to collect money in a way which affects the amount of money available to the Government to spend on public services and in a way which is capable of affecting whether there are budget surpluses or budget deficits or in what amount. The hon Member must not misunderstand me I think it is in principle, desirable, that if there are time limits everyone should honour them but in the case of the failure on the part of the Accountant General to make the necessary book entries and to provide the necessary information to the Commissioner of Income Tax there is actually no net financial deterioration in terms of the Consolidated Fund. It is expenditure that would come out of the Consolidated Fund, would go back in to the Consolidated Funds since the same account pays so in terms of deadlines for making returns the hon Member's point is well made but it does not have the same financial implication to the public purse.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I accept that but in answer to the previous question when we were looking at the 150 people who never even bothered to answer we agree that even though there might not be a lot of money involved in that there was still a matter of principle. They are the ones who are breaking all the rules. In the answer the Chief Minister has given me to Question No 547 of 2004 we are told that the Gibraltar Government have as far as the tax office is concerned collected from its employees and pensioners £18.9 million in respect of £5,700. I would have thought normally that that would be the final figure for the tax year ending in June 2002 given that we are in January 2004. I note, for example, the private sector employment when compared to the answer that I was given in March of last year in answer to the same question shows that it has gone up by £800,000 and returns have been made in respect of another 500 employees and I would say that this probably means that there is very little extra. These figures are probably very close to being final. If the figure did not look on the low side compared to other years I would have assumed that the Government was up-to-date, is the Government able to confirm whether they are up to date or not in respect of the answer to Question No 547 of 2004? It is just that the figure looked low, that is why.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, I cannot tell the hon Member what the position might be in that respect.

HON J J BOSSANO:

When I was making the point last year which was in March 2003 in respect of the return that should have been made by August 2002, the Chief Minister finished up agreeing that there was no reason why the Government should not be up-to-date in their paperwork. Given that it is now 11 months later there is even less reason now as to why they should not be up-to-date with their paperwork.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 551 OF 2004*HON J J BOSSANO:

I remember asking at one stage I believe it was the last time or one before that about the composition of the statutory bodies and agencies and I think I was told that they were being moved in some cases from the 'C' category to the 'B' category, does the Chief Minister have any information on that because if we are looking at figures for different years and there is movement from one to the other that we do not know about then it paints a misleading picture in terms of the breakdown?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am not aware that there has been any movement but I will check that and let him know.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 553 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

In answer to a previous question on qualifying companies we were told that none had stopped trading when we were asking about new ones being registered and existing ones going, I note that for some time now that we have been Tabling this question on drawing a distinction between normal companies shall we say for the sake of distinguishing them and qualifying companies, the number of qualifying companies actually paying any tax either by making a return or by being assessed without making a return is very low compared to the 140 odd that are supposed to be trading. In the light of the whole business of the qualifying companies is the Government going to do anything on the business of chasing them up?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Can the Leader of the Opposition remind me of the number of the question on qualifying companies to see whether there is a note there about the definition of active qualifying companies?

HON F R PICARDO:

Question No 454 of 2004.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Now that it has been revealed that Ministers have notes at the bottom of the answer papers I might as well refer to some of them myself. Qualifying companies remain registered as active for the purposes of the company's administrators, the Finance Centre Director, until such time as the company or its representative notifies the Finance Centre to the contrary. That means that the number that I gave the hon Member in answer to that question of 122 active companies means outstanding certificates in issue whereas if the better definition of active is whether they are declaring or being assessed then it would seem that the number of active companies by that definition is not a lot because even if they were active but not profitable they would still be obliged to submit returns or they would still be assessed and then negotiate a nil liability on the basis of demonstrating to the Commissioner that the assessment was not justified. So, by this definition either in reality there is a handful of genuinely active trading qualifying companies or it is the scenario described or insinuated by the hon Member in his last supplementary which is that there are more than this that are active, that they are not submitting returns, that they are not being assessed and that they ought to be targeted. Which of those two it is I do not know but I will certainly make it a point of interest to find out.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Presumably the Government will agree that given that they have got a privileged tax regime which is no longer available to newcomers the very least one would expect of them is that they keep up with the little that they are expected to pay. So, I would think that it is in everybody's interest that we should know whether we are really talking about 20 or 120.

NO 554 OF 2004*THE HON J J BOSSANO*INCOME TAX – CORPORATION TAX

As at the end of December 2003 how many companies, in each tax year 1995/1996 to 2002/2003 had been assessed for company tax, and what were the amounts of tax payable and paid in respect of each tax year?

ANSWER*THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

I hand the hon Member a schedule giving the information he has requested.

NO 555 OF 2004*THE HON J J BOSSANO*INCOME TAX – CORPORATION TAX

Can Government now confirm that, as a result of the issues raised in supplementary questions arising from Question No 455 of 2003, it has now obtained a different explanation from the Commissioner of Income Tax for the difference in the number of companies shown in answer to Question No 454 of 2003 as compared to the total number shown by adding the total number of taxpayers provided in answer to Question No 452 of 2003 and No 453 of 2003 and provide that explanation?

ANSWER*THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

Clarification has been sought from the Commissioner of Income Tax who confirms that the information provided in answer to Question Nos 452 to 454 of 2003 are correct. He further advises that:-

Question No 452 provided information on the number of companies (933 companies) on whom estimated assessments had been raised in the absence of returns.

Question No 453 provided information on the number of companies (248 companies) on whom assessments had been raised based on accounts submitted, BUT DID NOT INCLUDE THOSE WHOSE ACCOUNTS SHOWED A NIL LIABILITY as the Question sought information on declared taxable profits. Losses are not declared taxable profits therefore companies showing losses had not been included.

Question No 454 of 2004 included all three categories of companies assessed as follows:

|                                   |                 |
|-----------------------------------|-----------------|
| Based on estimated assessments    | 933 companies   |
| Based on declared taxable profits | 248 companies   |
| Based on losses (nil liability)   | 249 companies   |
|                                   | _____           |
|                                   | 1,430 companies |
|                                   | _____           |

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 555 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

I take it that in the light of that explanation that applies to the three answers that we have been provided today?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I would hope so, yes.

NO 556 OF 2004

THE HON J J BOSSANO

INCOME TAX - PAYE

Can Government state on how many occasions since 1st July 1996, the penalties provided for in the Income Tax Ordinance have been invoked in respect of any employers who have failed to return the Employer's Declaration and PAYE Certificate?

ANSWER

THE HON THE CHIEF MINISTER

The £10 per day per employee penalty that the Commissioner of Income Tax may impose on an employer for the failure to return the Annual PAYE Return has not been invoked systematically since 1990 and very rarely since. The department's main concern is to collect the tax payable once its efforts in making the employer lodge the Annual Return are successful.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO 556 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

All I can say is that when an answer not too unlike that one but on a different subject was given in an earlier part of the House, the remark of the Chief Minister was either he did not know or he does not want to say. So, is this another example of he does not know or he does not want to say?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is more likely to be the latter but not me but the Commissioner. There are reasons which ought not to be rehearsed in public why they do not use this power more often and if the Leader of the Opposition wishes we can have an aside about it which may explain why.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The last time I asked the Chief Minister could not tell me how often but he said that it had not been used systematically which is the same as he said today and we were trying to put a figure on what that meant, whether it meant that it had been used at all or not at all or there have been some cases.

There is no way that Government could know this information without inspecting each such property to establish its condition. Furthermore the Government cannot, without employing disproportionate administrative resources, provide the information as to what buildings were built when.

HON C A BRUZON:

I was under the impression that in January in answer to some of my questions precisely on housing I was told that the computers would be updated and that there would be information available in many aspects relating to housing. I think it is about time that this matter was put in practice.

HON J J NETTO:

No, I think the hon Member must have misunderstood whatever I said before, but the fact of the matter is that he is asking questions in relation to the private sector. No computer system in the City Hall, in the Housing Department, relates to private sector dwellings so the information cannot be provided.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it not the case that when we discussed the amendments to the Landlord and Tenants Ordinance we were told that there were a number of buildings that would have been caught had the rent control not been stopped at 1959 and that those buildings were in fact identified by the Chief Minister as buildings that one would not have expected to be considered to be sort of buildings that require rent control. So how can they be looking at the Landlord and Tenants Ordinance and taking policy decisions without knowing the effect of it?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Both the premise of his question is wrong and therefore the deduction that he draws from it and recites at the end of his question is also wrong. The Government did not say that they had been looking at the clock and the properties or the date clock and properties and come to the conclusion that because certain properties were about to be caught that it was being changed because those properties were about to be caught. What the Government said was that any system based on the passage of 45 years will eventually catch every property when they become 45 years old and the Government did not consider it appropriate that there should be that system in place. There was a property which somebody has informed the Government would be caught quite soon, I cannot remember the date, and that was the property Trafalgar House which is the property I think I mentioned in the debate. I think I also mentioned a building in South Barrack Road had already been caught as well.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Because it was in 1959.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes and the Government's decision, this is what we said in the House, was not based on saving a particular building or the next three buildings in line which of course had not been identified, it was based on the principle that the 45 year rule means that every building becomes caught eventually when it becomes 45 years old and that is the principle that the Government were seeking to legislate out.

HON J J BOSSANO:

So when the Government were giving the example of the buildings that would not be caught by this, the example that he gave just now of the buildings that would not be caught by the change, because of the change, when all buildings post 1959 would no longer be caught. If the reason is the effect it is going to have on the supply of property in the market how do they arrive at their estimates of the supply of property in the market if they do not have a clue?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I cannot make sense of the hon Member's question.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I will repeat the question. If the Government have said for example, that the fact that they are going to liberalise private sector rentals to the extent that they have done already and that there is something more in the pipeline is because they know that there are properties that would be rented, which currently are not rented, how is it that they tell us here that they are not given any type of estimate? How can the Chief Minister have said in the election that hundreds of properties that currently are not rented because the landlords do not think it is worth renting them, would become available? How does he know there are hundreds if he says it is impossible to estimate?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The reason why the word 'hundreds' is used and not 174 is precisely because one conveys a sense of the size of the problem that cannot be quantified but we are aware of the existence of the problem and of its general dimensions, and the other would have required the ability to have counted the empty flats which the Government cannot do. For example, I suppose one could spend a long time pouring over electricity consumption records and water consumption records and marry those against the rates register and say, 'now come on here is a flat in which no water or electricity is being consumed, it must therefore be empty', and I suppose one could do that sort of exercise and eventually work out, after an enormous amount given that all this is not computerised, it is not scientifically and mechanically impossible to have a stab at working out how many empty private sector flats there are, but it is not practical. The Government do not have the systems in existence to do that. Now, how do the Government know? The answer is we do not know how many but the Government gets a sense of the existence and size of the problem from representations made to them by both sides of the fence. Action for Housing, from the tenants point of view, comes and makes those allegations to the Government. The landlords in trying to persuade the Government to change things, also may say to the Government 'and look if only you would change this or change that there would be many flats which our members are presently maintaining empty'. So the problems exist because both sides of the landlord/tenant equation, lament it, complain about it and refer to it. Now does that mean that the Government can put an exact figure or even an approximate figure? I have an approximate figure in my mind but it has not been scientifically reached, it has been reached by reference to the statements made to me by any number of other people and one puts all that forensic evidence together and come to a conclusion. Yes I think that there are more than 200 empty private sector owned flats in Gibraltar. If the hon Member is saying 'can the Government be sure that it is more or less than that' I cannot. I wish we were wrong I wish there were not that many number of flats but we believe that there are. However, it is not the only reason for needing to reform the Landlord and Tenant Ordinance and of course we can debate that which is one of the reasons but one cannot hang the whole debate about whether the Landlord and Tenant Ordinance needs reforming on the outcome of that particular issue because there are other issues to do for example, with questions of whether landlords get a sufficient return on their properties, whether they get enough revenue to repair and maintain the building, that in turn has a consequence on the quality of life of tenants and indeed on the aesthetic appearance of buildings in the historic part of Gibraltar. I am not saying that the hon Member should share our view that it needs reforming or that it needs reforming in the particular way that we propose to reform it, but I think the case for reform of a piece of legislation that has not been touched despite the changing circumstances over the decades, which both sides uniquely, this is the first time I think in the history of the Landlord and Tenant Ordinance that both the landlords and the tenants are pressing the Government for similar change, not change in opposing directions as one would expect, similar change. I think the case for reform is well and truly made. Of course one can disagree about the nature of that reform.

HON J J BOSSANO:

It was an estimate that we wanted and therefore with all the caveats that have been entered we take it that we are talking about what the Government believe to be 200. Something of the order of 200 would then be the answer to Question No. 561 which is the one that says what the Government estimates could be the total number of private sector dwellings fit for human habitation which are currently empty. Question No. 561 actually asks for the total, is that something that they do not have?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I said 200 because that is the first figure that makes the use of the plural, it was not because that was my estimate of the number of flats.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In Question No. 561 which is the estimated number of private sector dwellings fit for human habitation, that is the figure that the Chief Minister believes is in excess of 100 then. Or are we talking only about the ones that are available and empty?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have not been addressing the question of human habitation. There is a question on the Order Paper later about the reform of the Landlord and Tenant Ordinance. The question of human habitation requires an inspection of each and every property to see, well first of all to establish the definition of human habitation which has both a legalistic element and a judgemental element. Question No. 561 is about the number of private sector pre-war flats fit for human habitation. For the Government to know how many private sector pre-war dwellings there are fit for human habitation the Government would have to physically inspect each and every private sector flat against whatever criteria the Health Authorities use for deciding the question of fitness and evaluate each particular flat. I am sure the hon Member will quickly recognise that the Government do not have that sort of system available to do that and that the Government cannot do that in answer to a question in this House. I have been addressing not the question of fitness for habitation but the question which I think is what he was addressing in his supplementaries, the question of the number of empty private sector flats as opposed to whether they are fit or unfit for human habitation.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Well, are Government able to establish how many private sector pre-war dwellings there are, whether they are fit or not fit, empty or full?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is the question which I answered when I addressed the Supplementary. It is theoretically possible to do it through a forensic exercise not through any records that exist. Look, a flat that does not consume electricity and does not consume water is very unlikely to be occupied.

HON J J BOSSANO:

No, that was not my question. I said were they able to establish the global figure whether they are occupied or unoccupied, fit or unfit, how many pre-war private sector dwellings there are? Is that also not possible? Whether they are empty or not, simply the total figure of pre-war dwellings.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Oh yes, I think that information, I am not aware that a particular count of it exists, but I can imagine that the Land Property Services rates system is capable of distinguishing between a private sector dwelling that pays the rates to them and a Government dwelling where the rates are included in the rent. I imagine therefore to that process it ought to be possible to get a number of rateable private sector dwellings out of the total rateable number of dwellings in Gibraltar. I imagine that that must be possible I do not know how difficult it would be or whether it can be done easily or not easily but I would be very surprised if we could not produce a count. Ultimately, one can have a pretty good go just by looking at the electoral register. It is relatively easy to see which are the Government-owned buildings, the housing estates and things of that sort, so I am sure the system eventually will be capable of producing the answer to his last question.

NO 562 OF 2004

THE HON C A BRUZON

HOUSING – PRIVATE SECTOR

Can Government state how many private pre-war properties that are currently unoccupied are Government leases and is there a provision in such leases requiring the lease holders to rent the dwellings in such properties?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

The information requested cannot be obtained without a disproportionate administrative effort. However, I doubt if any that are held under Crown leases would have a provision therein such as he describes. Most properties in Gibraltar are held under grant from the Crown.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 562 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

In view of the discussion we have just had may I suggest that a procedure is set in motion whereby at least once a year somebody from Government does actually go round and inspects these properties, because I think the housing problem is such in Gibraltar that it would be well worthwhile doing that exercise.

HON J J NETTO:

The Government do not have at its disposal personnel in order to do that function because as far as the Housing Department is concerned, we have got some other more pressing matters internal in the public sector. We believe that this is a function that should be carried out by the private sector themselves, by the landlords or perhaps by some other private entity such as like the one the Chief Minister referred to just a minute ago which is LPS, Land Property Services, but obviously within the public sector we do not have the resources to be able to carry out that function.

HOUSING – PRIVATE SECTOR

Can Government state what is the total number of private sector pre-war dwellings which have had their rents fixed as a result of the provisions of section 15?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

Such information is not readily available however, I am informed by Land Property Services that since 1969 the following rent controlled tenancies have been created as a result of the provisions of section 15 and of its predecessor section 7(a).

|                       |     |

| 1969 to 1975          | 28  |

| 1981 to 1985          | 75  |
| 1986 to 1990          | 100 |

Can Government state what is the total number of private rented pre-war dwellings which have had their rents fixed by the rent tribunal?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

I can confirm that since the start of the Rent Tribunal in 1986 there have been 167 cases for determination of rents. Of these 101 have been approved and have had their rents fixed by the Rent Tribunal and 60 have been unsuccessful and have had their cases dismissed for a large variety of reasons. There are six cases which are pending hearing, these have been scheduled for the 6th and 13th May 2004.

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

Since the introduction of section 11A of the Landlord and Tenant Ordinance, five dwellings only have been brought under control by its application.

HOUSING – VOIDS LIST

Can Government state how many properties were on the voids list (rent roll) as at the 31 December 2003?

NO 571 OF 2004

THE HON C A BRUZON

HOUSING – VOIDS LIST

Can Government state what percentage of the properties on the voids list were pre-war and how many were post-war?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

The question in itself is confusing. If the hon Member asked what are the number of properties under the classification of voids in the rent roll, the answer is nil. If on the other hand he requires to know the number of properties which are on the void list and out of the rent roll the answer is provided in Parts B and C of Question No. 109 of 2004. At the moment it appears that all the properties classified as voids 100 per cent are pre-war subject to the completion of the asset register. Finally I wish to remind the hon Member that the figures being provided need to be substantiated though regrettably this will not be available until we have completed the asset register exercise.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 571 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Does the Minister have a date by when this is likely to happen?

HON J J NETTO:

This is a matter that I have referred to on occasions in the past and doing an asset register, I am told by the profession, is not something that one can do in a month not even in a year, it takes a substantial amount of time. What we are trying to do here when we are talking about the asset register is not just to be able to reconcile the figures which is very much the type of question that we have in the Assembly today, but also in addition to that as part of the asset register is to do surveys of the state of the properties, both external and internal surveys. Of course that takes time bearing in mind the number of properties that the Government have so it could well take a number of years, but it is the only way forward for any landlord who needs to know what the final figures are and do proper planned maintenance as opposed to what would have been the history in the past which has been very much reactive or ad hoc maintenance programmes.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Has the exercise started already?

HON J J NETTO:

Yes.

HOUSING

Can Government state in respect of the 56 properties identified in January 2004 as awaiting refurbishment by either the Buildings and Works or the Electricity Authority, which was the latest date on which they collected rent for each of these properties?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

Answer to Question Nos. 572 to 574 of 2004

The information requested in relation to Question Nos. 572 and 573 of 2004 pre-dates this GSD Government and in some instances the GSLP period in Government. In addition, records were not properly kept when the GSLP Government privatised the Government Housing administration function and neither was there a smooth handover of records nor information available when the said function was reintroduced into the private sector under the GSD Government. In relation to the 56 properties works were in hand and some will have been returned and already allocated to people on the waiting list. Therefore providing such information retrospectively will be more than an impossible task.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 572 TO 574 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is the Minister not able to say in respect of those of the 56 properties that have not now been re-rented, when they last collected rent? We are talking about looking at 50 addresses in the rent cards surely.

HON J J NETTO:

Yes, presumably the administrative task can be done but obviously, bearing in mind that some of those properties that were said previously have now been allocated and are now paying the rent, so doing the administrative function is something that we normally can do retrospectively but it does provide an administrative task which sometimes can be disproportionate. I think in future, perhaps, the hon Member may wish to request that whenever a Government property has been vacant, when was the last date in which rent was paid for it but asking something retrospectively does provide an element of work in the administration that sometimes can be disproportionate amongst other things.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I think the last time the Minister had difficulty in establishing how long they had been vacant and that is why now we are asking for how long they have not been paying rent on the basis that that might be one way of establishing how long they have been vacant.

HON J J NETTO:

That is all in the category of the 56 which are the category which are flats, where we call in the system basically, where recently they have been left vacant the keys are passed over to Buildings and Works for the proper refurbishment then they are taken back. This is not the other previous category which the hon Member was referring to before.

HON J J BOSSANO:

No I have not asked a Supplementary on the other ones on the basis that he is telling us that the last time some of these properties, presumably the ones that require demolition, might not have been rented for 30 or 40 years. That is the impression he gave when he answered in respect of Question No. 572. That is why I am limiting the Supplementary to the last category because it seems to be a smaller one and if some of them have already been re-rented what I am asking is the ones that are currently being maintained, which must be an even smaller number.

HON J J NETTO:

I will be most glad to go back to my staff and see whether they will be willing to provide the answer in relation to the 56 properties if they consider it to be a manageable task.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The information that the hon Member seeks is unusual in its detail but ought to be provided to him if he really insists on having it. The Government must have a record either of when flats were handed in by the last tenant or when rent was last collected. It is there either in the rent roll or somebody in the Housing Department must have a register of when properties are handed over. So it is 56, it requires probably several hours work by one Civil Servant. The difficulty with answering questions of this sort is that if they then ask it about things that require, I mean how many individual file searches is it reasonable to submit to in order to provide one statistical answer in this House? It is a matter of judgement. I think, I do not want to set a precedent, but I would have hoped that in respect of 56 properties it was relatively easy to produce the answer in time. I am sure this is not the reason why the hon Members insist on asking so many detailed statistical questions but at the end of the day this does take up an enormous amount of time at an administrative level in Government because the Government's system of computerisation, although coming forward in leaps and bounds to the extent that we can make resources available to it, is still pretty unsophisticated. The Government's ability to produce statistical information in this sort of quick time, as the hon Member knows, is not great.

HON J J BOSSANO:

If it is possible at least to produce an answer to the 56 we would be grateful, or to part of the 56 that are still under refurbishment.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I suppose they want an idea of how long it is taking for these flats to be maintained. I assume that is the answer that they want.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 575 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

I have not had a copy but I still thank the Minister for the new copy. One point that is stressed here is that the tenant will not be responsible for any damage or defects which in the opinion of the landlord are due to the reasonable wear and tear or to defective workmanship or materials. Now the hon Member knows that I have written to him on various occasions about specific cases, I do not know if parliamentary procedure allows for specific cases to be mentioned here, but I assume that the Minister knows that there are certain people, some of them are pensioners, who are extremely distressed and they would like the agency responsible for internal maintenance, for maintenance in general, please to do something about 41 Valiant House.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is wholly unacceptable.

HON C A BRUZON:

I am asking if it is parliamentary acceptable.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is not parliamentary acceptable. The Government are not going to debate individual cases regardless of whether it is parliamentary acceptable.

HON C A BRUZON:

May I please urge the Minister to do his best to look at the letters that I have written and tackle these problems because they really are serious human problems.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Fair enough.

HOUSING – EXCHANGE OF GOVERNMENT FLATS

Can Government say what is the policy as regard tenants seeking to exchange accommodation, in cases where the number of rooms currently occupied are in excess of the requirement for the family composition of the tenants, and the exchange required is for the same size of accommodation in a different location, and do different rules apply to either pensioner exchanges or requests on medical grounds?

HOUSING – EXCHANGE OF GOVERNMENT FLATS

Can Government confirm whether an exchange of accommodation granted by the Housing Agency requires the prior approval of the Housing Allocation Committee and if so, can it state how many such exchanges have taken place each month since 1 January 2003 and confirm that in all such cases the Housing Allocation Committee's approval has been obtained?

THE HON C A BRUZON

HOUSING – PENSIONERS EXCHANGE LIST

Can Government state how many applicants are on the pensioner exchange list as at the 31 March 2004, giving a breakdown of those who are Government tenants and private sector tenants, their age and sex?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

Answer to Question No. 576 of 2004

The policy is that when a change is of either a like for like in room composition or of a slightly larger variant the Housing Allocation Committee has allowed the Housing Allocation Unit the flexibility to approve the exchange. However, when the exchange solicited involves greater variants or emanates from complex backgrounds and circumstances then these are referred to the Housing Allocation Committee for either approval or rejection. These rules also apply to pensioners and medical cases. In addition to the above the Government have relaxed the policy with regard to pensioners currently occupying a 5RKB to be allowed to move into an empty 3RKB instead of a 2RKB. The reason for this is that unfortunately the stock for 5RKBs are few and the Government wish to encourage pensioners to release their current flat for the benefit of larger families in the waiting list with the opportunity to acquire suitable accommodation based on their needs.

Answer to Question No. 577 of 2004

Approval for the exchange of accommodation is as stated in my previous answer. The breakdown of exchanges granted each month is as follows:-

|                |     |
|----------------|-----|
| January 2003   | 3   |
| January 2004   | 2   |
| February 2003  | 2   |
| February 2004  | Nil |
| March 2003     | 1   |
| March 2004     | 2   |
| April 2003     | 3   |
| April 2004     | 5   |
| May 2003       | 1   |
| June 2003      | 1   |
| July 2003      | 1   |
| August 2003    | 1   |
| September 2003 | Nil |
| October 2003   | 2   |
| November 2003  | Nil |
| December 2003  | Nil |

Only one of these cases was deemed necessary for the Committee's decision.

Answer to Question No. 578 of 2004

As at 31st March 2004 a total of 275 applicants were on the pensioners exchange list. Of these 221 were Government tenants and 54 were private tenants.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 576 TO 578 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

The policy that exchanges are allowed between flats of the same size or slightly larger seems to be in conflict with the argument that they have relaxed the rule so that people do not have to move to two but have to move to three. Is the Minister saying then that people are not permitted to go from five rooms to five?

HON J J NETTO:

No, I think the hon Member has confused two separate groups of people. When we are talking about exchanges if we are talking about a like for like in terms of room composition or whether the two of us are two sitting tenants and one wants to move into my particular flat but my flat happens to be one room more than what they are strictly or technically entitled to, that small variant is typical of an example whereby the Housing Allocation Committee has relaxed the duty to the Allocation Unit not to get on and facilitate the admitted purpose. That is one issue. Of course if it is something which is far more complicated because it is not just a two way exchange but a three way exchange, different family circumstances, that would have to be referred to, but where the hon Member is obviously getting confused is in relation to the 5RKB. The issue of the 5RKB where the relaxation has come into being is only and exclusively in relation to pensioners which are currently having a 5RKB, whereby they do not need the 5RKB any more because their sons, their children have grown and left. What the Government are saying although a pensioner may request to move to what he is properly entitled, which is a 2RKB, some pensioners will not take the decision of the option to move from a 5RKB to a 2RKB, so we have relaxed it to move to a 3RKB because the Government needs a number of 5RKB which are few to get by, in order to allow large families which are not many in the housing waiting list but because there are very few of those types of accommodation we need to get a number of them to be able to provide those families with such properties. Or else what happens is, through lack of stock, is that they remain for a large number of periods of time in the waiting list.

HON J J BOSSANO:

So if a person has a 4RKB what is the situation then? Is that the same?

HON J J NETTO:

Only for 5RKB.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I would say if the hon Member would allow me to intervene, that it is an area of policy that we have under consideration. There was the initial relaxation that the Minister has described and my personal view, which is not yet reflected in Government policy, and indeed may not be, is to be able to always trade down regardless of the amount of the extent to which the resulting flat is larger than would be their entitlement as applicants on the waiting list. That is really what I would like to see reflected in policy, there are housing management considerations about the fact that there is demand for more flats of a certain size than of others and of course the policy has to be sensitive to that. Frankly subject to that I personally do not see the logic of imposing any restriction. If somebody is in a 4 bedroom flat and is happy to move into a 1, 2 or 3 bedroom flat, why say no? A five bedroom flat is always more valuable to the Government subject to the management of the different levels of demand that the hon Member is saying. We are trying to look and see, the Housing is trying to look and see the extent to which this area of policy can be relaxed even more than the Minister has done over the last couple of years.

HON J J BOSSANO:

So if I have understood correctly then at the moment if the person that wants to move into another flat gives out a 5 room he will be permitted to go into a 3 room, but if the one that is giving up is 4 he has to go to 2.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

He has to go to his entitlement.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Therefore nobody is permitted to go from an existing flat where the size is more than their entitlement to another one which is still more, of the same size which is more.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Smaller but still more than their entitlement.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Smaller but still more, and obviously even the same but still more than their entitlement. Is that the case?

HON J J NETTO:

I detect some confusion by the hon Member. One has got to differentiate between exchanges, which is the question I have been asked, to what is an allocation. Exchanges is in relation that we want to exchange two sitting tenants but the variant is slightly bigger or smaller, that would be allowed between two persons, whether they are entitled to that or not because it is two sitting tenants. I notice a confusion with the hon Member, perhaps I have not made it clear myself either, is that in relation to a pensioner occupying a 5RKB, we are not exchanging we are actually allocating because we are allocating to an empty flat, not between two sitting tenants.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Then what does the pensioner exchange list mean? Allocating or exchanging?

HON J J NETTO:

Exchanging between themselves which has always been the case.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I see, so the people on the pensioner exchange list are not people who want to be put in another place.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

They might also want to be put in another place.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The Opposition know of people who say that they have asked to be moved say from Moorish Castle to Laguna, or from the top floor of the Tower Block or whatever because they have got problems in going upstairs and that kind of thing, and we are told that the reason why they do not move is because the Department says there is an empty flat, the flat may be the same as the one they have got but they are not permitted to go into it. They have to go into something smaller. Now, I am not talking about two people exchanging with each other I am talking about the people who say 'we want to move because of our age or heart problems and that kind of thing' and we are told these flats are empty but they will not give it to them because they have to move into smaller accommodation, they have got a problem with furniture and that kind of thing. Now, that seems to be addressed in the 5RKB to 3RKB, what I need to find out is what happens in cases where what they are leaving is less than 5RKB?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is the point that I tried to communicate to the hon Member. I want to make the caveat subject to the management of stock and the different demands that there is for different sizes of housing, I would like to see that policy extended if viable in terms of housing management, the nitty gritty of which I do not understand, I would like to see the logic that has been applied to occupants of the largest flats extended downwards to the 4RKB flats as the hon Member has said. There is one factor that needs to be taken into account whenever the Government has empty flats and they may be what may be regarded by some as more desirable locations than others. If every time flats become vacant, existing tenants in other estates ask to swap their flats in allegedly less desirable estates for those empty flats, eventually for people on the housing waiting list they only get the other ones. They only get the flats that the people have sought to move out of, that has also got to be factored in when we are considering transfers. So we let a few transfers, but not so many, such that in effect makes all the available stock coming onto the books so to speak, channelled to transferees or to desiring transferees, as opposed to people who have no house at all and who are waiting for a Government house. It is not quite so simple but I do agree with the underlying spirit of the hon Member's latter supplementaries, and that is that to the greatest possible extent there should be flexibility as to numbers, and this should not be a numbers game. If one gives up a 5RKB one can go into a flat which is bigger than what would have been ones entitlement as an originating tenant, but one has a 4RKB then one does not have those rights. People should, within reason and subject to stock management issues, always be allowed to trade down. I just look at it as flat construction costs. A 5RKB flat is more expensive for the Government to build and therefore theoretically more valuable to the Government, and therefore the Government always ought to be able to be willing to exchange something less valuable for something that is more valuable, but I accept and this is why the matter is being looked at internally in the Department. I accept that the view which we appear to share about the desirability of that is impacted by other factors that the Housing Department also has to take into consideration.

HON J J BOSSANO:

How long has the relaxation on the 5RKB been in place?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Several years.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In terms of this exchange in the figures that the Minister gave us about the numbers that had been approved by the Housing Unit and only one had been approved by the Housing Allocation Committee. Are these exchanges between two tenants? So the exchange into the empty one is not included in those figures, is that correct?

HON J J NETTO:

Yes, I think it is included but I will have to check it out.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I hope the Minister understands it is not possible to make sense of the figures unless we know whether these figures are, given the distinction that he has emphasised a number of times, that an exchange is something that happens between two people that are already tenants and that the other is not an exchange is an allocation, so we need to know whether these are exchanges inclusive of allocations or not.

HON J J NETTO:

The answer is that it is not included.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I see. So it means then that the relaxation only applies to this, in the cases where it is the other it has always been by the Housing Allocation Committee. Is that the answer?

HON J J NETTO:

Yes.

Can Government confirm that the valuation list shows residential property that is unoccupied?

ANSWER

No, the valuation list can only be used to arrive at the net annual value of hereditaments. Although it contains all residential properties with their net annual values, except in the case of new developments with development aid, it does not differentiate whether properties are occupied or not.

HOUSING – HOMELESS PERSONS

Can Government state what new procedures have been put in place concerning applications for Government Housing by homeless persons?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

Answer to Question No. 580 of 2004

The position as regards the entitlement to apply for Government housing of persons who have previously been squatters in Government properties is the same as any other entitled person.

Answer to Question No. 581 of 2004

The new procedure put in place concerning application for Government housing by homeless persons is, once it is established that the homelessness has not been self inflicted, a homeless report for a period of one month must be provided. After the first two weeks the Housing Inspector will monitor the situation at random and report on the matter for the consideration of the Housing Advisory Committee.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 580 TO 581 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

I think it is important in view of the reply that the Housing Advisory Committee meets as often as is humanly possible because there are needs in this area and I would suggest that instead of meeting maybe three or four times a year, they meet more often.

HON J J NETTO:

That is not the case. Normally they tend to meet about once a month. Even if there were to be an extraordinary event within the four week cycle of the month, I am sure they will get together or do a round robin.

HON C A BRUZON:

So if there are urgent cases they would meet, because in answer to a question that I asked in January I think the answer was that these meetings take place three or four times a year. I am glad to hear that it is not the case and that it is more like once a month.

HON S E LINARES:

As a matter of clarification, are we talking about the Housing Allocation Committee or the Housing Advisory Committee? There are two, are there not?

HON J J NETTO:

The role of the Housing Advisory Committee along with the Medical Advisory Board are two subsidiary sub-committees of the Housing Allocation Committee, advising the Housing Allocation Committee whether on medical matters or on social matters.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 582 TO 583 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

Can the Minister give me an idea as to how many were successful in getting Government housing?

HON J J NETTO:

The information I have is that we have had eight requests, one has been allocated/transferred, two are pending further information and five have been rejected.

HON S E LINARES:

In relation to Gib V tenants in the C Option who do not pay their service charges, are Government liable for those service charges? If not, who is liable for those service charges?

HON J J NETTO:

My understanding is the management company of Gib V not the Government.

HON S E LINARES:

Surely as they are tenants of Government, they are Government tenants because the property belongs to the Government, if they are Government tenants and they fail to pay the service charges, is the landlord not supposed to be responsible for the service charges, Government in this case?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

This is an issue of contention between the Government and the management company of Gib V which they raise with me at meetings and which we are working towards a solution to. Of course the difficulty is that if I were to say or accept, or if the Government were to say or accept 'yes if you do not pay the Government will' it is not rocket science for the hon Member to work out what the consequences of that would be. People would just stop paying their service charges. So the solution that I am trying to engineer with the management committee, indeed I think they have got a meeting scheduled in my diary within the next few days, and I am sure this item will be on the agenda for further development, is an alternative way in which the Government can address the matter financially without having those, I am sure the hon Member would regard as well also, undesired consequences of thinking people saying 'well if the Government pays it if I do not, then I will not pay so that the Government pays it'. That is the approach. There was an issue about affordability by some tenants and my hon Colleague the Minister for Housing, I think there may be a question on the Order Paper about this so I will not say too much, we did have a scheme last year whereby Option C tenants who could genuinely could not afford it were given an exit strategy. Therefore anyone who did not avail themselves of that one should presuppose is able to afford to pay the service charges. Yes, the hon Member has obviously been well informed by somebody, but there is an issue, a contention about what the legal merits of the position is. I mean, whose the liability is but the solution is trying to go down another route rather than the legalistic.

| Medical C | 11 applicants | 9 males | 2 females |

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 584 TO 587 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

In the case of the medically categorised A, is there any procedure where Government can in fact not use preferential treatment of course, but ensure that advice is given when needed. There are a number of people who contact me, I have written to the Minister in connection with some of them, they have been medically categorised A for over a year and they still have not had a flat allocated.

HON J J NETTO:

The fact that some people who are medically categorised contact the hon Member does not mean that nothing is being done on medical cases. The Government can practically say that it has given a lot of consideration over the last eight years to maximise the number of medical cases into Government housing, and we have done hundreds of them. The fact of the matter is that there is all sorts of demand. There are demands from medical cases, which is continuing all the time, there are demands on social cases and there are demands of people on the waiting list against the stock and the supply that we have. That is the management that we have but every single consideration has been given, will continue to be given to medical cases, social cases and people on the waiting list.

