Can the Minister for Health say how and why the Blood Department ran out of containers for collecting the blood samples on September 9th, during the morning clinic, when it was full of patients?

ANSWER

The above happened at the Primary Care Centre and was due to the fact there had been non-delivery of the containers to the Primary Care Centre. As a consequence, the stock of blood bottles ran out.

An urgent order had been placed but this did not arrive until the afternoon of the 9th September.

Patients were informed and given the option to attend St Bernard's Hospital Blood Department or return the next morning.

Can the Minister for Health provide a breakdown of the £2,811,823 spent on overtime for the period of 1 April 2012 to 31 March 2013 by GHA employee, department and length of overtime?

ANSWER

The overtime of £2,811,823 is split into four main categories:

Conditioned	1,465,199.36
Emergency	550,393.55
Manning level	395,550.92
Discretionary	400,679.17

Conditioned overtime and emergency overtime constitute approximately 72 per cent of the total overtime figure with conditioned being part of conditions of employment and emergency the result of necessary on-call emergency call-outs within a health service organisation.

Attached is a detailed breakdown of the four classes of overtime by Directorate.

Answer to Question No. W110/2013

Can the Minister for Health say if the ambulance staff have access to a list of dangerous and/or vulnerable individuals, who they can be alerted to, if called out to attend to them?

ANSWER

After consulting with services elsewhere it is clear that such “dangerous address” initiatives have inherent problems and in themselves are not foolproof. There is a multi-agency workgroup comprised of members of the Royal Gibraltar Police; City Fire Brigade and GHA Ambulance Service. Agreement has been reached that in ANY cases where the call takers are alerted to or aware of potentially violent situations in which ambulance or fire crews may be at risk, instructions will be given to the attending crews of the situation. A rendezvous point will be arranged for them to meet with an attending police response vehicle in order that they can proceed together to the scene.