HON C A BRUZON:

What needs to happen is that more houses at affordable prices have to be built, basically.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That has got absolutely nothing to do with it. The hon Member has to understand that the medical A list, I mean I have much more sympathy actually for the people on the medical B and the medical C list, I am not quite sure why those lists exist frankly, but as far as the medical A list is concerned the hon Member has got to understand that it is a waiting list, and getting on the list does not mean that one can have a house it means that one is given priority access to a house. Otherwise, if just being on the medical A list were an entitlement to an immediate house, then the housing allocation decision would not be made by Government or by the Housing Allocation Committee, they would in effect eventually end up all being made by the doctors in the Health Centre or by the Consultants. It just does not work like that. The hon Member was not around in the House at the time but may recall reading in the newspapers at the time, that as a result of building Bishop Canilla House the medical A list was removed in totality because it happens that most people on the medical A list are elderly people. One could have the exception to that rule but on the whole most are elderly people, and when Bishop Canilla House was built the medical A list for the first time ever was accommodated lock stock and barrel in one go, and when we build the new enlarged version of Bishop Canilla in the new housing schemes in Waterport Road the medical A list and possibly the B list will be removed again, but it has got nothing to do with affordability of housing or building affordable housing because these are not houses for sale. These are houses for rental to people on the housing waiting list so the question of building more affordable housing is completely non germane to the question of accommodating elderly people on the housing A waiting list.

HON C A BRUZON:

Of course it is connected. When affordable houses are built Government housing stock will be vacated by people who buy these affordable houses and then others could be moved into those empty flats. When Bishop Canilla was built promises were made that more homes for the elderly were going to be built. It was made by made by the Chief Minister in his New Year message in 2001. That is why I mentioned the fact that more buildings need to be made and constructed to solve these problems.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

For a start I just told the hon Member that the new Government housing scheme includes 250. Secondly, the hon Member's remark which caused me to rise to my feet was 'I suppose this proves the need for more affordable housing to be built'. The explanation that I have tried to give him, which he obviously does not appreciate, is that addressing the demand for housing from people on the category A waiting list actually has nothing to do with the shortage, availability, surplus or anything else to do with affordable housing, because this affordable housing is the language of housing for sale and we are talking about housing for rental. He is wrong as well on his suggestion that if building of affordable houses vacates Government housing for people on the medical A list. Again not correct. Most people on the medical A list are already in Government housing, it is not that they do not have housing, it is that the location of the housing is not suitable. For example, they might live up in Moorish Castle or up in Calpe and they have got to climb hills to get there, or it might be on the fifth floor of a block without a lift and they cannot come up and down the stairs. The vast majority of people on the Government's medical A list already have a Government house and therefore it is not a question of just flats becoming empty, flats have to become empty which happen to be on the ground floor in an estate in the lower part of town, and that is not addressed or resolved by the flats that become vacant because Government build affordable housing and people move from Council flats to home ownership flats. That would not address the demand for housing for people on the medical A list. It is not about number of houses it is about location of houses. It is not about them not presently having a house, it is about their present house not being in a suitable location and that is not addressed because as the hon Member can well imagine, that even if there are 200 Government flats becoming vacant as a result of Council tenants becoming home purchasers, the chances of enough of those flats being on the ground floor are very much reduced. That is why, and I am glad to see that the hon Member thinks that Bishop Canilla was a solution to that, that is why we came to the conclusion that the only way to address this problem in a structured way which was not a sort of hit and miss lottery, was (1) build housing suitable and specifically designed for the elderly, given that most of the elderly were also the medical A list, and (2) install lifts in Government flats, so that anybody that had to move for medical reasons because they could not walk up and down stairs, would no longer need to move house. Most of these elderly people actually do not want to move house, they have lived there all their lives, they have spent a lot of their own money doing it up, they have got all their furniture, they have raised their children in that house, it is regarded as the family home and most of them do not want to move and are much happier to have a lift installed so that they can retain the investment, both financial and emotional that they have made in their house over many decades. This is not a question just of housing list management it is about structured approach, it is about building specifically designed houses for the elderly, for those that need to move, and building lifts in the remaining Government blocks. I am glad to say that since 1996 both of those policies have been deployed and are continuing and will go further and we believe that that is a sensible, effective approach, much more so than micro managing the waiting lists.

HON C A BRUZON:

I am glad the Chief Minister has mentioned the building of lifts, because I have one specific case, there are many I am sure, somebody came to me and explained that they had a letter dated January 2003 and the answer to this gentleman who desperately needs lifts in Knight's Court said that the construction of lifts in Knight's Court was imminent and therefore he would not be considered for application to another flat. That is something that was an answer given from the Housing Department to this family. Obviously my question is, what is the meaning of imminent? Is it in a few weeks time or is it in three years time?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Tenants of Government housing estates in Gibraltar benefited hugely from the arriving into office of the GSD Government. In many ways, not just general repair and maintenance, but also and particularly because it was not until we arrived in office that the question of investing public funds in installing lifts became a reality or even came up for consideration. Now of course it is all very well for the Government to have an innovative policy of that sort that the hon Members did not even think of when they were in office, and then ask questions about the ones that have not been built rather than about the ones that have been built as if the Government could build lifts in every block simultaneously all in the same year, as if there were enough building resources and enough financial resources to do it. Therefore when the Government sets about a programme of building lifts in as many Council blocks of flats as can structurally take a lift, we are not going to be subjected to pressure about when is this particular block or that particular block going to be done. There has got to be a programme and that means that some come first, some come second, some come third and some come twenty-third. Frankly, to be spending the sort of money that we are spending on the installation of lifts, in Varyl Begg, in Alameda Estate and in many others, so that the hon Member comes here to ask 'well when are you going to do it in Knight's Court?', and I suppose when we have done it in Knight's Court he will come here and say 'and when are you going to do it in Rosia House?'. I am sorry that is just not realistic. There is a programme, the programme is being gone through and people have to be patient, but patience at least gives light at the end of the tunnel. When there was a Government that had no policy of installing lifts, there was no hope whatsoever. So people are still much better off now than they used to be.

HON C A BRUZON:

I think the Chief Minister has missed the point. All I am trying to say is that I know one cannot build lifts in two days, that is pretty obvious but to write a letter to a couple, to pensioners, saying to them that the construction of lifts in such and such a building is imminent I think is unfair. What they should have said, in my view, is suggested that it could take 18 months or it could take two years and then that elderly couple would know that they would have to wait. It is in the response, the replies that some people get.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In respect of the six people on the A medical list, which is where we were some time ago, is it the case that this is purely chronological? That is to say that one goes down the list depending on the date that they join it?

HON J J NETTO:

That is correct.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is why there is an A, B and C list. The medical prioritisation is the distinction between medical A, medical B and medical C, which is why I started with the quip it is not clear what value it is to be on medical B and C, I do not think anybody gets a house for being on medical B and C. One alternative might be to prioritise the people within a single medical list but there is no prioritisation within each of A, B and C. A, B and C is itself the prioritisation system.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can the Chief Minister say what is the date of the first of the six?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No. I do not think it would be appropriate. Housing lists normally are published but this is a medical list, we would be putting into the public domain that somebody has a medical problem.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I am not asking who it is, I am asking how long he has been on it.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The way the Leader of the Opposition formulated the question, it came across as if he wanted the name.

HON J J BOSSANO:

No, the first person on the list, how long has that person been there, the first one?

HON J J NETTO:

Provided I get notice, yes, I would provide the information.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

For arguments sake, when was the last time somebody on the list was given a house.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Basically, yes.

HON J J NETTO:

So long as I am given notice.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is there a percentage of the allocations that are put on one side for medical cases or not?

HON J J NETTO:

Normally that is the case. There is not a strict percentage in the sense that if in a given month so many houses have come back from refurbishment, whatever the number happens to be, obviously they will try to fit in within that number so many people of the waiting list, so many people from the medical list and so many people from the social list. So they are trying to manage that against the number of flats that come in, in a given month, which will oscillate up and down in every month.

HON J J BOSSANO:

So there is no a policy that says ten per cent of the allocations within a month or a year or whatever should be for medical cases?

HON J J NETTO:

No, there is not a certain percentage for the month or the year.

NO 588 OF 2004

THE HON C A BRUZON

HOUSING

Can Government provide the answers given in writing to Question Nos. 123 to 131 of 2004 by the Minister for Housing, for the purpose of the record in Hansard?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HOUSING

No, the purpose of questions in this House is to provide the hon Member with the information which I have done in writing. If the hon Member wants an oral answer for Hansard, then he must put an oral question. However, I am happy to confirm that I confirm the answers that I gave him in writing. If that is not sufficient for his purposes then he should ask oral questions based on the information that I have provided him, or design to elicit the same answer.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 588 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

In just the same way as answers are given to the Opposition in writing in a matter of minutes and they appear in Hansard, is it not reasonable to request that answers to questions asked in the House but which arrive ten days later also appear in Hansard?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, the Government do not agree that that is logical at all. There is a procedure for written questions, or questions for written answer, there is a procedure for answers to oral questions, and both of those are parliamentary in nature. There is a system whereby the hon Member is free to write a letter to the Minister outside the parliamentary scope and he gets an answer to his question. In both cases the suggestion, even in respect of the parliamentary version, even when one puts down a question for written answer, a formal parliamentary question but for written answer as opposed to for oral answer, the idea that the hon Member then or whoever, in fact there is another question later on in the Order Paper asked to another Minister which is going to get a similar reply, the idea that we just stand up here and read out the answer, the answer is no.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The answer that the Chief Minister has given no to has nothing to do with the question that is being asked. The question put by my hon Colleague and the other one in the Order Paper is for the Government to simply say in the House, 'I provide the hon Member with the answers to questions 123 to 131' and then the answers would be recorded. These are not answers to letters, these are the answers to the questions put in January which the Minister said would be sent within ten days because they had not had enough time. If they had had enough time and answered it in January it would be recorded in Hansard.

MR SPEAKER:

Hansard only records what is said in the House, even oral or writing, not outside the House.

HON J J BOSSANO:

With all due respect, what he said in the House is 'the reply is too voluminous to read, I hand the hon Member the answer'. That is not what the record in Hansard shows. The record in Hansard shows what has been handed over, although it has not been said in the House and not been read in the House. All we need to do is to look at the last Hansard and we will see that all the information that the Government passes to the Opposition appears in Hansard as if it had been read out. We have not put a question saying will the Minister give a written answer. We have put a question saying will the Minister give an oral answer. He told us in January that because of the work involved he would write to the hon Member providing in writing what he would have given in this House across the floor if it had been ready on time. If it had been ready on time it would have been recorded and because it arrived ten days later it is not recorded. We do not think it is unreasonable for the Minister, who says we need to put an oral question, well he has got an oral question. The question is whether he will provide the answers and all he has to say to that question is 'yes I give the hon Member the answers' which is what he says in a hundred other occasions, and then it would be recorded. So why do they have a problem with that?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Well, first of all I think we need to distinguish the various different types of practices. There are many occasions in which the Opposition Members, and I know it is not what he is referring to now, but there are occasions in which the Opposition Members ask for information on which notice has not been given in the question and the Minister might say 'well I do not have that information with me but I will send it to the hon Member'. That is a matter of correspondence, that example is a matter of correspondence and not a matter of Hansard. Frankly, it is entirely a matter for the Speaker what he interprets should go into Hansard. I was actually not aware. Sometimes since I have had the need personally to look at Hansard that I had not appreciated that the content of all these tables, all these schedules, go into Hansard. Well that is not a judgement, that is not my call. I query whether that is necessarily the correct decision but if that is the decision that the Speaker has made that is what he is here for. He is the custodian of Hansard and that is fine the Government have no objection to it going into Hansard if the Speaker decides that it should go into Hansard. Hansard is supposed to be, I would have thought, a written transcript of the oral event. That is my interpretation of what Hansard is supposed to be but I could be wrong, I have never addressed my mind to the issue. On the last occasion that we had a meeting of the House, the hon Member asked questions which were simply impossible by their nature for the Government to have, at an administrative level because the politicians do not do the work for putting these questions together. At an administrative level some of them just could not be prepared, the answers could not be researched, tabulated, printed and delivered in the necessary time available. The Government could have come to the House backed entirely by not only parliamentary convention but long established practice, saying the information required by the hon Member's question is administratively disproportionate to put together and not answer it. That is the standard historically established way to deal with questions that require a disproportionate administrative effort to prepare. We could have done that and if we had done that this question would now not be arising. In other words, the Government would have just relied on what governments have always relied on, say 'no I cannot get the answer within 5 days and therefore I do not answer the question because a disproportionate administrative effort is required to prepare the answer within 5 days'. Then the question asked by the hon Member would not arise, we are entitled not to answer questions for that reason. We chose not to do so because we chose to draw a distinction between answers that required a disproportionate administrative effort to get to qualitatively, and situations which were marginal. In other words, we just need a few more days, it is quantitatively rather than qualitatively disproportionate and the quantitative margin was liveable with. So we did not. Instead of saying 'no we will not give you the answers because of the usual parliamentary pretext given for that or reason given for that', we said 'no we will give you this information within ten days'. Now, we did not think that we were offering or that the hon Members were going to interpret that to mean as part of the parliamentary Question and Answer Session, and the question does not say 'you can not have the information', one has the information in writing, the question says 'now I want it in Hansard', the Government do not think they have given it in a parliamentary framework. The Government simply believe that we have said in Parliament in answer to a question that we could have declined to answer we could have said, we chose instead to say we will not answer it. Well, we will give the information within ten days. The information was provided, the hon Member now wants to find a way of putting that information provided into the parliamentary context of Hansard whether it is rightly or wrongly does not matter, that is a side issue. The answer is not intended to be unhelpful. The answer is intended to mean, we do not think the proper way to do this is for us simply to repeat the information as if we were putting the clock back and repeat orally information that has been given in writing. We have however, on record in Hansard, confirmed that we in the parliamentary sense endorse the answer. This is what we confirm that the information given in writing is confirmed. Then the answer goes on to say, if that is not enough sufficient for his purpose then if he actually wants to see it spelt out verbatim in Hansard, then he needs to ask the question and he could have done it here. For example, if indeed it is the practice that what we give in schedules does go into Hansard, the hon Member could ask the same question again in which what we would simply do is instead of giving a schedule full of words and full of numbers, we would just give him a schedule with the letters that the Minister got and then it can be typed in if that is the practice. We do not think that in the circumstances that this issue arose it is the proper analysis of what we thought we were doing anyway. Our analysis of what happened is that it was in the parliamentary context so that that activity required us just to sit up and read orally the information can the Government provide the answers given in writing. That is not a question, that is not asking the same question which would attract the same answer orally. For example, if the question answered in the letter was 'what is the price of fish?', if this question had asked 'what is the price of fish?' then he would have had the answer to that question, but the question is 'will the hon Member provide the answers given in writing by the Minister, for the purposes of the record in Hansard?'.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The only reason why we drafted this was because we thought we ought to do it in recognition of the fact that the information has been provided. Otherwise we could have simply put a question saying, 'will the Government now answer question 123?' as if they had not already answered it. We acknowledge that they have answered it, we acknowledge that if the answer on that piece of paper had simply been given here in the House.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I was not aware of that.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Well that is why it happens and therefore, if Question 123 were being asked now it is nonsense for the Minister to say he is not going to stand here and read it all out. He always stands up and says the answer is too lengthy to read out in the House and I now hand over the information on a piece of paper. That is what he sent in writing. So were he to say 'can the answer that he gave us to Question 123 be provided in the House?', because we think that is the only way to have it in a document which is the official historical record of the answers in this House. The piece of paper is in our offices but there is no record of the answer given by the Government. The question is there but their answer is not. I would have thought it would be in their interests as well that the explanation that they have given should be in the records of the House. We could think of no other way of doing it but if instead of saying 'can he now give us the answer to Question 123?' we read Question 123, he will then say 'yes' and hand a piece of paper. Well, we will add all these questions to the next meeting.

HON C A BRUZON:

Just to round off this short discussion, I was the person who thought of this question because as a new Member of the House I thought I had identified a loophole and I discovered that the procedure of handing answers over to the other side, as those answers got entered into Hansard I thought I would ask the question in the case of answers to questions that were received later. That is all.

HON F R PICARDO:

If I might, just for the sake of the record books, I think this is very important not just for us and for the Government to have recorded in Hansard what is said but also for third parties not members of this House who may wish to access the information that has passed across the floor of this House. The definition that I have of what Hansard is and let us recall that it is called the official report of debate, is that it is a full report of speeches, questions and answers, statements and all things said in the House itself, and separate papers report debates in standing committees, but Hansard also includes written answers to questions and this is the important part of the definition, and certain other matters going beyond what was actually said in the House, such as occasional detailed supplementary information relating to answers to questions. It may be that the best way to deal with this issue is that when the Minister says 'I am going to give you this information, you will have it within ten days' and that is not a correspondence issue, it should also be provided to the House and perhaps added just for the sake of the record.

MR SPEAKER:

No. One cannot have it both ways. If there is an oral question the answer is an oral answer. The fact that some of it is in writing is for the purpose of shortcutting procedure on both sides but when one gets the written part of the question, it is not a written answer it is the written part of a question, one can ask a supplementary in the House. If the Minister says 'we will give you the information' no supplementary arises. So therefore it is not recorded. He sends the information in writing and then you answer back and say this is wrong because I asked about whether this is going to be recorded in Hansard. No.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Can I suggest a possible alternative approach. The Government have no difficulty with this. It is just a question, as far as we are concerned, of mechanics and correct procedure and proper procedure. For example, I am not sure that there are any questions on this occasion that have been postponed for ten days, we try to avoid it as much as possible. Whenever the Government need to do that, perhaps one alternative device is for the question to be there and then converted into a written question or a question for written answer, so that when the answer is provided it might then be eligible to go into Hansard as answers to a written question. I do not know what the rules are on that. What is the procedure for including in Hansard when there is a parliamentary question asked for written answer as opposed to for oral answer? Does it then get into Hansard or not?

MR SPEAKER:

I have had a long session with the Hon Mari Montegriffo, she wanted to have written questions and get written answers, but she wanted everything. After having that she wanted to have supplementaries on that and that cannot be. So it might be that the Hon Miss Montegriffo and the other Minister, the Hon Col Britto, might enter in the picture too to make the procedure easier.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The arrangement that I came to with the Minister is that for a question to go through Hansard and be recorded in Hansard all that needs to be done is to ask the question over again.

MR SPEAKER:

Yes, and one can ask another 900 questions. I have got a feeling that there are so many questions because I have cut on supplementaries, I am hoping it is not.

ORAL

Can Government state why the Department of Education is no longer contracting supply teachers to cover for absent teachers?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

It is not correct that the Department of Education is no longer contracting supply teachers to cover for absent colleagues.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 590 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

If this is the case, they are still going to cover, why is it that all schools have been told that no extra supply will be supplied?

HON DR B A LINARES:

The hon Member's informants in this respect have not got their facts right.

EDUCATION – GASA SWIMMING POOL

Can Government state why the Department of Education is no longer paying for children to be able to go to the GASA swimming pool?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

It is not correct to affirm that the Government are no longer paying for children to be able to go to the GASA swimming pool.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 591 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Is it not the case that instructions have been given to schools to get the money needed in order for the children to go to the swimming pool from their own capitation rather than from the Department of Education?

HON DR B A LINARES:

The operational aspects of this procedure is very much up to the administration as a matter of policy, which is my concern, the Government are still committed to pay for children to be able to go to the GASA swimming pool.

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister then confirm that the Government are going to pay GASA out of the capitation from schools?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I cannot confirm that. I repeat that the Government are satisfied that provision is being made in whatever operational manner for children still to benefit from attendance at the GASA swimming pool. That is a matter of policy and I am satisfied.

HON S E LINARES:

My question has not been answered. My question is specifically, is the money for children to go to the swimming pool coming from the capitation of schools? Is it coming from capitation? Not whether the Minister is satisfied.

HON DR B A LINARES:

The question was, 'is the Government no longer paying for children to be able to go to the GASA swimming pool', and I have answered that it is not correct, that the children can still go to the GASA swimming pool and the Government are providing. Whatever operational procedural way it is not a matter for me to investigate. In any case notice perhaps could have been given as to how the whole thing is operated administratively. The question is one of policy and I have answered.

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister explain how it has been done in the past? How is GASA paid and from what monies GASA is being paid?

HON DR B A LINARES:

The answer is GASA, who have now raised their fees I believe to £1.50 per head per session, have been paid from Government funds administered by the Department of Education.

HON S E LINARES:

Correct, administered by the Department of Education. Is it not the case now that it has to be administered from the capitation money given to schools rather than from the Department of Education?

HON DR B A LINARES:

No what I mean is that the capitation funds are also part of the funds provided by the Department of Education. That is an operational channelling of payments which is not the important point.

HON S E LINARES:

So the Minister is now confirming that through his different arrangements the money is coming from the capitation given to schools. Can he confirm that?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I cannot confirm that here and now.

EDUCATION – SCHOOL TRIPS

Can Government explain whether the same safety standards apply to children in Gibraltar as they apply to children in the UK when attending school trips?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

Similar safety procedures to those employed with school children in the UK are applied by our schools when planning school trips. Safety assessment is carried out by each school before all these trips and the well being of the children is paramount at all times. I might add that our schools, thank God, enjoy an excellent safety record on school trips, despite the very large number of these which are organised annually.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 592 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

The Minister has just said the word 'similar' and not 'the same'. Can he state the differences?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Similar, the same, .....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Minister is not accountable in this House for the law and practices in the United Kingdom. The hon Member himself, once he informs himself of what is the position in Gibraltar, can if he wants compare them to the practices in the UK and work out for himself whether there are any differences. It is not for the Government to do for the hon Member a comparative analysis of the position between Gibraltar and the UK. We are accountable for the position in Gibraltar.

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Government give us the position in Gibraltar of the safety?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I have already answered that, I have said that a safety assessment is carried out by each school before each trip and I am absolutely satisfied that the attention and precautions taken by those involved, particularly the teachers involved, are perfectly adequate.

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister state who makes these safety assessments?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Safety assessments will be made primarily by the Head teacher supported by the other teachers who are organising the safety trip, and in consultation of course with other relevant authorities who would give the necessary advice.

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister then give us what qualifications the Head teacher has to make a safety assessment on school trips?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Head teachers are qualified in a very generic sense concerning the safety and health of their children, and as I say they also consult and seek advice from relevant persons and experienced persons involved in school trips.

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister then assure every single parent that the Head teacher makes assessments on buses that they travel in? The Chief Minister might laugh but it is a very important aspect because one of the things now that the Chief Minister is laughing at it, I will tell him that one of the things that are required in the UK, which we even have not got any legislation here but we tend to have "similar" practice to the UK, is that buses should have in every single seat a seat belt and they do not. Even the bus that we have here in our Department to take children to different places. So that is one of the things. Carrying on with the question, can the Minister then assure parents that the Head teacher will look at every single aspect because that is what he is saying that it is a safety assessment, and an assessment means that they look at the places they stay in, the way they travel and who they travel with. Can the Minister assure this?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Chief Minister was not laughing because the matter is not serious. The Chief Minister is laughing because of the political opportunism and unreasonableness of the question. The Minister, nor the Chief Minister nor all the kings horses and all the kings men, can provide parents with a guarantee that when their children go on a school trip they are not going to befall an accident. I, as a parent, when I allow my children to go on school trips understand and appreciate that regardless of the degree of care that has been taken by those organising the trip, accidents happen. Therefore the use of the words 'can the Minister give an absolute assurance' are frankly not sensible words to try and put in the Minister's mouth. What the Minister and the Government can do is assure the hon Member that the care, skill and extent of the precautionary preparations taken now in connection with the planning of school trips is at the very least, at least as robust as they were when the hon Members were last in government themselves and responsible for the same thing. That assurance I can give him.

EDUCATION – PRIVATE NURSERIES

Can Government state whether private nurseries are following the Foundation Year during the Pre-school year as is done in Government Schools?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The Foundation Course is not a statutory obligation and schools are able to choose whether to do it or not. Government of course are not in the practice of dictating specific curricular provisions to private nurseries.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 593 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister state if he is aware whether there is any private school actually doing the Foundation year with the pre-school?

HON DR B A LINARES:

No I am not aware. The administrators in the Department of Education no longer keep an eye. In any case I repeat, it is not a statutory provision even for Government pre-school provision and it is a question of value. I do not want to go into a wider debate but I am sure the hon Member knows and understands that over prescription at pre-school stages are not advisable by modern research, and therefore as in fact the National Curriculum at later stages of schooling has come into controversy precisely because of that over work and over prescriptive criteria, similarly and even more forcefully, at pre-school age.

NO 594 OF 2004

THE HON S E LINARES

EDUCATION – PRIVATE NURSERIES

Can Government state whether any Private Nursery has been inspected since the last one in 1997?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

I am sure the hon Member also knows that formal inspections, the traditional regimented inspection, are not seen today to be the best way of actually guiding and advising and monitoring most aspects of educational establishments. As regards private nurseries, although there have been no formal inspections in that sense we are in constant, especially in a small place like Gibraltar, in constant daily contact with the staff, with the parents, with the therapists, who do tend in situ to the needs of speech and language development, and occupational therapists, and I think in conjunction in this context the Department is satisfied that private nurseries are doing their job rather well.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 594 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister give us an indication of how many times an Educational Adviser or any other education psychologist have actually gone to private nurseries?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I cannot give any particular number of cases or instances. I have given the background to this, there is no formal visitation perhaps but there is an interaction and a constant sharing of experiences and information.

EDUCATION – POST 16 ISSUES

Can the Minister state whether the NASUWT have responded to the Department of Education's request to contribute their views on Post 16 issues?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The Minister can state that the NASUWT have not as yet responded to the Department of Education's request for their views on Post 16 issues.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 595 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Since the last time has the Committee that the Minister formed in order to look at these issues, have they met in the last six months?

HON DR B A LINARES:

No, the working group completed their work, they produced a document prepared for Government with their views and submitted this in January 2003, and it was a copy of this document that was actually provided to the NASUWT. It actually took place during a very thorough and wide ranging discussion with Mrs Sue Rogers, the National Treasurer of the NASUWT during a visit to Gibraltar a few months ago. She actually took the initiative and suggested that this issue of Post 16 education should be seen within the much wider context of the Tomlinson Report in the UK, 14-19, that that provided a much global, more comprehensive view which touched upon the Post 16 education. She actually suggested that they would take over as from then because even the Tomlinson Report and the implications were not quite clear as yet, they were very much in the pipeline and the union in UK was actually studying its implications, and that when they were clearer about that, they would come back to us with the considered views of the union and that is exactly why I said in the answer to the original question that the NASUWT have not yet formally responded, we are awaiting their very valuable view in the context of the wider developments of the Tomlinson Report 14-19.

HON S E LINARES:

So whilst we await the report from the NASUWT and looking at the 14-19 Tomlinson Report, what is going to happen with the current children, or should I say young adults, what is going to happen to them? Are we going to wait indefinitely, because this committee that the Minister set up was set up in 1998 and since then we have had no progress as in a policy, I am not saying progress in another sense, but as a clear cut policy. So what is going to happen as from now? Are we going to wait again for another three or four years until in the UK the Tomlinson Report recommendations are brought up and taken on and the unions discuss with the Government? What are we going to do, just wait all the time like we are?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I am rather disappointed at the reaction of the Opposition Member, I thought he would understand the academic and educational aspects which are so important to consider this issue in perspective and in depth. This question of indefinite, there is nothing indefinite in the sense that as I say, the union itself, Mrs Sue Rogers herself said that we should wait and look at all the implications of the 14-19 report. Meanwhile of course, it is not a question of just lying still. There are many operational aspects in practical terms of consortia and cooperation between the schools in order to improve, perhaps the provision of the 16-19 phase of education.

HON S E LINARES:

Are Government thinking of implementing from 14-16 as well, because that seems to be the trend?

HON DR B A LINARES:

We are thinking of everything that comes into the market, if I may put it rather crudely, in the educational field. We think of everything, but of course it is thinking, it is considering, it is studying, and I go back again to explaining that the union itself in the UK have said that that is their position at the moment.

HON S E LINARES:

I agree with the thinking and the studying. What we need to do is the implementing as soon as possible.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I think it is rather rash to rush.

HON S E LINARES:

Rash, when he started this committee in 1998. Rash?

EDUCATION – SUPPLY TEACHERS

Can the Government state why probationary teachers on supply are being asked to go through a second interview process even though they have been successful in their first interview the previous year?

NO 597 OF 2004

THE HON S E LINARES

EDUCATION – SUPPLY TEACHERS

Can the Government confirm that probationary teachers on supply who chose to interview the second time are given priority of employment over those who chose not to attend?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

Answer to Question No. 596 of 2004

May I point out that there are no probationary teachers as such on supply. Probation is only a process available to those on a permanent and pensionable contract. The purpose of these interviews is to assess their suitability for a permanent and pensionable post in our schools complement. Whilst teachers are required to apply every year it is not true to say that they are asked to attend interviews every time. It is up to them, they are offered a choice. Interviews allow teachers to provide more details about their past years experience and professional development in the schools they have serviced since their first interview, and any other relevant experiences they may have gained, but as I say it is optional to them whether or not although most of them want to attend a second interview precisely for that purpose.

The answer to Question No. 597 is no Sir. No priority of employment is given to these teachers over those who choose not to attend the interview.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 596 TO 597 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

The Minister has mentioned the fact that probationary teachers are the ones who are permanent and pensionable and therefore that is when their probationary year starts. Is it not the case that supply teachers are offered supply, usually on a full time basis which is a contradiction in terms. May I add that one can not have a supply teacher on a permanent basis, but the Government have started that practice. Does that mean that a teacher who is in supply for a year and is a teacher who has come from the UK and has gone through his or her induction course, which they usually do, these supply teachers go through these induction courses and all that, that then they have to go through another probationary year once they are on a permanent and pensionable basis?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes, the answer is yes. Once a teacher gets onto the permanent and pensionable basis they do the first years probation in more senses than one. One is because it is General Orders and it is a Civil Service requirement that the first year in permanent and pensionable employment is a probational year. Secondly and very importantly, because I was involved directly with the Department of Education in the UK, is this induction year that some of them who come have not done that formal structured induction year in UK, which actually makes them eligible for teaching in a State school in the UK. We had to negotiate that the Department for Education and Skills in the UK would recognise our probation year, which is similarly structured, precisely for that purpose and this was a bonus of course for our teachers who might wish for one reason or another to move to the UK and teach in a State school there.

HON S E LINARES:

Yes, I remember the Minister actually answering my predecessor, the Hon Mr Gabay, in relation to this but what I am stating is that a supply teacher for a year who is asked to do the induction course, what the Minister is now confirming is that that teacher will have to repeat that induction course once they become permanent and pensionable. I think what the Minister should do is inform the supply teachers, the current supply teachers, whether they come from UK without having done the year or not, that they are to do their induction course again, which I understand that most of them do not do it again anyway. They are sort of put down as probationary teachers for the purpose of what the Minister has said, due to General Orders but do they have to go through the induction course again once they become permanent and pensionable, because they are doing it under a supply basis?

HON DR B A LINARES:

They may do a year of supply which can be seen, as the hon Member is trying to do, as a probationary period. Yes, it is the gaining of experience, it is an opportunity for professional development, but the actual structured course which was actually very seriously negotiated with the Department for Education and Skills in the UK, only takes place once a teacher becomes a full member of the complement on a permanent and pensionable basis. So the teachers involved know all about this and they are quite satisfied to go through the process.

HON S E LINARES:

No, the thing is that the teachers on supply now are asked to do this induction course. Therefore if the supply teacher is being asked to do the induction course, then they have to repeat the induction course once they become permanent and pensionable. This is the issue. I understand and I know the basis of these induction courses and I appreciate the fact that they go through this and then they have the "qualification" to go to the UK and then say 'I am now a teacher who can pass through a natural course'. I am aware of that but what I am stating is that the supply teachers who come from the UK and are now posted in different places, who are currently doing the induction course which the Minister has stated, then they have to repeat that induction course, the same one, it is not as if there is an advanced induction course, it is the same one once they become permanent and pensionable.

I doubt if they are aware that they have to go through it again. I doubt it very much so can the Minister state what is the state of affairs this moment in time?

HON DR B A LINARES:

My understanding is that it is only once the teacher becomes permanent and pensionable that the probationary aspect is really structured and formalised, that the supply year is no longer as demanding or as formally exacting as the year when the teacher becomes a full member of the complement of permanent and pensionable.

HON S E LINARES:

In light of that answer can the Minister then inform his Department not to force supply teachers who come from the UK to do that induction course, because then they are doing that. They are doing now, they are forcing supply teachers to do that induction course, which I see positive by the way, but they are not aware. They are under the impression that they are doing the induction course in order to avoid doing the induction course once they become permanent and pensionable. So could the Minister then inform all supply teachers who come from the UK after their studies that they are not eligible, or they should not or they do not have to do the induction course, because at the present time that is the case.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I am not aware that there have been any complaints from teachers because of this but certainly we will look into the matter so that they are well informed, and I believe teachers right from the very start are pretty well informed of all their conditions of employment.

| St Anne's          | -           | £13,587.03 | -           | £6,021.50  |
| St Joseph's Middle | £28,715.52  | £11,282.76 | -           | £2,286.61  |
| Hebrew Primary     | -           | £1,752.45  | -           | £305.00    |

| Westside           | -           | £25,550.58 | -           | £10,956.91 |

May I point out that in total the amount spent on minor works in the last financial year in our schools was £350,000 and in repairs around £220,000, that gives us £570,000 spent in our schools on minor works and repairs. As to his question on this financial year, of course minor works only £10,000 we have had the opportunity to spend, that was in Governor's Meadow I think it was in connection with the asbestos problem. The rest is a question of on-going repairs which have cropped up in this financial year.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 610 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister state how the Department differentiates between minor works and repairs?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes, repairs is meeting problems that arise in the on-going daily life of the school, like breakages and burst pipes, broken windows and furniture, things that need to be repaired. Minor works is more developmental, more planned developments of the school infrastructure.

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister state in the list given whether any of these monies, because it states 2003/2004 and I understand that he has got 2004/2005 probably if it is Governor's Meadow it would be with the asbestos or anything else, something that has cropped up as minor works, but is this before because I wanted from the last financial year and the present financial year. Now the present financial year is not this one, the present financial year has not ended yet as such so we are talking about having the expenditure of 2003/2004, is this what has been spent to date and is there any money that is going to be spent from now till the end of this financial year?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The answer given relates to the financial year. The details totalling about £570,000 was in respect of the financial year 2003/2004 which has ended, it ended on 31st March. The hon Member also said that in addition they had spent £10,000 this year, meaning since 1st April, so the bulk of the information given deals with the last financial year, 2003/2004, the twelve month year period ending 31st March that has passed. The question also asks 'and present financial year' and he has had the answer, bearing in mind that most of this expenditure is incurred during the summer holidays. Therefore it would be unusual for it to happen in April, May, except for emergency works.

EDUCATION – ST MARTIN’S SCHOOL

Can Government state whether St Martin’s school roof has been repaired?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

In answer to Question No. 611, the amount spent on St Martin’s school during the last financial year is minor works £51,138.38 and in repairs £10,519.54 and during the current financial year £4,078.79 spent on repairs during the past couple of months.

In answer to Question No. 612, the playground equipment has been purchased and the perimeter fence has now been replaced. All that now needs doing is resurfacing the area in question before we can actually install the equipment. These works will be carried out early during the current financial year.

In answer to Question No. 613 about the roof, the answer is no Sir, the roof has not been done yet.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 611 TO 613 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES

First of all in relation to the playground equipment, I remember asking this question I think it was the second but last session of the House of Assembly and the Minister gave us a guarantee that they were in the process of purchasing it at the time and they purchased it, and now the equipment is lying in St Martin’s school for the past six or eight months it has been lying there and no movement whatsoever is seen at St Martin’s School. I appreciate that the Minister wanted it in September 2003, well it has not happened, can he then state which is the next date in which the pupils of St Martin’s will be able to avail themselves of this equipment, which is lying by the way in the rain and sun in St Martin’s School.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I have answered that question, I have said that the resurfacing, which is necessary before the equipment is installed, will be carried out early during the current financial year. The reason that it has not happened is purely for logistical reasons, the contractors also have to set their priorities in terms of demands made on them in St Martin's itself, in Governor's Meadow and Bishop Fitzgerald there were additional works to be carried out because of the asbestos problem and other issues like that that make it impossible logistically for the contractors to attend to everything that is in their shopping list.

HON S E LINARES:

So the Minister can confirm it is not part of his priority then. It is not part of his priority because if it were part of his priority, when I asked the question last time it was a major priority. Now it has gone down in his priority list obviously because (1) it has not been done; (2) it is still lying there and (3) now the Minister says there are extra works to be done before putting in the equipment. When the question was answered last time, the equipment is there, everything is going to be done. Now it seems that it has gone down the priority list.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 614 TO 633 OF 2004

In respect of the breakdown I would like to point out that in total £147,152.00 have been spent on computers in our schools this year. This figure actually excludes the installation of computer suites in all schools, except Bayside which is to be completed this year, but in all other schools computer suites have been completed with networked facilities and that came from the minor works vote rather than from computer equipment.

HON S E LINARES:

The Minister has stated he spent £147,152.00 in computers this year. It is quite short considering the amount the Chief Minister said he was going to spend, and he actually announced it, that he was going to spend £250,000 this year. The question, if I may, I have drawn it further because he stated that it would be spent on education but he said it at all levels, meaning to me or to anybody out in the street, at all levels meaning the youth, the Department of Education, Bleak House, training at all levels and that is why I have posed the question in Bleak House, in the College of Further Education and the Department of Education, so it falls short from what was announced.

HON DR B A LINARES:

That is a commitment as we said in respect of the lifts, not everything can be done in one go and this is an on-going expenditure which is targeted on that amount of money that the Chief Minister said.

HON S E LINARES:

It would be appreciated that that is announced, when it is announced that it is spent that it is going to take time rather than say 'oh we are spending £250,000 this year', this year because there is a difference between the lifts. The lifts could well be a commitment of four years and I can understand that and I think everybody here understands it. The Hon Mr Bruzon actually acknowledged that. What I am saying is, saying to the general public that this financial year, because it was to do with that specific year, it is short and the Minister must admit to that.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I will give the hon Member an example, we have been actually building networked computer suites in those schools, we cannot buy the computers for that school until that work is completed. So those are the logistical difficulties and complexities of actually dishing out the money to buy the computers. I hope the hon Member understands what we mean by logistical and operational complexities and difficulties.

HON S E LINARES:

Yes but I do understand that but it is the way that it is announced that people out there do not understand and that is that when it is announced it should be explained at the same time of what the Minister is saying now, it will not be spent during one year it will be spent during two years or there are logistical problems in the way we spend the money. That is fair enough then but not to come out saying it will be spent and then it is not.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, not everybody is as concerned as the Opposition Member is to denigrate anything that the Government does. If the Government decide to make £250,000 worth of investments on computers in schools, the suggestion that in order that the hon Member should not suffer too much of an electoral disadvantage amongst people who think that this is a jolly good idea, that we should start adding 'oh and by the way this is straddled over two financial years, or it is subject to laying cables or it is subject' it is absurd. The Government disagree entirely with the alleged justification that the hon Member has just explained as to what should be the formal public announcement. The Government make a resource available for a particular improvement in the educational or any other line, and then the programme to deploy the expenditure of that resource is entirely a different matter. Some of them are announced and some of them are not. In fact the Government have not made as much of a fuss as they could have made about the deployment of this policy. We announced that we were going to renovate the computer infrastructure in the schools and we quietly got on doing it. If the hon Member prefers that every time we install computers in the school we issue a press release saying 'today the Government have installed computers in St Bernard's, hooray everybody three cheers for the Government' and we have still got left to do the following schools, then when we do the next school, I just do not accept the hon Member's view that when the Government make a general statement of allocating resources to a particular person that we have got to go into the nitty gritty about how it is going to be explained in case there is somebody who thought that it was all going to be spent on one day, the day after the announcement is made.

HON S E LINARES:

As typical of the Chief Minister distorting all of what I say, because he has just distorted it all, I have not said that he has to announce in every single press release, which he has said and I have not said I have not even mentioned press releases, I said that the Chief Minister announced £250,000 expenditure on computers at all levels, the Chief Minister announced it and where in the estimates is the £250,000, they can not even be found.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There is a point of order. The hon Member has said that I have distorted what he has said and then he goes on into a diatribe none of which amounts to suggestions of distortion. So he should please start by explaining what it is that he has said that I have distorted by suggesting that he has said something different to what he has said.

HON S E LINARES:

The fact that I did not say that a press release has to be announced every time they buy a computer. That is a distortion, total distortion of what I said. What I said is that when he announced the £250,000 expenditure on computers he should have actually qualified that by saying 'if all the infrastructure is ready then we will spend the £250,000 on computers'. That is what I said. So he has distorted because every time he stands up he tries and changes the arguments in such a way that I am saying what I have not said. That is exactly what the Chief Minister has done.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Then it confirms what I believe. That is that the hon Member either does not understand the meaning of the word 'distortion' or does not know how to conduct a debate and distinguish between (a) distortion of other peoples statements on the one hand, and simply points used in illustration. Look, he alleges that the distortion of his words, his words do not require much distortion they are pretty distorted the moment they come out of his mouth, his allegation of distortion is that I have suggested that he has suggested that he had said that the Government needed to put a press release out every time a computer was installed in a different school. I never attributed those words to him. What I said was that the Government did not agree with his view that when the original statement was made all the details that he was now suggesting the Government should have included in the original statement should have been made. I have not attributed to him, I have therefore not distorted anything in relation to him in relation to the press releases. The reference to the press releases was mine not his, but it is not a distortion of what he says because the way that the Government make statements is through press releases. So the only way that the Government can clarify how the deployment of a policy is going is through press releases. I have not said that he had said that this is the way it has to be done, I was just explaining to the hon Member that the only way that the Government could inform the public in the nitty gritty of the deployment of the originally announced policy and expenditure was through a series of press releases, which the Government could have done for their own publicity purposes and chose not to do. That is not distorting anything, he did not even talk about press releases. So unless I had said 'the hon Member said that I should have issued a press release', that would have been distorting what he said because he did not say anything about press releases. So the hon Member is himself distorting the debate in this House by suggesting, falsely, that I have distorted what he has said, and he does it regularly because he does not distinguish and properly listen and analyse the statements that are made in his earshot. It is not I who distorts therefore, it is he who distorts or does not understand the meaning of the word 'distort', one or the other.

Can Government state out of the students who completed higher degrees in 2003 how many went on to obtain employment in Gibraltar?

ANSWER*THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The statistical information requested, to the extent that it is available, is set out in the schedule that I hand to the hon Member.

Answer to Question No. 649 of 2004

1. The breakdown of students graduated who have been on Government grants by year is as follows:-

| YEAR | NO. OF STUDENTS |
|-------------|------------------------|
| 2000        | 216                    |
| 2001        | 242                    |
| 2002        | 201                    |
| 2003        | 254                    |

2. The breakdown of students who graduated and went on to do higher education by year is as follows:-

| YEAR | NO. OF STUDENTS |
|-------------|------------------------|
| 2000        | 9                      |
| 2001        | 18                     |
| 2002        | 20                     |
| 2003        | 24                     |

3. The Government do not compile records regarding the employment obtained by graduates it has sponsored. We are satisfied that the employability of individual graduates is enhanced by their participation in higher education and this justifies our investment in this area.

4. The situation in respect of students who have graduated with higher degrees is the same as for those who completed first degrees.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 634 TO 649 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Did the Minister not commit himself or at least gave us the assurance that he was going to monitor the fact that he was going to look at how many of the students who graduated either on first degrees or higher degrees, whether they obtained employment in Gibraltar?

HON DR B A LINARES:

What I did say was that we were trying very hard to obtain this information. The system that we adopted in recent years was actually issuing questionnaires to graduates of first degrees and higher degrees, but the response was so poor to put it bluntly that the indicators, the resulting data was really not indicative or reliable. So my answer is that we have not got any reliable or indicative records of the outcome in terms of employment and other avenues of graduates and those who have finished their first degrees, I am being perfectly honest about it. It is just that we have not been able, though we have tried hard, obviously the only way is approaching directly through a form of survey but these surveys have not really led to any information that I would put on the Table here as being really indicative.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Do Government not consider it important to know how much of the investment that is being made in higher education is actually reflected in people coming back here rather than staying abroad with the knowledge that they have gained?

HON DR B A LINARES:

It is important to some extent I would say because then there is also the freedom of choice of students, we educate them, we fund their education, enrich their experience academically and intellectually but then of course the freedom of the individual to choose their own avenue in life is also important to accept, but yes it is important that we have some indication to what extent our investments yield for our own benefit in our own economy, but as I have been honest enough to say that our methods of obtaining this information have as yet not yielded any clear response.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it still the practice to require students to sign an undertaking that they will come back?

HON DR B A LINARES:

It is the practice still on a very formal contract basis when they sign for sponsorship, but then as most of them are not required by Government, the contract is that they may be required by Government to serve the Government's employment not anywhere else in the private sector. As this is not available, except in some cases like teachers for instance, the subject teacher is required in a particular vacancy for that particular subject, mathematics, physics, it is difficult to recruit, then of course the Government have the option to demand that contractual obligation, but as I say generally I have to say that most of these contractual obligations entered from the start are waived.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I see, is a waiver any indication of the numbers not coming back?

HON DR B A LINARES:

No because the waiver is limited as I say to all those who are required by Government to serve the interests of Government but not across the board to other students, graduates who may choose all sorts of avenues in life.

HON J J BOSSANO:

What is the element that, for example, that is mentioned in the Auditor's report of people having to repay the Government, what is that in respect of?

HON DR B A LINARES:

It is rather complicated actually. The refunding of monies spent on a student during one particular year is required when it is manifest that the student has failed the completion of that year in terms of university qualification, with an element of negligence, certainly not in the case of illness but it is assessed on the particular case and the merits of each particular case whether there is just a sheer negligent approach, the fact that the Government have actually funded a year and after two months or three months the student packs it in. As one can understand it is in the tax payers interest that Government try to recoup that money.

HON J J BOSSANO:

It has nothing to do then with whether they come back or not?

HON DR B A LINARES:

No.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is there any other source than the Department of Education that could be used for this. For example, the Employment Service, could they be alerted to, at the end of the academic year when the student is due to come back, to get a feedback of what sort of numbers or what proportion come back.

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes, that is a very good point and since my arrival in the Employment Ministry I am actually pursuing the possibility of actually obtaining that information through the machinery and the processes of the Employment Services, but as I say I am new there and we are now considering the possibilities of actually obtaining this information.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 650 TO 663 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Is the Minister satisfied at the fact that there are so many on the supply compared to on permanent and pensionable? I count about 12 on supply and it seems like it is quite a high number. Can the Minister state what is the average time that a supply stays on supply as in rolling supply?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I am sorry but I do not quite understand the question. If I can answer the first part of the question.

HON S E LINARES:

I will ask the question then. The question is, is the Minister satisfied with the high amount of supply learning support assistants that he has in this list?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Well, the Minister can answer in a moment, I jolly well hope he is because I am highly dissatisfied with the amount of money that has been spent on this matter.

HON S E LINARES:

Well that is the amount of money that inclusion policy costs. These are the policies of Government so Government have to have the responsibility of paying for their policies. This is inclusion, this is a lot to do with the inclusion process. This is not absent teachers, this is learning support assistants. This has nothing to do with teachers, it is to do with learning support assistants.

HON DR B A LINARES:

As the Chief Minister has pointed out, obviously the budgetary consideration of these programmes have to be taken into account to ensure that we get value for money in this respect, but in respect of the supplementary about the huge amount of supply classroom aides compared with the permanent and pensionable classroom aides, that is not correct. My sums here make it 19 permanent and pensionable classroom aides, full time and 16 part time permanent and pensionable as opposed to eight supply full time and five, really 10, but the equivalent of five full time part time supplies. So really your initial statement that there was a lack of balance between the permanent and pensionable supply, remember may I point out that only very recently we actually made permanent and pensionable 13 classroom aides.

HON S E LINARES:

I say that because the percentage is pretty high. If on the one hand the Minister has just stated that he has got 16 full time and then he has eight on supply, so there are 15 P&Ps and eight on supply, that is 50 per cent, it is high. What I am trying to get at really is how many of these supply team learning support assistants have been on supply for 3, 4, 5 years? Some of them have been for a long time. That is another question.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No it is actually not the question, it is another question but the premise of his last supplementary is not relevant. In other words, this Government by the way, Governments in Gibraltar have always used supply teachers for many years, this Government, not the previous one, this Government adopted the policy of considering whether people that had been on supply terms for an extended period of time were really members of the permanent establishment who were just on cheaper terms and conditions unfairly, so we introduced the process of looking at this from a socially and labour fairness point of view. So let that be the starting point. We did what no government had done before but that principle does not necessarily apply in this area because some of these assistants had been engaged because of particular children going through the educational system at this point in time that may need one to one or, one to two or one to three, so one can not make them permanent and pensionable because when those children get beyond a certain point in their educational system there may not be others that need that degree of care and attention. It is a service, this particular facility is a facility that can only sensibly be provided but particularly when it is for named students. If there were a teacher for young Joe Bloggs because young Joe Bloggs needs a particular form of cover, one cannot employ a permanent and pensionable person for the next 40 years because Joe Bloggs needs attention for the next two years. What does one do with the person when Joe Bloggs has finished school? There may not be another Joe Bloggs or person needing one to one, so it is not an area that it is easy to apply the general principle to about percentages, the ratio being high, which is the hon Member's point, well there is 16 to 10 that is a very high ratio. The nature of the activity giving rise to the need for these assistants is such that it necessarily has to have a high number of people on supply or other forms of temporary employment, it does not have to be supply terms, the Government could, if it wanted to, develop some other model of temporary employment as opposed to permanent and pensionable and not call it supply, I think we have had this discussion in the House in the past.

HON S E LINARES:

Just to put on the record, his Government who got rid of these supplies as he said.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We gave them permanent and pensionable conditions.

HON S E LINARES:

Yes, but it was I in the GTA who negotiated with the GSLP to get rid of teachers who had been, not only because of the GSLP but the previous AACR, they had been on the supply list, at least on a permanent supply because they had been on permanent supply for 11, 10, 8, 6 years and what I am saying is we got rid of it, but unfortunately this Government have re-established the same issue. I will give an example, all teachers, there are many teachers on supply lists now, there are loads of them they come back from the UK and the first thing is that they are given a year of supply which is a contradiction in terms. A supply should be under contract not on a supply basis and the Government are employing teachers on a supply basis who have loads of problems. Why, because they want to get mortgages, they cannot get mortgages because there are issues of non full time employment, these are the issues. So the Chief Minister should first look at the facts, like he tells me constantly, to look at the facts to look at everything that has been done during the past and not do the practice that he is doing now. The practice now, and he is doing the same with the learning support assistants may I add. That is why I am mentioning it because there are learning support assistants who have been on a supply basis for five years and I do not accept the argument that Joe Bloggs will not be here next year. One can do that on a small scale but not on a 50 per cent scale like it is done now.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Eight individuals is a pretty small scale. It is not a question of percentages it is a question of the number of individuals. Well the hon Member may have as part of the GTA negotiated with the GSLP government, of course of which he is not a part, he belongs to a different political party, well I am sorry that his negotiations were so unsuccessful.

HON S E LINARES:

No they did succeed.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not know whether he succeeded or whether he did not, all I can tell the hon Member is that when we came into office we were presented by the unions with lists of people going back a decade on supply terms. We were correcting people that had been on supply for years and years and the hon Members negotiations on their behalf with the then government of Gibraltar were not successful. I will give the hon Member the names and the dates and how long they had been there for. On the question of permanent and pensionable terms, the hon Member can sit there shaking his head, I can assure him that what I am telling him is correct and what I will now do is I will personally take the trouble to see how many supply teachers the GSLP government made permanent and pensionable during any time that he was an official of the GTA, and I will bring that information back to this House next time we meet on Question Time because that information is available. So if the hon Member has tried to erect, as I believe he has, a self-serving political argument which is factually untrue, I intend to remove the bush from in front of him so that he no longer has a hiding place. Now, he says about people with mortgages, look employing people on permanent and pensionable terms is an extremely costly thing for the tax payer. The Government do not engage people on permanent and pensionable terms to help them out with their mortgage, or so that they can decide whether they can buy a house for this or that price, the Government employs people on permanent and pensionable terms when there is a requirement and a need to do so in the interests of the tax payer, not in the interests of the employee of the person concerned.

On the whole question of classroom aides the hon Member has got to understand that classroom aides as a concept in the United Kingdom, is being introduced increasingly as a cheap way of recruiting teachers. In other words, they have got too high a teacher pupil ratio and instead of employing more teachers and reducing the size of the classroom, they employ classroom aides, shove them in with the teacher and still have one teacher for 40 pupils. Well in Gibraltar we have sorted out that problem in a different way. We have an agreement with the GTA as to pupil teacher ratios, that is the envy, in fact the United Kingdom will never reach that pupil teacher ratio ever, and the suggestion therefore that we should both have our Rolls Royce solution to the problem and on top of it replicate the United Kingdom's poor mans alternative for sorting out the same problem is crass, absolutely crass. The idea that because the United Kingdom does not want to employ teachers to bring the teacher pupil ratio down when we already have our teacher pupil ratio down to lower levels than the UK is even aiming at as a target, that we should also fill our classrooms with classroom aides at the taxpayers expense I can assure him will never become the policy of the Government. As far as I am concerned classroom aides are only in relation to the individual needs of individual pupils on temporary passage through the educational system and they are not and are never going to be something that the Government recruits mimicking the UK when we do not have the problem that the UK has and that that is the reason why they are recruiting. If the UK had a pupil teacher ratio of 1 to 23 as we have, they would not dream of employing an additional classroom aide to put in amongst those people and that is the position and that is why the Government do not make more classroom aides permanent and pensionable, because it is a temporary requirement which is supplied by a temporary method of labour provision and the Government are not prepared to satisfy a temporary need with permanent and pensionable staff. It is a noose around the financial necks of future tax payers and the Government consider it completely undesirable to do that.

HON C A BRUZON:

May I distinguish between pensionable and permanent and the matter of holiday entitlement and sick leave because I think what is important is to take into account that there are classrooms aides, or whatever the new terminology is, who have been in fact in our schools for more than a year, two years, and they have no sick leave entitlement and no holiday entitlement.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is a much more valid distinction to make. In other words, the difference between supply and temporary. One does not want to make somebody permanent and pensionable because one does not have the permanent need for their services. That does not mean that one has to employ them on the terms which presently attach to supply workers. Supply workers are supposed to be covering for absent staff. That should, and I agree with him, it should be distinguished with staff for which there is a finite, in terms of time and therefore temporary need. What is presently happening is that they are being drawn from the same pool of people and therefore they have been supply on supply terms, but as I said to him in a supplementary a few moments ago, the Government could consider a form of contract as opposed to just supply workers. In other words, an alternative model. The fact that one is not permanent and pensionable does not mean that it has to be on supply terms, it is possible to devise a middle model of temporary contracted worker with terms, as the hon Member has said, about leave entitlement and other terms and conditions of employment better than the supply worker. I think that is a perfectly rational suggestion which the Government should certainly look into.

HON S E LINARES:

I appreciate wholeheartedly the last bit that the Chief Minister has said because that is the answer, not only to the hon Member's question but also to mine. The diatribe that he went on before must be ignored, which is to do with classroom pupil teacher relationship, with the UK, the comparisons and all these things. I never mentioned anything of this sort and again the Chief Minister goes on to distort not what I said but distort the whole argument. Talking about classroom aides and I was told off two sessions of the House ago, that it is not classroom aides any more they are learning support assistants, but that is another point. What I am saying is that I appreciate the fact that the Chief Minister has realised that there are people who are five years on supply and have not got rights and this is the issue, and this was the issue with the supply teachers, and this is the issue which I wanted to bring up and I am glad that it has been answered now.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I correct what I said before about the hon Member. The problem is not that he does not know what the word 'distort' means, the problem is that he does not have a sufficiently long memory retention function to remember what he himself said in the last 15 minutes, this is his problem. Or does he not remember asking about whether the Minister was satisfied with the number of classroom aides that he has? Or does he not remember asking the Minister whether these people should be made permanent and pensionable? To suggest that the answer that I have given the Hon Mr Bruzon is the answer to his question is not correct. The Hon Mr Bruzon, has cogently acknowledged the distinction between permanent and pensionable on the one hand and temporary on the other. The hon Member has said nothing that suggests either that he understands that there is a difference between the two, still less that he acknowledges and agrees that there is a viable difference between the two. The hon Member was asking the Government to make these 8 people, which he says is a very high percentage, I suppose one person is 50 per cent and therefore in his language a very high percentage if it is out of two, he seems to think that because there are eight and the total is 16, that that is a very high percentage. Well, in respect of that number, eight or 50 per cent depending on how we present the statistic, the hon Member was asking for them to be made permanent and pensionable. Well, I am sorry, it is implicit in everything that the hon Member has said and explicit in some of the things that he has said. The hon Member's problem is that he appears, I do not know whether he engages his jaws and does not connect it to his memory, this may be a problem. This has been going on in supplementaries with my Colleague the Hon Dr Linares for about half an hour on the basis that he was wrong that these eight people should be on supply terms and not permanent and pensionable terms. When I explained to the hon Member why they are not on permanent and pensionable terms, he describes all that as irrelevant to nothing that he raised and a distortion of everything that he said. A terribly adult debate, when I do not like the answers that I am getting I know, I will stand up and describe them as distortion of what I said, let us see if I can throw enough mud into the water to make it murky. This seems to be his intellectual approach to debating in this House. It does not make what I say a distortion it simply means that he does not know. So I am glad that he agrees with me and with the hon Member sitting next to him, he is completely wrong in thinking that that is an answer to his question. It would have been an answer to his question if he had asked could these people be on some model of employment other than permanent and pensionable which respected their rights of employment a little bit more than the supply terms do. Does he have any recollection of having said or asked anything similar? Do those words strike his memory as concepts that he has formulated or uttered in the last half hour? No. I suggested it and then his Colleague next to him suggested it, and when he has suggested it I have agreed with him but I do not agree with the Hon Mr Linares because his thrust was permanent and pensionable and the Government do not agree.

Can Government state how many times school nurses have visited St Martin's Special School in the last and present academic year giving a breakdown by term?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

Visits to schools by the School health nursing team are currently carried out only upon request by the individual schools. In 1998 the provision of health services for children in schools came under review by the GHA. The review concluded that with the development of services at the time in the Primary Care Centre and the strengthening of paediatrics in the community, the existing arrangements for routine examinations of healthy children during school visits by nurses were shown by research to be no longer appropriate or of any great benefit to the health of children. It was then decided to replace these arrangements with an enhanced immunisation programme with a greater medical input in a clinical environment for all school children up to school-leaving age. School nurses of course continue to work closely with other professionals such as the dental practitioners, the othoptist, the optometrist, through clinics which identify children with special health needs and they are always available to parents, carers and teachers for advice and indeed will visit schools when requested to do so.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 664 TO 677 OF 2004

HON DR B A LINARES:

In 1998, that was when the whole system as existed then was reviewed, and by that I understand that they reconsidered what they were providing and that they then decided and concluded that they would provide this on a wider context that I have actually explained in detail.

“BUCKET BRIGADE”

Will the Government agree to provide any financial assistance to the Environmental Safety Group for the presentations and other activities scheduled by that charity and to be held in Gibraltar between 7-11 May this year by Mr Denny Larson of the "Bucket Brigade"?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

There is provision in this year's estimates for the Improvement and Development Fund for the acquisition of necessary and proper scientific equipment to monitor air quality in accordance with and as required by the Air Quality Directives. In answer to the hon Member's second question and as a result of my first reply, the Government do not consider it necessary or appropriate to provide funds for the "Bucket Brigade".

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 678 TO 679 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

I am grateful for that answer. Can the Minister give an indication of what exactly it is that the equipment purchased will be?

HON F VINET:

What I can tell the Opposition Member is that the equipment will measure and monitor levels of sulphur dioxide, nitrogen dioxide and oxides of nitrogen particular matter, lead, carbon monoxide, benzene and ozone. The particular equipment he refers to, what is expected is that there will be two different monitoring stations. One will be at a roadside location on a major road and close to key power generation point sources, and a second smaller station away from the town area.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can I ask the Minister whether that is in fact in keeping with the recommendations made in the report which the Chief Minister referred to in answer to Question No. 10 of 2004? Was there in fact a recommendation in that report that there should be two stations, one large station and one smaller station?

HON F VINET:

There is no need for two stations. In fact merely one station will suffice to meet the requirements of the European legislation as is mentioned locally as well.

HON F R PICARDO:

The Chief Minister said in answer to Question No. 10 of 2004, which I put dealing with the same issue, that there is a report which Government are presently considering which raises many issues. Amongst them these issues precisely of that sort, and one of the different options, this is the unedited version of Hansard, is whether there should be just one monitoring station or a series of little monitoring points all over. The reason I am asking the Minister whether we are going to have a large and one small station and whether that was in the report, is because the answer given by the Chief Minister seemed to suggest either one main station, which covers all, or various small stations not just one small station. I would be grateful for some clarification in that respect.

HON F VINET:

As I have said, just that the one station would suffice for legal requirements. It was simply felt that we would add a second one, albeit a smaller one, to ensure that the readings are as accurate as possible.

HON F R PICARDO:

That would be in keeping with the provisions of this report, or has the Minister not had sight of this report?

HON F VINET:

It would be in keeping with the report.

HON F R PICARDO:

Thank you, that is what I wanted to establish.

INCINERATOR

Can Government state whether it is still their intention to build a new incinerator plant in Gibraltar and if so what site has been identified for this purpose?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

Yes it still continues to be the intention of the Government to do so. The location has not yet been finally decided, but will probably be the site of the current inoperative incinerator plant, and the project of course will go out to tender.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 680 TO 681 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

I think that was an answer to both Question No. 680 and No. 681.

HON L A RANDALL:

Has the transaction manager now been appointed or not?

HON F VINET:

The reason why Government have chosen to reply to these questions together is the following. That is the intention to combine the incinerator with that of the proposed sewage treatment works, because the sludge that emanates for this sewage treatment works is likely to be incinerated at the incinerator. Therefore it makes practical and economic sense for both projects to be combined and of course for the Government to have to deal with just the one entity. Tenders for the appointment of a transaction manager to administer both these projects for Government were received some time ago. The Government decided to reduce the scope of the services to be provided by the transaction manager to that of the provision of specialist technical advice before preferred bidders were asked to resubmit their proposal for the revised scope of works. The revised proposals were received in late November and they send a report with recommendations and an award is currently receiving Government consideration.

HON F R PICARDO:

Is the Minister aware that the question of the burning of sludge effluent is something which causes considerable concerns to those who have better knowledge of the chemical issues involved. In particular because in Gibraltar our sewage runs with salt water whilst in most other parts of the European Union it runs with fresh water. Of course it makes a lot more sense in my view that it should run with salt water but that the burning of the sewage which has that salt water in it, can create I think carcinogens if the smoke is not properly treated and that should be something which should be very much at the top of the Government's agenda if consideration is being given to the burning of our sewage.

HON F VINET:

What I can tell the Opposition Member is that Government are aware of those views, but indeed there are varying opinions within the expert field and of course Government are aware of those opinions and will take them into account.

HON F R PICARDO:

Will Government agree to provide the Opposition with a copy of whatever opinion they have obtained which suggests that the burning of sewage which includes salt water will not create an escape into the ambient air of Gibraltar which has any dangerous carcinogens?

HON F VINET:

What I can give an undertaking to this House is that whatever measures are implemented will comply fully with the requirements contained in EU legislation as passed in Gibraltar.

HON F R PICARDO:

I would not expect the Minister or anybody in this House to want to do anything which is not in compliance with legislation but if the Minister is telling the House that we are not to worry because there is an expert report, will he consider sharing that expert report with both sides of the House so that we can all be satisfied that an issue of public health such as that is being dealt with in a manner which is satisfactory?

HON F VINET:

At this stage the answer would be no.

NO 682 OF 2004

THE HON F R PICARDO

WASTE DISPOSAL – COLLECTION POINTS

Can the Government state if they will agree to take action to avoid the unsightly accumulation of rubbish at open refuse collection points which attract rodents and other animals by providing for these collection points to be designed in a manner that will allow for rubbish to be deposited in closed receptacles?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The Government continue to operate the refuse collection points in accordance with the system designed and introduced by the GSLP when it was in government. There are no plans at present to change that system. The Government do, however, share the hon Member's apparent view that this is sometimes unsightly. Government have not been advised that a change is required due to rodents. However, if closed receptacles should be viable, have no adverse implications for the collection process and were impractical for users to deposit the rubbish in, the Government might consider such a system as an improvement on the present one.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 682 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

The Minister is not responsible for the manifesto commitments of his colleagues of 1996 but he has admitted in his answer that the system in place today for the collection of refuse is exactly the same as there was before 1996. In the 1996 manifesto of the GSD there was provision for changing the unsightly accumulation of rubbish at refuse collection points. In some areas of Gibraltar, in particular in the Upper Town and in areas beyond Catalan Bay, apes are being attracted to come down despite the rules on the non-feeding of apes, because they can access food in the refuse collection points. That in itself is attracting other animals et cetera because the apes are able to rip open plastic bags which other animals are not able to do. Can the Minister at least commit himself to look into this because I think it is important that for the general look of Gibraltar, in particular in the Upper Town when tourists come down from visiting the Upper Rock, it looks very unsightly and for the sake of all of us that live here I am sure it is not any good for the public health of any of his constituents or mine.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, first of all I should say that everybody is everybody's constituents, we do not have a constituency system and since he cannot be certain which citizen voted for him and which citizen voted for us then we should all regard the whole electorate as our constituents, but the Government basically agree with the sentiment expressed in his question and I think that was the intention of the answer. It is being considered. Whenever these things are replaced they are, wherever possible, replaced by the covered ones. There are operational considerations. The amount of space available for the refuse truck. Does it add to the time for emptying? Would that create traffic problems? The Government's policy is completely in accord with the view that he has expressed. In other words, it is preferable where it does not undermine the operational viability of the insertion and collection and carting away process, that these things should be covered up. Unsightliness, smell, all manner of reasons. So the answer to his question is yes.

HON F R PICARDO:

Perhaps we can go even a step further. We are not just talking about the green bins which have lids which are covered. Those bins themselves are often in areas which are not covered. In other words instead of being in a building.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes but they are put in a bin.

HON F R PICARDO:

I understand that and I appreciate that. Very often the bins are sufficient to keep the refuse in control so to speak.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not know I think there are covers over the bin.

HON F R PICARDO:

Right. There are some areas where those bins are located and they are not within buildings they are only in open areas where the monkeys gain access, open the bins, other animals cannot do it and the mess.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Those are only in places where there are monkeys.

HON F R PICARDO:

I will resist the quip that obviously flows from that. The mess, especially on Sunday evenings, is absolutely disastrous and obviously that in itself attracts other rodents. Perhaps the best solution is that I should liaise further with the Minister for the Environment and show him photographic evidence of what I mean so that we can perhaps together try and see what action can be taken to resolve it.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We do not need photographic evidence of what he means. What he means is perfectly clear without the need for photographic evidence. We agree with him. All we are saying is that different central collection points lend themselves physically to different sorts of treatment and some of these collection points are in areas where they cannot be covered up, the egress, entrance and egress to them is necessarily constrained because of where they are located in relation to the highway. Indeed some of them are in areas where, there are some on Line Wall Road which are very unsightly. I agree with the hon Member. The Government's position is, unless there is a very good reason why these things cannot be put more out of sight or covered up, in whichever of the two ways he has described, that they should be, unless there is a very good reason why it cannot be. So by all means he should exchange ideas with the Minister. It is something that is in hand.

SEWAGE PLANT – COST

Can Government explain their plans to invest 40 million euros in a sewage plant?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

A number of studies have had to be undertaken to generate the necessary data for inclusion in the tender documents for the proposed sewage treatment works. An initial scoping study was undertaken and this provided cost estimates for the proposed works. The quoted figure reflects the possible order of cost for the overall project.

Additional studies have been undertaken in relation to this project, some of which have now been completed and others due for completion during the coming months. Until all such studies have been completed and Government have had the opportunity to consider its contents and assess the implications, they will not be in a position to proceed with this tender.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 685 TO 688 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

Can the Minister give a view as to when all these studies will be completed by?

HON F VINET:

I cannot give a definite date to the hon Member.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Has a site been identified and is this something that requires a lot of space?

HON F VINET:

Government have considered a number of options. Of these the Brewery Crusher is considered the most suitable both from an initial construction point of view as well as from an operating perspective.

HON F R PICARDO:

Although out of the Chamber I was able to hear the Minister's answer, can the Minister help me to reconcile his answer to me a moment ago that studies had been provided to the Government confirming to the Government that they could burn sewage, and that there would be no effect on the release of carcinogens into the air, with the answer to my hon Friend Mr Randall that those studies have not been completed. Are we talking about different studies?

HON F VINET:

No, what I said earlier on was that there are conflicting views among experts.

HON F R PICARDO:

So those views do not form part of the studies that the Government are undertaking. Those views are just taken from other sources, is that the case?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I think the hon Member may be misunderstanding the nature of the process. The Government are not designing this plant. The Government are now going out to tender for what is called a transaction manager for this plant. That transaction manager is to advise the Government on all of these issues. That is what the transaction management function is. There will then be a tender for the design and build of the plant. Different bidders will put in different processes of the design. The Government advised by their transaction manager then have to decide amongst the competing bids which process they wish to go for, taking into account a whole number of factors, costs, scientific nature of the process, all of them of course have to comply with EU directives on smoke emissions and all these things because that is part of the original tender specification. I get the impression from some of the hon Member's supplementaries, that he thinks that the Government have called for reports at this stage so that the Government themselves can make a decision on the process to be built and operated. That is not the procedure.

HON F R PICARDO:

I appreciate that clarification because I was under that misapprehension. Maybe by misinterpreting of the answer as provided earlier, but in that case there has yet therefore been no decision to burn sewage, which certainly is an impression that I think would have been fair to take from the answer first given.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes I think the answer to the hon Member's question is yes, correct there has not yet been a decision on that because there has not yet been a decision on anything, but the disposal of residue, all of these processes, all of these treatment and disposal processes produce a residue. One cannot destroy matter, it can be reduced to another form, it can be converted into another form, it could be gaseous or it could be solid, in fact most of them can almost always produce both. One always ends up with a solid residue, usually slag or fly ash or something of that sort, and the process, the refuse incineration and treatment process has always as its final phase what is the methodology for disposal of the residue in whatever form, and that is one of the issues that is taken into account when assessing. Let me tell the hon Member that the issue of disposing of such residues in Gibraltar is a complicated one because there is only one place that they can easily go. There are problems with the disposal of fly ash and other products of grit blasting in the Cammell Laird yard, it is generally a problematic area, but yes it forms an essential part (a) of the design of the process and (b) of the Government's eventual assessment of which process to select and authorise the construction of as to what is the residue that is created and what are the proposals for the disposal of that refuse as it is produced through the operation of the plant.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In part of that answer there was a reference to refuse, is one of the options then a combined sewage treatment and refuse disposal?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

As to disposal of residue, yes, that is one of the options that is being considered because the residue disposal, in other words, there are only two things one can do with the sort of residue that results from either of these processes, either it is exported or it is used for the manufacture of something in Gibraltar. None of these residues by the time they have come out of the processes can be used for building brick block works and things of that sort. There is an intention to explore during this process that I have been describing, this contractual process, to tie up at least the disposal of residue part in both plants. It would not be logical to have an infrastructure in place to dispose or export the residue from one plant and a problem or a completely different process for the disposal of the other. So at the very least in respect of how one deals with the residue of the process, yes, the answer to the question is yes.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I was not thinking of the residue I was thinking of the actual incinerator process that is being looked at for refuse.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is an option which will be kept opened throughout the tendering process that the same operator could build and operate both plants given the synergies that there will be in terms of fuel use, in terms of personnel, technical the sort of person that one needs to employ, the disposal of refuse issues, the financing issues if we decided to go down a clear route. There may be a case for having it both together, but the tendering process will be structured in a way that we get the prices on both so that we can then decide whether it is better value for them to be done by separate operators or by the same operator in one transaction.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is there a deadline on the sewage plant?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes it is a deadline that neither Gibraltar nor most of the Campo area, nor indeed most of southern Spain will comply with. The deadline I think is some time in 2005, yes December 2005, our plant will not be ready and of course Algeciras which is accountable for the majority of residue into the Bay, being a much larger city than ours, has not even got as far as we have got in terms of the technical preparatory work that we have done and the EU tendering for a transaction manager which is almost ready to go and that sort of thing. So we will be ready. Los Barrios has got a degree of urban waste water treatment in place already. Algeciras I think treats the residue produced by 10,000 people only, the bulk of Algeciras remains untreated. La Linea has recently built in the Carretera del Higuero or whatever its formal name is, the urban waste water treatment plant that is there, but the rest of the Campo have got no treatment at all and we will probably be next on line. I mean La Linea is there, Los Barrios has got it, we will probably be next. The next to have a plant actually up and operational.

HON F R PICARDO:

Is one of the synergies between the two plants location, in other words, will both plants most likely be in the same place?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No I think that has been looked at and the Brewery Crusher does not have, there is not enough room in the Brewery Crusher for both sites, but they are not far away. If one can imagine the geography the Brewery Crusher and the site of the existing incinerator really are separated only by a short length of that road.

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

There is no specific on-going embellishment scheme but Government have been looking at various options that will enhance the state of the cemetery and in this context undertook a trial project involving two companies dealing with the aspect of vegetation. The results of these trials are currently being considered but in the light of various difficulties that were encountered during their execution, Government have embarked on considering other options that would be more cost effective and result in a greater impact on the enhancement of the cemetery.

DISABLED PARKING BAYS

Can Government provide the reason why parking on some of the bays reserved for disabled drivers are restricted to 12 hours a day?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, ROADS AND UTILITIES

The restriction of 12 hours has been imposed on those disabled bays that have been requested by users specifically for work related purposes. Such users do not reside within the said areas and will therefore not be making use of such bays outside working hours. This arrangement of course maximises the availability of parking in such areas.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 695 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

I have been approached by a number of people who have asked me whether the hours in the parking bays next to Casino Calpe can be extended to 24 hours a day as opposed to the 12 hours a day they apparently used. That is an area which services the whole of the Main Street and people normally, people who are disabled are disabled 24 hours a day and not 12 hours a day, so when they want to access that area disability parkings are not many and that could be of great benefit to these disabled people.

HON F VINET:

That is a matter for the Traffic Commission to consider and I would urge the hon Member to advise the persons affected to write to the Secretary of the Traffic Commission.

HON L A RANDALL:

I have written to the Traffic Commission on their behalf and have yet to receive an answer. Will the Minister undertake to look at this and if possible extend parking hours in those two or three particular parking bays to 24 hours as opposed to 12 hours?

HON F VINET:

I will certainly agree to look into it. I can give no undertaking but having said that, I am sure, the Secretary of the Traffic Commission will be replying to the persons concerned in due course.

Can Government give a breakdown of miscellaneous payments of £55,579.72 from the Gibraltar Development Corporation (Employers Insolvency Fund) for the year ended 31st March 2003?

NO 700 OF 2004

THE HON J J BOSSANO

GDC – EMPLOYERS INSOLVENCY FUND

Can Government state when the Gibraltar Development Corporation (Employers Insolvency Fund) was established and what was the source of the miscellaneous receipts of £2,085,247.74 for the year ended 31st March 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The Gibraltar Development Corporation (Employers Insolvency Fund) was established on 22 August 1991. Miscellaneous receipts for the financial year amounted to £315,078.66 and not £2,085,247.74. These receipts are in respect of the employer's contribution to the fund under the Gibraltar Development Corporation (Employers Insolvency) Regulations 1991. The expenditure of the Gibraltar Development Corporation (Employers Insolvency Fund) for the year ended 31 March 2003 was £49,192.52 and not £55,579.72. This amount is composed of claims made by employees under the provisions of Regulation 7 of the Gibraltar Development Corporation (Employers Insolvency) Regulations 1991.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 699 AND 700 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can Government say how many employees were involved in the payment of the £49,000, and how many employers?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Six employers were involved, but I do not have the number of employees.

-----
HON J J BOSSANO:

When I asked the question on the Insolvency Funds I was told that the receipts were not £2,085,247.74 when in fact that was the figure I was given in answer to Question No. 482 in January, that is where I got it from.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I thought that the wording of this Question was ambiguous, what was the number of today's Question?

HON J J BOSSANO:

In Question No. 700 I asked can Government state when it was established and what was the source of the miscellaneous receipts of £2,085,247.74 for the year ended 31st March.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, now the word 'for' in the question he presumably means as at. In other words two point something million is the balance of the Fund not the receipt during any particular period.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Then all I can say is that I did not put the 'for' there, I copied the 'for' from here, which was the answer that I got to Question No. 482, where in reply to my question about what was the forecast for the outturn of the Gibraltar Development Corporation, the Chief Minister said to me that for the year ended 31st March there were miscellaneous receipts for £2,085,247.74, so he put 'for' in the answer and I put 'for' in the question. The question is copied from the answer that I got from the Chief Minister.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am sure the answer can not have confused the hon Member. He presumably knows that that is not the level of receipts to be expected from that source in that period.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Well I thought perhaps, that is why I asked when it was established, I thought maybe the Fund was established that year and that money was somewhere else before. That is not the case? That is the impression I got.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am sure it is not the case, and if it were the case the last answer would have disclosed this.

HON J J BOSSANO:

In the answer the Minister said the receipts were not that and in Question No. 482 I was told those were the receipts, and equally in respect of the expenditure, the Minister has told us today that the expenditure was not £55,572 but £49,192. Of course the figure of expenditure I was getting from the reply that I received for the same, payments in that same sheet it says payments £55,579.72. Now, we have just been told today that the figure that I had quoted in my question, which was the reply that I got in January, is wrong, so I take it that these answers are wrong then.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have uncited with the papers of the previous answers but on the basis of what I am hearing from the earlier answers, yes, the earlier answers must be wrong. In any case the Minister will no doubt clarify the matter later.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The account that was given with Question 482 made me think that the Fund was established in the financial year 2002/2003, it says that the balance on 1st April 2002 was zero. I am happy that the Minister should have a look at this but it says on 1st April there was no money in the Fund and at the end of March there was £2,067,000 and the receipts for the year were £2,085,00. So in fact this was indicative that the GDC Employers Insolvency Fund was created after 1st April 2002 or at 1st April 2002 and not on the date that we have been given in the answer today.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Well, in which case the answer may be the reverse. I remember there was a time that these contributions were held through a deposit account and it may be that the Accountant General has made it, it is an accounting arrangement on which I have not been consulted. It sounds, from what the hon Member is saying, that the £2 million is not the receipts of a year but the capital transfer from one holding arrangement into what might have been a new fund that year. That is a possible explanation and I will have it looked into and I will write to the hon Member to confirm. Can the hon Member just give me the first answer, was it 482?

HON J J BOSSANO:

The answer is the answer being provided to my Question No. 482, sorry 481, 482 is the Social Assistance Fund, 481 is the Development Corporation. Question No. 481 was answered together with Question No. 482, but the figures that I am quoting read at the top of Question No. 482 but really are the answers to Question No. 481.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It may be then that that is the year in which the deposit account holding arrangements were changed in favour of this Fund and I will have that confirmed to the hon Member.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Then it means that the date given today for the creation of the Fund, that the Minister said was 1991, was not correct.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

1991, I will check all that. It may be that the answer is that August 1991 is when the insolvency deposit, in other words the liability for employers to contribute for insolvency and that this was just being looked at as a book keeping and accounting arrangement in the Treasury, and they are assuming that the hon Member is not interested in the name of the vehicle that holds the money but rather in these arrangements. I think the answer is drafted on the basis. It glosses over the changes in holding structure and I will have it all clarified and write to him later.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Also will the Chief Minister clear the discrepancy between the £49,192 which we are being told today have been the payments and what the accounts that I was provided with in January showed, which was a figure of £55,579 as the payments made?

EMPLOYMENT – MINIMUM WAGE

Can Government state what steps have been taken by the ETB to ensure compliance with the statutory minimum wage since 1st July 2003 and specify the number of employees and employers affected by such action with a breakdown by month?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The information requested by the hon Member is not readily available, as it would require an individual file by file search. I am given to understand that this is not feasible. As regards the steps that have been taken by the Employment Service to ensure compliance with the statutory minimum wage since 1st July 2003, the £4.00, let me assure the hon Member that these are no more and no less than the Employment Service takes to ensure compliance with all the other statutory provisions in relation to employment, be it in respect of pay as in this case, holidays, sick leave and any such other conditions of employment for which there exists statutory regulation provision. I am informed that such has been the case, as indeed it could not be otherwise given the statutory nature of the issue, since the Employment Service was set up originally as the Employment and Training Board in the late 1980s.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 701 TO 704 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

I think the Minister surely accepts that if a new statutory wage is introduced it is not quite the same as checking that the statutory holidays that have been there for the last 50 years have been complied with. Is something not done for example, to make sure when the wage comes in that something actually happens?

DR B A LINARES:

Yes indeed, I am informed that there is a processed procedure when the employment contract is given notice. They are not approved as such, what happens is that the employer is advised whether he is not complying with the statutory minimum wage or any other factor involved, and if the chap is actually adamant and refuses to comply with a variation notice, there is a set form for a variation notice, then of course the matter is passed on to the Labour Inspectorate to put pressure that the Regulations and the Statutes have to be complied with. If it is still recalcitrant then of course the matter will be taken over in terms of prosecution through the Attorney General. So these are the steps which are taken in practical terms, that is not waffle that is actually operational. I am told actually that in almost 100 per cent of cases in the very start of the process, when the employer is innocent really in terms of not having knowledge of the increase in the minimum wage, that situation is put right, right from the very start.

HON J J BOSSANO:

No, I know that the ETB would not, it is obvious that they would not approve a contract they should not approve and I would not expect them not to approve a contract which is below the minimum wage laid down by law. What I am trying to see is what evidence is available of the impact of the introduction of the new rate. How many people benefited from the new rate, or how many employers? If the new rate comes in on 1st July, then on the basis of the answers that I have been given by the Minister, we have no knowledge at all of what the effect of that new rate was as to the number of people who were below that rate in June, and the number of people who were at or above it from July on. Surely the Minister will also agree that in a case like this it may well be that some employers who were paying less than £4.00 did not raise the rate, not because they were resisting the change but because it did not come to their notice or the employees did not press them for it or nobody made them do it or whatever. So it was an attempt really to see how many people had been affected by the rate when it came in, that the questions were seeking to find out.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I have not been able to give numbers but what I am satisfied is that definitely there is a thrust in the Employment Service to actually inform the employers, who very innocently often do not know and have not caught up with the changes in the statutory requirements. They are optimistic that a lot of them, and they have variation notices coming in, but I apologise for I would really have to go through file after file, but that globally and in general terms the Employment Service officials feel that the great majority of employers have come up to compliance with the new Regulations. They are aware the whole thing has been very public and in their contacts with them through the Labour Inspectorate with employers, they feel very optimistic that I think there are very few. Unions are also very often involved and they bring notice to the Employment Services, in particular employers who are not coming up to requirements. I hope that satisfies the hon Member.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I take it this information is not being computerised and is not something that can be extracted from the computer.

HON DR B A LINARES:

We are not entirely computerised as I would wish.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I take it that in one of the answers to the supplementaries what the Minister was confirming is that in fact no contract has been accepted since 1st July unless it was £4.00 or more, is that correct?

HON DR B A LINARES:

Yes indeed.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 705 TO 719 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

I am grateful, I think I was realising as I read them that they seemed to be identical. I am grateful.

HON DR B A LINARES:

If I may point out, I do not want to be pedantic, but the correct nomenclature is no longer the Employment Agency or the Employment Training Board, but the Employment Service.

HON F R PICARDO:

I note actually that the words 'Employment Agency' have also been used in the schedule passed to me, so it is obviously a mistake which we share.

Can I just say that I note that that appears to be a repetition of Question No. 720, that it appears that in respect of my some of my Questions Government have both the questions I submitted and the photocopy that I made of them.

It seems that the hon Member's party photocopying machine is getting to the quantity rather than quality amount of work. This is what happens when too many questions are asked and even the photocopy machine gets.....

HON F R PICARDO:

Mr Speaker, do you wish me to ask those questions which are the same or just treat them as withdrawn? Well, 723, 724 and 725 are the same as 720, 721 and 722.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 735 TO 737 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Does the Minister have any indication of how we came to have 26 Bulgarians in skilled trades in January? Is that for a particular job?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

This is more or less a permanent crew of detached workers that Cammell Laird have. I think they change the individuals every year but they are more or less a group of Bulgarian workers of around that number and almost a permanent feature of the operation of the yard.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 738 TO 743 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

Could the Minister help clarify whether the pending case listed for the month of January and the pending case listed for the month of February are in fact the same case that was pending two months or are they different cases pending in respect of each of those months?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I do not know but I suspect it is really a case which is pending from, in fact before January 2004 because in January 2004 there were no fixed penalty notices issued so there could not be a prosecution following up, so it must have dated back to the previous months. I am glad to see that there is no pending case in March.

HON F R PICARDO:

Unless the Minister finds it is not like that and he will advise me later I have nothing further.

HON DR B A LINARES:

The hon Member wants information on that?

HON F R PICARDO:

We assume also that the Minister is probably right, and unless he finds out that that is not the case.

Working both with the answer that the Minister provided to Question No. 737 and the answers provided now in relation to this batch of questions, just for the sake of understanding I am interpreting the statistics appropriately, of the 26 Bulgarians that we spoke about earlier one of them is a new entrant, 25 are renewing, is that right?

HON DR B A LINARES:

One Bulgarian who is not a detached worker is a new entrant with a work permit.

HON F R PICARDO:

So it does not relate to the 26. I see.

EMPLOYMENT – FRONTIER WORKERS

Can Government state how many employment contracts were registered with the Employment Agency for frontier workers in the month of March 2004 giving a breakdown by sex?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The answer to this question remains the same as provided in respect of Question No. 260 of 2004 and indeed, even earlier on, Question No. 65 of 2003, but I am afraid the answer is not sexist orientated, it gives a total number of 2,294. That is the figure that we have from the Employment Survey Report for October 2002. There has been no subsequent report. I am told that the October 2003 Report will soon be published but therefore the figures remain as known to us from the Survey, which is 2,294 is the total number of frontier workers in the month of March 2004. Obviously it is a notional figure but that is the information that we have. The latest information we have is from the Employment Survey Report of October 2002.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 771 TO 773 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is the Minister not aware that in fact we have been provided before with figures based on contracts opened with the ETB giving us the number of frontier workers, indeed giving us a breakdown by nationality of the frontier workers?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I am not aware of that and I am told by the Employment Service that they rely on the question being how many employment contracts were registered in the Employment Agency for frontier workers for the months of January, February and March, and that the answer to this question remains as provided in the Employment Survey Report, the last of which was published in October 2002. The figure I have for this is 2,294. Certainly I will look into this, I can see the point that the Leader of the Opposition is making that there has been information before on entries and registrations in the Employment Agency.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Since the question is the numbers registered with the ETB, now in fact the numbers given by the Employment Survey Report is not the numbers registered with the ETB, it is the numbers shown in the returns from the employers. They are two separate sources. We have been given the numbers registered with the ETB before.

HON DR B A LINARES:

I think that the answer to all this is that frontier workers as such, as a particular type, specimen of worker, is not registered in the Employment Service as such. I mean they are just workers who are entitled and who are registered for employment with particular firms but they are not defined or declared as frontier workers. Therefore, the Employment Service relies on this other information that I have mentioned. I think this may be the answer but I will pursue it.

HON F R PICARDO:

The answer, I think we both accept, is clearly wrong. That cannot be the updated figure. If we have a difference in the number of Spanish nationals for example, who are employed and there is an increase in that and we assume that those Spanish nationals are not residing also in Gibraltar, then we have a figure that must have been changing and evolving. There is a discrepancy and that discrepancy can surely be worked from the engagement form where the home address of the individual given is not a Gibraltar address. Is that information which the hon Minister can give or can seek to provide?

HON DR B A LINARES:

This is a very likely explanation but I have to of course check it with the Report.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would the Minister undertake to get back to me when he can with the information in the next 10 days?

HON DR B A LINARES:

I will make a quick note because I tend to forget.

HON F R PICARDO:

I am obliged.

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

All educational projects require and receive "careful sensitive planning".

Answer to Question No. 775

The multi-disciplinary team of professionals who produced the "Tercentenary Posters Project" were:

Pat Scott – Senior Education Adviser
Darren Fa – Education & Research Officer, Gibraltar Museum
Julio Alcantara – ex-Director of Education and History specialist
Brian Bear – History teacher
Dennis Beiso – Archivist designate – Gibraltar Archives
Robert Beiso – retired Headteacher – History specialist
Clive Finlayson – Archaeologist & Director of the Gibraltar Museum

Eddie Gonzalez – History teacher (Head of History Department, Westside)
Dennis King – retired Deputy Head & member of the Heritage Trust
Leslie Lester – Director of Education and Training
Colin Skinner – Head of History Department, Bayside School
Claire Valarino – Archaeologist.

Answer to Question No. 776

The cost of the "Tercentenary Posters Project" was £5,300 and the posters and notes were printed by "Gibsport". It was funded entirely by the Tercentenary Sub-Committee on Heritage.

Answer to Question No. 777

The "Tercentenary Posters Project" was put to tender by public notice in October 2003. No bid was found eligible. Subsequently, information on the requirements for the series of posters on "300 Years of British Gibraltar" was faxed to all the companies on the Government's list of approved printers. These companies were requested to send in quotes for their production. "Gibsport" provided the Project Coordinators with the best samples with respect to quality and cost-effectiveness.

NO 778 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – DUTY PHARMACY

Can Government confirm if there is in place a 24 hour duty pharmacy and, if so, what are the arrangements for access to it?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The pharmacy on duty is on call on a 24-hour basis. The duty doctor is able to establish access by electronic means if he requires pharmaceutical services.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 778 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I would like to inform the Minister that we have had complaints from patients who have tried to access the service and have rang Porters Lodge at St Bernard's and have rang for example, the Police Headquarters. Do they have that information there?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

If the hon Member will go back to the answer she will have noticed that I said the duty doctor not the patient. The service is restricted to the doctor to be able to access the pharmacist to provide emergency medicines during silent hours. The service is not available to the patient himself or herself.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I have understood exactly the answer that the Minister has given and it is precisely the problems that have been encountered by patients that have prompted me to put the question in the first place. That is, that there are patients that are being told by the doctors that they can have access to the service and then the patient is left on his own to find out who is the pharmacy that is open 24 hours. Would it not be appropriate therefore, for the Government to ensure that whenever a patient is told by the GP involved that he actually rings up the Police Headquarters and Porters

Lodge, that they should have there, not only the GP that is on duty but also the pharmacy that is on duty.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The hon Member should not believe everything she is told. The system is as I have described. The service is not available to the patient. The Porters Lodge does have details of who the doctor on duty is and the service is restricted to the doctor precisely to avoid abuse. If the hon Member is contacted by a member of the public who tells her what she has just told us publicly, if she would like to communicate both the name of the patient and the name of the doctor concerned to me, I will investigate it, but I cannot investigate a theoretical situation.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I will most certainly, but it just struck me that if at times there is not enough communication between the doctor and the patient, if for example, Porters Lodge and the Police Headquarters have the name of the actual doctor that is on duty, it might make sense as well that they also have available the name of the pharmacy that is on duty. It is not a question that I believe everything that everybody tells me. In fact I have been in politics enough for quite a number of years, it is just that I have been told by various people. That is all. I was just trying to inform the Government that perhaps if they do this they will improve the system. That is all.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It would not be an improvement to the system. The whole purpose of the matter is that patients have never had, whether it is in our time in office or indeed in hers, the idea that the patient should have 24 hour a day, 7 day a week access to the duty pharmacist is unliveable with. Therefore the idea that the number and the name of the duty pharmacist, which is an internal matter not an external matter, should be given out by the Porters Lodge to patients so that the duty pharmacist, the service to ensure that the hospital has medicines that it may need to access after hours, that is a service for doctors not a service for patients. There is no need therefore for anybody to have the number in order to give it to the patient.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

That is not my argument at all, that is a completely different argument. I agree that nobody can actually go 24 hours and have a service that they can access to if they want tablets. This is when a GP actually goes to see a patient at home after normal hours. For example, from 7.00 pm to 9.00 pm that the pharmacies are open. If there happens to be, there have been cases brought to our attention, it is not a question that the patient wants to go at 10 o'clock or 11 o'clock and ring the pharmacy on duty and say 'I want these tablets', it is that the GP has prescribed the tablets and that is a totally different matter. If it is the GP that then does not inform the patient because he is not aware which pharmacy is on duty, then all that I am saying is, is it not an improvement of the service if both Porters Lodge and the Police Headquarters have the name. I am trying to be constructive I am not trying to be critical at all.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, I am not sure that I entirely agree with the hon Member over the last thing that she has said. To suggest people to believe that it is reasonable to expect a 24 hour a day pharmaceutical service is not to be helpful. It is to sow deceit in peoples' mind of a completely unreasonable extent of service which this community has never provided. If what the hon Member is saying is that in respect of the normal duty chemist, meaning Calpe Pharmacy or Valmar Pharmacy or whichever is the duty chemist, that information should be available through the RGP, I can tell that it is because that is where my wife always gets it when she wants it. She rings up the RGP and the desk sergeant very helpfully says the duty chemist tonight, and he has a little list, is so and so. If that is what she means, if what she means forget the hours covered by the duty commercial chemist, let us call it that, if what she means is that a doctor may come to my house at midnight or at one o'clock in the morning and sees one of my family members and prescribes a medicine, and that I should have the ability at 2 o'clock in the morning to access the hospital's duty chemist in order to obtain process of that prescription, the answer is that that service is simply not available. If a doctor visits my house at 2 o'clock in the morning and considers that any member of my family needs medication before the pharmacies open at 9 o'clock in the morning, then he has two options. He can procure this medicine himself through the facility available to him for that purpose, or he can regard the matter as an emergency and send me or my child, or my wife or me to the hospital as an emergency admission where the medication is then available. What is not available is for doctors to rush around in the middle of the night issuing prescriptions and then leave it to the patient to cash their prescriptions in and obtain their medicines at 2 o'clock in the morning by ringing up the Government Dispensary Duty Chemist. That service has never been available, is not realistic to expect that it should be available. However, I accept something of what the hon Member is saying and that is that if there are doctors, this is why she asked for the name, I think the name of the doctor is more important than the name of the patient, if there are doctors going around misrepresenting the system and leading patients to believe that a service that does not exist, or rather does not exist available to the patient it exists available to the doctor, and if there is a doctor leading patients to believe that they can access, they the patient, can access the duty GHA dispensing chemist, then I would be very interested in knowing who that is to re-educate the doctor, not the patient, not to change the system but to make sure that that doctor is told 'do not cause trouble by leading patients to believe that they can access this when they can not. The person who has to access this is you not the patient'. If the problem is being caused by a doctor misinforming patients then the matter should be dealt with by pointing out to the doctor that he should stop misinforming patients, rather than by making the service available to the patient.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I do not want to drag on and on about this but when the Chief Minister says that this service has never been in place, surely it has. If for example a doctor visits a patient at 10 o'clock in the evening and finds that that patient needs urgent medication, is the Chief Minister saying that the pharmacy that is on duty does not open for that emergency medication, or is it that the Chief Minister is saying that the patient has to go to the hospital and that therefore the doctor then tells the patient 'this is required and this is urgent' . When I was Minister I remember that the service was there. It was either the pharmacy that was open 24 hours for emergency medication, or it was the pharmacy in the hospital. That the Chief Minister says that if the doctor tells the patient 'you require this medication now', obviously he has to get it from one source or the other. When I say he I mean the patient. It is the doctor of course who tells the patient 'you have to take this medication as from now'. If the doctor says 'as from now', what does the patient do? He waits until 9 o'clock in the morning, is that correct?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Let me try to explain the system once again and as clearly as I can. There are two types of situations that are likely to arise outside the hours in which the duty chemist is open, or maybe three. The patient who is so sick that he needs to be rushed to the hospital, the patient who is not so sick and is prescribed aspirins or alka seltzers or whatever, which in the judgement of the doctor, neither in her judgement or in my judgement, can wait until the following morning when the chemist opens. The third case is the one which I presume the hon Member is referring to, is the case where the patient needs medication immediately, that night, at that moment whether it is 10 o'clock or 3 o'clock in the morning. In that situation, because the other two do not arise, it is the doctor who has the access by phone or by bleeper to the chemist on duty, to ring him up and say to him 'Mr So and So I need this medicine now', that is what the doctor says not the patient, he does not give the prescription to the patient and goes home and waits for the patient to find the chemist. He rings up the chemist and says to the chemist 'go down open your shop and provide the medicine', and the medicine if it is needed that night that urgently is provided, is being provided, has been provided and will be provided, and that is the service that is available, but as has probably happened in the cases that have been mentioned to the hon Member I suspect is where the doctor has not found it necessary to use the emergency provisions but has written out a prescription and left it with a patient by implication meaning that the medicine is not needed until the following day, and maybe the doctor has not explained that clearly enough to the patient and the patient armed with the prescription is then ringing up the hospital, the police and everybody else right left and sundry, trying to find the chemist. So that is why the Chief Minister has said 'if the hon Member would like to let me know who the doctor is, we can then try to educate the doctor'. But the system is there and works.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So I was right after all, there is a 24 hour service that there is a pharmacist on duty. How can one expect a pharmacist to be rang by a patient and say 'can I have such and such a medicine?'. The Chief Minister should not think that we are going down that route at all but after having heard the Chief Minister I can tell him that perhaps, as I said earlier, there must have been bad communication between the GP and the patient, because if there happens to be a pharmacy on duty and the pharmacy closes at 9 o'clock and say as we were given an example, the doctor comes in and then he prescribes a medicine that is required, of course, then as the Minister is saying it is up to the doctor to ring the pharmacist and say 'look open because this patient requires this medication'. Therefore, I will give the Minister the name, I was just trying to be constructive because what I wanted to tell him is that perhaps in cases where the GP just leave the prescription, even though they tell the patient that they have to take it and there has been bad communication, perhaps it would be wise for the hospital and the Police Headquarters to have the name, and in any case for the patient's benefit because then the medicine that is required by the patient would have to be a medicine that is necessary to the extent that if the patient knows and rings up the pharmacy and the pharmacist says 'wel, I do not think this is something which is required now', there can be a sort of a communication from the pharmacy back to the duty doctor on call. I am glad that the Minister for Health has clarified the situation in that indeed there is a pharmacy open 24 hours and that it is the patients that need to actually communicate with the doctors or vice versa for the patient to know where he has to go for that medicine.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We will leave it because there does not seem to be a disagreement. Except that the hon Member appears to believe, having accepted that the service exists and that it is a service accessed by doctors and not by patients, there is no need to leave the number of the duty chemist with the Porters Lodge or the Police, because the doctors know how to access the duty chemist. There is a bleeper, there is a number, it is a system. The duty doctors do not need to phone the Police to be told how to conduct the duty chemist. This is the point. The point that I have been trying to address to the hon Lady is that the system does not require anything to be left at the Porter. The only thing that might be required to be left at the Porter or with the Police would be for the benefit of a patient getting the number and the patient directly getting in touch with them, and that is not the system, is not intended to be the system and will not be the system. That is the only point I wanted to declare.

NO 779 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – PRIMARY CARE CENTRE

What changes, if any, have the Government introduced to the appointments system at the Primary Care Centre, and if so, when?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

A computerised electronic appointments system was introduced in the summer of 2003. The appointments system is in the process of continuous incremental development and improvement. The statistics and feedback generated by the new system are essential in permitting this improvement. We are confident that the new system is better than the old one and that it will continue to improve.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 779 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

When the Minister says that it was introduced in the summer, can he be more specific because when he says the summer I think he must be referring to the months of June, July August of last year. I have a copy I have made a copy of what the actual report by the Healthcare Development Team says about the system, and the report was published in September of last year. If the system was introduced in the summer then it must mean that they are criticising the system that was introduced which the Minister has just communicated to us, where they say that an appointment at the Primary Care Centre involves up to 19 steps. That a patient will wait up to an hour before being seen by a clinician and the amount spent waiting is excessive when compared to the actual consultation time, that the administrative process that has been designed to support the appointments process is very complex and poorly understood by the patients that are required to use it. Therefore, can the Minister be more specific? Can he say, as he said in the summer, and the report was published in September and most of the pages that carry the word 'produced' carry the month 'July', is the Minister saying that it was introduced before July or after July? I do not think that after July is the summer.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The hon Member assumes, because she does not know it was not there at the time, that the criticisms in the report refer to the previous system, not to the current system. It is the nature of the time span, the report was published in September but research must have been done before September. If this was presented in the summer, I do not have an exact date for her whether it was June, July or August so I cannot pin it down. Be that as it may, this is as I said a process of continuous incremental development. There is still work being carried out by the Clinical Governance Development Team. The appointments system is one of the work streams on which they are working, work stream No. 7. What is in place was developed in-house. The system as it is in place now is being analysed and looked at for possible improvements and when those recommendations come to the Government there will then, if we accept those recommendations, there will be another change, but I think what the hon Member is referring to is past history, she should be looking forward and not back.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The deficiencies that were identified then no longer exist, is the Minister saying that those deficiencies are now history and have been dealt with?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

That is a different question altogether, I will need notice of that question. The question is have we introduced an appointment system and the answer is yes, last summer. Whether the comparatives, I do not have that information.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The question is 'what changes, if any, have been introduced?'. The Minister says there are changes taking place all the time and he has told us that we should regard the deficiencies that were identified in the Clinical Governance Report that they commissioned, as being history. Well, that suggests to me that if they say one of the deficiencies is that there are 19 steps it means that there are no longer 19 steps, is that the case or not?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I think by the very nature of the new system there cannot be 19 steps. For example, a larger number of appointments are now done by telephone than were being done before, as much now as 45 per cent of the appointments are being done by telephone. The other advantage which obviously negates the criticism read out by his hon Colleague is that appointments are now given on a time specific to the patient basis as opposed to what was happening in the past which was a block appointment for a number of patients for a given time. So I think it is implicit in the changes that those must apply to the previous system. In any case what I am saying is that the current system, be that as it may, the current system is not cast in stone either, and that could possibly change, I do not know, maybe not, but could possibly change in the coming months.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Did I hear the Minister correctly when he said that the arrangements had been put in place in-house, which means that they have been prompted to the Government by the professionals working within the GHA and not the experts?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes, that is exactly what I have said. I have said the computerisation of the system had been developed in-house from resources within the GHA. Presumably prior to the entry of the Clinical Governance Team onto the scene or either before or in parallel. A system like that would not be developed over five hours, it would take a bit longer than that. Then to test it and then to put it into place. I know when I first visited the Primary Care Centre as Minister it was already there in place but was still being tested and still being developed, as it probably is still now. So yes, the resources were available from within the GHA, was done from within the GHA. I cannot say positively but it seems to me that they were not prompted by the Clinical Governance Team. The Clinical Governance Team had come there to look at what was there, at the same time as the new system was being put into place and now what they are assessing is the new system in place and to see how it is working.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 780 TO 783 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I have done a comprehensive exercise as regards the figures that I have been provided in this House, and have also taken the trouble to compare them with the figures that appear in the Government Abstract of Statistics. Also with the figures that appear in the Healthcare Report, and I would like to inform the Minister that they baffle me. They do not coincide at all. So what I would like the Minister to do is perhaps to get somebody to do the exercise for him that I have done and then he will realise that when we are talking about the number of out-patient attendances at the Primary Care Centre, let us look at the year 2000 for example. For the year 2000 I have done the exercise and I have come up with all the answers that I have been given by the Government for that year and I come to the figure of 123,049. The Government Abstract of Statistics, who the GHA provide them with the figures for the same year gives the figure of 128,298, and in the Healthcare Report for that same year the figure of 120,204 appears. So we have 123,049 for Government answers in the House, Government Abstract of Statistics for that year 128,298 and the Healthcare Report 120,204. Now if we continue, and I have spent quite a number of days and perhaps weeks looking at these statistics because they are important, that is why we always ask for questions on statistical information. When we look for example at Question No. 782 we have discrepancies as well. When we ask the Government for the total number of GP attendances at the Primary Care Centre for 2000, 2001 and 2002 I am provided with the following. For 2000 86,599; for 2001 104,951; for 2002 89,902. When we look at the Report for the same years, GP Attendances 92,359 compared to what the Minister has provided me with 86,599. 96,885 compared to 104,951 and 96,959 compared with 89,902. Therefore if I continue I do not think I have got to the other ones, I would urge the Minister if he would actually get somebody in his Department to actually tell us which of the figures are the correct ones. If he can confirm that the correct ones are the ones that I have been provided in this House by them, the ones that appear in the Government Abstract of Statistics or the ones that appear in the Healthcare Development Team Report of September 2003, because none of them are the same.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Either someone needs a new battery for their calculator or maybe even a new calculator, or alternatively the hon Member is not comparing apples with apples. I cannot on my feet, and I know she is not asking me to do that, answer which one it is. I am happy to get people to go and check up the figures but before I do that I think the hon Member should be more specific on what the figure is that she wants to get. What I would suggest is that she asks me, I am not going to go and check the Abstract of Statistics or whatever the other source was that she mentioned, I will check the validity of the answers that I have given in this House. If the hon Member wants me just to check that answer, I can get it checked but if she wants me to compare it with other sources then if she could give me the comparative sources and specify the question a bit more accurately in a letter to me I will get the right people to look at it. What I do not want to do is get people to do a mathematical exercise unless I am sure that we are looking at the same question or the same comparative.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I am referring Question No. 781 and 782 and we are talking about GP attendances at the Primary Care Centre and we are talking about Out-patient attendances at the Primary Care Centre. In the three areas that I have actually done the exercise on, the figures do not coincide.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

That is exactly what I am saying. If the hon Member would like to write to me and say to me 'the figure for out-patient attendances in this period of time, in the House you give me this', tell me what it is that needs to be checked. The hon Member should be specific and do it in writing so I can make sure that what I am checking, I do not want to do it on the basis of a verbal exchange. If she tells me what she wants checked I will get it checked.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can the Minister also, taking into account that the Abstract of Statistics quotes as the source the Health Authority, check with them what it is that they have provided the Statistics Office with?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes obviously. That is why I am saying that before I start anybody doing the exercise, which is time consuming and which moves people away from doing more important things in health, I want to make sure that I am tasking them with a specific task. For example, in preparing the answers to questions today, something that looks relatively simple that was asked in two separate questions of the Minister for Social Services and myself in relation to people on waiting lists for something or other, the GHA and Social Services came to a different answer. The reason for that is very simple, unless one says on Friday 14th of such a month at 5 o'clock what was the number of people on the waiting list, the answer is different. The GHA have calculated it as at the beginning of April and Social Services have calculated it as at last week, and there was a difference. What I want to avoid is the same sort of exercise. So if she is specific and tells me exactly what it is that is to be compared, and if I am not clear I will get some one to come back to it.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Definitely. I have done the exercise myself and it has taken me weeks but I will provide the Minister with the information because we are talking about substantial differences in the three sets of figures, and therefore I will send it over to him and I will show him the figures that I have come up with and I will actually photocopy the information that I have come up with so that the work that is required is not going to be so tiresome as the one that I had to do.

NO 784 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – STRESS MACHINES

Can Government confirm whether there is a stress machine at the Primary Care Centre, which was donated last year, which is not being used?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The GHA does not have a stress machine at the Primary Care Centre.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 784 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

This is rather surprising because the actual donors, the people who donated the machine, contacted us and said that they had handed it over last year. Is it that the machine has disappeared or it was not donated? Because as far as the private entities that donated the machine, or is it kept somewhere else, where is it? I am laughing but I should not be because we are talking about a stress machine which was donated by private entities in Gibraltar, but if the Minister would enlighten us as to where it is or what has happened to it.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

It is not anywhere, a stress machine has not been donated to the GHA or to the Primary Care Centre, and there is not one there and there has never been one there. I assume what the hon Member is referring to is a treadmill or an exercise bicycle that was donated last year, but it is not a stress machine.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

This is rather surprising because the information that we got was information from the people who actually donated it, but I suspect that a lot of people when they are talking about a treadmill, that in effect is sometimes referred to as a stress machine. If it is a treadmill is that there at the Health Centre?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes there is a treadmill at the Health Centre, the Primary Care Centre which was donated last year. To clarify because I am not trying to be deliberately obtuse, I am trying to clarify the situation so that the hon Member can understand it better. There was an offer of a stress machine, there is a whole story to that and if she wishes to ask more questions then it is up to her. What was donated was not a stress machine, it was a piece of equipment minus the necessary software, bits and pieces that would turn it into a stress machine. At the moment it is only a treadmill and it is being used at the Cardiac Rehabilitation Centre for exercise but it is not a stress machine and it is not capable of being a stress machine until more bits and pieces, including software, are purchased, added on to it, loaded on to it, whatever needs to be done. I trust that is clearer.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

In view of what the Minister has said, and he has stressed it in exclamation marks, will the bits and pieces be purchased by the Government so that in fact it is converted into a stress machine?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

At the moment there are no plans to do so.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

In that case I am totally distressed about it.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 785 TO 795 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm, because this is something that I spoke to him about, that the answers that he has actually given to me today will be recorded in Hansard? That is the idea is it not?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

There are two different situations here. The arrangement that we made in your presence was that the hon Member would give me advance notice of the statistical questions, I would provide the statistics in answer ahead of the meeting and then she would ask the question at the meeting and I would give her the answer at the meeting. This is what I am doing in relation to all the questions except the ones I have said have already been answered. The questions that she asked at the last meeting that I said I would answer in 10 days time are Question Nos. 215, 216, 217 and 218 which as my hon Colleague earlier on and in fact myself in an earlier answer, it would be to give the same information again. In those cases there has been no arrangement to provide the answer, whether it is recorded or not that is up to the Speaker.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Well that was the idea, if I remember rightly, in the presence of Mr Speaker I said I would ask the question again and the answer that I was given would be recorded, and that is the arrangement we came to with Mr Speaker.

MR SPEAKER:

No, there was no arrangement with me. There was arrangement between you two. As far as I am concerned there is no arrangement with me.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The arrangement that I agreed to after a lot of discussion was that I offered to provide the statistical information at intervals to be agreed between us, for example quarterly, but we established with Mr Speaker that that would not allow it to be published in Hansard. So what we agreed to was that that information, either published quarterly or provided quarterly or provided in correspondence so she would get it periodically at fixed periods of time, the hon Member could then ask again and I would provide the answer, which is what I am doing. I have already provided information ahead of the meeting just as she provided the questions to me I have provided answers to her ahead of the question, but the various questions which at the last meeting I undertook to answer in 10 days time, I have never considered part of that arrangement. Otherwise I would be answering the same question twice in this House, and as Mr Speaker said before half jokingly, if we establish the practice where because we are unable to answer the question, we want to answer it but we are unable to answer in the time available and say we are going to give the answer in 10 days time, if then the same question is going to be asked again, it is going to increase the number of questions by 20 per cent. Let us be clear, the information has been provided what we are discussing is whether it has been provided here so that it is available in Hansard. In any case the question is being asked again within six months of the original question which is another issue altogether, but if the hon Member is that insistent on it being in Hansard I am not sure what the solution is.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can I remind the Minister that the solution that was given in answer today to Question No. 588 is the solution that is now being rejected. When the Hon Mr Bruzon asked 'can Government provide the answers given in writing to Questions 123 to 131 of 2004 by the Minister for Housing for the purpose of the record in Hansard?', the Minister for Housing told us that if we wanted the answers given for the purpose of the record of the answer, we should ask again the questions that have already been answered in writing, namely Questions 123 to 131. Now my hon Colleague has asked again and the answer she has been given is 'I have already given you the answer'. Well, the answer that the Minister has given to my Colleague is in fact what we were recommended to do earlier today by the Minister for Housing in answer to Question No. 588, and what I said we would do at the next meeting of the House. That is to table again questions 123 to 131 and if the Minister recollects what I said before was well look I assume that in the answer what we will get is what we get in other questions, which is 'I will now pass the statistical information over to the hon Member', and even though it is not read out it is recorded.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I have copies of the previous answer here and I do not have a problem in providing it. I am worried about the principle, this is not something that has been discussed in the Government, I am worried about the principle of a question being asked as we are talking about, the question was asked last time I said 'I cannot provide the answer now, I will provide it in 10 days time', in 10 days time or less I provided it in writing, if we accept the principle that every time we do that then it is going to be asked again in the House, it is just artificially extending the number of questions, that is the principle I am worried about.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I agree entirely with what the Minister is saying, that is why if he cares to look at the way Question No. 588 is drafted, it is not drafted as a repetition of the previous questions in a period of less than six months, which in fact the Standing Orders do not permit, it is drafted in a way which acknowledges that we have already got the information and we are simply asking by putting a question which covers the group, as opposed to each individual one, that is why it says here Questions 123 to 131 on the basis that that would enable the Minister to say 'I now pass over the information I have already provided in writing' and that passing over, as happens with all the other questions, would be a sufficient trigger to get it recorded.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I do not want to hold up the procedure unnecessarily. I am quite happy to carry on until we get a chance to discuss and make policy decisions internally, but it will take me a couple of seconds to bring out the copies from here and I can hand it over later. Then for the record I will hand over the written answers that I supplied to the hon Member to Question Nos. 215, 216, 217 and 218 during this meeting.

NO 796 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – COST OF PHARMACEUTICALS

Can the Government state whether the growth in the costs of pharmaceuticals, has resumed at an even faster rate of increase, 18 per cent per year, in the last three years, as compared with 13 per cent per year from 1990 to 1998?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

No Sir. The increases over the past 3 years have been as follows:-

|                       |               |
|-----------------------|---------------|
| 2000/2001 – 2001/2002 | 15.9 per cent |
| 2001/2002 – 2002/2003 | 10.8 per cent |
| 2002/2003 – 2003/2004 | 7.8 per cent  |

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 796 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister then explain the difference in the figures that he has given to me in relation to the figures that are published in the Healthcare Development Team Report, where it specifies that there has been an 18 per cent increase?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

If this is an example of comparing apples to apples then it explains why the hon Member can not square the abstract with the answers given in this House to whatever the third source is, because this is exactly the problem. The hon Member is not reading the report correctly and she is not comparing apples with apples. The report says, 'after 1998', the question says 'in the last three years' and that is why the percentages are different. The raw data is different.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It is not different, I am reading the report and it says that it has shifted significantly over not the last three years as the Minister has said, over the last five years. I have got it in front of me. It has shifted significantly.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Precisely, over the last five years but her question is in the last three years so the percentages have got to be different. One is five years and her question is over the last three years.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

But the Minister can confirm that they have increased in the last three years.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I have just given the hon Member the percentages, that they have increased, not as much as they used to increase in her time by the way, but that is a different issue. The figures that I have for the increases in her time are much bigger, 26 per cent, 17 per cent, 22 per cent, but that is a different issue.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It is definitely a different issue because I have never, ever recalled the increases the Minister is mentioning today when we were in government. Another thing I wish to remind the Minister is that having had a government that sadly decided to increase prescription charges because they said that there were abuses, and then having introduced generics because they wanted to introduce cost-saving measures, sadly it appears that all that they have tried to do has completely backfired on them, because when they actually introduced, and I know that the hon the previous Minister will remember, I was constantly telling him that why had he increased prescription charges which they did from £1.20 to £2.50, I think that the actual campaign against that measure, because we were talking about people who were ill and who need medicinal products and we thought that it was not prudent on the part of the Government that whereby they were spending huge sums of money in other areas they decide to increase prescription charges but now it seems that we have a situation because of the figures that we have arrived at and the figures provided by the Report of the Healthcare Development Team, that it is in fact the Government that have changed the system and have actually done the opposite of what they said they aimed to do whereby after £7.50 all items in prescriptions are free of charge. Has that not conducted the increases that are actually here highlighted by the Report which actually says 'increases in number of items per script' that is one of the reasons for the increases, are we not correct in our analysis? I know the Chief Minister will say no.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No I do not think anything has been conducted or even induced by anything that the hon Member has said. It really is not easy to calculate. I do not know if the hon Member genuinely simply does not understand the concepts that she refers to in debate in this House, or whether she does understand them but goes out of her way to abuse the principles and the concepts, simply to suit her political objectives. Look, she refers to generics, as if introducing generics was somehow a negative thing. The Government introduced the same generics formulary as applies in the UK and throughout Western Europe. So, she may think that introducing what she calls generics, by which I assume she means the medicine formulary which includes generic medicines as well, the Government do not feel a need to apologise or explain it. It is a perfectly normal thing to do, the only country in Europe which was lining the pockets of proprietary drugs manufacturers when there were identical chemical compositions in the form of medicines with exactly the same medical effect available for less money, the only country left in Europe being taken for a ride in that way was Gibraltar, and the hon Lady may still be trying to pretend that joining the rest of the world in not being taken to the cleaners by the medicine companies is somehow a retrograde step. Well she can continue until the day she gives up her health portfolio trying to argue that. She can continue to argue that the entire world is wrong and she, who is the only human being under the sun that I have ever heard argue against the introduction of generic medicines, is right.

Secondly, if she wants to make allusions to the fact that we increased prescriptions, or does she think that this community can continue to fund itself indefinitely, lowering taxes, raising public expenditure and never raising revenue-raising methods. She expects the price of prescription medicines to remain in Gibraltar the same as they were in 1985 and that any decision by the Government to increase them is somehow the equivalent of slaughtering babies at birth. Well, she has an extraordinary approach to that which I find mindless. She may be for example, interested in knowing that the prescription charges in the United Kingdom are higher than the prescription charges in Gibraltar. So we have got a long way to go before she can start complaining. If she is going to start mentioning, as she does in every question, the Government's policy to raise prescription charges, I mean she is still going on about this four years after the event. Four years after the event she is still referring but I do not mind, in fact we may raise the prescription charges again as responsible governments should when there is a need to do so, but she should add, if she is interested in reflecting the policy accurately, she should say that we have increased some prescription charges and abolished them for others. The hon Member never says whilst acknowledging that they abolished prescription charges for pensioners, she never says that, 'you raise prescription charges' but does not add 'but abolished them for pensioners'. Now the hon Lady claims to be a socialist, I have never noticed an enormous amount of socialism in any of them but still, they claim to be socialist and when we removed prescription charges for elderly people instead of welcoming it she ignores it. Or is it that she does not ignore it, that she does not think it is politically convenient to refer to it, which calls into question issues of integrity and objectivity and accuracy of facts.

The most astonishing part of her last intervention is the suggestion, it really is an astonishing abuse of statistics that because the prescription medicine bill for generic medicines, or for medicines post the introduction of the generic formula has now overtaken or increased higher than it was when the measure was taken, that this must mean that the measure was wrong. Does the obvious not occur to her? Namely, that without the use of the formulary, without the use of generic medicines, the figure would be even higher, that we would have reached these levels on the basis of using only proprietary branded drugs, these excessive levels of medicine costs would have been reached years ago, and that the cost today would be even more millions of pounds than they are now. Is that not the obvious answer? By what logical application of the statistics does she come to the conclusion that these percentage increases, which incidentally are smaller than the percentage increases that she, she may not be aware of it because she was not perhaps even conscious of the rising costs of medicines in her day, but if she calculates the cost of medicines during her term of office, she will see that what the Minister for Health has said is correct, and the explanation is not that the costs of medicines are rising because of the formulary, the use of generics has retarded the increase in the cost of medicines. I have to say that these costs of medicines are still far too high. The hon Lady if she were really interested in statistics, Jersey with a much larger population than Gibraltar spends less on the prescription medicines for its health service than we do with a population nearly three times the size. Now, fine, they may be different services, but I think none of what she has just said is a reasonable analysis of the matter. As she ended her last supplementary by asking whether the Government agreed with her analysis, the answer is that for all the reasons that I have just taken her through, that the Government do not agree with her analysis.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Opposition Members agree that we are hearing a lot of waffle, as we always do, from the Chief Minister, because if the Chief Minister is now saying that perhaps they will have to increase the prescriptions, that they are far too high, and I have taken note of what the Chief Minister has said, then why did they change the system when they increased prescription charges from £1.20 to £2.50 and then suddenly they came back to the House and said 'there is abuse and that is why we have done it, and now we are going to change the system and the system now is that patients after three items, every other item in the prescription is free of charge'. So what is the Chief Minister talking about?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I cannot make any sense whatsoever of the question.

ORAL

NO 797 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – PRIMARY/SECONDARY CARE

Have the Government any evidence that suggests that there is little communication between Primary and Secondary Care Services?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answered together with Question No. 798 of 2004.

NO 798 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – PRIMARY/SECONDARY CARE

Can the Government confirm whether there is lack of communication between doctors and other health professionals?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The interface between primary and secondary care involves large volumes of interactions covering a substantial range of services between practitioners, their patients and their colleagues.

There will always be room to improve communications between different staff groups. The GHA has therefore established a group, led by a lay member of the Authority, to develop ways to improve internal communications within the GHA. In addition, the Clinical Development Team's proposals for improving health service delivery in Gibraltar envisage significant improvement, via new multi-disciplinary working arrangements, which will lead to better communications between staff groups and better services for patients.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 797 TO 798 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Therefore, by definition, the Minister is saying that yes, there is evidence that suggests that there is little communication and that there is evidence that there is lack of communication between doctors and other health professionals. Now, can the Minister confirm whether he was aware that this was happening before the Report was actually published?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

First of all what I said was the interface between primary and secondary care involves et cetera, the hon Member will have to look at Hansard and she will see what I said, which is not what she said I said. Secondly, before the Report was prepared by the Clinical Development Team, as she has asked me, I was looking after other portfolios in Government and therefore, I was not aware.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Yes, I know, but when talking about a Government the Minister can not just say 'I do not know because I was not the Minister for Health', I will ask the Government then.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Well, I am very happy, the Government are very happy to answer the question. The hon Lady is living on another planet and certainly living in another country if she does not know that there has been historically in Gibraltar, including during her term in office with the responsibility for health, a permanent situation of tension between a number, not all, a number of GPs at the hospital and a number, not all, of consultants at the hospital. The hon Member must know this and for her to feign that she does not know it is unbelievable, because it is a well known fact. It is a well known fact in public circles let alone to somebody who has been Minister for Health for eight years, and she will see, when we start publishing the implementation. Well, I suppose she is interested in the answer to the question that she has asked, if she is not I have got better things to do with my time.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It is extraordinary that the Chief Minister suddenly comes up dishing out allegations that he knows what happened when I was in government. How does he know? In any case, we are talking about a Government that have been in office for eight years. Does the Chief Minister then not accept that after eight years, I think that the people of Gibraltar are starting to get a bit fed up. The Government have been in office for eight years, and the Chief Minister has said that he knows what happened when I was in government. He cannot, and secondly, he does not want to know what is happening now within the eight years that his party has been in Government, because this is definitely something that has come out from a Report that he has commissioned, and therefore how can he try to waffle his way out of a situation that is existing in the Health Services today and for which they are responsible. They have been eight years in Government, will they be 20 years or 30 years and still blame the AACR?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The way things are going there is every likelihood that we will be in office for the next 20 or 30 years, that part of the hon Member's answer is certainly true, because frankly, I do not know what the hon Lady, I am quite prepared to continue this exchange with her on the basis that at least she is going to listen to what one says. What I would have carried on to say, had she been interested in listening to the answer that I was trying to give her before, what I was going to say was that she will see when we start publishing the implementation recommendations in Phase 2 of the Health Review, that what I am saying is true, and that there are instances of what I said before about the tension between Primary and Care Centre. I did not need to answer her specific supplementary of earlier, I did not need experts to come from the United Kingdom to tell me that there was tension but that is what she does not understand. She can never understand the distinction between identifying a problem and the necessary expertise to remedy it, and she never recognises that distinction. This is why she introduced no health reform whatsoever in her eight years in office. I did not need a consultant from the United Kingdom, however expert, to come to tell me that the problem existed. That is true of most of the problems in the Health Authority, but we do need expertise from the United Kingdom to tell us how they can be fixed. I know the hon Member does not agree but this is the sort of the political arrogance of it. There is a problem. Sometimes I think that what makes the hon Lady most nervous is that we might succeed in fixing the problems, because she is going to have to find another political toy to play with. I cannot understand this, Governments all over the world when there are structural reforms to be introduced in a highly technical specialist area like health, Governments all over the world consult the experts, not the hon Lady. We differ and we are perfectly happy to spend the substantial sums of public money that we are spending on the consultants, because we know that the result will be a long overdue, overhaul of 40 years work of accumulated bad practice in the health service, not all of it the result of the eight years that the hon Member was in office, but those eight years accrued bad practice as well, because every year that passes without reform adds to the problem. We decided to initiate the reforms when we did, we could say that from the two years before then we were contributing. We started three years ago, this process has been on-going. No changes yet, but the reforms that are coming are long, deep and wide and by the time they are finished, which is not a never never process, we are talking about a process that might last between 12 and 18 months at the most, the Health Service will not be recognisable from what it is today. It is all very well for the hon Lady to say, 'why has it taken us eight years', it has not taken us eight years it has taken us six years to start the process. The Opposition Members did not do it and they did not even address their minds to the need for the process in eight years in government. When the hon Lady starts seeing some of these reports that are going to be published, she will see what I mean when I say that there is tension and lack of communication and that this is ingrained in the system, the system is not right.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can I just make clear, because the Chief Minister has said two things which appears to contradict the other. One is that we do not support the bringing of this Clinical Governance Team, we do not but he just said that my hon Colleague was criticising him as to why it took him so long. We are not criticising why it took him so long to have the Clinical Governance because we would not have done it and we do not support it.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Another thing that the Chief Minister said, he said he knew the problems and he has accepted that he needs the experts to fix them. Well, I can tell him that the whole of Gibraltar knows that the problems that exist today did not exist when we were in government at all and they can laugh. There were no measures that we had to take like they have had to take. We did not have people having to wait for beds to go into the hospital, we did not have to mix the wards and I can go on and on and on. We knew the problems and the difference between them and us, is that we solved them and they did not. When they came into Government the problems started to exacerbate.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Oh I see. So when the British Medical Council described the Health Services under her stewardship as 'third world' this was a figment of their imagination, was it?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The Chief Minister is saying nonsense, because when he says the British Medical Council, people hearing might say 'oh this is a council'. Who are the people who said it? The Branch of the BMA and they did not say it was in third world standards, what they said was it could go down because we were actually tackling private practice, which we did and which has been another fiasco with this Government, but the British Medical Council does not exist. It is the BMA, the union of the doctors who were very concerned that we were going to tackle private practice. So the Chief Minister should know that when he talks in this House he should say what is actually factual information and not what suits him.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Let us be clear of the enormity of what the hon Lady is saying. The hon Lady is saying that on 15th May 1996 there was in the Gibraltar Health Authority no private practice, lies. The Gibraltar Health Authority, the hospital has been rife with private practice which she was specifically not just permitting but encouraging by giving contracts to consultants that allowed them to do it. The hon Lady is also suggesting that in her time in St Bernard's Hospital there was never any shortage of beds, no one was ever asked to leave the hospital because they had been discharged. In other words, that none of the things that she presently complains about, about the Health Authority existed. So, before the 16th May 1996 the people of Gibraltar were entirely satisfied with their public health service which did not require them to have recourse to private practice. Who on earth does she think that she is trying to con? The problem with the hon Lady is that she repeats this nonsense so often, she has played this gramophone record so many times in her own earshot that she has ended up actually persuading herself that it is true. This is the problem, there is a grave psychological problem here. The hon Lady has convinced herself that this is true. It is terribly, terribly sad. I am not going to enter into a balance sheet with her about whether it was more bad or less bad in her time of office, or more bad or less bad in our time of office. What I can tell her is this, that there have been huge reforms and huge improvements since 1996 and far from the Health Service having slipped into the mire since 1996, some of the things that needed fixing have been done. Some of the non-existent services that she did not even make available to the people of Gibraltar, are now made available to the people of Gibraltar. Does that mean that the Health Service is now all right? Evidently not. If we thought that the Health Service was now all right, we would not have commissioned the studies that we have commissioned and embarked on the reform that we have embarked. Is the Health Service now better than it was when the hon Lady left office? Incalculably better, ask anybody who works in the Health Service. [Interruption] So the hon Member thinks that this never happened in their time in office? It is clear that the hon Members are completely and utterly blind or obtuse to the realities, which are (1) that the Health Authority today by any measure, the Health Service today is better than it has been. (2) That what requires to be done, not to tinker with linoleum on the floors as she used to do, or not to sack ophthalmologists on her whim as she used to do, but what needs to be done is being done. (3) I am entirely convinced, as I think by now are most people in Gibraltar, that the hon Lady is simply now milking the health issue. Never mind that she has not succeeded in three General Elections in persuading the people of this, but she continues to milk shamelessly the health service, and abuse it for her own purposes because she knows that what she does not want to happen is about to happen. That is that for the first time in Gibraltar's medical history a Government are not only going to deliver a new hospital to the people of Gibraltar, but with it is going to tackle areas of difficulty and reform in our Health Service which no Government of Gibraltar, least of all hers, has had the courage, the determination, the commitment to tackle, and I am no longer willing to debate these issues over and over again. We fought an election as recently as five months ago on this issue and there is not going to be another general election for another four years. By then it will not turn on what she says or what I say, the time for spin will be over. The people will see the new hospital, it will be up and running and they will decide whether they like it or whether they think it is an improvement, and the reforms to the service will have been delivered and the people will know, will see, whether it is for real or they will know whether it is not for real.

Therefore there really does not seem any point in her and I bantering any longer about this, there is not another electoral contest between now and turkey time. Therefore I suggest that we agree to allow time for the facts to speak for themselves, because there is no point of the hon Lady constantly making statements and constantly making complaints as if a thorough review process was not under way. She ignores the fact that a review process is under way and she says 'yesterday somebody rang me to complain about this or that', as if there was not a general review process under way that is going to deal with issues of that sort and many more. So the hon Member can continue to make hay for a little bit longer but not for very much longer, I must warn her.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO;

It is always the Chief Minister that does not like the word 'lies' in this House and he has introduced the word 'lies'. I have always said, that I am not in the habit of saying things in the House that I cannot back up with factual information.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Well I think that is not true.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Well in that case, if the Chief Minister has used the word 'lies', I think that this is a word which is not commonly used in parliamentary procedures. Secondly, we were phasing out private practice and they used to criticise us because we were phasing it out, because they said that we were actually going to attract the doctors who did not have the right qualities to come over. That did not happen, and another thing that I can tell him is, does he not realise that the people of Gibraltar do not believe what he is saying? The people of Gibraltar have got long memories and they know that the Health Services are now worse then ever before. Does he not realise that he accepted it? When the elections were over, he actually said in his speech that he accepted there had been a reprimand from the people of Gibraltar because of our health services.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes of course I accepted that, but that is not an acknowledgement.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Yes, the psychological problem is on his side not our side.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I fear that the hon Lady has been contagiously influenced by the Hon Stephen Linares.

HON S E LINARES:

Point of order. What is the Chief Minister saying about the Hon Stephen Linares? Because I have been giggling and laughing, yes I admit to that, the same as he does when I speak, he giggles and laughs, so what is the allegation the Chief Minister is saying to Stephen Linares?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I was about to tell him but he interrupted to ask a point of order, to ask me what is the allegation, when I was in the process of making it. If he had just let me finish he would not have had to make the point of order, he would by now know the answer. The allegation of contagion to the Hon Stephen Linares is the one that I put to him this morning during his address, which is that the hon Lady, as I said to him this morning, accuses of distortion and attributes to me things that I have not said either for myself or for them. Look, the fact that I after the election acknowledged that the results suggested that the electorate wanted us to concentrate a little bit on local affairs, which was both health and housing as I recall, so let us just stay on the health aspect of it for now. That is not an acknowledgement that the Health Service was then worse than it was under the hon Lady, it was that despite the improvements there had not been enough improvements. I do not see why the hon Member should interpret an acknowledgement on my part that the electorate thinks that more needs to be done on health, as an acknowledgement of my acceptance, to use her words, of the fact that the Health Services were worse under us than under her. I happen to think that they are not. The hon Lady obviously believes the contrary, well that is Okay. [Interruption] Well, I do not know whether that is true, because if things were as bad as the hon Members make out, well then they have got a real big political problem, because for goodness sake, if they could not beat us in three elections in a row having presided over the collapse of the Health Service, which is something which the people of Gibraltar hold most dear, how on earth are they going to beat us after we have fixed it all? The hon Member is in effect saying that despite having been reckless and dilatory and having presided over the collapse of the Health Authority, we were still able to beat them by a margin of 12 per cent in our third election, by which time there is usually a considerable amount of electoral erosion.

Well, I do not think the hon Members should depress themselves in this way. The answer is that the situation is not as she is describing. No, the situation is as I am describing. Namely, that the people see a Government that have resolved to tackle the issues of health, that is tackling the issues of health, that the results have already started to come through and will continue to come through, and unfortunately for her will all have come through before the next election and that they are therefore happy to have such a Government in office. Contrasted to her, now I understand why she did not take any steps to reform the Health Service, how could she take any steps to reform the Health Service when she is convinced that there was nothing wrong with it, nothing to fix? So, the position is that on 15th May the Health Authorities were in a perfect state and with immediate effect from 16th May 1996, all the problems began to occur. Not only all the problems began to occur, but indeed that all the problems began to occur because of the fault of the GSD Ministers for Health, Keith Azopardi, Bernard Linares, all of them who personally brought about this immediate deterioration beginning the very morning after the general election result. The hon Lady is persuaded that this is true and because we are not going to be having this discussion every time we have a health question in the House, what I propose to the hon Lady is that we just allow time to tell whether we succeed or whether we do not succeed. In the meantime, she can carry on sniping from the margins, but she can carry on sniping from the margins, that is all she is doing and I intend to continue to tell the electorate that that is what she is doing, and I intend to continue to tell the electorate that in our view what the hon Members are doing is simply using the health issue, whilst they can, which as I say is not going to be for very much longer, as a political football. Of course even after the reforms it is not going to be a perfect system, there will always be things that will go wrong. Young men may still die in hospital, people die in hospitals even in the Houston Medical Centre, and of course I have no doubt that whenever there is such an incident the Opposition Members will say, 'ah you see how it was a waste of £1 million to bring the consultants because people are still dying in your hospital', I have no doubt that is going to be the case but the electorate is not going to buy it.

GHA – SECURITY GUARDS

Can Government state at what rate per man hour the Gibraltar Health Authority paid for the provision of security guards?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The information requested by the hon Member is set out in the attached schedules that I hand to her.

Answer to Question No. 803 of 2004

The amounts paid to Detectives & Security for the financial year 2003/2004 was £116,559.

Answer to Question No. 804 of 2004

Rates per hour

|              | Weekdays | Weekends    |
|--------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| 01/02 | 5.50 per hour   | £72.00 per weekend |
| 02/03 | 5.50 per hour   | £72.00 per weekend |
| 03/04 | 6.00 per hour   | £88.00 per weekend |

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 803 TO 804 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is the increase in the rate in the last year the result of the increase in the minimum wage being reflected in the rate when it goes up to £6.00?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am not certain of the answer to that question. I think it is reflected, I will not attempt to answer it, I am not sure what the reason is. I had assumed when I saw the increase that it was purely an increase in costs, that it was the latest year, that the cost had gone up but for a number of reasons I was not able to check it. I do not know the answer.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is the rate that the Health Authority pays the result of having asked for quotes from different people and then having selected this one?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes, I was told that at the moment we are employing only one firm but in the past we have employed a different one, or two at a time, so the prices are arrived at by quotation or tender.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not think it has anything to do with the minimum wage. The rate paid has never been anywhere near the minimum wage, even as far back as 2001/2002 they were being paid £5.50 an hour. So it has been nowhere near the minimum wage, so the rise to £6.00 per hour is not minimum wage linked. They have always been earning more than the minimum wage.

HON J J BOSSANO:

That is not the rate the employees earn. That is the rate the Authority pays. The market is not that big, it just occurred to me that the increase might reflect the fact that the wage paid by the company to the guard had gone up as a result of the minimum wage. What I am thinking is, I assumed that if the Government have got contracts with labour suppliers.....

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We would not agree to them paying their staff less than the minimum wage.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Right, therefore the contractor might come back to the Government and say 'well, since you are now forcing me to pay more I have to charge you more'. That is really what I am asking. The fact that it went up in the last year, I assume was not that the company was increasing its profit margin but that the employee was getting paid more.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, all I can say in answer to the question is that the rate goes up every year, even in years in which there has not been an increase in the minimum wage.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister for Health confirm whether they have a contract with the company and for what period of time?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No, we need notice of that question. That there is a contract yes, what the period of time is, I would need notice of.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can I just point out to the Chief Minister that the figures that they have given us do not show that it goes up every year, it shows that it went up in this last financial year but in the preceding two years, when the minimum wage had not gone up, it was the same £5.50 an hour.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The hon Member is right, sorry.

GHA – STUDY LEAVE

Can Government confirm what was the estimated cost of study leave in the financial year 2003/2004 and in what subhead is the sum included?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The estimated cost of study leave in the financial year 2003/2004 was £52,000 and is included in subhead 30, School of Health Studies.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 805 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

In the Estimates of 2002/2003 it was shown in the estimate for 2001/2002 that it was £60,000 and the previous year it had a zero there and then the forecast outturn for the same year there was nothing there and for the estimate for 2002/2003 there was nothing there. I can understand that now they have included it in the School of Health Studies but why in previous years was it not shown in 2000/2001, 2001/2002, if the estimate was there for 2001 and 2002 why was it not shown in the forecast outturn for the same year 2001 and 2002?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am afraid I would need notice of that question. I cannot give that answer.

GHA – SPONSORED PATIENTS

Can Government state in answer to Question No 147 of 2004, whether the provisional figure given of £975,000 has now changed?

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

No Sir. There has been no update to this figure.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 806 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Is it still a provisional figure?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I understand so, that is why I said no update. We have had no indication of any change which could make it an accurate figure but there has been no indication whether there will be a change or no change.

GHA – TRAINING

Can the Government confirm what are the arrangements to provide training for staff when new equipment is introduced?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 811 of 2004

A vacancy arose within the community Mental Health Team. This vacancy was advertised and, in keeping with EU legislation, contract officers were allowed to compete with staff in the permanent and pensionable establishment. All applicants were aware that the successful candidate would be required to undergo a period of training in the United Kingdom, prior to taking up the post. The candidate agreed by the selection panel as the person who best met all the needs of the service was a contract officer. He was duly offered the post and consequently the training course in the UK. When he returns he will be employed in a permanent and pensionable post and will therefore cease to be a contract officer.

Answer to Question No. 812 of 2004

Historically, during the time when the hon Member was Minister for Health, and prior to the School of Health Studies being set up by this Government, training requirements identified were reactive and failed to contribute to a coherent provision of training. The inception of the School of Health Studies resulted in the centralisation of resources and facilities, and with it the commencement and the development of a multi-professional, multi-disciplinary training programme. The increase in training requirements and the continued desire to produce an efficient and coherent workforce has meant that the School and the GHA recognise the need to further develop a system of staff appraisal so that the organisation's needs can be complemented by the personal and professional development needs of the staff. The School will now work closely with the Gibraltar Healthcare Development Team in one of the work streams identified to produce a more systematic and proactive manner of assessing future training requirements.

Answer to Question No. 813 of 2004

This is certainly a central part of the move into the new hospital and the School of Health Studies is currently working with the department responsible for commissioning, to provide a programme of training for staff on the use of all the new equipment to be introduced.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 811 TO 813 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Well, first of all it surprises me to hear the Minister saying that the officer who was brought over with a contract was sent back to the UK and is now being made permanent and pensionable. Now, there are other questions in this House over contract officers because then what the Minister is saying is that if it is not the policy of the GHA to do this, they have done it according to him, because he says that this contract officer is better than local people. That is what he has answered.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

That is not what I have said. I have not mentioned being better than local people or English people or Chinese people. I have not mentioned being better or worse than anybody else.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

What has the Minister then said?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

It seems to me that the hon Member does not understand the situation. I explained it to her at the last Question Time and I have tried to explain it today. I will explain it again in words of one syllable. We have a vacancy in the Mental Health Department. The vacancy is advertised, because of EU legislation the applications cannot be limited to Gibraltarians or to permanent and pensionable people only. In fact it was tried and then we had to extend it so it was extended and a contract officer applied. Now let me move sideways a moment, it seems to me that what the hon Member is totally concentrating on wrongly, is the concept that she seems to think that if we bring someone on contract from the UK and we send that person away for training at the taxpayers expense, that that is in some way criminal, and if that was exactly what had been happening I would tend to agree with her. But that is not the situation, this is not a question of someone coming on contract for a period of three years and someone deciding that during that period of three years we are going to send that person off for a period of time for training in UK at taxpayers expense, then they come back, they finish their contract and they go away again and we have lost them. That is not the situation, let us get this absolutely clear because I do not intend to explain it again. What is happening, as I have said, is that there was a vacancy, people applied and this person, who was a contract officer, applied and was selected. Right, it was a condition that the person had to go to UK for training. At that moment in time the person stopped being a contract officer because the person had been accepted into a permanent and pensionable job. So he is no longer a contract officer he is now employed and he is in UK undergoing training and it is a permanent and pensionable post and we have employed a person who was formally a contract officer, because he was selected. When he comes back from training, he will take up that post, he will be employed as a permanent and pensionable person within the GHA and he is no longer a contract officer. That is the situation and there is no question, as seems to be implied, that we are sending someone who is here for a short period of time and during that period that he is here working for us we are ill using taxpayers funds to send him away for training. I hope that clarifies the situation.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The reason why I have put this question is precisely because of the answer that I got from the Minister in January of this year, when I asked the same question and he answered the following, 'it is not the policy of the Gibraltar Health Authority to send contract officers to the UK for training' and that was his answer. So therefore, if it is not the policy of the GHA to do this then I am entitled to ask why have they done it?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

They have not done it.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

They have done it, the Minister has just said so.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, what the Minister has just told the hon Lady, who appears to be determined not to understand what she is being told however simple it might be or frequently it might be explained to her, is that when this person went on the course he was no longer a contract officer, by that stage he had become a permanent and pensionable officer because he had successfully applied for a permanent and pensionable post.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Well then, is the position that if the Health Authority brings somebody on a short term contract while we are sending our local people to study in the UK, the people who are here to fill that gap can be converted into permanent and pensionable because it is an EU requirement, is that the information we are being given?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No that is not the information and there is no question of converting people into permanent and pensionable. There was a vacancy that was advertised and this person applied together with others I suppose, and there was a selection board, which is the management, consultants or whoever mans this board, and this chap won the contest. He was in Gibraltar as a contract officer but he could have been here in a private capacity.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Well was the vacancy opened outside the Health Service?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Even if it was not, the rule about opening it outside the Health Service is not opening outside the Health Service to permanent and pensionable staff only.

HON J J BOSSANO:

If there is a promotion opened in the Health Service, we are now being told, is it not a promotion? Surely the person is applying on something that requires training, when he gets back he will not be in the same grade as he was before he went. It was a promotion, people applied and the Minister was telling us that they were told they could not restrict it to permanent and pensionable. That is what he has just said, and they extended the date so that contract officers, who would have not been allowed to do it, as has been the policy until now.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

This is not the Civil Service.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I know but everybody in the Health Authority is a seconded Civil Servant. The Health Authority has got no direct employees.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, they become Civil Servants when they become permanent and pensionable, but the rule that one does not recruit outside the Service, it is not a rule it is a practice, the Government are free to open it out and indeed recently has begun to do so in certain areas. In the context of the Health Authority there are lots of people in the Health Authority on contracts, not just this chap, a lot of the doctors are on contracts, a lot of the consultants are on contracts, a lot of the nursing staff is on contract. The size of the contract body as opposed to the permanent and pensionable body is very large in the Health Authority compared to other activities in the public sector. Yes, what the hon Member is saying is true, it appears to have been the case, I personally do not think it is objectionable, it appears to have been the case that when this vacancy was advertised it was open to people who were only contract officers in the Health Authority.

HON J J BOSSANO:

No only permanent and pensionable.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Initially, this is the supplementary information I had here in January and I may have read to the hon Members, initially the post was advertised for permanent and pensionable staff only. However, European law did not allow for this discrimination. The person concerned was therefore entitled to apply and was successful in his application.

HON J J BOSSANO:

We would have to look at the question of European law because we are not very sure what that particular law is, but assuming that to be a correct interpretation of the European requirement, does that not mean effectively that the policy which the Government have defended, that because we do not have the people in the numbers that they want to have qualified, we have to rely on bringing in people on a temporary basis whilst our people are being given the opportunity to qualify. Now if the people who are on a temporary basis are now being told can apply for the vacancies in the Service, then when the people who have been training come back the vacancies will not be there, surely, because the others have already qualified.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

That would assume that the contract officer is better than the people who are within the Service. In this case the interview board decided that this person was the best person for the job.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

What the hon Member says may be true, in the context of this particular post, in other words if there was somebody out there from Gibraltar undergoing training, the sort of person that I know the hon Member means, a Gibraltarian, I do not know where he draws the line for these purposes, was training in the UK for community psychiatric nurse qualifications and whilst he was away training this happened, this which has just described, in other words a contract officer was selected for a permanent post, there may not then be a vacancy when the local person comes back, it is possible that that may happen as he has described it in respect of specific posts, but the real issue on training that we have debated in the House before, is about general nursing posts, and that is just a question of waiting for our staff to get the necessary qualifications and then simply not renewing the contract with contract nurses. This is a particular post, this is not a general nursing post but it could happen. What he has said, if we were not careful, could happen but it would be very unfortunate if it were to happen, but this is not such a case and the hon Member is assuming, which he should not assume is the case and I do not know whether it is or it is not but am almost certain it is not, there is nobody out there undergoing these studies. Theoretically it could happen.

HON J J BOSSANO:

If we have got x number of registered general nurses on contracts, when that has been debated in this House, the rationale of that has been that it is while we have got people who are studying to become qualified we have them here. Therefore we are bringing people in to fill gaps. We have just been told that all those people who are here filling gaps will be able to apply for any other vacancies for which they are qualified to apply, and they may well because they are here having been many years elsewhere, perform better in a promotion board. Now that previously was not possible until this change took place because in fact previously it was limited to non contract officers. If we are being told that this practice that we have had until now is now outlawed, it is not outlawed just in this specific instance. If tomorrow there is a vacancy for a charge nurse or a sister, presumably all the contract people we have got on three year contracts will be able to compete with our permanent staff for those jobs. That was not the intention for bringing them. I find it odd that we should have a situation where we are filling a temporary gap in our needs and the people that we bring we suddenly find can in fact compete with those that have been there all the time, even though they have got preferential terms when they are on contract, even though they get provided with accommodation when they are on contract, even though they get a tax free gratuity. They have got all those advantages and yet they are able to compete on equal terms with the people that are permanently employed here. I simply would like to take a closer look at that European requirement, I must say, but that seems to be the implication.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Well assuming that the European requirement is right, which I am not prepared to endorse that is with the advice that the Health Authority got, I am quite insistent on having a closer look at it myself. It may or may not be right, but assuming for the moment that the Health Authority have got the correct lead of advice from wherever it is that they have sought it, then the position is as the hon Member describes it. We are in a situation where we bring people to Gibraltar on contract, because we are just not producing enough of these people ourselves domestically, and once here on contract, if the advice that they have got is right, then they are suddenly a new source of competition for the posts that before were only available to people on permanent and pensionable, or that the Government procedure protected just for people on permanent and pensionable, and of course that meant usually local belongsers because it was usually the local belongsers and it usually takes quite a long time for it. Yes, that is true, and I suspect that we agree as to what we think that the position should be. To the extent that European law permits it we should be careful not to undermine the accessibility of long term residents as I prefer to call them, for jobs and the Gibraltar Health Authority management has got to be sensitive and manage short term needs in a way which is consistent with the long term objective, which is to give our established local resident staff the opportunity through training and qualification obtaining, to rise up through the Service. That is, as far as I am concerned, what would be the Government's policy. To the extent that the law permits it, that is what the Health Service management should ensure happens and I think the issue is sufficiently significant for the Health Authority to be encouraged to make sure that the legal advice that they acted on in that particular case is correct. It seems to me that that is a much more important issue than whatever may have happened in this particular case, which at the end of the day is just one post.

GHA – FORECAST OUTTURN

Can Government confirm what is the forecast outturn for the revenue and expenditure of the Gibraltar Health Authority for the current financial year as at the end of December 2003?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 814 of 2004

The expenditure in accommodation under Subhead 22 is as follows:
Financial Year 2002/2003 - £219,692.01
Forecast Outturn for Financial Year 2003/2004 - £330,000.

Answer to Question No. 815 of 2004

The forecast outturns for revenue and expenditure are calculated as at the end of the financial year. As at 31 March 2004 they were as shown in the Government's Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure, a copy of which is in the possession of the hon Members.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 814 TO 815 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

As regards the figure for accommodation which seems to me to be quite high, are we talking about the Government having private accommodation to house people that are on contract or people that they have brought over from the UK in the private sector?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is opportune that the hon Member should ask that question now. I have in the last few days asked the question myself within Government and I have commissioned a report, it was about 10 days ago now, and I have commissioned a report which is on my desk and have not yet had an opportunity to read. Where I have asked for full details of the properties et cetera that the Health Authority, and the amount of rent per property and the rental levels, because frankly for these sums of money the Government could borrow money, purchase the property on mortgage and probably pay less than we are paying out in rent. The figures of rents have risen to such an extent that the Government are now stopping to review and see whether there is a more economical way, because if for a smaller amount than we are paying in rent we can service a debt, a loan, that gives us ownership of the property, which will rise in value over time, that might be an option that the Government wish to consider. So the answer to the hon Lady's question is that the Government also are concerned about the escalating cost of this rental figure and we are considering alternatives for the accommodation of our contract staff.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

We are talking about contract staff, but are we also talking about people that are engaged by the Government, like for example like the experts that come over and they are being housed by the Government in private accommodation?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It may include some of them. Some of them are in Government accommodation and some of them are in private accommodation, financed by the Government I suspect through the fee, not necessarily through this vote, but yes ultimately paid for by the Government if not through here then through the fee that we are paying them for the consultancy.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Do the Government have a figure of how many?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

That is in the report that is sitting on my desk.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can I then put the Government on notice that when we come to vote that money we shall be asking for detailed breakdowns of what the money covers, just so that they know?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Sorry, the hon Member was not asking me how many of the consultancy people are in the flats, he was asking how many flats in all. Yes that is how I understood it.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 816 TO 821 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

We are talking about that particular day, that there were no non-entitled patients?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

That is what I said, as at 23rd April, on that day there were no patients.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

That does not mean that there were no patients before that date.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The question was very wide, it says 'can Government confirm whether there are non-entitled patients'. If the hon Member had asked me during the year I would have said, but I have taken the date on which I answered the question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I will ask the question again.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Let me be quite clear, it is not the policy of the Government to accept non-entitled patients. However, if someone comes in off a car accident or off a ship, or in dire need of medical attention, we do not turn them away either, but if they are admitted then they are treated and charged as a private patient, but obviously we do not encourage the practice.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Except that in the Report there is a statement that non-entitled patients require £500 deposit, and there is no record of this having been collected. So the Report does actually admit that there are non-entitled patients.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am not quite sure what the Report admits, but the statement that a non-entitled patient requires a deposit of £500 does not say that there are non-entitled patients, but I am aware that there have been on occasions but they have been charged.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

There have been?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I understand so. That is the feedback that I got. When we were debating how to answer the question, it was difficult to pin it down so we decided to answer on the particular day.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The Report does talk about non-entitled patients but I will rephrase the question again. As regard Question No. 816 the Minister confirms that admissions have declined by 10 per cent between the year 2000 and 2002. Therefore it strikes me as very odd, that does the Minister not see the logic that if admissions have declined by 10 per cent, from 2000 to 2002, why have we had so many shortages of beds?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I assume that is a rhetorical question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I did not quite get the answer. What did the Minister say?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Answer to a rhetorical question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So I am not getting an answer?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The hon Member has had an answer.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I have been working, as usual, because I always like to look at figures that I am given, and I would like to inform the Minister that here again as regards Question No. 818, we have a situation that when we are talking about the total number of in-patient admissions and the average number of patients per day at St Bernard's Hospital, again, we have vast discrepancies. The Report of the Healthcare Development Team of September 2003, as far as the year 2000 is concerned, quotes 6,532 patients, 2001 6,380 patients, 2002 5,874 patients. Now, I have looked at the answers that I have been given in this House by the Government and the figures that I have been given for the year 2000, 5,475 as compared to the one given in the Report which is 6,532, 5,320 as compared to 6,380 which is in the Report, and for the year 2002 5,682 as compared to 5,874 which appears in the Healthcare Development Team Report. It gets even worse because when I looked at the Abstract of Statistics again, the figures do not coincide at all, 5,424 for the year 2000, 6,380 for the year 2001 and 5,874, so here again I have been able to identify that figures being provided in this House are totally different to figures provided in the Government Abstract of Statistics and the figures that appear in the Healthcare Development Team Report for the same years. So before the Minister tells me to do the work for him, I will send him the exercise so that he will be able to confirm which of the three figures are correct.

Now, if we look at Question No. 820, again there are more discrepancies. I wish the Chief Minister would stand up and say 'the hon Member from the Opposition has done a good job' because he never says that, but at least I am bringing to their notice that there are discrepancies in three Reports, which happen to have the GHA as the source. Now, as regards the total number of out-patient attendances at St Bernard's Hospital, we have the Government answering questions in this House, the Minister gets up and he gives a speech and he tries to waffle his way through, I am not waffling. I think it is my legitimate right to stand up and point out to the Government that the figures that I am being given do not coincide at all with the figures that are being produced by the Government Statistics Office and by the Healthcare Development Team Report. Honestly, I think that the job that I am doing is a constructive one. So as far as the total number of patient attendances at St Bernard's Hospital are concerned, the figures again do not coincide. The question is, are the Government concerned enough to want to investigate it?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Having listened to the hon Member, it has reinforced my belief in the accuracy of that famous quotation 'lies, damn lies and statistics'.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Which of the lies and which of the statistics? This is what we want them to look into, which are the lies and which are the true statistics?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Seriously, I will repeat what I said earlier, if the hon Member is that keen on someone spending a lot of time number crunching, then will she identify exactly what the question is, what the sources she is drawing attention to are, and more importantly, to be specific on the periods concerned and the number that she wants so that we can make sure that we are comparing apples to apples. Invariably, the problem is as I pointed out earlier, that the raw data is not necessarily the same.

HON J J BOSSANO:

It is not a question of whether we are keen, the question is that if we are given information in answer to our questions, for which we are grateful, and then in making an evaluation on the demand and the resources of the hospital we look at the number of in-patients. If there are three separate figures then we would like to know which of the three is the right one.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We understand that. We understand that the hon Members are entitled to have accurate information to put it to whatever use they want, to analyse or just to collect it. They are entitled to accurate information. My hon Colleague has given the hon Members information in this House, they should assume that the information that they have had in this House is correct. The hon Lady is now saying 'hang on, but look there is information here in these other sources that I think is incompatible'. We are not saying that she is right or she is wrong, what we are saying is we need to see the various sources that she is relying on to see if they purport to be a measure of the same activity, because all one needs is a slight difference in the wording between a question here and what it is a measure of that is being described in the Report for example, to justify a differentiation in the figures which would make it not a mistake, we are not comparing apples with apples. So it is not that we challenge the hon Member's right to have figures, we have undertaken to check them out but we are not conceding until she has given us the guidance of pointing out to us her sources and what she is comparing, to come to the conclusion that there is a mistake, until we have had an opportunity to assess that. In other words, are we comparing apples with apples and there is a mistake, or is the discrepancy that the hon Lady claims to have found, not because there is a mistake but because they are comparing apples and pears. So we are going to look at it but in order to make sure that the exercise that we are doing is meaningful, we just want to know the source.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Except that I wish to reiterate to the Government that I am looking at apples for apples, because if I look at the table of statistics from the Government and I see out-patient attendances are so many for the year 2000, and then I look at the Government answers exactly for the same purposes, out-patient attendances and I get a different figure. In any case, I will send the information that I have been able to compile to the Minister, to verify whether they are correct or not.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I do not know whether what I am going to say is the answer to the discrepancy but I will give one possible difference. How does one define an out-patient? At the moment in the Out-patients Department next to the A&E Department, there are people who go to attend for dressings, people who go to attend for accidents, people who go to attend doctors, people who go back to attend doctors but there is also an Out-patients Department somewhere else, in Maternity. Some people go to the ward back for a dressing. It does not follow that the people who drew up the statistics for the Clinical Governance Team, were not looking at the same raw data than what has been provided today. We may have decided to include everybody, they may have decided not to include maternity for example, or not to include dressings or may have forgotten to include return visits to clinicians. I am not saying that that is the answer but I am saying that unless one defines what is an out-patient, one does not have apples and apples.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I understand what the Minister is saying, but I was making particular reference and I was emphasising not so much on the out-patients but on the in-patient admission, and these are the figures that are given as far as in-patients are concerned, because I do understand that it could be that when we are talking about out-patients, we have people who go to the A&E as out-patients and then they have dressings and then they are seen by the Senior House Officer and then the figures could be different. But no, I was basing my figures basically on the question of the in-patient admissions.

The Gibraltar Health Authority has been able to obtain private waiting time under the Private Patients Practise Agreement whereby Consultants are committed to provide information on private patients when requested.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

As far as Question No. 824 is concerned, there seems to be a bit of a discrepancy here but not on figures, on a statement that was made by the previous Minister for Health when I asked for information as regards out-patient clinics. Now, I have the figures here by the Minister who says out-patient figures are not available and I understand that this was his position also in January 2004. Therefore, I find that to be in total contradiction, would he not agree, because the previous Minister for Health had this to say when I asked for that information – 'we have the ability to seek the information and I apologise I have not got round to it, although there is no obligation to deliver that information and that data by the consultants, but we can investigate. I am sorry if I have said that I would do so, I have not got the figures with me but I will deliver those figures to the hon Member as soon as I obtain them'. So is that not contradicting what the Minister is saying about the fact that now he says that out-patient figures are not available?

MR SPEAKER:

There is no need to reply on that, one cannot say whether another Member is telling the truth or not.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I am sure she was not accusing anybody of not telling the truth. I do not see that there is the contradiction that the hon Lady says. Both statements are perfectly capable of being true and correct and I believe that they are both true and correct. The more recent of the two statements is the Health Authority does not have that information, correct. The earlier statement is, with a lot of hard work I could get it. Well of course one could get it, one could go round every consultant, everybody that administers this, in other words, the statement that the information is not held, is not available to the Authority, is not inconsistent with the statement that with a lot of hard work it could be cobbled together. Both statements are true, as with so many other of the information. So I do not see that there is the inconsistency. Now if the hon Lady is saying 'we were told that we were going to get them and we have not received them yet' that is a different matter, but it is different to whether there has been a contradiction. There has not been a contradiction.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I am talking about the out-patient figures. The private out-patient figures. Now, if I have a previous Minister for Health telling me there is no obligation but I can actually investigate and I can get those figures and I will send them to the hon Member, now he did not say they were not available.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

She is now being told they are not available.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Yes. So what I am saying is that then the previous Minister for Health was saying the opposite, because he was saying 'I will deliver them'. In fact he said in answer to Question No. 236, the previous Minister for Health said.....

MR SPEAKER:

A Member of the House cannot contradict another Member, especially if he is a Minister. One can not ask him whether a previous Minister was wrong.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

All right, then I will rephrase the question. I will rephrase the question because I have the same information here from the Minister, where he says 'consultants under the private practice agreement are committed to provide information on private patients when requested'. So does that mean therefore, that if the Government request the out-patient figures the consultants are required to provide them?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Let us separate the issues. The first issue is, is there any inconsistency between the two answers? I do not believe there is an inconsistency between the two answers. One question, the latter one says they are not available to the Health Authority, the first one was by the Hon Mr Azopardi I suppose, was 'well with a lot of hard work we can get them'. Those are the two answers that the hon Member described earlier she had received, summarised by me, precised by me by not purporting to repeat her verbatim. Well, of course the information is theoretically available if one is willing to pursue every avenue. I mean, presumably the doctors have kept a record of the patients they have seen privately. I suppose it would be possible for the Health Authority management, when the hon Member asks these questions, to go to every consultant and everybody who does private practice saying, give me the information, and then she goes to the other one, they could be tallied together and they could be provided to the hon Lady. They would not be figures that we could validate, we would necessarily rely on simply reporting to her the figures that the consultants had given us. In other words, the Health Authority, by the way she may be interested to know that this is going to be very different in the future, but the Health Authority does not have as a matter of management system a record of the appointments, and the engagements, and the commitments, and the admissions, and the attendances by private practitioners. That is the case. Now, can one go and ask the consultants to give it, yes. Has it been done? Apparently it has not been done because if she asked and the Minister said he would do it and she has not yet had the answer, well either the Minister has not tried or he has tried and failed because the consultants have not given him the information.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Or they have been so horrified with the result.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, that would not be the reason. The hon Member knows that we give all information in this House regardless of whether it is good news or bad news.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

A supplementary on Question No. 825. Will the Minister not agree that as far as the waiting lists for public patients, they have more than doubled from 2001 to 2004? Here again I have done another exercise. In 2001 general surgery was six months. In 2004 general surgery was 12 months, it has doubled. On ENT in 2001 the waiting list was 12 months, ENT today, 2004, is 18 to 20 months. I can look at the Government and see the surprise in their faces because I do not think they have done the exercise themselves. In orthopaedics, well there we have a very ambiguous situation because in 2001 we got from the Government that the waiting list for elective surgery was eight months, and now we are being told weeks to years. In gynaecology, again in 2001 the waiting list was six weeks and today, the waiting list is eight months, over 32 weeks. Does the Minister for Health, is he not concerned that the figures have more than doubled during this time?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am at a disadvantage. Not having intended to give over the schedules that I have for my own use, and having handed them over in order to assist the hon Member, I no longer have the information to be able to make the comparisons. So I cannot give an opinion one way or the other, whether they have or whether they have not. That long waiting lists are a concern, of course they are to any Minister for Health, to any Government. That the Government are doing something about it, of course we are and the hon Member can watch this space, although she sniggers every time we mention the Clinical Development Programme, watch this space and the effect will be seen. We have already done it with the ophthalmic waiting list and the proposals to cut down those waiting lists for the future will soon be seen.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Yes but having been accused by Government that the Health Authority was worse when I was in office than with them, I am quite obliged now to give them the waiting lists that we had, but I will wait for the Budget Session, because they have had first of all eight years in which to remedy the situation, from 2001 to today the situation has worsened and it has more than doubled, and I will put to Government during Budget time that the figures that we had were far less than what they have now, what they even had in 2001.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Well just two very quick points for the hon Lady. First of all, I suppose we can spend the next four years having the same old debate and I might take her last intervention as notice that she proposes to re-read her last year's Budget speech and deliver it again to us this year, because when she said 'wait for the Budget speech' that is what I recall she said last time. Never mind, the position as the Government knows it to be, which is completely and diametrically opposed to the position as the hon

Member alleges, which is another area on which there is serious factual disagreement between us, is that she could not possibly compare waiting lists under the GSD Government with waiting lists under the GSLP government, because under the GSLP government waiting lists were not maintained.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Point of order. Will Mr Speaker not remember that two budget sessions ago, when the Chief Minister made the same accusation, I brought proof to this House and I showed to the House that here was the waiting lists, not brought by Mari Montegriffo when she was in government, but produced by the consultants. The same consultants that are there now. The same very consultants.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

For a start that is not a point of order but never mind, as the procedures appear to have gone out of the window. Look, what the hon Member produced was not Gibraltar Health Authority waiting lists, what she produced was a little piece of paper which she presumably got out of the very consultant, and which she waved in this House as if they were her government's waiting lists. The management of the Gibraltar Health Authority, and I repeat the statement now to her, in other words the Gibraltar Health Authority as an institution, its management, its board, did not under the GSLP government keep waiting list records. Of course the consultants had their own lists in their own briefcases at home and in their own PCs at home, and I have no doubt that the hon Member was able to persuade at least one of them to sort of give it to her so that she could bring it into this House and wave it as evidence. These are not waiting lists kept by the Gibraltar Health Authority. These were non waiting lists kept by them, these were the records, because there are no records in the files of the Gibraltar Health Authority covering that period, and because the management of the Gibraltar Health Authority, which is the same management under her period, tell the Government 'Minister, I am sorry, there are no records because none were kept'. How else would we know as an incoming Government whether waiting lists were kept or not, it is because the officials in the Health Authority have told the Ministers in this Government that. Now that is the reality of the situation. My very last point, and this one I will try and keep quick, the second point that I will make to the hon Lady is that she has got to be careful the use she makes of these waiting lists comparisons. It is not true that waiting lists have increased for example by double. It may be true, wait a minute the hon Lady has got to understand the basis upon which statistics are drawn up if she is going to draw accurate conclusions. Now, of course I acknowledge that is always possible to make use of statistics for which they do not in justice serve. It may well be true that a patient, or a number of patients, may have had to wait that time but that is not a reflection of the general wait. Those waiting lists are drawn up on the basis of the maximum time that any one patient has had to wait. That is the basis of the waiting list. I mean we would have to look into the reasons why and the reasons why may not be impressive. The reasons why a patient has had to wait, all I am asking to do is to distinguish between that situation and the suggestion, I do not know if she was making it, the suggestion whether she was making it or not that everybody waits for 12 months because that is the next slot available on the list and if one went in and asked for an operation, somebody would say 'well the date for your operation is 28th April 2005'. That is not a proper interpretation of the waiting lists.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It is quite incredible that the Chief Minister, when he is cornered, he uses tactics whether it is that I am exaggerating, whether that records were not kept and waiting lists were not compiled. Of course they were, I was provided as Minister on a monthly basis with the waiting lists. I also produced in this House not only the waiting lists that the consultants provided to the administration but that the administration kept waiting lists. Of course they did, but even that aside, what I have done is a very reasonable exercise, and that is compare like with like with the information they have provided to the House, and that is that in 2001 the information they provided me with with information they are providing me now in 2004, is that waiting lists compiled by them have more than doubled and I think that is very reasonable.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

For the record. The hon Member is lucky to be able to claim to make comparisons because we give her the information. I tried to do the same exercise when I first took the job over and asked where the waiting lists were, and I said 'well show me the waiting lists going back in time' and I was able to look at the waiting lists back during the period that this Government has been in Government, but I confirm and I stress what the Chief Minister has said, the management of the Health Authority have told me that during the period when she was a Minister, during the period when she was in government, that no records were kept, that there were no waiting lists and if anything was kept it was kept by her on the back of an envelope, because there is nothing, for the record there is nothing in the records of the GHA to show what the waiting lists were. If they had been kept as she is claiming, they would be there on the files. There is no information on the files of any waiting period for any consultant during the period that she was in government.

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – X-RAY DEPARTMENT

Can the Government state whether the wait for routine tests in the X-ray Department from 2002, is currently running from three to six weeks depending on the type of test?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 826 of 2004

The present complement of the District Nursing Team is able to handle the existing workload. However, there is an erroneous public perception that district nursing is a convenience service rather than a nursing care service provided to those members of the public who are temporarily or permanently housebound.

Answer to Question No. 827 of 2004

Dental service staffing and waiting times have recently been highlighted by the Healthcare Development Team who identified waiting times for patients under treatment of between two and six months. Several attempts made in recent months to recruit additional staff in order to meet the increased demand that has arisen from the expansion and development of dental services has proved unsuccessful. GHA currently provides a comprehensive, comprehensive free range of dental services which include orthodontics, oral surgery, pydodontics and emergency services to over 6,000 school children and university students. GHA also provides free dental services to exempt pensioners and persons of low income, as well as a free emergency service to other pensioners. Furthermore, free preventative prophylactic dental care is provided at school to all children of school entry age as well as follow up paedodontics dental care by a visiting dental officer. The service is led by a consultant orthodontist with a staff of three dental officers and four nursing assistants. To illustrate the expansion and development of the dental services under this Government, I would point out to the hon Lady that when she was Minister for Health only an emergency dental service was provided by a staff of two dental officers.

Answer to Question No. 828 of 2004

The Government can confirm that there has been an increase in demand for most laboratory services.

Answer to Question No. 829 of 2004

The waiting time for routine tests in the X-Ray Department will vary from three weeks for an X-Ray to six weeks for an ultra-sound. All other tests are carried out within this three to six week period. There is no waiting time for emergencies.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 826 TO 829 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

As regards Question No. 826 I think the Minister said in relation to the District Community Services, that there was a public perception. I would inform him that it is not a public perception it is a fact, in page 4 summary of the Report which actually identifies that the District Community Services are under resourced. As regards Question No. 827, we highlighted the problem as far as the dental service is concerned, nearly two years ago and the Minister now says that recently they have tried to remedy the situation and therefore, is it not a fact that it is the Government having been in office for eight years that have not actually been at the helm and being able to establish that there was a problem in the dental service as indeed there is in laboratory services and indeed there is in the X-Ray Department?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The perception that I referred to and which obviously the hon Member misunderstood, is not that the District Nursing Team is unable to provide the service but that there is a perception amongst the public that this district nursing service is something to provide for people as a convenience, and this is not the purpose of the service. Therefore, because of this perception there are extra demands on the service by people who do not really need it and this is what is causing part of the problem.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I see therefore, so what the Minister is saying is, well he has not addressed the other questions, but as far as the District Community Service is concerned if there is in the Report a statement saying that the Community Service are under resourced, is he saying that they are not under resourced and that it is because people are asking too much of the District Community Services?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I will give the hon Member an example of what I mean, which was pointed out to me when the answer to this question was being compiled and it is not an isolated case of a district nurse attending a home to take blood samples from a patient, and once the blood sample had been taken, remember this is supposed to be a patient who is homebound, once the blood sample has been taken the patient concerned said to the visiting district nurse, 'hold on, I will come down with you, I am on my way to the hairdresser'. That is an example of the sort of thing that is happening. This is a patient who asked for the service at home when in fact she was able to walk out of her own home and go and have her hair done. That is the sort of perception that people have, that it is a convenience service, as opposed to a service that is being provided for a specific purpose. It is an expanding service. It is something that again has been provided over and above what was being done before, and like all expanding services it may need to be adjusted. There have been, as the hon Member rightly says, problems pointed out in the first phase report and those problems will be addressed, and are being addressed in the consequent follow up to that report.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does the Minister not accept that it is worthwhile looking at the District Community Services, which we increased when we came into government, for the simple reason that the more community nurses that one has, the less people that are required to be admitted into a hospital?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The District Nursing Team at the moment consists of 2 sisters, 6 staff nurses, 1 staff nurse part-time, 1 senior enrolled nurse, 2 enrolled nurses, 2 nursing assistants and 1 hospice nurse. Maybe the hon Member would like to tell us what the staff was when she was the Minister for Health.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The Minister has been in office for eight years again and it is up to him to say whether he agrees that it is not worth looking at it because it is a service that is very valuable in the sense that the patient is at home and the patient does not have to be admitted into hospital. Does the Minister not agree with that concept?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The Government are constantly looking at ways of improving all their services, not just the Health Service. This is precisely why we have got the Clinical Development Team in place, this is precisely why all aspects of the Health Service are being studied and this is one of those aspects of it, and the hon Member will just have to wait for the results to show.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will the Minister confirm, as far as the complement is concerned, how long this complement has been in place?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No I cannot confirm that, I would need notice of that question, but it is certainly whilst this Government have been in office.

NO 830 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – A & E DEPARTMENT

Are the Government aware that there is nearly an hour's wait for patients to be seen at the Accident and Emergency Department?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Patients who are classified as emergencies are seen immediately on arrival at the A & E Department and are not subject to any waiting time. As the hon Member is well aware, the Out-patients Department is currently co-located with the A & E at St Bernard's Hospital and this is where non urgent out-patient cases are also attended. Such cases include injections, changes of dressings, follow-ups for further nursing treatment and visits to clinicians. All these out-patient cases are seen as soon as possible and the waiting time for these will vary considerably. At peak times waiting time for such cases may indeed be more than 1 hour but this reduces considerably to less than 1 hour at other times.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 830 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

In the majority of cases we are talking about non emergency patients, will the Minister not accept that the A & E process typically takes from 50 to 60 minutes to complete, and the patient requires around 30 steps before he is actually attended to?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No, the Minister does not accept that at all. A & E is accident and emergency. In accident and emergency people who come in either as an emergency or suffering the results of a serious accident do not have to wait an hour and are attended immediately. The result is what I have said in the original answer, is that people who are attending the out-patients department which is co-located with A & E.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I am referring to the A & E, and I am referring to what is written in the report as far as the A & E is concerned. It also confirms the many people who come to us saying that when they go to the A & E they wait for more than an hour before they are seen to. This is precisely highlighted, and I will tell the Minister, page 204 of the report says that the majority of patients attending the Accident and Emergency have minor injuries and they have to wait from 50 to 60 minutes to complete the process before they can actually be seen.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, but the hon Lady has got to understand what she is reading. Either she is doing it on purpose, in which case it is reprehensible, or she is not bothering to understand the words that she is reading. The hon Member says that the report says that it takes an hour to see the patient. It does not and she has just read it out, because I was anxious to get up to tell her, that she read it out herself from the report. It does not say it takes an hour, it says it takes an hour to complete the process, and that is jolly good. In England it takes about six hours to complete the 32 step process, because that process that takes an hour to complete with 32 steps is part of the treatment. It is not that one is waiting for an hour, waiting to be seen, the 32 step process is part of the protocol of all the checks, the ECG test, the blood test and all the other tests, that they have to submit one to in Accident and Emergency before one can safely be subjected to other medical treatment. That process takes an hour, it is not an hour waiting to be seen, it is an hour being processed and being treated and being tested, and compared to any hospital in the United Kingdom that one may care to mention, it is actually a very, very good outturn result of the period of time that it takes for the process. That is the reality. In fact I am just going to say one more thing, it is one of the areas, there are other minor criticisms that they make of Accident and Emergency, but actually it is one of the departments of the Health Authority of which the experts are least critical, and they say that excepting peak periods where there may be a need, I think they say that at certain peak times they may need another doctor, which in fact has been put on since the first report, they say that they deliver a jolly good service. It is not the case that people wait for an hour waiting to be seen in Accident and Emergency.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

If I am going to read from the report, the Hon Chief Minister must understand that if in page 215 of the report it states 'typically an out-patient attendance takes over an hour', 60 per cent of this time is spent waiting.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Waiting for results to come back from the laboratory. What does the hon Member think has happened during the other 40 per cent of the time? If she thinks that the hour is a waste, in other words one arrives in there, sit down and sitting there for an hour and say 'I am here', and one is ignored, all the nurses are rushing past and nobody is addressing it. That would be 100 per cent of the time is spent waiting. Why does the hon Member think that the report says that only 60 per cent of the time is spent waiting? The other 40 per cent of the time is when one has had the tests done, have gone to the laboratory for the blood test and come back within the hour.

The hon Lady chooses not to understand. Now, it is true that there used to be, it does not happen any more since we doubled up the medical cover on the Accident and Emergency, it used to be the case when the hon Lady was in office, it used to be the case for all the years that she was in office and for some of the years that we were in office until it was corrected a couple of years ago, that there were certain times of the day when there was not a doctor exclusively for the Accident and Emergency. I think it was the silent hours, I cannot remember exactly. I do not know why the hon Lady looks so mysteriously, she must recognise what I am explaining to her as being correct. It was possible for somebody to arrive at Accident and Emergency and there not to be a doctor in attendance because the doctor had been called up to a ward to see a patient. Then there were instances of people genuinely coming up to Accident and Emergency, not not being seen for an hour because of course the nurses and the staff nurses were there, but not being seen by a doctor for perhaps an hour, because the doctor may have been attending to a cardiac arrest in a ward or to some situation in a ward. To correct that element of wait, that element of defect in the Accident and Emergency service, the Government now provide round the clock exclusive medical cover in the Accident and Emergency Ward. So there are now no circumstances in which it is possible for somebody to arrive at the Accident and Emergency and not be seen for an hour. Yes, as happened to me when I went up there complaining of gall stones. One arrives, they give one a first treatment, then they have got to go through this 32 step process, which includes plugging one in to an ECG and sending the results up to the cardiologist to have a look at it. Then they draw ones blood and send it up, and of course in between all those tests one waits whilst the results of the tests come back. That is waiting time but there is a difference between waiting time and delay in being attended. They are wholly different things and that is what the report is saying. It is not true any longer to say that one can be kept for an hour in the Accident and Emergency without being attended to.

HON F R PICARDO:

I can understand why the Chief Minister perceives that there is political value in always trying to go back to 1996 et cetera, but as he himself has accepted, what he has been identifying as a symptom of the problem went on for a large part also of the time that he has been in charge of the administrations that make up the Gibraltar Government, but in the report, and it is not the part that the hon Lady is referring to, but in the report I am sure that the Minister and the Chief Minister are aware, there are case studies of individuals arriving at Accident and Emergency. In particular there are case studies of individuals arriving in Accident and Emergency with chest pain, who do not have their first contact with the doctor for over an hour, although triage starts before they see the doctor but that is identified in the report as a worrying instance of what we must be trying to remedy. Is the Chief Minister saying that since having received the report and identified that as an issue, mechanisms have been put in place to ensure that that does not happen ever again, which of course is something that would be welcome across the floor of the House?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I cannot tell the hon Member exactly the date when the new arrangement was introduced. I will get that information to him. In other words, whether it coincided with the production of the report or whether it was during the course of the preparation of the report and before it was delivered. I do not want to get the chronology wrong.

HON F R PICARDO:

One can see the concern, which I am sure is a concern that we would share, that if we have put in place these new mechanisms before the reporting process commenced and with the new mechanisms those who prepared the report are still saying we may have a problem here, then that would obviously be something that all of us would feel needs to be addressed.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No that is not the case. The question is whether the mechanisms were put in place on sight of an early draft of the report or whether they were put in place once the final report, in other words, that is the issue here.

HON F R PICARDO:

Therefore it is action which we have taken in consequence either of the report itself or of the reporting process.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have just in fact been reminded that it might even have been as a result of the Olivares situation actually, not the main, one or the other. When I come back on Tuesday I will give that information.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Were we not told before in the House that in fact this first phase was identifying problems that needed correction and that the remedies were to be the second phase, and therefore by definition everything that is being put into the report are things that the experts, although the experts think that here there are things that they need to be put right. I hope that when they go back they do something about the six hours the Chief Minister assures us is the normal thing in the UK.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

They are not very critical of this aspect.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Well they may be less critical of this than of others, but if there was nothing that they felt was needed to be put right, surely it would not be mentioned at all. The report does not mention every single facet of everything that happens in the Health Service, it is limited surely to identifying, after talking to people, talking to staff and doing a telephone survey, that is what that says at the beginning of it, that this is a result of identifying the areas of concern that need to be addressed and put right.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Well with some judgement on their part.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I think it follows from that that there are things on which they are silent because they feel those things are okay, so does that not suggest that what they expect is that in their recommendations, if they say there that it is an hour, whether it is an hour sitting and waiting or an hour broken up in blocks of 20 minutes waiting for results, what they expect is to come up with a recommendation that cuts down that, no?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Indeed that may be possible. I am not saying that all the 32 step process that takes an hour could not be cut back and they might well come back with authority, but it is one with suggestions of how the system can be streamlined so that it takes less time. I do not doubt that, I hope that they can, but that is not, I only got to my feet when I heard the hon Lady saying that the report says that one is kept waiting for an hour, meaning that before one is seen. I said, no, read it and then she was good enough to read it out. Then what she read out is not that it takes an hour to be seen, it takes an hour for the process to be completed. They are very different things and that is the only point I was trying to make. I am not suggesting that that hour is incapable of improvement and that may not be improved following recommendations. All I am trying to establish, it is clear from the statement, that it is not that one goes there and does not get seen for an hour. It is that the process, or what has to be done to one when one gets there, takes an hour. Now whether that hour can be converted into 30 minutes, or 40 minutes, or 45 minutes, that is a wholly different issue.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I do not know whether the Government are aware, but on the one occasion that I had a need to go to the hospital, the feedback that I had from there was that the staff there was under considerable pressure, that there were people in the corridors and it was not certainly because people were sitting around doing nothing with their arms crossed, but they were under a great deal of stress and under a great deal of pressure and having difficulty in coping with the patients who vented their frustration on the people who were doing their best. So they seem to be under a great deal of pressure.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Absolutely. The Accident and Emergency Department is by a very long way the hardest area of the hospital to work in, because it is the one area of the hospital where one is constantly in contact not only with the patient but with the patient's family en masse, waiting there worried about what has happened. It is a very stressful area of the hospital for the staff to work in. Of course, it is a sort of demand-led service. It is an accident and emergency ward. They could be having absolutely nothing to do for hours and hours and all of a sudden there are two accidents, somebody cuts themselves, it is possible for there suddenly to be a coincidence of events which fills the place up and if it is the night shift, there are times when they are run off their feet and there are times happily, because it means that no one is getting hurt in accidents or other emergencies, when they are less busy. It is in the nature of an emergency ward that it is resourced with a certain staffing level, which is management's best calculation of what is a reasonable staff provision for the likely demand to be put on it, and that there will be many of the times that demand will not materialise and that there will be other occasions when a greater demand will materialise. On the latter occasions they will be rushed off their feet. I do not know whether there is an internal system to re-deploy staff from elsewhere to help them out or whether they just struggle on with the shift size as it is. I would not know what the answer to that is.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can I just say maybe that it is in the man bites dog category, but there is in the back of that, in the schedule which deals with the patients who arrive and who are followed by the team, one instance at least where somebody is not seen for 60 minutes. I accept if it is not common even there, that that may affect the guesstimate that management has to make or has changed since having seen that.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 831 TO 833 OF 2004*HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

As regards Question No. 831, again I have done an exercise here and even though again there seems to be a tendency in most specialities, that there are more people on the list, there seems again to be a discrepancy as far as ENT is concerned and I would urge the Minister to look at the figure that his predecessor gave me in answer to Question No. 958 of 2002. He said that as far as ENT was concerned, there were 110 patients. As far as the report is concerned, they mention the figure which is nearly double of 204 and for the particular year, as far as Question No. 958 is concerned, there seems to be such a discrepancy that we are talking about nearly double the figure that I was given in this House. For the previous year it was 188, so if the Minister now is saying that in the list for ENT there are 190 patients, I would venture to say that the actual list of people has more than doubled. Would the Minister be able to check that for me?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I will not bore the House by saying what I said before so if the hon Member provides the information I requested, I will have the figures looked into.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I will do so. As far as Question No. 832 is concerned, the Minister has confirmed that for January there were 35 operations cancelled and that to me seems to be quite a high figure when the norm for February is two, March 10 and therefore January seems to me that 35 cancellations are more than one a day. Am I right in assuming that he is going to answer what he said in an interview on GBC, that this is like the saying goes in Spanish "the hill of January"?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Obviously I cannot validate these figures on my feet but I have no reason to doubt they are accurate, from memory because it was a bit of a culture shock just shortly after having taken over the Ministry, I know it was a period of considerable difficulty with bed management, so I have no reason to doubt that those figures are probably right and that it was necessary to cancel a higher number than normal in order to meet the problem of the shortage of beds.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Was there a particular reason for there being 35 cancellations for January? Has the Minister asked what the reason was?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Like the hon Member I do my own studies, not quite as numerically orientated as hers. Yes, I did ask, yes studies were taken, yes, we have looked to see whether there is any pattern. What I can tell her is that there was no obvious, either any obvious specific reason or anything that we could do to avoid the large number of admissions, abnormally large number of admissions that were being experienced. They were not just, nothing is silly when it is a question of admissions but the information that I got back was that all the admissions were justified and that they were serious illnesses and people were not being admitted for head colds or something equally innocuous.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

But that trend does not occur every January, does it? I have got the figures for previous Januarys and in the previous January there were none.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

All the senior staff concurred in their various opinions that they gave me, that this last January seems to have been abnormal. I asked if someone was plotting against me.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So it is not really what the Minister said during his interview with GBC, that it was “la cuesta de enero” he said. So all the other Januarys are different then.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I have no doubt that the winter period had something to do with it as well. There is no doubt about it, but there is no doubt that this January was particularly difficult or challenging I should say.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

One other supplementary, when I put the question how many routine operations had been cancelled due to the non availability of beds, can the Minister confirm whether these operations are cancelled when the patient is in the ward waiting to be taken to the theatre, or does it also include those patients that are sometimes called at home and told not to bother coming up because there is no bed? Is it the first or the second?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

It is both but we try, or should I say the people who manage these things, obviously try to warn people the day before they come up and if an operation is cancelled at the last minute it is the exception rather than the rule.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Why is it then that there have been instances that have been reported to us where the patient is set to go into theatre, he has a bed and then for some unknown reason theatre says that they have run over the time and then the patient, even though he has a bed, he is not operated on that day. What is the reason for that?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I cannot comment on a hypothetical and not identified case. It is highly unlikely that a patient who has come from a bed and is on his way on a trolley about to be wheeled to the theatre, to be suddenly kicked off the trolley and told to go home. It is highly unlikely. However, I have a friend to whom that happened in St Mary's Hospital, who woke up after having been anaesthetised and said to himself, I have just had heart surgery and cannot feel a thing, and he had actually been inside the operating theatre under anaesthetic and he was wheeled out again because of whatever reason. So these things do happen but they normally tend to be exceptional. If the hon Member can give me a specific case I can certainly try to get reasons for her but not like this off the top of my head.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It is just that I was there personally when it happened and the feedback that we got was that it appeared that, I mean the Minister will have to investigate this, but I think it is worth investigating because I think at the time there seemed to be a dispute between the theatre staff because of private practice with the doctors and they were refusing to actually operate over 4 o'clock or 5 o'clock in the afternoon, if I remember rightly.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

That is a more serious and a more worrying angle and I would certainly be interested in having more information and finding out more about it if it is true, but I reiterate what I said before, it is certainly the exception that anybody would have his operation cancelled at the last minute, but again it is possible. There could be an accident or there could be three people admitted in with massive heart attacks, but these things happen but these things are the exceptions.

The pain clinic is staffed by one anaesthetist and one clinical nurse. The consultant can and has referred patients abroad. This is done within established protocols and ethical boundaries. HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

No, because previously I have been given figures like 5, 6, 10 and I was not sure whether the 5 were referring to admissions that could actually mean that the same person has been admitted twice, that is what I mean.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 838 TO 841 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

As regards Question No. 838 reference enrolled nurses, even though the Minister in January said that there were none and his predecessor had said a few months before that there were two, in any case I would like to refer to a statement that has come out from the Minister saying, as he has said now, that there are six enrolled nurses. Now, he will no doubt be aware that we have always been concerned in this House in relation to those enrolled nurses that are not in possession of GCSEs and therefore could the Minister confirm that what has appeared today as a statement from him, when he says in the statement the programme is designed to build on existing experiences and knowledge and is seen as breaking new ground for the university itself. First of all we are talking about a different university because we are now talking about the University of York where before we were talking about EMAP and the University of Sheffield. Can the Minister confirm whether those nurses that can apply are only nurses that are in possession of the required GCSEs?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No, I am afraid the hon Member is a little bit confused. For a start she said EMAP was different because it was EMAP and Sheffield and now it is York. It is always EMAP but it is now York instead of Sheffield. For a start. Secondly, the situation is that there are a large number of enrolled nurses many of whom probably aspire, not all of them, probably aspire to be reclassified as level 1 nurses, staff nurses. A course has now, as I told her in answer to a question in the last House, we were at that stage (in answer to Question No. 179) negotiating to provide a course that would be acceptable to provide this pathway for enrolled nurses to be able to train. That course has now been established. It has been validated by York University as opposed to Sheffield University but it is still the same EMAP course. The course was advertised, there were nine applicants, six were accepted by the interview board or whatever board valuated the interviews, and those six nurses have now started this distance learning course. The statement which the hon Member attributes to me is not mine but is from the School of Nursing, or the School of Health Studies, may have issued in my name, I have certainly not signed it, it has my name in the middle of it and it was the statement that was given to the press at the time that I went to launch the course, Thursday or Wednesday of this week. It started off with an intensive two day course here by a Mrs Elizabeth Yeats of York University and then I think it is something like a two years long distance learning course and these six nurses were very keen but at the same time a little bit apprehensive, I sensed, in what they were tackling and what they were doing now for the first time. This, as the hon Member knows, is the only pathway that is available now for re-graduation as staff nurses and I hope that obviously we will monitor it, it is approved by the University and it will provide the means of re-classification but it does imply successful completion. If I go back to something she said at the beginning, I am not quite sure what the question was about can I confirm, something to do with GCSEs, what I can confirm is if the enrolled nurse has the GCSEs then they can move up a different pathway. With a minimum of 5 GCSEs they can take up the training tube direct to staff nurse and do not need to do this conversion course. This conversion course is designed for those enrolled nurses who do not have the qualification and therefore cannot go through the training direct and have to do this new solution that has been designed specifically for them, because at the moment there are no enrolled nurses as such in the UK and this is the pathway that has been devised, and I hope is successful for their sake and for those others who want to follow it after them.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Therefore, what the Minister is saying is, that the six that have applied to do this course are enrolled nurses who are not in possession of the required GCSEs. Am I correct? Otherwise they would go through the different course which the Minister has just mentioned.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Correct.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Therefore, is the Minister aware, well we have the figures here, but it just strikes me as odd that when we have so many enrolled nurses that only six have applied.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Nine applied and only six were accepted. I am not sure if I asked it but I thought the same question myself when I said how many are eligible to apply. The answer that I got was that possibly because it is a new thing, possibly because people are unsure, as well as because not all enrolled nurses are interested in conversion, but I agree with the hon Member, I would have expected on the first occasion for there to have been a bigger number. Time will tell. It is intended to provide similar future courses, if there is interest. We shall have to wait and see what the take up is.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm to the House why nine applied and three were not accepted? Can he say what the reason was for their non acceptance? If these enrolled nurses are there practising, what was the reason for them not being accepted?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I was not on the board so I do not know. I have on my desk a bundle of papers that includes all the interview notes and so on, but the board did not accept them for whatever reason that they thought they were not suitable. They had the free hand to make whatever decision they made and they decided, this does not exclude the three people who were not accepted from applying again and I understand that they have been offered coaching and advice in order to overcome whatever went wrong in their interviews or in their qualifications or whatever, so that the next time they apply they can be more successful. It most certainly is not the intention to stop people from making it. On the other hand I also understand that it is a challenging course, it is not an automatic pass situation at the end of it and of course distance learning is not easy in itself.

HON J J BOSSANO:

When the Government were originally looking at the possibility of opening up the opportunity for enrolled nurses to continue on to staff nurse with Sheffield, was there a different concept from the one that has been applied now?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No, I think the concept was the same, I am not quite sure why we have ended up with York and not Sheffield, but I asked the question of whether it was the same thing and it was confirmed to me that it was. The course is called EMAP, electronic map of the course, it is the same course just validated by a different university. Obviously the arrangements were easier to make or whatever, I am not sure the exact reason but it is certainly the same course.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The Sheffield course was also going to be by distance learning, was it?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes indeed.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Do they have to actually spend any time in UK in the two years, or do they do the whole thing here?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Not as far as I know, what I was told is that it was this intensive two day kick start to the course that the tutor from York would monitor from there, that the tutoring would be done here in conjunction with York University and that they would come over as and when they were needed, but no mention was made to me about people needing to travel there. That does not mean that it may not be necessary at some stage.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm the statement that is attributed to him that building on the clinical skills and knowledge in the field of general nursing, it will meet the EC requirements for registration?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes that is exactly what the whole course is about. Unless they do this course they cannot be registered as staff nurses. That is what the conversion is all about. First they need to convert and once they have converted they can register. If they do not do the course they can not convert, if they do not convert they cannot register.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It means that they have to register with the UKCC before they can access the EU market, is that correct?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes, that is the whole point. Unless they are registered with the UK body there is a problem, that is what the course is all about. Before, as one knows, if they had the qualification or whatever it was they could register. Now, they have got to do this course in order to be able to register. So it boils down to the same thing.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

On the question of the contract nurses, we are very concerned that the figures are going up quite a lot. In October 2002 the Government had 36, in March 2003 the Government had 39 contract nurses, in January 2004 the Government had 49 and in March now, the figure that I am being given, the Government have 48 which is one less. We are very concerned because when we look at the other question which is Question No. 839, we are told by the Minister that the situation remains the same, that there are only two local nurses training in the UK. Therefore, it would appear to me, is it not wise for the Government to encourage our nurses to go and specialise in the UK so that they can replace, especially after the explanation given earlier by the Government, so that we do not end up with half of the Health Authority with nurses being employed from abroad. Is it not about time that the Government should encourage our nurses to go and specialise as RMNs, as staff midwives, for example we have two nurse practitioners, a nurse tutor and on the other hand we have only two of our local nurses in the UK. Does the Minister not agree that this is a most unsatisfactory situation?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The Minister certainly agrees that the more local nurses the better. The GHA certainly encourages our local nurses and prospective local nurses to come onto the strengths and to qualify in the UK, but one can take a horse to water but can not make it drink. So, I certainly support the philosophy and GHA certainly would want to add more local nurses, but unless and until we have them we need to fill the gaps with contract nurses, which is not the desire of GHA, is not what the Government want to see but the alternative is less staff for the Health Service.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Is it not the case that our nurses, as is shown in the report, are very dissatisfied that their training abroad is not sufficient and they would welcome being sent to the UK to specialise as nurses, and if we are talking about two nurses being in the UK, is the Minister saying that our local nurses are saying no and that the offer is being made to them?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am not aware of any nurses saying no after an offer has been made but I am neither aware that any nurse who wants to go is not being allowed to go. So certainly it is something that I would want to encourage but we are certainly not depriving people from undertaking any training they want to undertake.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I was just wondering that if we have a situation where the Health Authority started having contract officers to the tune of 39 in the year 2002, it seems to me that after two years have elapsed we will only have two training in the UK and I believe that the Government should agree that they should look into this matter and ensure that there are more of our nurses being sent to the UK. Otherwise, as I said earlier, it appears to me that in a few years time, if the trend continues, more than half of the Health Authority will have contract nurses rather than local nurses.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I agree.

GHA – NURSING DISPUTE

Can Government confirm whether there is a dispute from the nursing staff at St Bernard's Hospital, as a result of which they are refusing to prepare for burial the bodies of patients who pass away?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

There is no dispute with the nursing staff at St Bernard's Hospital regarding the preparation of bodies for burial and there is no known case of refusal by nursing staff to prepare for burial the bodies of patients who have passed away.

GHA – ORTHOPAEDIC SPECIALIST TREATMENT

Can Government confirm to which medical institutions our patients are being referred to abroad, with regard to orthopaedic specialist treatment?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The information requested by the hon Member is set out in the schedule that I hand to her.

Answer to Question No. 843 of 2004

The Medical Institutions to which our patients are referred to abroad with regard to orthopaedic treatment vary from time to time depending on a number of factors, including patient choice, clinical considerations and the opinion of the referring Consultant. During this year, the following Institutions have been used:

1. Guys and St Thomas Hospital, London
2. The National Hospital for Neurology, London
3. Princess Elizabeth Orthopaedic Hospital, Exeter
4. St George's Hospital, London
5. Derbyshire Royal Infirmary, London Road, Derby
6. The Royal National Orthopaedic Hospital, London
7. Robert Jones and Agnes Hunt Orthopaedic District Hospital, Shropshire
8. The Middlesex Hospital
9. Hichingbrooke Hospital, Oxford
10. Hospital General, Albacete, Spain

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 843 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm whether the patients that are being referred abroad for orthopaedic procedures, is it because those procedures cannot be carried out locally? Or is it because the Government are keen in sending patients abroad in order to bring down the backlog in orthopaedics?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No, this is not a reflection of any Government initiative that has been taken so far in respect of the cutting down of waiting lists. This is the routine procedure normally that is happening now and has happened for x number of years in the past. I was not quite sure what information the hon Member wanted with regard to this particular question so all we have given is the list of institutions to which patients are being referred in the normal course of referrals for tertiary treatment, in the same way as they are for any other speciality but in this case obviously, for orthopaedics which is the subject of her question, nothing to do with waiting lists.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

What prompted me, was the fact that I was getting a number of patients who had been operated in the UK and they were waiting to be referred again and as regards the Manchester Spinal Foundation, and I see now that it must have closed because it is not on the list and that is what prompted me to make the question. Is the Minister aware that the Spinal Foundation in Manchester has actually shut down?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Not particularly, I mean the hon Member asked to which institutions we were referring patients, it was not clear over what period of time she was referring to or wanted information on, so we decided to choose the calendar year 2004 and these are the hospitals or the institutions that have been used this year. That does not mean that any particular hospital has either been discarded or is no longer being used. If the question had been since the beginning of 2003, the answer would obviously have been different and there would have been more institutions on this list.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The Minister then is not sure whether the Spinal Foundation in Manchester has closed?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Not particularly. The name of the Manchester Institution does not ring any bells with me. I obviously am not in the front line of which institution any particular patient is referred to, so I have not heard anything about it either closing or not closing.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will the Minister confirm, when I write to him, so that I can pass the information over to the patients?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Certainly if the hon Member cares to write to me asking a question I will provide her with the answer, of course.

NO 844 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – MEDICAL PRACTITIONERS

Do Government agree that patients who are seen by medical practitioners are entitled to have second opinions within the Gibraltar Health Authority if they so wish?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

It is a well known fact that patients can, and do on occasions, make multiple visits to different general practitioners when they are not satisfied with the medical opinion. The Government consider that it is appropriate for patients to have access to a second opinion in secondary care if the relevant practitioner considers it is necessary.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 844 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The last bit of what the Minister has said concerns me. If the relevant consultant thinks it is necessary. What if the patient is so concerned about the diagnosis that he actually seeks a second opinion because of the gravity of the diagnosis?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The hon Member well knows, because I know she has had the same sort of experiences that I am having in this area, that invariably there are always patients who are not necessarily satisfied with the first opinion by a consultant. Wherever possible the GHA seeks to meet the desire of a patient for a second opinion. For example, if there is a locum about to take post and it is possible to provide that second opinion, that facility is usually provided. If there is a visiting consultant in that speciality visiting Gibraltar, the opportunity is also taken, but invariably second opinions in secondary care, as I am sure she is aware, involves sending a patient away from Gibraltar with the consequent costs. Well if there is not a locum coming and there is not a second consultant in the speciality and there is not a visiting consultant, then it involves necessarily sending the patient away from Gibraltar and that has cost implications. So therefore, it cannot be, desirable as that would be, an automatic patient choice. However, at the same time, medicine tends to be, as she well knows, more and more patient led so as I said a moment ago, one tries, or the GHA because it is nothing to do with me directly, the GHA tries to provide that second opinion if it is possible to provide it. Invariably there are occasions, as I am sure there have been in her experience, where a consultant does not feel that the second opinion is justified, not necessarily because of the cost but because in his clinical and professional opinion he may not think it is justified and is not possible to provide, and the patient may feel strongly about it. At the moment there is not a clear mechanism in place to over rule that, except for people like the Medical Director to become involved. It is certainly not my practice as Minister to get involved in that situation or in any way to try to influence the decision, which is essentially clinical, of that of the clinician in what needs or does not need to be done. Having said all that, I am asking the Executive Board of the GHA to see whether they can come up with some formula that provides some mechanism where the decision of a consultant can be challenged is too strong a word, but where the patient can have access of appeal as it were to some entity, group, whether it be the Board, which will be medical and management combined, which can review the decision of the consultant and try to influence that decision or try to influence the consultant to see things differently. That at the moment is on my wish list, it is not in place.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will the Minister not agree that in view of the fact that most specialists working medical practitioners, consultants working within the Gibraltar Health Authority are single handed and therefore they work six weeks on and two off, locums are brought in and therefore it will facilitate the process because it will mean that patients will be able to have access to these locums, and therefore I cannot see what the Minister is saying happening too often, that patients will have to be sent abroad?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Yes indeed, as I said I have given indications of one possible means for the patient to seek to have that opinion reviewed, or to seek to have the decision not to seek to have that opinion reviewed, if that is so, and there are also developments in the pipeline to do with the changes that we are foreseeing for the Health Authority that may indeed achieve the same thing via completely different circumstances, but those are still in the offing and not something that I can give more details of at this moment, but it may per se bring about the availability of second opinions more easily.

NO 847 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – SPONSORED PATIENTS

Can Government confirm the level of subsistence allowance that is being provided to sponsored patients who are referred to Spanish medical institutions?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 845 of 2004

All patients are given the choice to be treated either in Spain or in the UK at the time of referral when considered appropriate by the referring consultant. A total of 93 patients out of 356 have elected to go to Spain during the period 1st January 2004 to the end of March 2004.

Answer to Question Nos. 846 and 847 of 2004

As the hon Member is aware, the maintenance allowance payable to patients referred abroad is subject to a means test. The allowance will therefore vary from patient to patient. However, I can confirm that for patients who are required to remain in Spain overnight the level of subsistence is the equivalent to what is payable to patients referred to the UK. The same applies to escorts. The maximum amount payable to patients staying in rented accommodation is £266. Patients staying with friends and relatives or in hospital accommodation receive a maximum of £98 per week. Additionally, in-patients receive £5 per day during their stay in hospital. The arrangements for patients referred to centres in Spain are similar to those made for referrals to the United Kingdom. The Sponsored Patient Department makes all the administrative arrangements in connection with the appointment and carries out the income assessment to establish the amount of maintenance payable to patients and escorts. Details of accommodation covering a range of prices and located near the hospital is provided prior to departure. Transport by ambulance is provided for all in-patients at St Bernard's and, on occasions when considered necessary by the relevant clinician, transport for outpatients by ambulance is also provided. Sponsored patients department staff are on call on a 24-hours 7 days a week basis and patients and escorts are given their telephone numbers so that they may be contacted if any further assistance is required at any time.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 845 TO 847 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Am I therefore right in assuming, that when it comes to outpatients the level of subsistence they receive is not the same as if they were in the UK?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The qualification for the payment hinges on overnight stay. Obviously one cannot go to the UK for outpatient treatment and come back on the same day, so by implication there is a payment automatically if one goes to the UK. If one goes to Spain, if one goes for a day scan and do not stay overnight, then there is not a payment involved. If it involves overnight stay then yes, there is a payment.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Yes, but I was enquiring more to the actual level of subsistence that patients receive in the UK, we are talking about the escorts.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The level is the same whether it is the UK or Spain.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Except that when the Minister mentioned the figure of £266 outpatients, I know that the figure for an outpatient in the UK is more than that, apart from the travel allowance.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No, the figures I am giving are the same whether it is Spain or UK and it is not for outpatients, it is for a sponsored patient going either to the UK or to Spain and having to stay overnight. If conceivably one could hire a private jet to take one to St Mary's Hospital to be seen by a specialist and one could come back in the evening, one would not get any money. If one goes there by the normal scheduled flight and stay overnight, then one gets the payment. Similarly with Spain, if one goes there and comes back one does not get the payment. That is, the payment is the same whether one goes to Spain or the UK, everything else being equal.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I have in the back of my mind when the Minister spoke about the means testing, his predecessor was talking about a maximum of £280, and now we are given the figure of £266. That is why I am asking him to confirm whether it is the same or not. Of course I know that patients who travel to the UK have to travel by air, and of course I know that from the airport they are given a subsistence travel allowance to get to the hospital or to wherever they are being accommodated. It is just that that figure, to me, is not the same figure as the maximum that escorts or patients who are not in hospital receive when in the UK.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

What is confusing the hon Member is her memory. The figure was £189 a week, presumably in the time when she was Minister for Health. Those figures were raised by us, by my Colleague Mr Azopardi when he was Minister for Health, to £266 a week. It has never been higher than £266 a week, it was £189 in her time, that is the figure that she has confusion over.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm whether that figure is now under review?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Which figure?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

The last figure, the £266.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Not as far as I know.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

It is just that we heard a lady in public who said that she had gone to see the Minister and that she said that he had been very receptive and that she hoped that the figure would be going up.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am is always receptive when people come to see her. These were a group of patients or people who had all at one time or another been sponsored patients and the thrust of the combined representation was the present figure, present payments are not adequate for two reasons. Mainly because of the level that they were saying it should be higher but more to the point the criticism was on the means testing and the fact that the basis was on the household income as opposed to the income of the patient and the spouse. I was receptive in as much as asking for the group that was representing them, which was the new Pensioners Association, to make formal proposals to the GHA of what they thought the system should be, for consideration by GHA, but I mean obviously no figures were mentioned and no commitment was made by me other than to study any proposals that were made. Indeed, if I remember rightly, some proposals that are very, very sketchy have been put forward.

HON F R PICARDO:

This is something in respect of which we, I suppose, all receive representations. It is something which is spoken about quite generally, not just formally with members responsible for health. I am sure that we will agree that the right figure for sponsored patients between 1988 and 1996 and the right figure between 1996 and 2000 for example, is not necessarily the right figure when somebody is in London, traditionally one of the most expensive cities in the world, in 2004/2005 and that that should be something therefore kept under perhaps more constant review.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am sure that argument applies to any and every allowance that the Government pay or grant that Government give, any amount of money that is made available to anybody at any time, the principle of inflation and annual increases.

HON F R PICARDO:

But this particular one relates to something for which the Minister is responsible and which affects the quality of life for those that we send to the United Kingdom are able to enjoy. Therefore, would the Minister give a commitment to look at that?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

That is why I was receptive and responsive to the people who came to see me and I am looking forward to their proposals.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm whether the payments are made directly by the GHA to the Spanish medical institutions, or do the payments form part of the EU negotiations between the UK and Spain?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

If the hon Member is talking about the allowances, the subsistence allowance.....

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

No I am talking about the costs, the fees to the GHA of sending patients to Spanish medical institutions. Does the GHA pay the Spanish hospital directly or does the payment form part of the overall EU negotiations between the UK and Spain?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

As far as I am aware the payments are made to the institutions directly but I would not like to guarantee the accuracy of that answer, but that is I think the case, just as they are made direct to the UK institutions via the Lambeth Trust in the UK.

Can the Minister for Health now confirm whether the GHA have finalised their discussions with the Department of Health, regarding the payments for our sponsored patients' treatments in the UK, which will result in a sum of money rather than the number of people?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

These discussions are on-going and I can report to this House that we have made substantial progress in this area and we are on course for the targets that I indicated to the hon Member at the last meeting of the House, of implementation as from 1st April next year.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 849 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will that mean that there will be any changes to the formula?

Can Government now state what were the costs of the 26 quota patients treated in the UK for the period 1 February to end of March 2002 with the costs being met by the UK Government?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 850 of 2004

The situation remains as given in answer to Question No. 146 of 2004. The figures for 2003/2004 have not yet been provided by the UK Department of Health.

Answer to Question No. 851 of 2004

The total number of sponsored patients treated in the UK for the months of January, February and March of 2004, with the cost being met by the UK was 66.

The number of sponsored patients treated in the UK from 1st January 2004 to the end of March 2004, with the fees being met by the Gibraltar Health Authority is 197 patients. The costs identified to date are £466,951.13.

GHA – SPONSORED PATIENTS

Can the Government state what was the cost per capita in respect of sponsored patients in 2002/2003 and 2003/2004, and can they give a breakdown with regard to patients sent to the UK and patients sent to Spain?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The average cost of medical fees in respect of ex-quota patients referred to the UK in 2002/2003 and 2003/2004 is in the order of £3,100 and £3,200 respectively per patient. Referrals to Spain, other than those sent for diagnostic purposes to private clinics, are made through the E112 system and details of these costs are not available.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 854 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Did the Minister say at the end of that sentence that the patients sent to Spain are sent with the E112 system? That means therefore that if they use that then it is an EU form and therefore the payments to the hospital will not be made direct. Another question is, when we are talking about the per capita cost, the Minister has given a figure of £3,100?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

£3,100 for 2002/2003 and £3,200 for the following year.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I see. It is just that it appears that it is a different figure that appears in the report again, because it says that the per capita cost has gone up from £3,125 to £5,795 for the year 2002/2003. There seems to be a discrepancy with the figure.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I am afraid the hon Member has been caught out once again comparing Granny Smiths to Pink Ladies.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Why?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

They are different kinds of apples. They are apples but different kinds of apples. I would need to know the basis. This calculation, despite the shortness of the answer, is an extremely difficult calculation to make. There are a number of variables, there are a number of overlaps from year to year and I confidently predict that it would be difficult to tie up one figure with the answer.

GHA – PILLOW SHORTAGES

Are Government aware that there has been complaints of shortages of pillows for patients in Godley Ward, and can they say whether such shortages exist in other wards and what is being done to remedy the situation?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The Government are not aware that there have been complaints of shortages of pillows for patients in Godley or any other ward. Furthermore, GHA has confirmed that no patient has been left without a pillow in any ward. There have always been occasions when wards have required a larger number of pillows than usual causing temporary shortages. This problem has usually arisen when a number of patients have required more pillows than usual in order to be propped up in a comfortable position. On these occasions, additional pillows have always been provided to the wards by the Supplies Department. Godley, Napier, John and Victoria Wards have occasionally experienced this problem. The GHA have confirmed that adequate stocks of spare pillows are stored at St Bernard's Hospital and long term reserves at New Harbours GHA Stores.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 855 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Has the Minister not heard complaints from patients who have said that they need to wait for 2, 3 or 4 hours before they get an extra pillow?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

As a patient in a number of wards in the hospital in the past, I have heard of those complaints for myself. That does not mean that the pillows are not available but merely that either the ward staff or the ward supplies officer, or whoever, have not got their act together. The pillows are available, if people ask for them the pillows are made available.

GHA – NUMBER OF PATIENTS

Can the Minister for Health state what is the present number of patients in St Bernard's Hospital, and how many of these does he consider now should not be there?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Question Nos. 857 and 860 are identical to Question Nos. 135 and 136 of 2004 which were asked during the meeting of this House last January and the information in answer to which has already been supplied to the hon Member. However, for the interests of Hansard and as agreed previously, I hand the information to her in a schedule.

Answer to Question No. 856 of 2004

Two separate and independently carried out audits, one of which was conducted by the Gibraltar Healthcare Development Team, and the other by the Bed Manager, concluded that some 100 patients did not require to be in hospital.

Answer to Question No. 858 of 2004

The numbers of long stay elderly patients in St Bernard's Hospital were:

|               |    |
|---------------|----|
| January 2004  | 56 |
| February 2004 | 58 |
| March 2004    | 58 |

Answer to Question No. 859 of 2004

- A total number of 10 elderly patients were discharged in November 2003 but refused to leave.
- A total number of 10 elderly patients were discharged in December 2003 but refused to leave.

(1) Of these the number of elderly patients living alone was as follows:

Answer to Question No. 862 of 2004

There are 93 persons on the waiting list for admission to Mount Alvernia, of whom 39 are in-patients at St Bernard's Hospital.

Answer to Question No. 863 of 2004

It is not for me to decide who should or should not be in hospital. This is a clinical decision for medical staff in accordance with GHA discharge policy. As a layman, all that I would say is that the hospitals are for people who are ill and not for people who are old but not ill. The latter either belong to their homes with their families or in residential or nursing homes.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 856 TO 863 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does the Minister not remember that he said during an interview in GBC that he believed the experts and that he believed that Gibraltar only required a hospital with 100 beds? Therefore, if he does believe the experts, then is he saying that when the Europort hospital opens there will be 50 per cent occupancy only, in view of the fact that the number of beds there will be 211?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

What I said in a television interview I think it was, was that of the roughly 167 people in the hospital about 67 were acute cases who very, very roughly broad brush and without pinning down exact figures, out of the 167, 67 were people who were acute cases and needed to be in the hospital and of the remaining 100, 50 were people who did not need to be in the hospital at all and the other 50 were people who needed nursing or some sort of care but did not need to be in a hospital because that care could be provided elsewhere. That is what I said and that was based, as I have already said, on two independent audits, one that was carried out by the Healthcare Development Team and is part of that report which she has in front of her and which she is so fond of quoting from, and the other one was carried out by the Bed Manager at my request, and about six months later if I remember rightly at about January this year, completely unconnected one with the other, and they both came to roughly the same decision that based on benchmarks about 100 beds was what theoretically was needed.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Then where are the rest of the patients going to be treated or where are they going to be sent?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

That is a different question altogether. The hon Member has asked me where I got the figure of 100 from and I have answered where I got the figure of 100 from. Where patients will be treated, presumably she means in the new hospital, will be up to the clinicians and the admissions people and to the various doctors to decide.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

If the Minister is saying that out of the number of patients that are in St Bernard's 100 should not be there, then I come to the conclusion then if he answers and he gives me that figure, what is going to happen to the rest of the patients?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

It is two different issues. She has asked me what did I base the figure of 100 from and I have explained it.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The Minister mentioned that this was based on benchmarks. What is the benchmark then? The population of Gibraltar?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Almost every United Kingdom expert that has come to look at our Health Service has expressed the view that this community does not need a hospital with 211 beds in it, and they apply UK benchmarks. UK benchmarks are that in the UK a population of this size would have a hospital with x number of beds. Well for a start the UK is hardly a benchmark in this respect to be followed. Secondly, as we keep on pointing out to them, Gibraltar is not comparable to the UK. In the UK if one lives in Cirencester or some other little place, and either the hospitals get all filled up or there is an epidemic, there are always more hospitals down the road, at some number of kilometres further away, there is overflow in other words and there are always patients from Cirencester who are being treated in another hospital for specialisation reasons and that this is not the case in Gibraltar. In Gibraltar whatever we cannot provide here, they have got nowhere else. So I do not know why the hon Lady insists on debating in this House the views expressed by people, the Government are building a hospital with 211 beds in it. Perhaps I could urge her to take a leaf out of her colleague the Hon Lucio Randall's example. He was just telling me earlier that he is so aggrieved with the Government's new bus service that his reaction is to refuse to use the bus service. Well, by analogy, given that the hon Members are opposed to the clinical health practice and its report, could they respond in the same way by just not reading it and not quoting from it, ignoring it, pretending they have never seen it and that way there will be consistency of approach to the buses and to the hospital and to the health review.

HON J J BOSSANO:

The Chief Minister has not been listening to the question and just sort of decided if he finished what he was doing he was going to jump into the ring, because in fact she was not quoting the report, she was quoting the Minister for Health.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The original comes from there.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Well we do not know where he got the original from but as he has correctly told us, it has been there in every previous report. It was there in the 1987 report when the AACR was there.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Well then consider it is not a view that the Government shares or accepts.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Well I am glad to hear it because he seemed to be sharing it and defending it on television.

HON F R PICARDO:

Just a point of clarification, when we are dealing with a question for clarification of a point, we are dealing with Question No. 826 the Minister said that one of the problems is that the District Community Service is not under resourced, it is that too many people who use it should not be using it. Now in answer to this question there seems to be a suggestion that there are 50 people more or less in hospital who could be treated elsewhere, and I assume a part of those might be treated at home. Would that mean that domiciliary care services then is under resourced? Nursing homes rather than at home.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, no, no. There are elderly people who could be at home, who are in hospital but could be at home. There are elderly people who may not be able to be at home because they need a degree of care. Now that can be provided in a nursing home. In other words, one does not have to be occupying an acute bed in a ward resourced and manned with the manning levels, and those could be provided for in nursing homes, which is what we are trying to convert. I mean, Mount Alvernia is increasingly staffed on that basis and when the extension to Mount Alvernia is opened, the intention is that that is what it will be used for. These people need a degree of care and supervision but they do not have to be in a room with 12 or 8 nurses and a staff sister and all that.

HON F R PICARDO:

That is those 50? None of those will actually be people who go back home and are then treated at their own home by the domiciliary.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Let us be clear because otherwise the hon Members come back in three months time and throw the figure of 50 at me again. I have said very broad brush, out of the total number of people in the hospital about 50 do not need to be there, but if I quote from the report itself or from the audit, it says at this particular snapshot moment in time 71 were considered medically fit for discharge. This definition means that the patient has recovered from acute illness and does not require any active rehabilitation, acute, medical or nursing managements. Then he goes on to say somewhere else that a further 25 patients were occupying acute hospital beds who no longer required any acute medical or therapeutic intervention of any form. Hence, 71 plus 25 equals plus or minus 100. So it is not an exact figure, I said broad brush about 100.

HON F R PICARDO:

I am not holding the Minister to it, I accept that figure but none of them would be people who go back home and would get care at home, that is what I am trying to establish.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

They are not potential clients of the domiciliary threshold.

HON F R PICARDO:

The resourcing of which would then be an issue to look at again.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It already is, the existing levels of demand.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I have just found the quote, it is not 50 the Minister said 100. The experts tell us that in a place like Gibraltar we need less than 100 beds and if one looks at the figures, there are 166 beds, 100 of which are occupied by non medical patients, so we will throw at his face 100 and not 50.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

The hon Member is either deaf or I hesitate to say what the other d word is. I have said out of all the hospital total of 167 beds, about 100 do not need to be there. Fifty plus 50 equals 100. If one does the sum in a different way, 71 plus 25 equals 96 which is about 100.

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

No, the Government are not engaged in any such negotiations.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 867 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm whether any approach has been made to them or to the GHA?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

In assessing options for the elimination of waiting lists, a number of options have been considered but there have been no negotiations or direct approaches. There may have been some assessments but then nothing has come back to the Government.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Are the Government keen in looking at the possibility of engaging ENT services to bring down the backlog?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government are awaiting, and expecting it imminently, the phase 2 implementation report from the consultants in relation to an aspect of the review of the reform of the health service which includes, but does not limit to, elimination of waiting lists and therefore it would be premature to say what the Government are keen on or not keen on. There are various ways of eliminating waiting lists. Look, we could do what we did with the cataracts, we could bring in people and we could just operate on the backlog. There are alternative approaches which deal both with the backlog and with in-house resources going forward on a continuous basis.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I do not think that he realises that what they did with ophthalmology they did because they did not require theatre, most of the operations were carried out within the actual clinic.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There are four operating theatres in the new hospital, including day surgery.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Yes, but what I am saying is that are they now keen, because I am talking about a situation that I thought they were looking at now, but if he is saying that they will look at it once they are housed in the new hospital, then it is a completely different matter.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

What the Minister has said is that we are awaiting receipt of the recommendations reports from the consultants in an area of the health reform which covers, but is not limited to, but it covers this area. The Government will form a view as to what they are keen on and what they are not keen on and approve one or another way of the various ways forward for dealing with this, when we have to hand the report of the consultants. In other words, by the time we come round to the hon Members asking all these questions all over again, which I have no doubt is what will happen at the next meeting of the House, there will be a substantive answer available to that question, because we are expecting this report literally in the next week or two.

Have Government now decided which employees will be regenerating the meals on each of the Floors at the Europort Hospital, after they are transported from the old wine factory area?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 868 of 2004

Government can confirm that radiology staff who are in Government employ will be operating the CT Scan at the new hospital. Indeed, a local radiographer has been on a training course in the UK specially for this purpose, and his return is due to coincide with the opening of the new hospital.

Answer to Question No. 869 of 2004

Answer to Question No. 870 of 2004

The Government are not willing to comment publicly at this stage about staffing issues at the new hospital since consultations with the Trade Unions has not yet occurred.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 868 TO 870 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

As regards the area where the meals are going to be prepared, which is the old wine factory area which the Government have said will be done by the existing staff of the Gibraltar Health Authority. If we have a situation where they contract somebody to manage the kitchen, does that mean that the GHA staff will come under the new management?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

I say again, the Government are not willing to comment publicly at this stage about staffing issues at the new hospital, since consultations with the Trade Unions have not yet occurred.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will the Government confirm that the staff will remain employees of the GHA?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Have they started this process of consultation?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Not specifically in relation to this aspect of the matter. There has been agreement with the Unions about the willingness of the staff to be managed by outside management.

HON J J BOSSANO:

On other aspects of the staffing of the new hospital has anything been finalised, or are they starting to talk? If they hope to do things by August they must be very optimistic of the pace at which they can move.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Autumn not August, but never mind it points to the same one. Well, there are not that many staffing issues. There are some, it is not that there are none, but the hon Member should not expand them in his mind.

HON J J BOSSANO:

I do not know. I just wondered if it was going to prove to be quite a protracted issue in moving people from St Bernard's down. There are people who have got an expectation that something is being done with St Bernard's and that they are going to be able to stay there, I can tell him that, I do not know whether he is aware of it.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

On the day that the migration into the new hospital is completed, St Bernard's Hospital and all the buildings in its vicinity will cease to operate as a medical facility, and the staff, at least those that are willing to continue to work for the Health Authority, will have to move to where the Health Authority then has its hospital which will be down in Europort. There will not be a hospital for them to go to work in there after a given date, so I do not know what expectations they have.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Well I think the view that was going round was that the Government had some plans to retain some part of the hospital to keep the long-term elderly persons that they said would not be moved because they said there was not going to be a geriatric ward down there. It is helpful that he should make a clear statement because I can assure him that this is something that is going round, that speculation.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, it is a combination of things that are being put together and premature conclusions are drawn from them. The Government, added to funds provided by the trustees the old funds that were left over, is investing quite a lot of money (I cannot remember the number of extra beds, 50 or 60 odd in Mount Alvernia) and in principle, that deals with a large element of the people who should not be in St Bernard's Hospital. Now, the Government are also and quite separately from that, as I debated with the hon Lady last time, looking at the need for further provision because we see that this is an area where there is a need for more development. That is true, no decisions have been made but the Government are conscious that the extra 50 rooms in Mount Alvernia, or whatever the number they are, is not the end of the story. The Government are beginning the process of what is the future of the site of St Bernard's Hospital, which buildings are going to be knocked down, which buildings are going to be retained, because either of their usefulness, for example the modern Mackintosh Wing or the Colonial Hospital because of its heritage value, that could not be knocked down, but all the outhouses could be knocked down. Then, what to do with them, in other words what usage for the site. Is it for development, is it for some other purpose? One of the possibilities for that is a further residential home capability, other people have suggested sheltered housing generally for people in need of sheltered housing. There are lots of bids coming in with ideas for what it would be useful to use the retained buildings for but no decisions have been made. Indeed, the Government have not yet began the process of collating all the various proposals and suggestions and trying to thrash out a policy out of it all. So those are the strands, each of those is real but putting them together with the conclusion that there is going to be an elderly persons home in St Bernard's, that is not conclusions that people can come to at this stage.

NO 871 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – STAFF CONSULTATION

Can the Government say what indication, if any, they have had, that the staff consider there has been a lack of consultation and involvement in the design and development of the working environment of the new hospital?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The Government do not accept that there has been a lack of consultation in the design development of the new hospital. In effect, the contrary is true, the GHA conducted 18 months of user group consultation during the design development stage of the project. This consultation phase not only included staff consultation, but also included voluntary and representative groups.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 871 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

That means that the Minister does not agree with what has been published in the Report because that is precisely what the Report says.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, that is not what the Report says. The Report, let us call it the bus that the hon Member does not want to ride in, the bus that she does not want to ride in contains in a section of it, there is a section of it which reports feedback from users. That is not the finding of the Report. In other words, this is reporting a statement made by at least one member of staff. Now, if one speaks to the Union, the suggestion that the staff had not been consulted is really, I hope the hon Member will accept this from me, completely and utterly unsustainable. In fact, my view is that there are some medical facilities that have spread themselves out over more area than they actually need precisely because it is the staff that have designed the internal layout. In my opinion, in anything, there has been too much staff involvement in the design of the hospital, not too little. The result is, has the hon Lady been around the bus that she refuses to ride in? I was astonished, areas like maternity, areas like ophthalmology which are presently squeezed into two and a half rooms at St Bernard's, one could get lost in it, if one wandered around ophthalmology without an experienced guide one could easily get lost. I marvel at this. So believe me, there is not the remotest prospect of justification for any staff discontent, nor is there any merit to the view that there has been insufficient staff consultation. Of course, which is not to say that every single member of staff has participated, whether they have taken the opportunities offered to them, there have been meetings with staff. Some may not have taken the opportunity and then when they get asked they say there has not been enough consultation. I should tell the hon Lady that when people come to see the new hospital from Sweden and from Madrid, she will be interested to hear, whose jaws dropped to the floor when they saw the new hospital and said 'surely this cannot be a National Health Service hospital, this must be private'. 'No this is for the Gibraltar National Health Service'. 'No this cannot be so'. We reassured them that it was so. So, I would regard it as an honour to personally give the hon Lady a personal tour of the entire hospital so that she understands just what a magnificent facility it is going to be.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

One's jaw drops, so one would need orthopaedic intervention. One cannot see oneself going into ophthalmology because one would get lost. I put the question for the obvious reason that this is precisely what the Report says. The Report says 'the staff expressed dissatisfaction with a number of important aspects', and then it goes on to say 'training and development, communication, the breakdown of communication, working relationships, health and safety, physical working environment' and then it says 'lack of consultation and involvement in the design and development of the working environment of the new hospital'. Then we get a speech from the Chief Minister talking about the hospital. He has said that this is not the case, it is one person, so is he actually saying that this is written here based on one person expressing this view?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We have had this exact discussion before in the last two Question Times because the hon Member has asked exactly this question before. These Question Times are becoming tape recordings of each other. We have had this conversation before, we have explained to her that consultants have explained to us that that section of the Report is not their findings, it is the feedback that they have had from staff. Yes, the staff did not all get together, all several hundred of them, and say 'we have not all been consulted, make a note of it there'. These are remarks reached for them by any member of staff and it could be anything from one to 650 people who have made that remark. I believe it is one.

HON F R PICARDO:

Just for clarification. How can this be becoming a recording with the same thing being repeated over and over again as if we were so moronic that we want to insist on the same thing, when in fact the Chief Minister has just revealed something new, namely that people from Madrid and from Sweden have come out to see the new hospital et cetera? Obviously, the questions are probing enough that we get new information all the time. I would also ask the Chief Minister to tell us who the person from Madrid was and who the person from Sweden was. What they were doing? Exactly what their role will be in the future running of the hospital and whether he is prepared to reveal that now? That does not sound to me like a recording of something that has happened before.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The fact that I can make my answers variably interesting does not mean that the questions are not repetitious. In fact they were both suppliers of medical equipment, from both the companies that I mentioned.

NO 872 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – DIALYSIS EQUIPMENT

Can the Government confirm which staff will be operating the dialysis facilities in the Europort building?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Government can confirm that GHA is conducting negotiations with the medical staff at the Dialysis Unit in La Linea for the provision of medical cover. Discussions are also in hand as to the provision of nursing cover, with the option of provision of training for local nurses included in the package.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 872 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Are the facilities that are going to be available in the Europort building those recommended in the Report by Dr Terry Feest, who the Government commissioned?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I do not recall but certainly not necessarily, but I would need notice of that question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Therefore the idea is that eventually our nurses that are going to be sent to train will replace those nurses that are engaged by the GHA from Spain, am I correct?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, the GHA is not engaging nurses from Spain.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I thought I heard the Minister say something about the cover.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, the staff. In other words, we will provide the premises and the equipment in Gibraltar and the service (personnel) will be the service personnel from La Linea, because for reasons that we have debated here a million times and I am not going to repeat today, with training provided for our local nurses.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Perhaps it was the wrong terminology that I used, but what I wanted to say is precisely what the Chief Minister has now confirmed.

NO 873 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – NEW HOSPITAL – PARKING

Can the Government give an update as to their negotiations with the developers of Europlaza for acquiring more parking spaces from them which are required for the Hospital at Europort?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The Government do not give updates of on-going commercial negotiations. However, I can tell the hon Lady that negotiations have not yet been completed.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 873 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

How many parking spaces are available at the Europort hospital?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There are a number of parking spaces available in the basement. I suppose when the hon Member says in the new hospital, the only parking spaces available in the new hospital are the ones available in the basement of the new hospital. I am not sure that those are for public use, in other words for use by visitors. I am not sure that those are intended for use by visitors, in fact I am almost certain that the plans are that they are not. Quite apart from anything else it raises security issues and all manner of things. The spaces for visitors are therefore not in the hospital, they are either in the streets outside or, if we succeed in negotiating as the question asks, they will be in the adjacent building.

GHA – GIBRALTAR HEALTHCARE DEVELOPMENT TEAM

When do the Government expect to make public the second phase of the report by the Gibraltar Health Care Development Team?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

As Government have explained publicly on various occasions, Phase II is not a single report but a series of implementation reports dealing with different aspects of the Health Service which will be published and acted upon, to the extent accepted by the Government, as and when issued. This process has already begun.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 875 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

The process has already begun, is the Minister saying that there is already one of the Phase II stages has already been accepted, implemented and published?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, it has already began meaning that we have received the first two such reports and the Government are presently considering it to see whether it will accept all or which parts of it, and then it will be published and then it will be implemented in the measures accepted.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

When it is published, will the whole of the report be published or will Government only publish those recommendations that they will accept?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, the Government are committed to publishing all the reports and any recommendations that we do not accept, to explain why we do not accept them and why we will not implement them.

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The total payments made to date to the NHS Modernisation Agency in respect of the Gibraltar Healthcare Development Programme are as follows:

|                            |             |

It is estimated that an additional £370,000 will be paid before the programme is completed.

GHA – MR LANGHAM

Can Government state whether Mr John Langham has been engaged by them in relation to our health services on a contract basis?

NO 882 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – MR LANGHAM

Can Government confirm whether they have engaged Mr Langham in connection with our health services?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The Government do not have a contractual arrangement with Mr Langham. Mr Langham has a contractual arrangement with the Clinical Governance Unit of the NHS Modernisation Agency to assist in work designed to improve our health services.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 878 TO 882 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Then I take it that I am correct in assuming that his fees are part of the fees that have just been given about the clinical governance.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

Correct.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm how many people comprise the NCGST?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There is a core group of people, the Project Director, Miss Marilyn Bogus, Joanna Smith, Mr Langham and John Smith. They are the four core people, but as the hon Lady will see when we start publishing reports, when it comes to specific areas of the Health Authority, specialists have been brought in. For example, if a review has been carried out, as it has, of the gynaecology service, all the clinical services have been reviewed. They have been reviewed by people engaged from the Royal Colleges in the United Kingdom in those specialisations. So, the individuals I mentioned before were the permanent individuals working on this project, but then specialists are recruited in the various specialisations that are being reviewed, so for example there were people here from the Royal College of Surgeons reviewing the general surgery and orthopaedic surgery clinical service. Therefore, there is a specialist peer group review by the Royal Colleges in that area of clinical service. So by the end of the reports there will be lots and lots of people that will have had an input into the preparation of all the constituent parts of the report.

NO 883 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – DIRECTOR OF NURSING SERVICES

Can Government confirm whether the post of Director of Nursing Services, which became vacant in 2003, has now been filled?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

No Sir.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 883 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Has the post been re-advertised?

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

No.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does that mean that the Government are happy with the situation that is presently in place, which is what the Minister answered to my Question No. 187 when he said that the duties of the post are being carried out by the Deputy Director of Nursing Services?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, it means that the Government are going to use an alternative method of recruitment other than advertising.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Do Government already have somebody in mind, and has an offer been made?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

When do they expect the post to be filled?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

We are hoping for the post to be filled this side of summer.

HON J J BOSSANO:

When he says that he expects it to be filled this side of summer, is it that it is going to be opened again to existing employees this side of summer or is that now discontinued?

HON F R PICARDO:

What is the alternative to advertising?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The alternative to advertising is search firms, head hunting and recruitment.

NO 884 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – POST OF CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Can Government now confirm whether once they have taken a decision on the new salary for the post of Chief Executive of the Gibraltar Health Authority, the post will be advertised within the Civil Service?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

The Government do not intend to advertise this post within the Civil Service.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 884 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does that mean that the present incumbent of the post will continue to be the Chief Executive once a decision on the salary has been taken?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, the management structure of the Gibraltar Health Authority is being reformed and restructured and the present incumbent in the Chief Executive post will move to another post and a new person will be engaged as Chief Executive as such.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Will that be done on the same basis as what he has said in the previous question, it is a question of head hunting?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

I see, and will the present Chief Executive return to the Civil Service or will he form part of the team in the Gibraltar Health Authority?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I have just answered that question. Within the restructured management of the Gibraltar Health Authority.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Oh yes, well that is the part that I did not hear.

HON J J BOSSANO:

What we are talking then is that there is going to be an increase in the number of posts, because the job that is being done now is going to be done by somebody from outside, and the person that is there now is going to be doing something that is not replacing an existing body, is that the case?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, I have said that there is going to be a substantial restructuring of management in the Health Authority and for the rest of it the Government would wish to make the announcements when it makes the announcements.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is the provision for all this included in the Estimates that have been tabled today?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Some of it.

NO 888 OF 2004

THE HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO

GHA – COMPLAINTS PROCEDURE

Given that the Government in the last meeting of the House changed their mind reference the prompt engagement of an officer with full time responsibility for the complaints procedure, which had been announced previously in the House, by the last Minister for Health, can they now state when they can expect to introduce a different and more effective procedure?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HEALTH

Answer to Question Nos. 885, 886, 887 and 888 of 2004

The Government accept that the complaints system introduced in 1999 has not been as effective as is required nor as the Government would have wished. That is why we are establishing a new one.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 885 TO 888 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Well it has taken them three years to accept that fact because we have been highlighting all the problems nearly four years ago. Will the Minister, in view of all the changes that the Chief Minister has said are going to be made in the Health Authority, will the Minister confirm whether the intention of the Government is to have a complaints procedure that is staffed by persons outside the GHA, or even the Civil Service?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government will make public announcements on the proposed new complaints procedure when it is ready to do so.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Does it have an idea when it is ready to do so, seeing that the Chief Minister in a statement which he made in September of last year, said that there would be a speedy and effective complaints procedure with an independent appeals level? Can he confirm how speedy it will, how soon they intend the complaints procedure to be in place? Can he confirm whether in fact his words still stand as regards an independent appeals level?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I repeat the answer that I gave to the hon Member in her last supplementary.

HON F R PICARDO:

Given the statement by the Hon Mr Britto that the present system is not as effective as it should be as the Government had wished it to be when they brought it about, and all of us would wish it to be, to ensure that clients of the Health Service get the redress that they wish as soon as possible, what happens between now and the statement which will come when the Government wish to make it, of the new complaints procedure to those who wish to make complaints? Must they make it through the now accepted to be ineffective procedure, or will they have an opportunity so that time does not run against them, in making the complaint if the complaints procedure is to have a time limit of making them under the new complaints procedure when it comes?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government will make a statement about the content of the new complaints procedure when they receive it. One of the transitions between one system and another is obviously an element of the new procedure.

HON F R PICARDO:

I appreciate that. Can I ask the Chief Minister to bear in mind the fact that there will be people who want to make complaints who are now stuck with what is admitted to be an ineffective procedure, and that that therefore should mitigate in favour of the new procedure being announced as soon as possible so that those with complaints now are not kept in limbo for longer than they need to be. If he is simply going to repeat what he said before, I will not put him to the waste of saliva.

HON LT COL E M BRITTO:

It has not been admitted to being ineffective, it has been claimed to be not as effective as the Government would have wished.

HON F R PICARDO:

I did not mean to make straw whilst the sun shone there. Just that the new procedure should come as soon as possible for those who have a genuine grievance that they want to put which is not necessarily one that needs to be put through other means.

ST BERNADETTE'S OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY CENTRE

Can Government state what educational programmes are offered to students with Special Educational Needs in St Bernadette's Occupational Therapy Centre?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR SOCIAL AND CIVIC AFFAIRS

The Employment and Training Centre does not have any of the St Bernadette's Occupational Centre service users on their lists. The College of Further Education and Bleak House do not provide an inclusion process for service users at the St Bernadette's Occupational Therapy Centre. The service users at St Bernadette's Occupational Therapy Centre are offered programmes that provide cooking skills, live skills outings, art and basic computer skills.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 890 TO 893 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Is the Minister aware that there are educational programmes for students of special educational needs, is she aware of any?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

First of all the persons who use the St Bernadette's Occupational Therapy Centre are not considered as students. Their education finishes once they leave St Martin's from where the majority of them have come from. I can say that the Gibraltar College and Bleak House have a Special Needs Coordinator who liaises with the assessment panel and they assess each individual who, according to their individual capabilities, in entering any of the courses that are provided by either Bleak House or the Gibraltar College.

HON S E LINARES:

If they are not considered students, what is the politically correct way of calling them?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Service users of the Centre.

HON S E LINARES:

Is this Centre considered to be an educational centre?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

No.

HON S E LINARES:

If it is not considered to be an educational centre, why then has it got a calendar which is mirrored to schools and the Education Department, why is it not opened during summer?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

The Government summer hours operate on the same basis.

HON S E LINARES:

The summer hours have nothing to do with the fact that the Centre is closed all summer. So even if there are summer hours sessions could be offered in the morning, Civil Servants do go to work even on summer hours in the mornings.

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

To some extent as far as possible some sort of education, in the general sense, is provided at the Centre but that does not mean that the Centre is an educational centre.

No I am afraid I cannot give any reasonable explanation.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can Government say whether these are all Civil Servants? Were all the people affected former Civil Servants?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

No, there were some from the private sector as well.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can Government say whether the disallowance of the claim has in any case been appealed against, and whether any of those appeals have been successful?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

I would need to have prior notice of that question. I can find out for the hon Member.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Does the Minister know whether the figure of those people disallowed, for example the net figure after any appeal has been successful or before the appeal, does the Minister know that?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

I would not know. Obviously I do not know whether there have been any appeals so I would not know the answer to that question.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Well I am not interested if the Minister knows how many appeals there have been, if any, she does not know for example if there were two in 1996 that would be the result of the ones that were finally disallowed or whether there was a higher number earlier and an appeal and this is a net figure?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

It is important to have notice of that question because obviously it is statistical and it is an area that Ministers do not get personally involved, but I would guess that because the question says under section 10(2)(a), disallowed I would guess that it is at first instance, in other words, I would have thought so it would not include any case resolved one way or the other on appeal, but we would need to confirm that.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 916 TO 921 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Can the Minister confirm that the ones that have been provided are when the system was still the insurance cards with stamps having to be affixed?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Yes.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is it any more difficult to do it now with the new system of schedules than it was before?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

I would not know whether the fact that we have not been able to provide the information is because the new system is easier or more difficult. I do not know whether that is the reason or because they are not readily available for some other reason, so I would not be able to answer his question.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 925 TO 929 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

I thank the hon Lady for the information provided. Just one question. Why is it that there are at least three people who have had to wait for 13 months for domiciliary care? Is it due to some technicality, either a doctor's note or that there are not sufficient people employed to do the jobs?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

No, the fact that there are three people on the waiting lists waiting for 13 months does not necessarily mean that there is a lack of resources or staff on this specific occasion. During that month there could have been say nine applications and six were met and three are still on the waiting list, for which I have actually been given specific reasons. One of them being that at least one of the persons who has been waiting for that length of time was actually offered the service but declined because she felt that she still wanted to remain on the waiting list but did not feel that she needed that service at that moment in time.

SOCIAL SERVICES – CHILDREN IN CARE

Can Government state how many flats have currently been allocated for the use of children in need of care as a replacement for the residential home?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR SOCIAL AND CIVIC AFFAIRS

There are currently five flats which have been allocated for the use of children in care as a replacement for the Bishop Healey Home.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 930 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Is the Minister satisfied at the number of children that there are in certain flats?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Well, I would be satisfied if there were no children at all in any of the flats, but unfortunately the number of children in care has increased and they have been accommodated, actually we started off with three flats and we have added two extra flats because of the increase in the number of children taken into care.

HON S E LINARES:

I meant specifically in one of the flats, as in any of the flats. What I am saying is, is the Minister satisfied that the flats adequately give the provision for children because if one has a flat that originally was for say five or six children and then suddenly it bursts out to having 11 or 12 children, this is what I mean, with the numbers within the flat.

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

That is precisely why we have acquired two extra flats, to be able to distribute the children more evenly.

HON C A BRUZON:

Can Government state if there are more than one flat within a particular housing block of Government housing? Do you understand what I mean?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Yes, I believe that is the case in two separate housing estates.

HON S E LINARES:

By who are the flats manned, who looks after the children?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

The children in care in Government housing estates are looked after by carers, by support staff on a 24 hour basis.

HON S E LINARES:

What qualifications do those people need before they look after the children within the house?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

I would not think that they require specific qualifications. I suppose that what is looked at is personal qualities and experience.

Due to the difficulties encountered with our manual social assistance system, the lapse in time and the constant movement of people coming in and out of the system the department is unable to identify how many beneficiaries were actually employed from the fourth quarter 2002 to the end of 2003. An earlier attempt to provide similar information in connection with question 11 of 2003 has also proved unsuccessful.

I am advised that the necessary recording procedures are now in place so that in future the details requested may be provided as from 1st January 2004.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 932 TO 933 OF 2004

HON C A BRUZON:

The reason why we put the question a second time is because the first time round, when we asked about the age, the Minister gave us the following information. "Please note that all the applicants are over the age of 65". Obviously when it concerns Mount Alvernia we would have assumed that that was the case, so can the Minister provide more details regarding the age of these people?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

If the hon Member looks at the information we have provided him this time round, it is specifically divided into age groups so I think that would suffice.

Due to the difficulties encountered with our manual social assistance system, the lapse in time and the constant movement of people coming in and out of the system the department is unable to identify how many beneficiaries were actually employed from the fourth quarter 2002 to the end of 2003. An earlier attempt to provide similar information in connection with question 11 of 2003 has also proved unsuccessful.

I am advised that the necessary recording procedures are now in place so that in future the details requested may be provided as from 1st January 2004.

H.M. PRISON

Can Government state whether they plan to relocate HM Prison before the end of the financial year 2004-2005?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR SOCIAL AND CIVIC AFFAIRS

No.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 935 OF 2004

HON L A RANDALL:

What is the finishing date for the project? Is there a finishing date for the project?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Not as far as I know.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Can the hon Lady confirm whether that project is still on the cards?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Yes it is.

HON S E LINARES:

Is it still the intention of the Government to move it to Windmill Hill?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

It is still the intention.

HON S E LINARES:

Will it be within this legislature?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, the Government are happy to announce what their projects are but does not want to give an indication of timing until we have one in mind. Let me put it this way, there is no provision for it in the budget that we are going to debate for the forthcoming financial year. That of course does not mean that it will not be done because there could be a supplementary appropriation, but at the moment the intention is not to make any major progress on the project during the financial year. Therefore funds have not been specifically provided for it.

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR SOCIAL AND CIVIC AFFAIRS

Answer to Question Nos. 936 to 938

There has not been any increase in either the number of persons placed in employment in the wage subsidy pilot scheme during January to March 2004 or in the number of employers.

Answer to Question Nos. 939 to 941

There has not been any increase in the number of employers participating in the wage subsidy pilot scheme during January to March 2004.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 936 TO 941 OF 2004

HON F R PICARDO:

What are the Government doing in order to promote the further participation of employers and employees in that scheme?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Well, the category of people who have need to use this service are perfectly aware that the service exists. There are currently nine people on the scheme and that does not necessarily mean that there is not enough promotion of the scheme. It could also mean that people do not put their names down and as the hon Member will acknowledge, it is not up to Government to physically drag them to the ETB to put their names down for such a scheme.

HON F R PICARDO:

Bearing that in mind, surely the people who are eligible for the scheme is an ever increasing number of people because more people are going through rehabilitation et cetera. So are the Government totally confident that people who come out of Bruce's Farm or other rehabilitation schemes, are not fully aware of their rights to register for schemes such as this?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

Yes, not everybody undergoing rehabilitation is in need of a job. Many already have a job and go up to Bruce's Farm to be rehabilitated and employers normally kindly keep their jobs for them.

HON F R PICARDO:

Am I to assume that the yes goes to my question that the Minister is totally confident that everybody is aware of their rights to register under the scheme? Everybody who undergoes rehabilitation is aware of the right to undergo this scheme?

HON MRS Y DEL AGUA:

As far as it is reasonably possible to make them aware, yes I am satisfied.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 942 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

HON C BELTRAN:

The process is a thorough and complicated one in which it is difficult to predict timescales.

Can the Minister confirm to the House whether there have been any objections from the Spanish Government to Gibraltar's inclusion in this list?

HON C BELTRAN:

HERITAGE TRUST ORDINANCE

Does Government intend to update the Heritage Trust Ordinance and if so when?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE, CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

Government intend to bring legislation to this House in the area of Heritage conservation when we are ready to do so, which is not just yet. I cannot give the hon Member a date. Government have been in discussions with the Heritage Trust on this issue for a period of time now.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 944 TO 945 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the question seeking to know on what date representations were made by the Trust and what changes the Trust envisage to the Ordinance, are Government in a position to make any comment on that?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Perhaps I can help the hon Member here because this pre-dates the Minister's membership of the Government and indeed responsibility for this portfolio. The matter was left at the stage in the run up to the last General Election, that legislation had been drafted which reflected a discussion between the then Minister and the Heritage Trust. That legislation has not yet been considered by Government collectively and that is the process. The incoming Minister and indeed I, are familiarising with it so I cannot tell the hon Member when we might be ready to bring it to the House, but it is a Government project to increase the statutory role of the Heritage Trust in the statutory framework for heritage conservation, but the current Ministers are familiarising themselves with the legislation that was drafted during the last term of office. I cannot say how long the consultations have been going between the previous Minister and the Heritage Trust, but for many, many, many months. This has been an on-going process of discussion and exchange of views.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 946 OF 2004

HON J J BOSSANO:

Given that the bulk of the water is the water-based hockey pitch, how come that there was no provision made originally in the budget for this, when the total amount the House was asked to vote last year was £19,000 to cover electricity and water for everything in the stadium?

HON C BELTRAN:

I do not have the answer to this question, I do not have last year's estimates with me and cannot compare the figures that the hon Member has given me.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is the explanation about the water consumption related to the amount of rain, because I note that in January it was £270 and in June it was £8,500?

HON C BELTRAN:

Yes, there is a connection. The cost of the water is actually greatly reduced due to the construction of an underground 150 cubic metre water tank which enables recycling of a percentage of the water used to water the pitches, as well as rainwater. So this actually reduces the cost greatly. The pitch needs constant watering, depending on the usage and the weather. So really yes, there is a connection, that is a short answer to the question.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Has that facility for recycling water been there all the time or is it something that has been done during this last year?

HON C BELTRAN:

It has been there, it was constructed with the pitch. This was part of the planned process. This process in fact halves the cost that the pitch would have taken in watering were it not to exist.

HON J J BOSSANO:

Is there a particular explanation for the May figure which seems to be way out on the other months? If the Minister does not know would he look at that?

HON C BELTRAN:

I think the answer to that, is that there were a particularly high number of games played during that month. All sorts of festivals and games played and the more one plays the more one needs to water the pitch. Also it probably was very hot during that month.

HON S E LINARES:

Just as a matter of interest, is the pitch eventually going to have some floodlights? The water-based hockey pitch?

HON C BELTRAN:

Actually I do not know the answer to that question directly, but if the requirement is there, then Government are prepared to look into it.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Is it not the case that it is highly unlikely that the Government would be able to provide floodlights because of the proximity of the pitch to the airport?

HON C BELTRAN:

That is indeed a possibility. A fact that has to be taken into consideration with any of the lighting in that area.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Have the Government had confirmation from the MOD that it is not possible to provide floodlighting at that pitch already? Is that not the case?

HON C BELTRAN:

There is no such confirmation. In fact, I understand that it might indeed be possible to have lighting in that area.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So obviously, if it is indeed possible, the Government will be looking at the possibility because that would mean there would be so many further extra hours that hockey players will be able to make use of that pitch. Are the Government looking at approaching the MOD?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, the Government presently have no such plans and it is not part of the works involved. We have answered the question hypothetically because the hon Member expressed an interest in knowing whether it would be possible. We are not prepared to convert that into a debate about whether the Government are now intending to install floodlights. The Government presently have no plans to install floodlights there, which does not mean that as part of the future development of the stadium facilities, it might not come up for consideration at some time in the future, but it is not in the plans at present. As indeed it is pencilled in for possible consideration indeed to have floodlights in the adjoining training pitch. This is part of the future developmental potential of the facilities but which are not pencilled in at this stage.

Can Government state what maintenance programme has been carried out in the Laguna Youth Club since last year?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE, CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

The Laguna Youth Club has not been closed for the last 5 to 6 months. The Laguna Youth Club has been opening regularly on 3 to 5 days every week, during the last 5 to 6 months.

Answer to Question No. 952

No major works were required in the Laguna Youth Club during the financial year 2003/2004. However, as part of on-going maintenance of youth club premises, minor works and repairs have been carried out on a regular basis. This has involved mainly repairs to fencing, windows and shutters and some of the fittings and equipment in the play area.

THEATRE ROYAL

Can Government state when each of the reports on the Theatre Royal were completed?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE, CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

Answer to Question No. 953

The last report commissioned by Government on the Theatre Royal was on 22 September 1999.

Answer to Question No. 954

The cost of the latest report commissioned by Government was £5,000.

Answer to Question No. 955

The last report was carried out by Theatre Royal consultants.

Answer to Question No. 956

Two reports have been commissioned by Government on the Theatre Royal to date.

Answer to Question No. 957

The cost of the first report was £15,000 and that of the second was £5,000.

Answer to Question No. 958

The first report was completed on 18 February 1998 and the second was completed on 22 September 1999.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 953 TO 958 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

The Minister mentioned the Theatre Royal Consultants. Can he state whether this is a company or just a group of people that have been put together in order to do this job?

HON C BELTRAN:

I am informed that the correct name is Theatre Projects Consultants. I do not have the right information. It is a firm.

HON F R PICARDO:

Can the Government state whether any of those reports which we understand are the only reports commissioned in respect of the Theatre Royal, is a structural survey report?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Yes, there have been a full range of reports done by Arab consultants, including full structural reports and there have been structural engineers as part of the architectural team, providing the usual structural services.

HON F R PICARDO:

Therefore, those reports are not referred to in the answers given by the Minister.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

There is a difference between reports and the normal services of the architectural design team which includes structural elements, architectural elements, sound element, quantity surveying elements, the usual range of design team services to be included.

HON F R PICARDO:

In effect is the Chief Minister telling the House that there was no structural survey report before the purchase of the building?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No, the Chief Minister is not telling the House that in effect or otherwise.

HON F R PICARDO:

So in effect, what the Chief Minister is telling the House that there was the structural survey report before the purchase of the Theatre Royal, is that right?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

Now the hon Member is introducing the concept of before the purchase. If the hon Member is saying was there a conditioned survey report, structural or otherwise in respect of the Theatre Royal prior to its purchase, there was one by M E Belilo and Partners, but as to the content of it I would have to refresh my memory.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would the Chief Minister agree to make available a copy of that structural survey report in this House?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

No Sir.

HON F R PICARDO:

Would the Chief Minister therefore indicate whether his recollection, which does not appear to fall and I appreciate that I have just got on my feet to ask him for this, gave any indication of the fact that the structure might be unsound?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

I will refresh my memory about the contents of that report and if the hon Member puts questions on notice, as if he had done on this, we would have had the information to put to him. So in the next House he should give specific notice of questions on the conditioned report of the Theatre Royal and now I am on notice that he is going to do so, I will make sure that somebody studies the report before answering his questions when he asks them.

HON F R PICARDO:

I appreciate that, but if in fact the Chief Minister will look at the questions, they are in no way limited to the report which the Minister responsible seems to have interpreted them as being limited to and they are open-ended as to reports and structural survey reports are of course reports, but I will take him up on his invitation to put questions through the Hon Shadow Minister responsible in relation to this issue.

HON S E LINARES:

Could the Minister confirm he said that there were five reports commissioned in total?

HON C BELTRAN:

I said there were two.

HON S E LINARES:

Could the Minister confirm whether one of them was a feasibility study as to what was going to happen to the Theatre Royal later, after it opened?

HON C BELTRAN:

The term feasibility study does not appear in either of those two reports, as far as I can recollect.

HON S E LINARES:

Was one of the reports to see whether it was feasible to have the Theatre Royal?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government have never had any doubt about the feasibility of a theatre on that site. There has been one there for well over 150 years.

LEISURE CENTRE – KING’S BASTION

Can the Minister for Sport now confirm whether there are any new developments as to the long standing promised conversion of King's Bastion to a leisure centre, since a leisure centre was promised in their manifesto of 1996?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE, CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

The Government are in office on the basis of the manifesto it presented at the 2003 General Elections. This manifesto carried forward unfulfilled commitments in relation to a Leisure Centre at King's Bastion that had been in the previous manifesto. We hope and indeed expect to fulfil that commitment during this term of office.

GIBRALTAR SPORTS AUTHORITY

Can the Minister for Sport now confirm whether any agreement has been reached with the Union as to the transfer of staff to the Gibraltar Sports Authority?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR HERITAGE, CULTURE, YOUTH AND SPORT

No agreement has been reached yet.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 962 OF 2004

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Can the Minister confirm to the House whether there have been any meetings recently with the Unions on the matter or whether any meetings are envisaged?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

The Government do not give on-going accounts of on-going negotiations. The Government do intend that this negotiation will take place and we hope that it will be entirely successful. Of course, the negotiations to transfer the existing staff to the Gibraltar Sports Authority is entirely different to the question of the establishment of the Gibraltar Sports Authority which will be established anyway in relation to new facilities, regardless of the other question.

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

So what the Chief Minister is saying is that the opening of the new Sports City will open irrespective of whether agreement has been reached or it has not.

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

What the Chief Minister has said is actually quite clear and does not need to be put in different words by the hon Lady, particularly not for the purposes of changing the nuance. What I have said to her is that they are two quite unrelated issues here.

There is a Sports Authority which exists and will employ staff to run the new facilities which will be opened when they are ready by the Sports Authority, and there is a completely separate issue of whether the existing staff and the existing sports facilities wish to join the Authority or not, and therefore in the latter case stay out of it. There are no circumstances in which the new facilities will not emerge under the umbrella so to speak of the Sports Authority. In other words, the establishment of the Sports Authority for the purposes of running the new facilities does not depend in any degree on the outcome of the negotiations with existing staff as to whether they and the old facilities join the Authority or not. Quite clear. Does the hon Lady not agree?

HON MISS M I MONTEGRIFFO:

Therefore, having heard the Chief Minister, can the Government confirm that there could be a possibility that once an agreement is reached, some of the existing staff in the existing facilities will be transferred to the new facilities if they agree to join the Sports Authority?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

If there is agreement, and to the extent that there is agreement, all the facilities would be in the Authority and there would be no difference. That is the Government's preferred objective, but as we say, we do not force people into authorities, therefore that part of it depends on the outcome of those negotiations, whether they participate or not.

SCHOOL OF TOURISM

Can Government confirm that the two trainees from last year's School of Tourism who were to be merged with this year's intake, have done so?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY & COMMUNICATIONS

No Sir.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 964 OF 2004

HON S E LINARES:

Can the Minister state what has happened to these two trainees? Is there any trace of them?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

These two trainees will probably be integrated at the next intake. However, since the last intake in June 2003 there has not been any further intake this year. At the moment my Department is reviewing the current training that is provided by the Scheme, and the qualifications that are obtained by this Scheme, in order to put in place a new framework which will probably mean that the first intake will be in September this year.

HON S E LINARES:

So the Minister then is saying that this year there has not been any intake as such. No new ones nor the old.

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Yes I have said that.

HON S E LINARES:

Point of order. I think we have a Speaker here, yourself. The Chief Minister is saying that I am repeating the question. Do I listen to him or do I listen to you?

HON CHIEF MINISTER:

He can do either. In either case, what I am saying is completely correct. The hon Member asks whether there has been an intake this year. The Minister gets up and says no there has not been an intake this year. So the hon Member gets up again to say 'ah, is the Minister saying that there has not been an intake this year'. Well, that is a repetition of the question which calls for a repetition of the answer in anybody's book.

HON S E LINARES:

Does that mean that there has not been an intake this year and therefore the two trainees who were last year promised that they would be put into the intake this year will have to wait until next year to start the course?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I have already answered that question.

HON S E LINARES:

Thank you for the answer.

TOURIST BOARD – VOICE MAIL

From what date onwards and in what circumstances is it the practice of the Tourist Board to have an answering machine or voicemail taking messages from callers?

NO 966 OF 2004

THE HON DR J J GARCIA

TOURIST BOARD – COMPLAINTS

Can Government say whether any complaints have been received from persons trying to get through to the Tourist Board by telephone at the use of an answering machine or voice mail to take their messages?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY & COMMUNICATIONS

From 1998 onwards, until very recently, there was a voicemail attached to the main Tourist Board number. If all lines were engaged when a caller telephoned, the voicemail would automatically connect. A handful of complaints about this practice were received and it was decided that the voicemail would only trigger in after office hours and that there should be an engaged tone when lines are busy.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 966 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

So the position at present is that the voicemail will only kick in after office hours, people who ring up will get an engaged tone and will have to call back later.

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

That is correct.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

At what point was this new practice introduced?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I think this was introduced a few months ago.

Can Government say how much of the £950,000, allocated to Tourism, Promotion and Conferences for the year 2003/2004 has been spent as at 31 March 2004, giving a breakdown of the sum?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

The total spend was £1,025,706, broken up as follows:-

|                           |                      |

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NO. 967 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

To what does the Minister attribute the overspend in relation to the budget that had been allocated?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

The overspend is in relation to the fact that there was an invoice for some of the Tercentenary London taxis which should have been paid from central vote and instructions were issued that this should be paid out of this vote. Therefore, the over expenditure, the invoice was approximately £70,000 to £75,000.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

When the taxi Tercentenary advertising campaign was introduced it was forecast that it would be paid from a central vote the Minister said, and now it is being paid by the tourist marketing vote. What was the reason for that change?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Most of the Tercentenary London taxi campaign was actually been paid from the central vote, this particular invoice was paid for from this vote and instructions were issued from the Chief Secretary's Office.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to the six thousand odd pounds spent on the website, is that the website of the Tourist Board here or the London Office?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

That was in respect of the website of the London Office.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

The item on advertising, which according to the note that I scribbled down seems to be the highest single component in the breakdown of the marketing expenditure, does the Minister have the breakdown of those £148,000 and if not would he be able to supply me with one?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

Yes, I do not have the exact details here for him but I am able to send it to him if he so requests.

It has been the practice in the past for the Minister to attend this event, why did he not attend it on this occasion?

TOURISM – FITUR

What did the joint tourist product marketed at the FITUR tourist fair in Madrid between Gibraltar and the Campo towns of the Mancomunidad consist of?

ANSWER

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TRADE, INDUSTRY AND COMMUNICATIONS

Gibraltar was not represented at FITUR this year together with the Mancomunidad del Campo de Gibraltar, nor was there a joint tourist product developed for FITUR or for any other purpose. Gibraltar and the Campo had separate stands as usual, and there were no savings because there was no joint initiative.

SUPPLEMENTARY TO QUESTION NOS. 973 AND 974 OF 2004

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Although Gibraltar did not attend it this year, is it the policy of the Government to find a way in which Gibraltar can attend together with the Mancomunidad in future events?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I held a meeting with the President and Vice-President of La Mancomunidad to explore possibilities, but let me say that it is my view that if we were to go down the route of doing any initiative with La Mancomunidad, that would be complimentary to what we already do and not as a substitute of what we do, because we in Gibraltar have a product to sell on our own right, whilst if we were to substitute that for a joint operation, we would lose out on what we have and we have a strong product to sell. So therefore, if we do anything with La Mancomunidad it would be complimentary to what we already do.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

Whose initiative is it then, is this the initiative of the Government or the initiative of the Mancomunidad?

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I cannot really square the responsibility for any possible initiative on either side, I think it is something that has been discussed in the past, officials have met on numerous occasions, nothing has really come out of this. We do not know as a result of the meeting that I held last Friday, whether something will come of this now. However, as I said, it would be complimentary to what we already do and not as a substitute to what we do at present.

HON DR J J GARCIA:

In relation to one of the questions which mentioned what projected saving there would be, I take it then that that is not really a consideration it is simply the extra facilities which may be able to market together rather than the actual cost of saving made by attending together.

HON J J HOLLIDAY:

I think that is correct.
